WHAT IS THRIFT?

THRIFT is NOT miserliness, stinginess or avarice, nor is it the mania for money which makes hoarding it the first aim in life, but THRIFT IS prudence, good judgment—a sane appreciation of and preparation for the exegencies of life, the ability to live on less than one earns.

If you can learn to spend less than you make and deposit the difference in our Special Department at 4% interest you will soon have a substantial amount to your credit.

OPEN WINDOWS ENCOURAGE BURGLARS

Personal Service

Now that the summer time is nearly here, when you leave all windows and doors open as much as possible, you should place your valuables out of the reach of "second-story workers" and burglars.

It is foolish to run unnecessary risks when you can rent a Safe Deposit Box in our burglar and fireproof vaults for as low as $5 a year.

And it is particularly unwise to keep more money in the house than is necessary for your immediate needs, for you tempt others to steal it and yourself to spend it. Put it in this strong bank and let it earn interest.

We pay 4% interest on Special Accounts and 3% on Active Checking Accounts.

ELKS' MINSTREL SCORED BIG HIT

Ninth Annual Production Conceded to Be the Best by Capacity Audience.

CREDIT DUE RUNYON

Popular Coach's Efforts Responsible for Wonderful Production—Topical Hits a Feature—Local Talent Prominent in Olio.

An audience that packed the Plainfield Theatre to its capacity greeted the local Elks in their ninth annual minstrel performance last night, and it was the consensus of opinion among those present that this year's show was a record breaker, being bigger, funnier and better than any of its predecessors. The pronounced sprinkling of topical hits in the production lent added interest and the spectators were kept in a continuous round of raptuous applause from curtain rise to curtain fall. The snap and action with which the members of the cast executed their respective parts reflected with considerable credit on the calibre of the coaching that has been given the show this year and those in charge were the recipients of many hearty congratulations at the conclusion.

Annually recognized as the best local show of its nature given by an amateur cast in this vicinity, much is always expected of the Elks' entertainment and the audience last night had its highest anticipations fulfilled. The entire show went off without a hitch and the managers succeeded in keeping something of interest before the spectators continually during the three hours of mirth and music. Assisted by Paroubek's orchestra the participants had everything in their favor in presenting their individual parts and the work of the musicians brought forth commendable remarks from all sides. Nothing was left undone by those in charge of the minstrel to make it the success it proved to be and many original novelties were introduced that dealt with local topics.

Various phases of civic life and current happenings were given to the audience in a humorous way and the work of the end men kept their listeners in a continuous uproar. "Banty" Bennett, Bill Firstbrook, Jack Todd, Tom Muir, Johnny Campbell and Harry Blimm, the veterans of the semi-circle wings, were never in better fettle and their antics put a finishing touch on their oral work. Firstbrook led off with "The Town Hall Minstrel Show" and this was followed by a ballad by Bert F. Tallamy, entitled "My Love, the Desert and You." Johnny Campbell got a big hand when he rendered the popular hit, "I Love the Ladies," this song being one of the brilliant features of the main show. The other vocal selections in the first part were as follows: Ballad, "For You Alone," by Elmer D. Cutting; end song, "You Can't Away From It," by Harry N. Blimm; ballad, "You Didn't Break My Heart, Dear," by Harry W. Weber; end song, "All Aboard for Dixie," by Jack V. Todd; ballad, "The Songs My Mother Used to Sing," by Edward J. Harding, Jr.; end song, "Ragtime Regiment Band," by Edwin H. Bennett; ballad, "While the Rivers of Love Flow On," W. G. Smith; topical song, "Everybody's Hoping for a Change," by Thomas M. Muir. The latter selection was composed by William N. Runyon, the coach of the show, who annually contributes the topical hit to the entertainment. The 1914 composition was hailed as the best he has ever written and the manner in which it was presented by the ever popular Tom Muir added considerably to its effectiveness. The singer responded to several encores, all of which contained spicy local "knocks," which were highly appreciated by the audience, as evidenced by the thunderous applause it was accorded.

Between each of the vocal selections witty "gags" were dispersed by the end men, and city officials, prominent Elks and civic enterprises came in for their share of roasting. Visiting Elks from Dover occupied the boxes in the local theatre and were treated to a pleasant surprise when the local performers selected some of their members as the objects for their fun making.

The olio portion of the program was featured by a demonstration of modern terpischore numbers by Miss Gertrude Bowlby and Walter Hamilton. The local dancers gave an excellent exhibition of the one-step, hesitation and maxixe and their work was conceded to be by far, the best presentation of dances de luxe ever given in Plainfield by local talent. Both of the dancers showed a marked degree of gracefulness and familiarity with the difficult steps which the ordinary person finds so

"CLEAN-UP AND PAINT-UP WEEK"

Mayor Stewart Designates May 23-30 to Make City More Beautiful.

For the purpose of making Plainfield a cleaner, more wholesome as well as a more beautiful place of residence, Mayor Percy H. Stewart today issues a proclamation in which it is proposed to inaugurate "Clean-Ups and Paint-Up Week," something new in this city. The proclamation designates the week of May 23-30 for "cleaning up," and the Mayor urges everyone to do his or her part so that the real object may be attained.

Mr. Stewart adds: "Clean your house thoroughly; clean your yard. Have the rubbish removed from your premises. Paint up. It's a clean and sanitary thing to do. Remember the dates!"

The recent survey made in Plainfield under the direction of the Charity Organization Society showed that in a great many respects the city is in the forefront as regards sanitary conditions but the idea of having a "clean-up" week is considered a most commendable one and the Mayor feels sure that citizens generally will co-operate in bringing about the best possible conditions throughout Plainfield.

The point at issue was whether or not certain advertisements was abrogated by a sub-contract, and the jury after two hours' deliberation returned a verdict to the effect that the contract was abrogated as claimed by the defendant company. The amount sued for included $600 on promisory notes. Martin B. Stutsman represented the plaintiff, while former City Judge William N. Runyon was counsel for the defendant company.

BADLY BURNED WHEN DRESS CAUGHT FIRE FROM STOVE

Mrs. William McMullen, who resides on William Schorb's Breznol farm on Plainfield avenue near Chamberlain's corner, narrowly escaped death by fire at her home last evening. She was preparing supper and inadvertently stood too near an open stove door. Her clothing caught fire and before she realized it fully she was enveloped in flames. They were fanned into fireater intensity by her rushing into the yard, but fortunately her husband was outside. He smothered the burning clothing with his coat in time to prevent fatal burns.

Dr. Gesswein, who was called, found that Mrs. McMullen had been burned badly about the back and head. Her chances of complete recovery are very good.

INFANT FOUND LYING IN TROLLEY STATION

Five Days' Old Baby Abandoned on Muhlenberg Hospital Premises.

Sounds resembling the crying of an infant in the vicinity of Randolph road and Park avenue at 2 o'clock this morning attracted Patrolman George Muir to the trolley waiting station on the Muhlenberg Hospital premises where he found a baby lying on the seat. In the meantime a nurse from the hospital had started an investigation after hearing the same sounds and finding Muir, she had the infant removed to the institution where it was cared for by the authorities until this morning.

Indications are that the child came from poor parents and is about five days old. It is ill in the hospital due to exposure and an affection of the eyes. Chief Kiely and the hospital authorities are making every effort to locate the parents of the baby and if found they will be prosecuted for the deed.

N. Y. DUNGAN AND AIDS TO VISIT COMMANDERY

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Local Knights Templar to be Gala Event.

Grand Commander Nelson Y. Dungan, head of the Knights Templar in New Jersey, accompanied by his full staff will pay a visit to Plainfield on Saturday, June 6, when Trinity Commandery, of this city will celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary with a field day. Great plans are being made and it is promised that the day will be bigger and better than the one held a year ago. The outing will take place at the home of R. F. R. Huntsman, of East Front street, and it is promised that there will be nothing lacking to make it the most memorable one in the history of the organization. Mr. Huntsman is chairman of the committee and his associates are Charles A. Lee, A. D. Honeyman and B. Frank Corriell.

The invitations are unique, consisting of an eleven page folder, each page illustrated with a grotesque drawing depositing some feature of the outing. Under a splendid half tone cut of Charles A. Lee, eminent commander of the organization, it is stated that Mr. Lee "will call the Commandery from labor to refreshment." The document then continues:

"An why? Because Trinity Commandery is 25 years old. And that is reason enough, as you will find out for yourself, unless you are foolish enough to stay away. It looks as if a high old time was due on that date. You're twenty-five years old only once in a life time, and this is the once. Therefore, at high noon, June 6, you will knock the necessary number of knocks at the front gate of the so-called 'Asylum.' Right Eminent Sir D. C. Adams will be assisted by an Ethiopian in administering relief to all, whether they need it or not. Scrip taken at the usual rate of exchange. Realizing the advantage of starting right, the committee will put a luncheon over the plate at exactly two olclock. It will be some lunch—not a chicken served will have a marathon record, and the menu as a whole will be a dazzling delight.

"The athletic events will be unusually athletic. If you can't be agile, be as agile as you can. The great event will be a Tug of War: The K. T.' Dids vs. The K. T.' Didn'ts. Also second appearance of the wonderful Downfall of China.

"The committee has secured the famous Sphinx Club orchestra, of New York, through the courtesy of our Shriner friend P. P. Lynn, who has promised to be present himself. You'll hear wonderful music, make no mistake about that."

In addition to the members of the Commandery, a number of other local people, and several of Mr. Huntman's friends from out of town have been invited to the gathering.

POSTMASTER TO BE NAMED SOON

Senator Martine Says Selection Will Be Made Within Ten Days.

MAINTAINS SECRECY

Howard G. Lapsley, Secretary, Explains Attitude of Plainfield Democratic Club—Believes Appointment Will Be Satisfactory.

United States Senator James E. Martine, according to an interview given out in Washington this week, announced the important fact that he would name a successor to Postmaster E. H. Bird in this city within the next week or ten days. He said that he had made up his mind to defer naming a man until a report had been received concerning the investigation of the charges against former Letter-carrier P. J. Reville, which caused his removal from the service.

The charge of loitering against Reville suecified that while making his daily delivery trips, Reville stopped at a certain house for from ten to thirty minutes.

This charge the postal inspector reported he had verified. Reville's insubordination, according to the charge, was made eighteen years ago, concerned an order given to Reville directing him to supply equipment of a certain standard. The equipment in question, it is understood, was that the horse and wagon Reville used at the time in making his deliveries. The charge stated that Reville had refused to comply with the order. The inspector could not locate the horse and wagon, he declared, hence he could not render an opinion on the insubordination charges.

In explaining the action of the Plainfield Democratic Club at its meeting, Tuesday night, Howard G. Lapsley, secretary of the club, states that the members thought that in view of the multiplicity of candidates for the position of postmaster here that they migat be able to offer Senator Martine some help in the selection of a candidate.

With this purpose in view Mr. Lapsley says that he wrote Senator Martine saying that the club would, if desired, do anything in its power to bring the matter to a conclusion. He adds that he was unfortunately detained from attending the club meeting, hence the senator's reply was not discussed at the meeting.

Mr. Lapsley further states that Senator Martine informed him that in due time when conditions are proper, a name will be presented for the postmastership that will combine capability, Democracy and respectability and the community will be satisfied.

It is the belief of some of the friends of Senator Martine that as the perogatives of this appointment peculiarly belong to Senator Martine and as he can well be trusted to select the official to the satisfaction of the city if not to the satisfaction of defeated candidates any attempt to hurry the appointment or force his hand is not only bad form, but picayune politics inconsistent with dignity or patriotism.

SEATS STILL TO BE HAD.

Somerville

The funeral services of William DeMond, father of former Surroagte William J. DeMond, were held this afternoon from his late residence on West Main street. The Rev. C. C. Silvester, rector of St. John's church officiated, and interment was in the new cemetery at this place.

Mrs. Dennis Carney is reported as being very ill at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. James Fennell, of West Main street. Mrs. Carney is about eighty-eight years of age, and resided for many years at Plainfield before coming to this place about a year ago.

Mrs. George F. Taylor and child are spending some time with Mrs. Taylor's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seigfried, at Glen Gardner.

The Rev. John S. Gardner, of this place, will preach at the Lamington Presbyterian church during the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Scott, who is attending the General Assembly at Chicago.

Miss Ella M. Smith has been visiting her cousin, Miss Ella Lyon, at Pluckamin.

The third of the series of band concerts arranged by the merchants on Main street will take place on Saturday afternoon. No announcement has been made as yet concerning a continuation of the concerts, but it is hoped that the arrangement will be made permanent for the summer.

On Friday evening, of this week, two little plays, "The Interview" and "The Aigrette," written by one of the High School students, Miss Katherine Speer, will be given in the assembly room of the public school. Music of the finest character will be furnished by the Misses Flynn and Miss Emma Hoffman.

J. B. Losey is reported as being ill at his home.

Governor and Mrs. Fielder will be present at a dinner to be given by the Somerset County Automobile Association, at the Country Club, on the evening of July 9.

OBJECTED TO APPLAUSE.

The "Peace Day" observance at the New Brunswick House, Sunday, was not without its internal disturbances. Baroness von Turk-Rohn, who recently sang here, was among the assisting artists, and applause followed. To this last portion of the gathering, Rev. W. T. Snead, assistant rector of Christ church, objected, on the ground that the opera house had temporarily become a house of worship.

ELKS' MINSTREL SCORED HIT

Harry Blimm and Harry W. Weber, the latter one of the coaches of the show, appeared as "Just Two Hebrews" and drew forth many second part laughs from their listeners. Impersonating a Hebrew, Blimm took his part in an admirable way with the well-known Weber as a partner.

Two professional acts, a blackface singing and talking sketch, by Yule and Mackey, and a demonstration of the ballroom and stage version of modern dancing was given by Oaks and World. This concluded the evening's program which will be repeated in the theatre again tonight.

The Chief Obstacle.

The French are not inclined to take things too seriously. Thus, while they love and respect the venerable French academy, they never refrain from making it the subject of a little good natured wit. Even the members themselves, as this entry in Victor Hugo's notebook will show, indulge themselves in occasional sallies against the famous institution:

On Dec. 17, 1846, Victor Hugo, himself one of the forty "immortal" members of the academy, wrote in his notebook "Today, Thursday, in the academy. I spoke there with Dupin the elder about Balzac and of his chances of election to the academy. 'Thunder!' Dupin interrupted me. 'So you really believe that, without any more to do, Balzac will be chosen the first time he comes up for election.

"'You quote examples where that has occurred, but those prove nothing. Think of it! Balzac, at the first presentation of his name! You have thought the matter over carefully? Good! But you have forgotten one reason why it is quite impossible that Balzac should be elected to the academy—he deserves it!'"

"To Keep Young."

Youth is what we all love to have and to hold, and since Ponce de Leon's time many a way of conserving it has been prescribed—dosage, drinking sour milk, systems of exercise, bathing, rubbing. Any one of these things may help the individual, but not every individual. And let us not forget that youth is in great measure a gift of the spirit. Children are young because for them life abounds. They find springs of energy within and stores of refreshment without. Wonder, curiosity, the enjoyment of ten thousand trifles, a short memory for punishment and pain—all these things make for youth. Quarrels, resentfulness, suspicion, worry, grouchiness—these bring harder lines around the mouth, hardened arteries, old age. Nothing is too small to delight a child, given the right conditions; nothing too big to darken for very long the spangled sky. That is the secret of youth. Draw the curtain, Master Manager! On with the human comedy.—Collier's Weekly.

Japanese Flower Etiquette.

To order a dozen or two of roses or carnations indiscriminately over the telephone, to be delivered in a pasteboard box by a florist's boy, as a gift to a friend would mean a lack of refinement to a Japanese, writes Grace H. Bagley in Suburban Life. In fact, ignorance of flower lore might result in disastrous blunder. If, for example, you sent a purple wistaria, however exquisite in itself, to a bride she would hardly forgive you, since purple is a color of a bad omen, never to be used on felicitous occasions. On the other hand, you would convey a delicate compliment by sending chrysanthemums, because, on account of their long period of blooming, they signify long life. A peony sent to a friend is a flattering recognition of his distinction, as it is suitable only for those of high rank.

The Comparison Held.

A lecturer went to Yonkers with a letter to a Yonkers citizen from a man in New Rochelle and succeeded in getting an engagement. His three hour lecture proved dull, dry and uninteresting. Next day Mr. Yonkers met Mr. New Rochelle.

"What did you mean," asked Yonkers, "by recommending that lemon lecturer?"

"I didn't recommend him."

"Well, I just guess you did. I've your letter right here in my pocket."

"Better read it over again—carefully."

Mr. Yonkers did. It was noncommittal:

"I have heard Mr. B.'s lecture. It is as interesting as it is instructive."

"And it wasn't either," said Yonkers.

"Then the comparison holds," said New Rochelle.—New York World.

A Queer Question.

"I have come to consult you," she said to the prominent lawyer.

"What is the trouble?"

"I have received three proposals of marriage, and I do not know which to accept."

"Which man has the most money?"

"Do you imagine," she asked, "that if I knew I would consult you or any other lawyer?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Open to Conviction.

"Some of your constituents are disagreeing with you," said the trusted lieutenant.

"Well, keep tab on them," replied Senator Sorghum, "when enough disagree with me to constitute a reliable majority I'm going to turn around and agree with them."—Washington Star.

BILLIE BURKE IN PAJAMAS

Miss Billie Burke, the actress, during her present New York appearance acts the role of a young girl so reminiscent in her tomboyishness, her love of athletics and determination to marry the man of her own choice that she might very well have been taken—in fact, probably was taken—direct from a living model still well known in Boston society. Throughout the three acts of this typical American comedy of a typical American girl Miss Burke literally runs through a young woman's entire wardrobe. From breakfast gown to pink pajamas—for the last sight of her at night—nothing is left unsaid of feminine apparel by the time Miss Burke has uttered the last snappy bit of dialogue put into the mouth of "Jerry."

CAVEATORS OF BULLOCK WILL OFFER TESTIMONY

Appearing before Judge James C. Connolly in the Orphans' Court in Elizabeth, this morning, the caveators of the will of Mrs. Lydia T. Bullock gave testimony to show why the will should be set aside and a new one drawn. The caveators are the Union County Board of Freeholders and Mrs. Mary Hansen, of Perth Amboy, a niece of the testator. Mrs. Robert Crosson of this city, is the beneficiary named.

Mrs. Hansen alleges that undue influence was exercised over Mrs. Bullock at the time the document was drawn up, thus bringing favor to Mrs. Crosson. J. Henry Crane, of this city, the lawyer who drew up the will, was on the stand all morning and will probably be submitted to a cross examination this afternoon.

The Union County Board of Freeholders are at the present time supplying funds for the maintenance of two of Mrs. Bullock's relatives in the Morris Plains Asylum and the Board has requested that a portion of the testator's money be set aside to support these two inmates.

Gardens and Lawns

If your flower or vegetable garden last year was not satisfactory—if your lawn shows bare spots and slow growth, it usually means that the soil has become acid for want of lime.

Edison Pulverized Limestone sweetens soil and produces better flowers and vegetables and gives lawns the soft, smooth, green effect so much desired.

Edison Pulverized Limestone

This natural limestone, pulverized as fine as flour, causes no injury, no matter when or how used. Use it as a top dressing, evenly distributed, both in the garden and on the lawn, and allow the rains to carry it down into the soil. Or, if you don't want to wait for rain you can use the garden hose.

For a garden or lawn, in fair condition last year, use about 100 pounds of the Pulverized Limestone for every 1000 square feet. If they were in poor shape use a larger quantity. Remember, there is no danger from using any amount of Edison Pulverized Limestone.

Ask us for a copy of testimonials from various users giving their successful experience with this product, which is for sale in 100-pound cloth bags.

Board of Education has been ely criticized by hundreds of ns of the city, and yet it is evident that criticism so far as ax rate is concerned is unjust. chools are the strongest attrac- to people coming here with ren. They maintain a standard holarship probably higher than in any other city in the state. teaching force is efficient, and pupils graduated are an intelli- lot of young people. ring the past few months the nfield Board of Education has n the people of the city into its dence more than ever before. e has not been a question asked h has not been willingly ans- d, and every effort has been to clear up any misunderstanding which may have arisen due to a manner of secretiveness which was maintained before the present school year. We believe that the time has come when the people of Plainfield will realize that while our schools do cost a lot of money to run, the money is well spent, and instead of criticising the conduct and extravagance of this all important department, they will turn their attention to other departments of the government to see if money cannot be saved. The Daily Press does not mean to defend some things which have been done in the past by former Boards of Education. It merely speaks its belief regarding the present and the future.

Speaking of postmasterships, it is indeed gratifying to learn that Senator Martine is the authority for the statement that the successor to Elias H. Bird will be named within the next week or ten days. Everybody will be sorry to see Mr. Bird go, but they will be equally pleased to have the matter settled and out of the newspapers.

"Only six candidates want to be postmaster" says a headline regarding Dunellen, seven months before the office becomes vacant. There is plenty of time for the list to become as large as that in Plainfield.

SIGMA GAMMA KAPPA CLUB WILL HOLD ANNUAL PARTY

The Sigma Gamma Kappa Club, of the North Plainfield High School, will entertain a large number of the High School boys at its annual May party tomorrow afternoon in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. This is the fourth time that this affair has been held and it has always proved one of the most popular social functions of the school year. The entertainment is under the direction of Miss Eva Terry, guardian of the club.

The following committees selected by the executive committee will have charge of the social decorating: Lucy Douglas chairman, Ann Hull, Katherine Giddings, Grace Robinson, Gladys Sullivan and Elsie Debele; refreshment, Laura Smith, Marion Avery, Lois Peck, Carol Hughes, Marion Chandler and Margaret Smith. This committee consists of Marjorie Burtis, president; Margaret Ewart, vice-president; Katherine Giddings, secretary; Marion Avery, treasurer; Edith Dalley, of the senior class; Lucy Douglas, of the junior class; Gladys Sullivan, of the sophomore class, and Marjorie Chandler, of the freshman class. The party will be held from 3 to 6 'clock.

A Tip to the Poets.

His (Richard Hovey's) voice was admirable, sonorous and colorful, and he used it excellently whether to read or recite. It was a novelty to editors, when they asked him to submit a poem, to have him ask "Perhaps you'd like this?" Forthwith he would recite the poem he had to offer, not faltering in a line and bringing out the thought and feeling of it all magically, as we read the first poets gave their soul to rapt listeners. In case the poem happened to be unsuitable for the purpose Hovey would smile unperturbed and proceed to recite his second choice. If the poem were accepted on his recital he would go back to his apartment to write out a copy of it and send it to the editor. — Richard Duffy in Bookman.

Scottish and Smart.

John Clerk, Lord Eldon, was of a very convivial disposition. Once the author of "Law and Laughter," after a Bannatyne club dinner, "where wit and wine contended for the mastery," tumbled heavily downstairs on the way to his carriage and broke his nose. When he reappeared in public, looking somewhat odd about the face, some one asked how the accident happened. He said it was the effect of his studies. "Studies!" ejaculated the inquirer. "Yes," growled the judge: "ye've heard, nae doot, about 'Coke Upon Littleton,' but I suppose you never before heard of 'Clerk Upon Stair!'"

WILL SHOW WHAT Y. M. C. A. IS DOING

One of the most unique features of the Forest Products Exposition, to be held in New York, at the Grand Central Palace, May 21 to 30, will be what the National Y. M. C. A. is accomplishing in the way of welfare work in the lumbermen's camps. This exhibit will show models of association camps in lumber operations at several of the leading lumber manufacturing centers of the country.

Up to a few years ago little attention had been paid to the living conditions of the workers in the woods and sawmill camps, but within recent years there has been an important tendency towards the development of this side of camp life. Today most of the large lumber manufacturing companies maintain Y. M. C. A. quarters for their workers, which have all the facilities of a modern Y. M. C. A. institution, including gymnasium, reading-room, baths and billiard rooms, and all kinds of games.

The National Y. M. C. A. is accomplishing great good in this welfare work and visitors will no doubt be interested in the Welfare Booth at the New York Exposition.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

We have read that "The House of Bondage," a photoplay advertised to be shown at the Lyric Theatre, was stopped by the Mayor on the ground of immorality. Unfortunately we have not seen the play because of the Mayor's arbitrary action, but we can take it for granted that since the exhibition stopped on such grounds, the pictures must have merit. We believe it is the same play which aroused the righteous indignation of the Knights of Morality only a few months ago in New York and which caused the arrest of the principals in the cast and their conveyance in patrol wagons to the police station as if they were desperate criminals.

The hypocrisy being exhibited by these guardians of morality and professional uplifters is sickening. We cannot credit them with honest intentions because time and time again we have witnessed their indifference and lack of condemnatory denunciation, of erotic and malacious exhibitions, (does anybody remember home-week in Plainfield?) and of plays which make heroes of common criminals.

Few years ago "Mrs. Warren's Profession"—a powerful indictment of conditions which produce the professions of the Mrs. Warrens, by G. Bernard Shaw, a really great Irishman, came very near being barred from the Plainfield stage through the efforts of the professional moralists, while only shortly before a most immoral melodrama, which stirred the audience to a feeling of sympathy and admiration for murderers of the type of Rosenthal's slayers, was presented on the Plainfield stage without a word of protest from the Comstockian Knights. We attended that performance with the objective of observing the phychological effect on the audience; the tense suspense of the spectators while these Biddle brothers—that was the play—emptied their ammunition on the officers of the law, and the tears they were shedding when at last they were overcome by the pursuers was enough to make the devils weep. Let a dissolute person acquire notoriety by being involved in sensational criminal cases and he or she without knowing the A B C of histrionic art will find theatrical managers who will exhibit them on the stage for the too obvious reason of arousing the morbid curiosity of the crowd and thus enrich themselves even though such course degrades and pollutes the American stage, yet seldom a word of protest and condemnation is heard from the prurient minds of the chevaliers of purity. But let a really noble actress or actor with an awakened sense of social responsibility attempt to portray upon the stage some of the causes which produce prostitution, cadets and criminals and they will be charged by ignorant policemen, spurred on by the Knights of Comstock as perinous offenders against the public morals. Oh, that I had the pen of G. B. Shaw to excoriate the professional moralist.

DONATO DI LONARDO

Plainfield, N. J., May 20, 1914.

P. S.:—We would suggest that the author of "The House of Bondage" change the title to something else and ten to one it will go unnoticed by the ridiculous censors as the suggestive antics of "The Tango Craze" exhibited in place of "The House of Bondage."

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I was very much interested in an article on "Public Band Concerts," appearing in your valuable issue of last evening, and more especially so with the suggestion relating to the holding of such during the coming summer months.

As we are all aware; the city has needs of some sort of outdoor recreation during the hot weather. All the city can boast of is a couple of moving picture shows or an occasional "one night stand" at the local theatre on Second street, with the alternative—"The Saloon." Is it any wonder, then, that we find so many of our young people inclined to take the "downward course" with no other form of government open to them?

The Public Recreation Committee has been doing splendid work along these lines during the winter months. There are those connected with this organization who have devoted, and are still devoting most unselfishly, their time and money to this most worthy object. All honor to them! Here, then, I contend, is another opportunity for them to continue and further the good work already accomplished, and which they are capable of carrying out, by giving to the public of Plainfield free band concerts during the ensuing summer.

You make mention of the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church. This organization, as we all know, is composed of men of our own city, who are giving their time and energy to an object from which they cannot expect to receive any remuneration. They have been striving for more than a year to get together a good musical aggregation and how well they have succeeded we all readily admit. We should therefore, be encouraging them or any other amateur band, by engaging them for the good work suggested by you.

In conclusion, I hope this matter will be taken up and advocated by some far abler pen than mine, and that the time is not far distant when Plainfield will be able to hold its own along with other up-to-date cities.

FOUR BOYS ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Two Played With Matches; Others Bonfire Victims.

ALL UNDER SIX YEARS.

West New York Lad Ran Close to Bonfire and Dress Ignites—Bayonne Boy Terribly Burned at Another Bonfire. Camden and Stillwater Children Fatally Injured Playing With Matches.

Jersey City, N. J., May 21.—Four small boys were burned to death in New Jersey yesterday. Two played with maches, and the others were victims of bonfires.

Walter Bauer, five years old, of 211 Sixth street, West New York, ran close to a bonfire near his home, and his dress ignited. A woman wrapped him in a blanket. He died at the North Hudson hospital.

John Matrycisvie, four years old, of 300 Avenue E, Bayonne, was so badly burned at a bonfire that he died in the City hospital.

Theodore Diamond, three years old, of 220 Taylor avenue, Camden, scratched matches when his sister left him alone and set fire to his clothes. He died at the Homeopathic hospital.

Irving Savacool, three years old, of Stillwater, also set himself on fire with matches while his father, Martin Savacool, and other members of the family were working in their barn. He died soon afterward.

BOYS SIX DAYS IN LOCKED CAR.

They Feasted on Raw Egg Plants and Beans, but Had No Water.

Jersey City, N. J., May 21.—When a loaded freight car was unlocked in the Pennsylvania railroad yards in this city three young men who had "beaten" their way from Florida crawled out. They had been locked in the car for six days and lived on raw egg plants and beans. For three days they were without water.

At the city hall police station they said they were Joseph Wagner, twenty-two years old, of Miami, Fla.; William Ramsey, twenty-three, of 236 Putnam street, Albany, and Howard Fagan, 883 Dean street, Brooklyn. They had lost their positions and the New Yorkers induced their southern friend to accompany them north. They were discharged by Police Judge O'Brien.

PICKEREL SEASON OPENS.

Lake, Streams and Great Egg Harbor River Alive With Fishermen.

Mays Landing, N. J., May 21.—The season for catching pike and pickerel in New Jersey opened yesterday, and the lakes, streams and Great Egg Harbor river and tributaries were alive with fishermen with all sorts of devices and baits to attract the gamey fish. Every available rowboat in town was taken, and before sunrise fishing parties were off to the famous fishing grounds in Lake Lenape, which abound with pike and pickerel.

The day was ideal, and some fine catches were made by Philadephia, Camden and Atlantic City anglers. Toward noon the day became very warm and the sun shone too bright for the sport, and in consequence but few fish were taken.

He will be the guest at the capital of Senator Hughes. He expects to take charge of his new office about June 1.

Mr. Duffy said he would tender his resignation today as a member of the state department of labor. He expects to meet Colonel Lewis T. Bryant, head of the department in Jersey City. Mr. Duffy would say nothing concerning appointments.

EXTRA SESSION ENDS; APPROPRIATIONS CUT

Bills Totaling Less Than $34,500,000 Passed.

Albany, N. Y., May 21.—The extraordinary session of the 1914 legislature adjourned after passing appropriation bills totaling less than $34,500,000 and making unnecessary the levying of a direct state tax. The total appropriations this year will be $11,000,000 less than those of last year.

Both houses passed a bill changing primary day from Sept. 29 to Sept. 28 so as not to conflict with the celebration of Yom Kippur, or the day of atonement, by Jewish voters, and in the assembly an attempt to reopen the whole subject of direct primaries was made by William Sulzer, but was overwhelmingly beaten.

A resolution was passed by the senate and assembly continuing for another year a legislative committee of five assemblymen and three senators to make an investigation of the Niagara falls power situation as well as the St. Lawrence and other border waters and empowering the committee to go before congress to press the state's claim for right to handle those water-powers. An appropriation of $10,000 is made for this committee.

The Sullivan graft probe committee of the assembly did not get any money with which to conduct its proposed investigation of state departments, so its work will be conducted by private funds, it is announced. The Democratic senators in conference agreed not to pass the Cristman resolution appropriating $40,000 for the committee, as Lieutenant Governor Robert F. Wagner declared it was intended as a "purely partisan investigation for the fall campaign."

The state department of efficiency and economy and the state fire marshal do not get any new appropriations, but whatever balance they have on hand at the end of the present fiscal year on Sept. 30 next is reappropriated for them by the bill, while the life of these moneys is limited to Feb. 1. Each department gets about $30,000 under this plan.

PARKS' MURDER CONFIRMED.

State Department Receives Affidavit as to His Death.

Washington, May 21.—The Mexican pot was set bubbling anew by the announcement from Secreary of War Garrison that an affidavit had been secured detailing statements from an eyewitness to the execution of Private Samuel Parks at Vera Cruz by the federal forces near there.

According to this affidavit Parks, attired in the United States uniform, was shot by a firing squad of Mexican soldiers. This was the first information of any authoritative character which the United States government has received with regard to the death of Parks. It bears out newspaper reports which have been cabled to this country from Vera Cruz and also a report transmitted to the state department by the Brazilian minister at Mexico City of hearsay evidence which he had gathered.

The American government is expected to regard the action of the Mexican forces as a clear breach of the armistice which Huerta had agreed to maintain pending the mediation interchanges. It is believed certain that the information secured by the war department will immediately be made the basis of representations to the mediators that Huerta had violated the armistice and of a strong demand directly to Huerta himself for suitable reparation.

Siegel Sails For United States.

Southampton, England, May 21.—Henry Siegel, under numerous indictments because of the failure of his private bank and department stores, sailed for New York on board the Olympic. He declared he had no idea of trying to evade criminal trial in New York by his trip.

WILL NOT RESIGN, HUERTA REPEATS

Dictator Has No Intention of Leaving Presidency.

MEDIATORS ARE IN SESSION

Method of Procedure Is Outlined at Niagara Conference—Both Sides Are Hopeful For Amicable Adjustment. Deliberations Held In Secret.

HUERTA DENIES HE IS READY TO RESIGN.

Mexico City, May 21.—President Huerta made an absolute denial of the report that he had authorized his representatives at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls to offer his resignation in the interest of peace.

In denying the report General Huerta said that he expects a satisfactory solution of the difficulty between Mexico and the United States without having to retire from the provisional presidency.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 21.—While the A. B. C mediators and the United States and Mexican delegates were holding their session of the peace conference here there were persistent reports that President Huerta had authorized his representatives to offer his resignation if that were necessary to end the conflict between his government and Washington.

Senor Rabasa denied the report. A long message from the dictator was received by the Huerta delegates, and it was expected that this contained the offer to resign. After it was deciphered the delegates persisted in their denial that the provisional president had made such an offer.

For the purposes of quick communication special telephone connection has been established between the rooms of Justice Joseph Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates in the Prospect House, on the American side of Niagara falls, with the White House and the state department in Washington. It was said after the conference that the discussion was of such a character as to make those concerned, or some of them, very hopeful of a satisfactory conclusion of the conference.

Must Have Wilson's O. K.

Right in this line it is of interest that the credentials of the American delegates are of a very informal character They possess very limited power. Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann must refer all suggestions from the envoys or the Mexican delegates to President Wilson through Secretary Bryan for approval or advice. On the other hand the credentials of the Mexican delegates give them great discretionary functions amounting practically if not entirely to plenary powers. The credentials of each set of delegates were presented at the opening conference, but were not read

It was announced that the following would be the method of procedure:

First.—The plenipotentiaries of Brazil, Argentine and Chile will preside over the conferences. The plenipotentiary, the Brazilian ambassador, will direct the proceedings of the conferences.

Second.—The minutes of the proceedings will be signed by the representatives and the three mediators. They will be countersigned by the three secretaries of the mediators, and said minutes shall be drafted in English, Spanish and Portuguese, and five copies thereof shall be made—namely, one copy for each of the representatives and one copy for each of the mediators. The deliberations shall be secret.

Third.—The full conference will be held—first, for the expression of the views of the representatives upon their request; second, for the presentation of basis of settlement; third, for their acceptance or rejection.

Fourth.—The conferences will be closed by a full final session, at which will be stated all the particular circumstances which were considered in arriving at the final result of the conferences, whatever such result may be In the event of a favorable solution being reached, the minutes of the last full session at which said resolution was accepted shall form the basis of the protocol of documents to be signed.

Fifth.—Closing addresses by the mediators and representatives should they so desire.

ARMY CAPTAIN A SUICIDE.

Surgeon Reports That Captain Winslow Was Deranged.

Brownsville, Tex., May 21.—Captain Richard P. Winslow of the Ninety-first Coast Artillery corps, died here of a pistol wound, presumably self inflicted. No one was present when the shot was fired. The bullet from an army automatic pistol passed through the brain.

An army surgeon said that Captain Winslow had become mentally deranged.

Urge Harding's Appointment.

Washington, May 21.—President Wilson was urged by Senator Bankhead and House Leader Underwood to appoint W. P. G. Harding, banker, governor of the federal reserve board. The president said he had reached no decision.

UNCLE AND NIECE IN THE SAME PLAY

When Ethel Barrymore appears with John Drew in New York in May in the Sardou play, "A Scrap of Paper," it will be the first time that she and her uncle have ever spoken lines on the same stage in twenty years or since the night that the stripling, Ethel Barrymore, merely by chance, got her first stage part at the Empire Theatre to play "Kate Fennell" in "The Bauble Shop." John Drew was at the head of that company; Maude Adams was the leading lady. It was the third year of Mr. Drew's appearance under Charles Frohman's management. Miss Barrymore succeeded Elsie de Wolfe, who had been suddenly taken ill, and awful was the young girl's experience in trying to conceal from the audience the fact that Miss de Wolfe's gowns were several times too large for her. But she "got through" the night prosperously and three years afterward was a star in "Captain Jinks." When Miss Barrymore and Mr. Drew hear each other's voices in "A Scrap of Paper" it will be on the very same stage where they first heard each other speak as actor and actress twenty years ago.

TIGER VS. BULLDOG ON LOCAL BALL DIAMOND

Princeton and Yale "Grads" Will Meet in Baseball Game Saturday Afternoon.

What promises to be one of the most interesting feature ball games of the season on a local diamond will be staged Saturday afternoon between the Plainfield Yale and Princeton Clubs on the Plainfield Country Club diamond. A contest between graduates of the New Haven and New Jersey universities is always the signal for interest and many are taking an active part in arranging the details for the unique event.

Old timers who assisted in pulling down diamond verdicts for the Bull dog and Tiger in the eighties and nineties are limbering up rusty joints for the big event and some genuine old time college baseball typical of the period when professional sport was a minor issue, is promised to the fans who witness the assault on the horsehide. Some of the stars who took a prominent part in making Eli and Nassau baseball history hibernate around the Queen City in the winter months and the reunion stunt was met with enthusiastic response on all sides. The appeal has caused many to resurrect moldy baseball togs and the "has-beens" are indulging in nightly practises for the event. While there will be a humorous side to the exhibition those who delight in witnessing real college baseball will get their fill of this phase on the side. While many of the players have long been inactive they still retain their knowledge of hook-slides and clouting. There will be no admission charged and everything is being done to make the affair a monster demonstration of real intercollegiate spirit.

The players on the Princeton side will include "Clint" Ivins,, "Whit" Baker, "Councellor" Brooks, "Pierce" Ransome, Mellick Tweedy, "Bill" Smith, "Legie" Fleming, "Bert" Beers," "Len" Cochran, "Col." Waring. The Tiger medical corps will be made up of Doctors Buchanan, DuBois, B. V. D. Hedges and W. D. Murray.

N. P. H. S. GIVES GAME TO RUTGERS

Local Boys Outhit and Field Better Than Opponents, But Lose.

USED POOR JUDGMENT

Bad Base Running Loses Contest—Stahl and Denny Both Work—Contest Attended by Record Crowd of Fans.

The North Plainfield High School blew up in the seventh inning of the game with Rutgers Prep. yesterday, and the New Brunswick boys hit six runs over the plate, winning the game by the score of 8 to 5. The boroughites had things their own way for the first six innings and had a three run lead. Poor base running on the part of the locals was one of the causes for their downfall. Twice the bases were full with none down and poor plays threw away chances. The locals outhit and fielded all around their opponents, but apparently had an off day. Stahl was chosen to work and was effective at all times until the bombardment started. The home team seemed to get his number and hit him freely until he was relieved by Denny.

The Canadians were blanked for the first three innings and in the last half of the third Rutgers scored two runs on two hits and an error. North Plainfield came back and tied the score in the fourth. Conroy drew a pass and Smalley and Stahl each put a fast one through first. VanMater hit to shortstop and he booted the ball away, allowing two men to cross the plate.

The home team was blanked for three innings straight. In the fifth, Dilts proved himself a hero, and after Townley had singled he tripled to the left field fence, sending the third run across the rubber.

Two runs were added to the locals' list in the sixth, making the score 5 to 2. In the sixth Stahl passed the first two men to face him and the next three singled in quick order. He then hit Hasbrouck and forced in another run. Denny was then rushed to the mound and immediately Loudsbury, the opposing pitcher, singled, clearing the bases. He was caught stealing third. The next two men were easily disposed of.

In the ninth the locals had bright prospects of getting some runs. With only one down, Dilts and Conroy singled, filling first and second. Smalley hit a hard one to short and a fast double play ended the game. Dilts and Conroy led the locals at the bat with three hits each, and McGovern held second base in fine shape.

LOCAL CANOEISTS TO FORM AQUATIC CLUB

Plainfield Will Be Represented in State Championships at Asbury Park.

Several local canoeists are arranging preliminary details for the organization of a canoe club to represent Plainfield in several of the water regattas planned for the summer months in this vicinity. There are many Plainfield youths who are enthusiastic paddle wielders and not a few have won honors in this sport at summer resorts during the summer months. The followers of the water sport are planning to hold a meeting in the near future for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization and plans for an active season will be discussed at that time.

Those interested have received a communication from Newark authorities requesting them to take some definite action on the proposed State championship regatta for canoeists to be held on Deal lake, Asbury Park, July 25. The affair will be conducted under the auspices of the Asbury Park carnival commission and an appropriation of $100 for prizes has been made in an effort to make the event attractive to all the paddlers in the State.

Plainfield canoeists were prominent in the Asbury Park and Belmar carnivals last year and several prizes were awarded to Queen City representatives at those places.

The Tuscarora Canoe Club of Newark, of which William H. Schooley, formerly of this city, is an active member, was requested to suggest a program of events by the carnival commission and has offered the following: Quarter mile singles, half mile doubles, half mile club fours and a hurry-scurry race in which the contestants will swim 100 yards to anchored canoes and then paddle 100 yards to the finish. All the races will be paddled in canvass covered canoes, under the Class B rules of the American Canoe Association.

DATES FOR CUP MATCHES.

George T. Adee, secretary of the International Davis Cup Committee, received a cable message from the English Tennis Association yesterday stating that the British Isles had made all arrangements with Belgium and France for the playing of the preliminary international ties. The British Isles will meet Belgium at Folkestone, July 7, 8 and 9, and France at Wimbledon, July 11, 13 and 14, in case Belgium is defeated in the first round.

AMERICANS WIN.

America triumphed over Australia last night at the Newark Velodrome when a team composed of Frank Kramer, Joe Fogler, Fred Hill and Frank Cavanagh won a team match from Alfred Goullet, Alfred Grenda, Bon Spears and Ernie Pye in two straight heats.

CARTER WINS TITLE.

By the comfortable margin of 6 up and 5 to play, Philip V. G. Carter, of Pawling, won the interscholastic championship at Scarsdale yesterday by defeating W. T. Badham, of Lawrenceville, runner-up last year, in the thirty-six-hole final round.

ANNUAL SOMERSET COUNTY EXHIBITION

To Be Held at Somerville Next Saturday—Local School Represented.

At the annual Somerset County School exhibition at Somerville next Saturday, the Borough High School girl's basketball team will play an exhibition game with the High School team of that place. The Flemington girls was originally scheduled to play this game but they cancelled and the local girls willingly substituted. Last year the borough girls played and won the contest. It will be played in the morning on an outdoor court.

The boys expected to enter in the track meet that is held every year for the county championship, but as many of those who would participate play ball in the afternoon it was decided not to send any entries. In the afternoon the borough baseball team plays the first game with Somerville for the county championship. A large collection of articles for exhibition will be sent from the Somerset School. The school buildings will be open all day Saturday for inspection.

A large number of rooters will accompany the local teams. Those who will play on the basketball team are the Misses Marjorie Burtis and Lillian Spencer, forwards; Lucy Douglas, center; Elsie Debele and Edna Greer, guards. Miss Bertha Keller will go as substitute.

ROD AND REEL

We are frequently called upon, through letters, to give our opinion regarding the edible qualities of different fish, and especially when the crowd gets going out to the fishing banks, where more tales can be told about the bad points of fish than anywhere else we know of. There is one good way to tell good fish, that is fish with a fine flavor, and that is by the scales. Whenever we see a fish with a small scale we know that the meat is firm and sweet, and a coarse scale is just the opposite. Not that the coarse scale fish is not good for food but take a trout, salmon, blackbass, fluke, bluefish, cod, eel, kingfish, smelt, weakfish or tomcod, and you will find that they have prominent flavors, while, on the other hand, the fish with the heavy scale is coarse, such as the black hake, herring, lafayette, ling, pollock, porgie, drum, whiting, and many of the salt water bass. On the other hand, there isn't a fish in the water that is not fit to eat. It might be said that a good distinction is to say that there are porterhouse and chuck meat.

The fishing trade among the pleasure boats is increasing and practically all of the Long Island boats have changed their schedules so as to make a trip every day. There are many large schools of fish feeding along the coast, and old timers say that they never say such fine ling as are around this year. As long as the water remains cool the ling will be firm and hard, and just as soon as real warm weather comes they go out into deep water.

The anglers were taken unawares yesterday and many of them didn't seem to know that the fishing season opened at the two Newark lakes, and when the did see it in the papers they tried to reach the boathouse but found that the telephones had been disconnected. It is to be hoped that the lake boathouses will be placed on the telephone list again, as the anglers frequently call up to inquire about the conditions.

RANDOLPH DID NOT PITCH.

Contrary to expectations Manager Joe Hanley, of the Perth Amboy Atlantic League team, sent Schaeffer to the mound in the opening game against the Danbury Club yesterday afternoon instead of Cliff Randolph, the local boy who was a strong favorite for the opening day job. Amboy was nosed out in a swatfest by a count of 7 to 6.

"LIDDY" IN LONG GAME.

Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood boy, playing the Tri-State League, caught a sixteen-inning game for the York club yesterday afternoon, the contest with Wilmington being called because of darkness in that round with the score a 3 to 3 tie. "Liddy" had twelve putouts and three assists without an error during the game.

LOCAL GOLFER COMPETES.

William T. Glenney was the only Plainfielder who competed in the qualifying round of the sixteenth annual Metropolitan golf championship at the Englewood Country Club yesterday afternoon. There were 132 entries and Glenney's score in the medal play round was 169.

ARRANGE GAME.

A baseball game between the Park Avenue Baptist ball nine and the Jefferson Democratic Club combination has been arranged for June 6. The contest will be staged on Hope Common.

A CHALLENGE.

BASEBALL NOT PLAY, SAYS COBB

Big Leaguers Must Take Constant Care of Themselves.

ARTHUR SHAFER WAS RIGHT

Famous Outfield Star Agrees With Former Giant That Diamond Game Ages Players Prematurely—Managers No Longer Have to Keep Steady Watch For "Bad Actors."

"Most fans seem to believe that a ball player has nothing to spend except time," says Ty Cobb, famous outfielder of the Detroit Tigers.

"It is generally figured that a big leaguer's period of labor covers about two hours every day, with no work on rainy days and a layoff on about half of the Sundays.

"'I wish I had hours like yours,' says the outsider. 'It's an easy life to take a little exercise in the afternoon and have the rest of the time to yourself.'

"To correct this impression I am going to tell how ball players spend their time off the field and thereby try to convince those followers of the game who believe that the life of a big leaguer is practically the same as loafing that the playing of baseball entails some work besides that done on the diamond and that it means careful living, which does not fit in well with just plain loafing.

TY COBB.

"Arthur Shafer, formerly third baseman of the Giants, gave out an interview this spring, in which he said he thought he would quit baseball because he had aged ten years since he had joined a big league club, although his period of service has not extended over nearly as much time. As I recall it, Shafer joined the Giants in 1909. Shafer added as another reason for retiring that his hair had begun to turn gray.

"I believe that what the young third baseman of the Giants has said about ageing and the gray hair coming in the big league is true, but if he sticks to his announced determination to retire I don't see how he is going to get along without the diet of excitement to which a few years of service in the big league accustoms a man. I don't believe I could, but I am going to give it a try some day.

"If a fan thinks that a ball player is through with his day's work as soon as he takes off his uniform after a game he should travel with a club for a time that is up in the battling for the pennant. The players never forget the game when the fight gets close, and many of a nervous temperament are unable to sleep.

"Off the field Jennings, our manager, does not keep a very close watch on the Detroit players to see that they confine their habits of life to the straight and narrow path. He believes that this should be left to the ball player himself and that a man should have enough natural common sense to behave if he intends to make baseball his business, since this is the only way in which he can derive any profit from his enterprise. It is not until Jennings discovers a man misbehaving that he puts on the clamps and then looks out for him. He knows how to treat a 'bad actor' as well as any one when he encounters one, since he played on the old Baltimore club, where the irresponsible players were plentiful.

"But you take baseball as a whole now and you'll find practically no 'bad actors' in it as the term was formerly applied. Managers do not have to keep as close watch on their players as they did once, because the men themselves are smart enough to appreciate the fact that they cannot keep up with the speed of the big league and stay up all night."

Reeler All Right Again.

The welcome news comes from Ithaca, N. Y., that Andy Reeler, the crack sprinter of the Cornell track team, will be able to run for the college this spring. Reeler was operated on for mastoiditis in February, and it was feared that his sprinting days were over.

HOW TO TRIP THE FURLANA

Venetian Dance Which It Was Reported Pope Likes.

PARTNERS AT ARM'S LENGTH

Only Contact Is When Hands Are Joined—Steps Afford an Abundance of Exercise, and Much More Space Is Required For the Various Movements Than In Those of the Tango.

TANGO DECALOGUE.

A Woman's "Shall Nots."

Mrs. Charles McCarthy, president of the San Mateo (Cal.) Women's club has issued a set of ten commandments for tango dancers. Here they are:

First.—The man should have only one arm around his partner.

Second.—The couple should face one another.

Fourth.—The girl's right arm should remain at a right angle across her waistline.

Fifth.—The step to be followed should be that of the Parisian tango. All others should be placed under the ban.

Sixth.—Neither dancer should lift the feet higher than three inches.

Seventh.—There should be no rag steps.

Eighth.—All steps outside of the tango should be the old fashioned twostep and waltz.

Ninth.—Women dancing the tango should not be allowed to wear the slit skirt.

Tenth.—There should be no leaning back or stooping forward on the part of the woman.

What is the furlana? That question buzzed everywhere after it was reported Pope Pius had urged that it be danced instead of the tango. The report was denied later by Vatican authorities, but the interest in the furlana remained. The New York Herald answered the query as follows:

It will be remembered that in the first act of "La Gioconda" a group of peasants in the public square is seen going briskly through a measure that faintly suggests the highland fling.

That is the furlana, an old folk dance, beloved of the Venetians.

Italians who know the furlana well were much interested by the pontiff's comment. Members of the Federation of Italian Artists in New York, which is composed largely of those who illustrate the poetry of motion, declared that it was not a rival of the tango, for it was just a dance of the peasants in the little villages or in the open country.

At Arm's Length.

The furlana is danced by men and women together, but they are at arm's length much of the time, and practically the only contact of the dancers is when they join hands.

Following the second position there is a kind of frolicking, light step which is a second cousin to the dip of the tango, but otherwise there is no resemblance between the two diversions. There is exercise in plenty in the furlana.

The tango is danced in four time and in close order; the furlana is danced in two time and requires a large, open space. The furlana, like the tarantella, is executed with rapidity. It begins in a long distance way, then hands are joined and the dance becomes fast and furious.

Approach and Join Hands.

The dancers approach and join hands, their arms being crossed in the position often used by men and women skaters. In the third position the dancers are side by side. In the fourth position the left arm of the man rests lightly on the waist of the woman. At this stage the dancers are as close together as they ever get in the furlana, their right arms being raised.

In one of the turns which follows the right foot of one dancer is close to the calf of the right leg of the other, which is a difficult pose for one wearing the present style of tight skirts.

The finale is lively enough, with the raised hands and the quick steps. The dance music is rapid throughout, and even professional dancers find they need a rest when it is over. As the evolutions are rather extended, it requires much more room than does the tango, and it would be difficult to adapt it to ballroom use.

AMERICANS DEFEATED IN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Sandwich, England, May 21—The last of the American invaders was disposed of today in the British amateur golf championship, when Harold Weber, of Toledo, succumbed to Cecil Hutchinson. Hutchinson won by six up and four to play.

Harold Hilton, holder of the British amateur golf championship, was defeated today in the fourth round of the competition by Edward Blackwell, by two up and one to play. Chick Evans, of Chicago, was eliminated also, being defeated by C. E. McFarline, a Scotch player, by four up and two to play.

NELSON WOULD BE A MANAGER

Famous Pugilist Wants Coulon or Ritchie.

BOTH AR' REAL CHAMPIONS

Once Great Lightweight King Realizes His Days of Combat Are Over and Is Looking For Some Easy Coin—Has Praise For Kid Williams Too.

Attired tastily in the latest fashion and wearing that perpetual smile, Battling Nelson, king of lightweights before Father Time cut him down, has turned Thespian.

In appearances he's the same old fellow who battered his way through the greatest crop of lightweights this country ever produced and gained the topmost pinnacle of pugilistic prestige. Fighter then, he's an actor now, but at either there is a chance to get into the spot light and show us where there ever was a man who so religiously worshiped plaudits of the public.

Nelson is through with boxing, so far as active participation is concerned. He'll talk it until a leg drops off or his wind is shut off, but that's as far as he confesses he wants to go. Bat was impressed with the bald fact of his decline when whipped by Wolgast in Milwaukee several months ago. He took an oath then never to pull on another glove, a resolution that has not been shattered.

The famous ex-lightweight champion would become a manager, but there are just two boys, he says, he could be induced to give his time to, Willie Ritchie and Johnny Coulon, who Nelson declares are champions of the truest sort.

"Coulon is another Tommy Ryan," Bat ventured to remark. "There is not a thing about boxing and fighting he doesn't know. He can adjust himself to the occasion remarkably well. I claim him to be the greatest bantamweight this country ever developed.

"If he's right he'll beat this Williams, too," Bat continued. "By right I mean he must be entirely free of the ptomaine poisoning he was attacked by and which served to curtail his ring work. It requires a long time to get that stuff out of one's system. Johnny looks good to me now, but you never can tell by appearances that everything is as you wish it. I hope he's right, though, and if I am convinced that he has recovered his old form Bat will have a bet on Johnny."

Nelson didn't attempt to "take anything" from Williams while boosting Coulon, either. The mayor of Hegewisch, Ill., has a high opinion of the Baltimore lad, because, as Bat said, he's tough. Ordinarily Bat is honest in his opinions of various boxers, and generally he is correct, so it would seem that Bat's dope is worth thinking over.

When he got his second wind Nelson gently hinted that he would like nothing better than to look after Ritchie's interests.

"Ritchie and I would make a combination hard to beat, and, I believe, a great money maker. When you are champion you can't look after your own interests like you can as a challenger or a contender. There is too much to think about when you are preparing for a battle to be bothered by financial details and other incidentals. Willie's brothers do not know what they should about this game. What Willie needs is a man who is experienced.

"I think I have the necessary experience, don't you? However, picking up ready made champions to steer around is something you don't hear of often."

ROOSEVELT STIRRED BY THE NEW POLICY

Colombia Apology Is Unthinkable, Says Colonel.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 21.—In a rather lively stage of convalescence Colonel Theodore Roosevelt sat on his sunny veranda at Sagamore Hill and talked of the things that are of greatest interest to his fellow citizens. While he would not discuss politics, he touched at one point upon the testimony given yesterday before the interstate commerce commission by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, touching the Roosevelt "O. K." of the Boston and Maine and New Haven merger.

The colonel had not read the testimony, but its substance had been repeated to him by his callers. From what Colonel Roosevelt said the president had signified his approval of the proposal to consolidate the railroads. Mr. Roosevelt stood then as now for governmental supervision of such mergers. Granting that there was no legal obstacle to the merger, he told Mr. Mellen, he saw no reason for objecting, but he would have the merger under governmental supervision.

He criticised the Colombian treaty, saying the payment of the $25,000,000 to Colombia was absolutely unthinkable. As for the apology, it was as if some future president of the United States should apologize to Huerta for the occupation of Vera Cruz.

As to Panama canal tolls, he had nothing to add to his cabled interview. "We have a right to exempt our coastwise shipping," he said. "If there is any doubt about it, it is right to submit it to arbitration, but not to surrender in advance."

Colonel Roosevelt expects to have most of his political conferences at Oyster Bay. He expressed the opinion that the Progressive leaders would be dropping in at Sagamore Hill from time to time.

"Of course," he added, "I cannot talk politics now, for I am not in touch with the situation."

MELLEN TELLS OF BILLARD PROFITS

Ex-President Testifies of the B. and M. Deal.

COST THE ROAD MILLIONS

Explanations by the Former Head of the New Haven Were Contradictory and Hazy and Revises His Former Testimony.

Washington, May 21.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven, added another chapter to his account of the financing of the New Haven railroad. He told of the purchase of control of the Worcester, Nashua and Rhode Island railroad for the Boston and Maine without, so far as Mr Mellen knew, any authorization from the Boston and Maine's board of directors or from the officers of that road.

"They sent me to chase a man who had got three months' start on me," said Mellen.

"That minute was entered three months after Billard got away with the stuff."

The "stuff" was $1,649,220 of the New Haven's money, and the minute referred to was one in the record of the New Haven's board of directors showing a nominal profit to the railroad instead of a loss on the Billard transaction in Boston and Maine.

The board in this minute assumed that the $1,644,000 was profit to the road, while Mr. Mellen said it belonged to John L. Billard of New Haven, who had bought the New Haven's Boston and Maine stock and sold it back a few months later at a large advance.

Mr. Mellen said that the minute and a similar resolution in the board's record were false or incorrect.

Explanations Are Hazy.

His explanations of the Billard transaction were contradictory and hazy, and whenever cornered by Mr Folk he said that the minute referred to must have been put in the report of the board of directors' meeting in order to have him show it to Billard and help him in showing more favorable terms in accounting with Billard.

According to Mr. Mellen's own testimony, he was negotiating for more favorable terms with Billard in connection with the Boston and Maine stock transaction three months after the contract was closed and in Mellen's own words was "signed, sealed and delivered."

Mr. Mellen in his testimony continued to give instances of the way in which the late J. P. Morgan dominated the New Haven. One was in the purchase by the Boston and Maine in 1911 of a block of 16,634 shares of the Worcester, Nashua and Rochester railroad.

The witness testified that Mr. Morgan bought this big block of stock without any authorization so far as he knew from the directors of the Boston and Maine and without consulting him. He said that Mr. Morgan called him on the phone, said he had bought the stock at $165 a share and asked Mr. Mellen to write to President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine and tell him what had been done.

Revises His Testimony.

When Mr. Mellen later was confronted with a letter written by him he revised his testimony to the extent of saying that Mr. Morgan had probably talked with him in advance about the purchase of this road, but never said anything of the price until he called Mr. Mellen over the telephone.

The Worcester, Nashua and Rochester shares were bought from the Mutual Life Insurance company, which was obliged to sell within five years owing to the enactment of the Hughes reform laws in New York.

Mr. Mellen acknowledged that while Mr. Morgan paid $165 for the big block, constituting control, other purchases were made by the New Haven about the same time for $150 or less. Mr. Mellen explained this by saying that a big, powerful company like the Mutual Life always could obtain more for a block of stock carrying control than could be obtained for smaller lots.

"Why didn't you object to the stock being purchased without your knowledge?" asked Solicitor Folk.

"I thought it a good thing, but did not know the price was going to be so high. I asked Mr. Morgan about it, and he said the price was the best he could do."

Rehearing Is Denied.

Washington, May 21.—The interstate commerce commission denied a petition for a rehearing of the industrial railway cases recently passed upon by the commission.

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

A DECORATIVE EYELET DESIGN APPLIED TO CHEMISE AND DRAWERS

Even the most inexperienced can easily make charming underwear at home, now that the style requires no fitting to the garments.

Hand embroidery is quite the most satisfactory trimming for underwear, as it wears much better than lace and even often outwears the material of the gown itself. Batiste, nainsook and fine long cloth are the standard materials for making these garments, but of late, cross-barred muslin, cotton crepon, dotted swiss and China silk are being used, and even crepe de Chine is often made into most practical wearing apparel.

This attractive eyelet design, illustrated on the chemise and the drawers, is from pattern number 14514. It is two and one-quarter inches wide and the pattern contains three yards for ten cents. The flowers and leaves in this design may be embroidered in solid work and eyelets with white mercerized cotton or filo silk. A one-inch wide ribbon should be run through the eyelets.

This design of wreaths and eyelets may also be used on nightgowns, negligees, children's clothes and infant's garments. If the eyelets are omitted, the wreaths may be used on waists, dresses and children's clothes.

An attractive chemise may be made from pattern 8108 which is cut in four sizes: thirty-two, thirty-six, forty and forty-four. The drawers, illustrated here, are from pattern number 8111. These are cut in five sizes: twenty-two, twenty-four, twenty-six, twenty-eight, and thirty. Each of these patterns is ten cents. The seams on these garments should be French seamed and the finishings should be well done so that they will not came apart in the laundry.

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

IN the markets one finds the advance guard of that delicious fruit, the raspberry. Served either fresh or in other desserts they are, next to the strawberry, our most popular early fruit.

Combined With Cake.

Raspberry Charlotte.—Line a serving dish with little sponge cakes or ladyfingers split in two. Crush raspberries lightly and cover them with sugar. Let them stand an hour in the icebox. Then pour them on the sponge cakes and cover with whipped cream.

Raspberry Cobbler.—Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Add one beaten egg to one small cupful of milk and mix into a soft crust. Line the sides of a deep baking pan. Mix three pints of raspberries and currants with two cupfuls of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of flour. Cover with a top crust and bake. Serve immediately.

Shaped In a Mold.

Raspberry Tapioca.—Take one teacupful of tapioca, three-quarters of a pint of cold water, half a teacupful of white sugar, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one quart of fresh raspberries. Crush the tapioca very fine and let it soak in the water for at least three hours; then cook it slowly till it is done and quite clear. Add the sugar and lemon juice and stir well. Remove the pan from the fire and stir in a quart of fresh raspberries. Pour into a flat mold which has previously been filled with cold water. When cold turn out and serve with whipped cream or custard.

A Gelatin Dessert.

Raspberry Cream. — Put a pint of raspberries in a bowl and add one tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Let stand for an hour, then rub through a sieve. Soak one ounce of gelatin in two teaspoonfuls of cold milk for half an hour, then add to it one cupful of scalding hot milk, two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar and stir until the ingredients are thoroughly dissolved. Set aside and when cool add the strained raspberries. Whip one-half pint of cream and one tablespoonful of vanilla and whisk all lightly together. Set in a cold place to harden. A half pint of raspberries may be kept cold, sweetened slightly and poured around the mold when turned out ready for the table.

The Man Sang, and the Bear Danced.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Little Girl Who Rode The Bear.

PERHAPS being brought up with Jack and entering into all the things that Jack did had made Evelyn very fearless. Jack never tried to frighten her, so that she never thought about being afraid of anything. He would take her for wonderful coasts in the express carts, and as long as Jack did the steering Evelyn always felt absolutely safe.

So daddy thought it would be rather amusing to tell the children of a little girl he had once seen ride a bear. He began thus:

"One day there came to the village where this little girl lived a man with a performing bear. The man would sing a song which sounded like 'Ah, duddy-ung, duddy-ung, dung, dey,' and the bear would dance around on his hind legs. Then, of course, the people would throw the bear pennies.

"Now the man became annoyed because he did not get more money. So he said he would have the bear climb a pole for any one who would give him 10 cents. Some one gave 10 cents and up the pole the bear scrambled.

"Then more dancing followed, but the people became rather tired of it, and the man had to think of something quite new with which to amuse the people so he would make more money.

"He called out to the crowd:

"'Now, whoever will give me a twenty-five cent piece may have a ride on the bear. He is quite safe and will not harm any one. Come along, come along! Who wants to ride the bear?'

"As you might think, nobody was particularly anxious to ride the bear. But the man discovered that there was some kind of a discussion going on between some people. So once more he called out:

"'The person who takes this ride will be given a good, long one—all the distance to the next corner.'

"That was practically a block, and that is really quite a distance to ride on a bear as I found out by watching the little girl who finally did ride him. She had a lot of trouble keeping on."

"Did a little girl finally ride him?" asked Evelyn.

"Yes," said daddy. "One little girl in the crowd was begging her big brother to give her 25 cents so she could ride the bear. She longed to ride one, as she thought it would be lots of fun, and she wasn't a bit frightened. Her big brother thought the bear looked very mild and so he finally gave in.

"The little girl thought she had never had such fun in her life, and she quite felt like a real circus performer with the crowds of people following and watching her. As she had always thought circus performers were wonderful people she quite enjoyed making believe she was one."

CHURCH TIME.

Josephine Preston Peabody.

It feels forever without end,
The time I have to stay.
It's even harder to keep still,
Than pray and pray and pray

The reading happens all the time;
The praying rolls along;
And something makes them always sing,
A long, long song.

So when I've nearly gone to sleep,
I make my penny walk.
I walk it up and down, to hear
The talk and talk and talk.

And if I lose it on the floor
Before they pass the plate,
Why there's nothing more to do
But wait—wait—wait.

Till, when you'd have to go to sleep
Or else you'd have to die;
They let you out—and straight into
The sky!

With nests all hiding up the Trees,
And roads to make you run;
And everything like Squirrels
In the sun—the sun!

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7615

The Middy blouse, or Casaquin, as the French call it, is decidedly American in all its lines. It is one of the few garments that the French give us credit for originating. It is not necessary to tell of its comfort, as anyone who has ever worn one fully appreciates that. A new fad, however, is to make this blouse of a colored silk or crepe and wear it for street and informal afternoon affairs, instead of keeping it for sports wear alone, made of linen or a heavy cotton. Taffeta and poplin in bright greens and vivid reds are being used and the blouse is worn with a light colored skirt of serge, linen or one of the novelty cottons. For Summer use, a maize-colored cotton crepe, trimmed with bone buttons and having a striped cotton velvet collar and cuffs, in which there is a darker tone of the yellow, is being shown; it is one of the most effective blouses of this kind seen this season. For sports wear or school, any of these light-colored crepes will be practical, and of course linen is always suitable. This design may be made in size 36 with 2¾ yards of 36-inch material. The pattern is cut in six sizes, 32 to 42.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15c in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

LEATHER HAND BAGS.

rich embroidery, are carried to the opera or evening musicale. Some of the latest opera bags are made of silk with embroidery sections mounted over pieces of pasteboard.

A combination of silver or gold thread embroidery with beads is even richer on a background of chiffon velvet. The peacock colorings are beautiful and easy to carry out with iridescent beads.

Fine dull jet beads closely sewn together on black silk make very handsome mourning reticules, which are used a great deal in place of leather bags.

Leather novelties for spring include many attractive and convenient hand bags for women. The envelope bag of leather and the long silk or leather bag, with a tiny watch set into the side, are convenient and attractive. The little watch may be consulted by the busy shopper without the trouble of taking out her own watch from underneath her wrap.

Cheap Salad Dressing.

When eggs are expensive and salads so essential in the average home, one should know of different salad dressings which lose none of their fine flavor if eggs are not included.

One may use olive oil or butter for the purpose. It should be boiled with red pepper and celery seed, then strained and to it added the desired amount of salt, sugar and mustard, with a fourth teaspoonful of cornstarch to a small quantity of dressing to give it the smooth effect obtained with eggs.

Beat this with an egg beater, add a very small quantity of vinegar and, when possible, the least bit of whipped cream. The secret of an exceptionally delicious mayonnaise is the vinegar used. It is spiced and sweetened with brown sugar and strained for use. It gives that flavor over which one is certain to wonder "What can it be?" and yet cannot discover.

MAKING GOOD STOCK.

The stock pot or saucepan must be scrupulously clean.

A dime's worth of bones and any trimmings of meat, one pound of vegetables to one gallon of water, are generally allowed for soup for eight persons.

The vegetables must be added after the bones have been boiled for two or three hours and all scum has been removed.

The vegetables should be simmered until they are cooked, and no longer.

The seasonings should be added carefully, it being better to season too little than too highly.

Never allow the stock to cool in the pan in which it is cooked. The liquid should be poured off at once through a colander into an earthenware bowl.

When cold the fat should be removed. Never leave the fat caked on the surface. This hastens the stock turning sour and does not preserve it, as some cooks erroneously imagine.

Bacon bones, ham bones and bacon rind are all valuable assets to the stock pot.

EGG ECONOMY.

Clever Ways of Eliminating Them From the Menu.

Because of the high price of eggs we must often try to get along without so many.

Try this way of mixing the old time flannel cakes.

Take a pint of sour milk and, if very thick, add a little cold water. Stir in it half a teaspoonful of baking soda or saleratus, stirring well; then add flour a little at a time, not forgetting a pinch of salt.

With the last of the flour stir in a teaspoonful of baking powder. The batter should be smooth and not too thick.

Waffle batter can be made the same way, with the addition of about one-fourth cupful of melted butter.

Homemade noodles are much better than bought ones and are easy to make. The following rule will make enough for a family of four:

Break two eggs without separating into a half pint of flour, add a little salt, mix with the fingers, adding flour enough to keep from sticking until you can work it into a ball. Separate in two parts, flour your molding board and roll out thin as paper. Lay on a clean cloth to dry, turning occasionally. They should not be too dry, or they will break in cutting. Lay them together, fold in half and then roll and cut with a sharp knife, separating the slices and tossing them about to lighten them.

Have soup stock boiling and drop into it the noodles with one hand, stirring with the other. Let boil for fifteen minutes. A little parsley added at the last is a great improvement.

JAPANESE PAPERS.

The Latest Fad In Decorations For Walls.

It has long been the custom to decry large patterned papers for the walls of dining rooms and drawing rooms. To begin with, they are considered fatal to the effect of pictures hung against them. The taste has been in favor of papering neutral in tint and unobtrusive in design. In truth, no picture can stand a large figured wall behind it. If people will have long branches and birds with big plumages sweeping across their walls they must give up the idea of seeing pictures there at the same time.

One cannot say how it will be with respect to the pictures, but it is certain that in what concerns the papering itself a complete renovation of taste is going forward. Whole landscapes, and on a big scale, are being thrown on walls, and in this China and Japan are the inspiring sources. Sometimes the whole side of the room shows you mandarins and pagodas intermixed with aggressive specimens of the flora of the celestial empire. Sometimes Chinamen, almost life size, are there also.

The note that comes from Japan is more somber—more in accordance with European taste. And it is not only the note that comes from Japan, but the material itself with which walls are now being covered. It is called Japanese papering, but it is in truth a composition more resembling leather. It is thick, presents the effect of leather and is generally of a rich hue, blending the sheen of copper, bronze and gold. Adorning walls with such lustrous metallic hues has been described as "gilding the bars of one's cage," the cage being the room.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

A little white sugar in hot water, say two lumps to a basinful, is a sufficient stiffening for delicate laces.

Use a mixture of gasoline and flour when cleaning delicate fabrics—laces, ribbons, plumes, etc. Dip the articles into the mixture and rub them thoroughly.

Torn lace can be repaired by first placing a piece of paper under the hole and then stitching on the machine back and forth until the hole is completely filled. Very fine thread should be used and the paper carefully picked out after the material is removed from the machine.

THE FLOWER GARDEN.

Time Now to Start Plants to Set Out Later in the Season.

It is now time for the suburban or country woman to begin to think about her garden.

In planting herbaceous borders, which may be started now, she should think of their future and not overcrowd. Plenty of room should be left for later development. Clear spaces when kept free from weeds and well hoed are by no means unsightly.

She should make the holes sufficiently wide to allow for the spreading of the roots. When the planting is finished dress the beds with a scattering of leaf mold.

Chrysanthemum plants will be requiring attention now. Many of those which were propagated indoors during the two last months will now need repotting.

To discover those that want shifting carefully shake the plant from the pot. Should the roots be coiled thickly round a mass of mold this shows the plant is needing more space. Supposing it has been in a three inch pot, it will now require the five inch size.

No manuring should be necessary until after midsummer, but the success of these plants depends largely on the watering. It must be systematically carried out. If overwatered the mold turns sour and the roots do not assimilate nourishment. If kept too dry they shrink, wither and ultimately in many instances perish.

New plants coming from a distance should never be unpacked in the open during frost. Select a sheltered but cool place.

Respecting the verbena, aim at early culture. If the sowing is left too late the winter frost will kill the plants while the bloom is at its best.

The seeds may be sown in January, but it is not too late now. Glass covered pans should be used, and a greenhouse temperature is required of about 60 degrees. When the third leaf begins to uncurl transplant the seedlings about an inch apart. Boxes or pans are preferable to pots at this stage.

The Verbena venosa, or veined vervain, is a most useful border plant. It wants warmth and a rich light soil. It is a bluish violet color and grows to a foot and a half in height.

Given a sunny aspect, it should commence to blossom in July. In cold localities it is safer to lift the roots before winter.

KEEPING THINGS CLEAN.

Household Utensils Must Be Kept Spick and Span to Secure Good Results.

Some housewives who have experienced a good deal of trouble may be glad to have some suggestions given for keeping the home clean. For example, to prevent stooping over so much in using a dustpan either buy one with a long handle or else add a handle to an ordinary tin dustpan in this way: Saw the handle of a discarded broom and insert it in the hollow handle of the dustpan.

In sweeping uncovered stairs a medium sized, soft paint brush will be found an excellent article. After it has been used no one will like to go back to a dust brush. It reaches the corners of the stairs and also between the sticks supporting the railing. A paint brush is very good, too, for use in cleaning dust out of any crevices, for it does the work better than a duster.

Small dish mops also make good soft dusters. They are easily shaken out and easily washed when dirty. Keeping a soft cloth in an apron pocket saves many steps as the housekeeper goes about her home in the morning straightening things out. Little boys are not the only offenders in the matter of using a handkerchief for the purpose not intended for that article. A duster at hand cleans the piano or table or the stair railing, almost without the realization that the work has been done.

To make a carpet sweeper more useful clean it often, removing the brush to get out the hairs and lint. A wire hairbrush, which may be bought at a ten cent store, is useful for cleaning the brush of the carpet sweeper. It may be kept in the brush closet for that purpose.

When shaking or cleaning rugs they should never be grasped at the ends, but always at the side. In this way, if there is a fringe, it is protected and the ends do not ravel. The shape of the rug is also preserved.

FURNISHING HINTS.

Always try to cut curtains "on the thread" if you would have them hang true.

The living room table should never be crowded with books. A few are enough.

Try beating carpets and rugs on a set of bed springs. They will look as if done by a professional.

If a rug curls moisten it and wrap it around a broomstick in the opposite way from its trend; then tie and let it dry.

Paint the inside of bureau drawers with white enamel if you would have them always fresh and easy to keep clean.

Black walnut furniture or furniture made of any dark rich wood should be cleaned occasionally with a soft rag dipped in kerosene, then polished with another soft rag.

If your kitchen is small and crowded take out the kitchen table and have a hinged shelf made. A shelf answers every purpose of a table and can be put down out of the way when not in use.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

Haiti, the Black Republic, Revels In Revolutions And Outstrips Mexico

HAITI'S new government, with General Zamor as president, has been recognized by the United States.

President Zamor formerly was governor of the northern department and in 1911 was minister of war. When the republic was torn by revolutions and counter revolutions last January and President Oreste fled for safety aboard a German ship, Zamor, with his brother, marched into Port au Prince and proclaimed himself president. He later was elected to that office.

Zamor's title is disputed by General Davitmar Theodore, who has proclaimed himself the chief executive, but who has so far met with defeat.

The little black republic has been the scene of more bloodshed than any other place in America. It has outdistanced Mexico in the number of its revolutions and the cruel manner in which they have been conducted.

About two centures after the discovery and colonization of Haiti by the Spaniards the men of that nation left the blacks, who formed the greater part of the population of Haiti, to themselves. French buccaneers found it convenient to make their headquarters on the western end of the island and forced some sort of government on the negroes. A prosperous and wealthy French colony grew up, but the negroes and the discontented free mulattoes caused many disturbances. The Spanish ceded the part of the island settled by the French to that government in 1697.

During the French revolution there were dissensions between the whites on the island, and, encouraged by the reception accorded their appeals for freedom to the French people, the blacks and the mulattoes revolted in 1791. In 1793 the commissioners of the French convention proclaimed the freedom of the blacks. This revolution in Haiti was marked by the most bloody excesses.

The British invaded the island in an attempt to bring about peace and stop the bloodshed and incidentally acquire territory. The blacks, under the leadership of Toussaint L'Ouverture, whose assumption of the name of the "Black Napoleon" won him the enmity of the great Corsican, defeated the British and expelled them from the island in 1798. Three years previously Spain had ceded the eastern part of the island to France, and this was all ruled over by Toussaint. Three years later Napoleon Bonaparte sent General Leclerc to subdue the island. Toussaint was captured and sent to France, where he died in prison.

The French were finally expelled in December, 1803, by the efforts of other leaders who succeeded Toussaint. For a time Haiti's native rulers assumed the title of emperor.

In 1844 the eastern part of the island set up for itself as the republic of Santo Domingo. In the west the struggle for ascendancy between the blacks and mulattoes lasted for many years.

The republican form of government was restored in 1859. There were scores of minor revolutions between that date and 1888, when a civil war raged in the republic and when Lejiluin and Hippolite, both generals, were rival candidates for the presidency. The latter won out and ruled until his death in 1896. Then came civil war again between rival candidates until the army proclaimed General Nord Alexis president.

There were many revolutions started by the discontented Haitians under his rule, but he succeeded in putting them down until the revolution in 1908 started by General Simon. Alexis was deposed by the populace of Port au Prince and had to flee for life to a French battleship in the harbor. The town was sacked by the blacks, and after some sort of order was restored General Antoine Simon, the leader of the revolution, was elected president.

Simon was forced to resign in August, 1911, at the instance of the British, French and American governments. This resignation came after he gave wholesale orders for executions.

He was succeeded by General Tancrede Auguste, who died last year and was in turn succeeded by Michel Oreste, who was a senator. Zamor deposed Oreste, and in the merry war of succession that is a continuous performance in Haiti General Theodore is trying to oust Zamor.

It is foolish to run unnecessary risks when you can rent a Safe Deposit Box in our burglar and fireproof vaults for as low as $5 a year.

And it is particularly unwise to keep more money in the house than is necessary for your immediate needs, for you tempt others to steal it and yourself to spend it. Put it in this strong bank and let it earn interest.

YOUNG WOMEN RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Graduation Exercises of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School Held.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire Makes Address—Henry L. Hall Presents Pins to Nine Graduates Who Complete Course.

Nine young women having completed the prescribed course, were graduated from the training school for nurses of Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, in the presence of a large number of admiring friends, including the officials of the hospital. Every possible honor was conferred on the graduates and they were showered with congratulations, as well as flowers and other gifts of an appropriate character.

George P. Mellick, as president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hosptial, presided and directed the program of the evening, while other governors assisted in the entertainment of guests. The affair was enlivened by popular selections by Van Eps Brothers' orchestra, which later furnished the music for dancing, which was in charge of the Alumni Association.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church was the speaker of the evening, and his talk was listened to with much pleasure, it being of a very practical nature. Addressing the graduates Mr. Maguire said in part:

"You are pioneers of woman's liberty. The road to happiness is found in trying to make others happy. It may be with the brain, hands, feet, but work woman must do or be forever wretched. The curse of our American society is that our young women are taught that first and always the thing in life is to get somebody to take care of them. Instead of that the first lesson should be, How under God they may take care of themselves. Homes are often blasted by a poor cook.

"No woman any more than a man has a right to occupy a place in this world unless she pays rent for it. If we want a place in the world we must earn it. The partridge makes its own nest before it occupies it. The lark by its morning song earns its breakfast before it eats it. The Bible says that if a man will not work neither shall he eat.

"Society is to be reconstructed on the subject of woman's toil. A vast majority of those who would have woman industry shut them up to a few kinds of work. My judgment in the matter is that a woman has a right to do anything she can do well. There should be no department of merchandise, mechanism, art or science barred against her.

"I hear from factories, sweat shops, etc., the wail of womanhood. Man says that woman is an angel. She is not and she knows she is not. She is a human being who gets hungry when she has no food and cold when she has no fire. Give her no more flatteries. Give her justice." In conclusion Mr. Maguire emphasized the fact that woman must have patience, obedience and sympathy, all three being requisite for a successful following of her profession.

Following the address of Mr. Maguire, Henry L. Hall, chairman of the committee in charge of the training school, spoke to the graduates and presented them with diplomas and their pins. In part Mr. Hall said:

"After thirty-six months of more or less arduous work, you stand at the threshold of your life work, prepared to reap the benefits of your training. While the vicissitudes of this class of 1914 have been somewhat unusual, as compared with other classes that have been graduated from Muhlenberg, you were confronted with better conditions than many of your predecessors.

"It was not many years ago that training schools for nurses were simply adjuncts of hospitals, to care for the sick, and the question of education in the art of nursing was of minor concern. Today, however, the laymen, who are the trustees and governors of hospitals and training schools, have adopted a broader view, and the prescribed standard methods of training are deemed of primary importance to the immediate usefulness of the pupil nurse in hospital service.

"For years the education of a pupil nurse was looked upon as a subject that concerned only the hospital. Through the co-operation of the medical profession and the graduate nurses, a radical change has been established. The field of nursing has widened greatly, and new demands have created new incentives to effort.

"These diplomas and pins represent the winning of the goal that you have striven for. They represent the best that you had to give for thirty-six months, for the interest of Muhlenberg Hospital and for your own

HENNESSY TALKS ON LAW MAKING

Bergen County Senator Addressed Forum Meeting at Washington School.

AMENDMENTS DEFINED

Spoke of Work Done by Dr. H. M. Maxson to Aid Passage of Teachers' Tenure of Office Act—Some Changes in Commission Govt. Law

Senator Charles O'Conner Hennessy, of Bergen county at the Forum meeting held last night under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee gave a most interesting account of the legislation passed at the last session of New Jersey Legislature. To the credit of the 138th Legislature, he said that a less cumbersome total of laws was passed than has been the case in the last ten years.

Senator Henessy spoke first of the five amendments to the State Constitution now pending: The woman suffrage amendment; an amendment to make it easier to amend; an amendment to elect assemblymen from assembly districts instead of the county at large; an amendment for home rule in municipalities; and the excess condemnation amendment was given the first and most important place and the mention of it received a round of applause.

Senator Henessy recommended the commission form of government as an improvement on our present complicated city government, which has been aptly called by President Wilson "hide and seek" government "because of the difficulty of fixing responsibility."

Among the measures passed last year, was a law creating a permanent harbor commission to have control of the water front of New Jersey. This committee consists of three members, one of whom is Dr. W. L. Saunders of Plainfield.

The teachers' pension act was passed by the last Legislature and the speaker mentioned the important part that Dr. H. M. Maxson, head of the local schools, had played in its passage.

Mr. Henessy in referring to legislation about Commission Government stated that many municipalities in New Jersey under present conditions cannot undertake a city bond issue without the sanction of one certain banking firm of New York city. To eliminate this difficulty and other stumbling blocks to the growth of the commission form of government two acts were passed: The Heness home rule bill and the bill providing preferential voting in municipalities governed by commissions.

In closing the Senator expressed his strong belief in the principles of self government and eloquently appealed to all good patriots to make a search for the fundamental causes of social unrest, and aid in the solution. He commended the use of the public schools for community purposes and referred to the fact that Woodrow Wilson favored such use of them. Mr. Henessy modestly refrained from mentioning that he himself framed the bill for the wider use of the school plan passed by the Legislature of 1912.

ASCENSION DAY SERVICES HELD

AN ELOQUENT SERMON

Origin and History of the Order With Its Traditions Presented in An Interesting Way by Preacher to Big Gathering.

Ascension Day services were held at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, last night, when Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., attended in a body and listened to an eloquent sermon on the origin and history of the order of the Knights Templar, by Rev. W. E. L. Ward, the rector.

Mr. Ward chose for his text the 12th verse of the sixth chapter of the epistle of the Ephesians: "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of the world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

He began by speaking briefly of the tendency of man in all ages to set apart for especial reverence certain places and associations. "This localization of reverence" as he phrased it, "early in the 10th century manifested itself throughout Christiandom, in the form of pilgrimages to the city of Jerusalem, in which persons of all classes from the nobles to the peasantry participated.

"It was from these pilgrims that the order of the Knights Templars had its origin. Certainly holy men living in Jerusalem moved by the sickness and distress of many of the pilgrims to the Holy Sepulcher, banded themselves together in an order called the "Poor Brothers of Jesus Christ." At first the duties of this order were only caring for the sick and distressed of the pilgrims, but as the city of Jerusalem was at that time surrounded by marauding bands of Saracens, it was inevitable that the order soon took on a militant character, and found a large part of its activity in the defending the pilgrims from the hostile peoples which attacked them.

"Early in the 12th century, Baldwin II, then King of Jerusalem, built permanent quarters for this order of "Poor Brothers" on Mt. Moria, where Solomon's temple stood; and the location of the monastery gave them the name of the "Knights of the Temple" or, as it was called in the common speech, "Knights Templar."

"Later, when the Saracens seized the city, and the Holy Sepulchar, these "Knights Templar," now grown in numbers and power, became the militant church organization, which was the head and fore-front of the semi-religious and semi-political movement that spread over all of Europe, known as the Crusades; and under the leadership of Beauseant, then the head of the order, gained a reputation in a world of brave men for preeminence in bravery and devotion to the cause of Christ.

"To many in this generation, the Crusades seem a fantastic waste of wealth and enthusiasm, but it is well to remember that just as the whitening sands of the seashore say to the waves 'Thus far, and no farther,' so the whitening bones of the Crusaders formed a barrier against the hosts of barbarous infidels that at one time threatened to sweep over all Europe."

From the courage and fidelity of the Crusaders sprang the civic freedom under which we now live.

The "Knights Templar" of those days wrestled with palpable flesh and blood, and battles were physical battles and their defeats physical defeats. "But though physical wickedness and violation no longer obtain in the Christian world, the sucessors of the old Knights of the Temple have no less need for the traditions of courage and fidelity which is the proud inheritance of their ancient order in the never ending battle of the Spirit against the Flesh.

In strengthening the weak; in raising the fallen; in ministering to the sick in spirit; in helping and saving Christian men from weakness and sin; the modern Knights Templar fulfil the old obligation of courage and of service from which the order took its origin."

SEVEN DAY SCHEDULE FOR CLEAN-UP WEEK

Different Phases of Work to Be Dealt With by Property Owners Each Day.

Plans for an active civic campaign during "clean-up" week have been completed and the work of renovating the city will be divided into seven sections, a different phase being dealt with each day during the week beginning tomorrow and ending Saturday, May 30. Tomorrow will be designated as preparation day, and property owners are urged to make ready for the campaign which will begin in earnest on Monday. Everyone is requested to make a careful inspection of house and yard tomorrow to see what is necessary to be done and then procure working materials.

Monday is fire prevention day and housekeepers, merchants, manufacturers and all concerned will give special attention to clearing out cellars, hallways, attics, closets and storerooms for the purpose of getting rid of any debris that might cause a blaze.

Back yards will be the objects of attention Tuesday and efforts will be devoted to clearing up the back yard and removing the accumulation of ashes, tin cans and rubbish of all kinds. This will make the yard ready for the planting of gardens.

The scene of activity will be shifted to the front yard on Wednesday and at that time lawns will be trimmed and all manner of debris cleared away. Property holders are urged to make their lawns as presentable and attractive as possible by making flower beds and giving the grounds a general clearing up.

Property holders will use Thursday for painting fences, porches, porch chairs and miscellaneous articles that need touching up. Plenty of paint will be used on this date and everything will be treated to a clean, fresh coat.

An attack will be made on mosquitos and dandelions Friday. Garbage, manure and other fly breeding refuse must be removed and the places where it has been stored disinfected by lime. Provisions should be made for protecting this material from the flies. Tin cans, bottles, broken crockery, etc., should be removed, low places in the yards filled in and roof gutters cleared out. Time should also be spent on this day in digging up dandelions and rank or poisonous weeds which disfigure lawns or poison persons.

Saturday will be inspection day and will be profitably spent in looking over what has been accomplished during the week.

A number of girls have planned to attend the conference this year, beginning July 1 and continuing until the 8th. If there are any others who would like to go they can communicate with Miss Barbara Fleming.

BULLOCK WILL CASE SETTLED

Caveators and Mrs. Robert Crosson Reach an Agreement.

DIVIDE THE ESTATE

Reed and Hetfield of Counsel for Niece, Amicably Adjust Differences—Names of Beneficiaries Under the Document.

Following noon recess of the Orphans' Court in Elizabeth yesterday, it was announced that a settlement had been reached between the caveators of the will of Mrs. Lydia P. Bullock, of this city, and Mrs. Robert Crosson, of West Fifth street, her niece and beneficiary. The matter was accordingly dismissed by Judge James C. Connolly, who was sitting in the case, after the terms had been stated to the court.

The caveators had entered a protest against the admission of the will to probate on the grounds that the testator had been subjected to undue influence, when making the will. Mrs. Bullock died in this city January 18, last, leaving the bulk of her $20,000 estate to Mrs. Crosson and $3,000 to Miss Maggie Sullivan, a servant in her employ.

In settlement Mrs. Crosson, through her counsel, Reed and Hetfield, of this city, agreed to pay certain sums to the caveators which met with their approval. These include sums to the following heirs, all of whom live in North Plainfield, Mrs. Madeline Feller, James, Richard and Charlotte Sutton. Winfield S. Angleman, counsel for the Suttons will receive $200 counsel fees; McDermitt and Enright, counsel for Mrs. Mary Hansen, of Perth Amboy, $200; William R. Codington, counsel for Union County, $200; Arthur Lovell, counsel for Miss Maggie Sullivan, $100; and Reed and Hetfield, counsel for Mrs. Crosson, will receive a sum which was not specified yesterday in court.

The Mrs. Hansen named is one of Mrs. Bullock's nieces and was one of those not provided for in the will. The Union County caveat was filed by the Board of Freeholders against the will on the grounds that Mrs. Bullock has two relatives who are indigent inmates of Morris Plains Asylum and are being maintained there as public charges. The freeholders contended that provision should be made for the care of these relatives.

Besides promoting agricultural colonization in a direct way, the organization has indirectly done much already for the promotion of rural and urban settlements and institutions of public utility.

SON ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIS FATHER

Aged Man Stabbed Twice by Prodigal Following an Argument.

ASSAILANT THEN FLEES

Tony Falconerio, the Son, Later Caught by Sergeant Higgins in North Plainfiel—Held in $1,500 to Await Action Grand Jury.

An argument growing out of a twenty-four-year-old son's refusal to work resulted seriously for John Falconerio, of 423 Cottage place, shortly after 6 o'clock last night, the prodigal making three wicked lunges at the paren with a pocket-knife, inflicting two dangerous wounds. Returninf home from the Rushmore Dynamo Works, where he is employed as a laborer, the elder Falconerio found his son, Tony, already in the house and when he requested him to do an errand before supper the latter refused, according to his father.

Words followed during which the parent is alleged to have severely admonished the boy for his habit of loafing. Tony took exception to the reprimand and, when his father started to go upstairs to his room, pulled a knife from his hip-pocket and slashed the old man. The father raised his right arm to protect his body for which the scon is said to have been aiming, and in doing so had one finger on that hand nearly severed. He was also cut between the wrist and elbow.

Fleeing from the house when he realized the seriousness of his deed the boy made for the mountains and was a fugitive from justice for several hours. He was later apprehended by Sergeant Higgins on the Hyde property in North Plainfield and lodged in a cell at police headquarters.

Arraigned before Mayor Percy H. Stewart in the city court this morning, the youth entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill, and following a hearing was held in $1,500 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Taking the stand against his son, Falconerio testified that the youth came to his home intoxicated last night, and appeared to be in a fighting mood. The complainant stated that on several other occasions the youth had been unruly and when scolded for his idleness, last night, made a rush for his father at the same time declaring that he would kill the old man. The knife used in the attack is of the pocket variety with a blade about three inches in length. The wounds on the victim's arms indicate that the asailant was making every effort to stab the man in the stomach.

After hearing his father's testimony the youth decided to waive examination and bail was fixed accordingly. In a statement made in court he denied being intoxicated and took exception to a number of the statements made by his father.

After the stabbing Falconuiero, Sr., went to the office of Dr. Albert Pittis, where he was given medical treatment. There is a deep stab wound in his arm and little hope of saving his ring finger on the right hand is entertained. The aged man is well known about Plainfield where he has lived for over a quarter of a century and is recognized as a quiet and law abiding individual. For eighteen years he was employed as a track-walker by the Central Railroad and during the last five years has been working as a laborer in the Rushmore plant.

NEW RULES MAKE OCEAN TRAVEL SAFER THAN IT HAS EVER BEEN

Every Precaution Taken to Avert Disaster and Cope With It.

Ice Patrols, General Use of Wireless, Life Boats or Rafts For All.

SINCE the sinking of the Titanic, that appalling disaster which, on April 14, 1912, cost 1,503 lives, there has been increased agitation for greater security of vessels and passengers at sea. This question has been the subject of exhaustive consideration by the revision committee of the international congress on safety at sea. At the recent conclusion of this convention in London fourteen nations signed new ocean traffic rules. It was decided that the text of the convention and annexed rules should not be officially published until Feb. 15 in order to give the delegations from the various countries in the pact ample time to communicate the same to their respective governments.

The governments that signed the sea safety pact are Great Britain, the United States, Germany, France, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Belgium and Denmark. Other countries were given the privilege of coming into the convention up to Jan. 31. The treaty will be in force July 1, 1915, after ratification by the various states.

Under United States Control.

Lord Mersey, president of the conference, describes the new sea treaty as follows:

"An international service is to be established by the nations chiefly interested for the purpose of an ice patrol and ice observation as well as the destruction of derelicts in the north Atlantic. It is to be under the control of the United States. This service is to take over and continue the work done by the two vessels employed by the United States in 1912-13 in locating ice, in determining its limits to the south, the east and the west and in keeping in touch with it as it moves southward, in order that vessels may be kept informed by wireless telegraphy of its position.

"The service also will continue the ice observation work started last year by Great Britain with the object of determining before the ice becomes a peril the fundamental conditions which govern its movement.

J. HAMILTON LEWIS, AMERICAN DELEGATE TO SEA SAFETY CONGRESS.

"The service also will continue the duty of dealing with dangerous derelicts east of a line drawn from Cape Sable to latitude 34 degrees north, longitude 70 degrees west. The waters to the west of this line will continue to be watched by the United States.

"The duty also is imposed on all shipmasters to report the presence of dangerous ice and derelicts, and a code has been prepared to facilitate this reporting.

"When ice is reported on or near the track a ship must proceed during the night at moderate speed or alter its course so as to clear the danger zone.

"The practice by which routes across the Atlantic are fixed by agreement between the steamship companies has been left unaltered, and the governments undertake to impress all ship owners with the desirability of following as far as possible these routes.

New Signal Code.

"An international code for urgent and important signals has been adopted.

"It was impossible to revise the international collision regulations, as many states which were parties to these regulations were not represented at the conference, but the convention binds the contracting states to bring about a revision of those regulations.

"The most difficult point this committee had to deal with was the division of ships into water tight compartments. The convention provides that the degree of safety should increase in a regular and continuous manner with the length of vessels and that vessels shall be as efficiently subdivided as possible, having regard to the services for which they are intended. It is also explicitly stated that the requirements imposed by the convention are minimum requirements."

Among the most important subjects dealt with under the heading of construction Lord Mersey mentioned bulkheads for the prevention of the spread of fire, means of escape from water tight compartments, requirements as to the strength of bulkheads and decks, the reduction to the smallest number practicable of the openings in water tight bulkheads, the restriction of openings in the ship's outer skin, appliances for closing the same, requirements as to the fitting and extent of double bottoms, the periodical operation and inspection of water tight doors, etc.

Lord Mersey referred to the compulsory entering in logs of drills and inspections and the requirements by the convention of adequate backing power and auxiliary steering apparatus.

The committee has recognized the importance of making a further study of these subjects and of the exchange of information.

Lord Mersey said it was important to show that even after the most careful attention had been given to all practicable details and designs for the increase of the safety of a ship there still remained the possibility of a serious and even totally destructive accident. It was therefore imperative that captains should never relax their vigilance on the supposition that any vessel was unsinkable.

On the contrary, they should strive to add to the safety provided by the vessel itself that very increase in safety which results from prudent and skillful management and navigation.

Rules as to Wireless.

The convention provides that all merchant vessels when engaged in international or colonial voyages, whether steam or sailing vessels and whether transporting passengers or not, must be equipped with wireless telegraphy if they have on board fifty persons or more, except where that number is increased owing to causes beyond the master's control.

The contracting states, however, have the discretion to make suitable exemptions in certain cases, the most important of which is in connection with vessels which in the course of their voyage do not go more than 150 miles from the nearest land.

The American wireless systems have all been agreed to. The main feature of this system is that it gives the control of the apparatus and the supervision over the operations of the employees to the American government, notwithstanding the nationality of the ships, whenever they are coming into or departing from American waters.

A continuous watch for wireless purposes must be kept on all vessels fitted with wireless telegraphy as soon as the government or state to which the vessel belongs is satisfied that such a watch is useful for purposes of saving life at sea.

In the meantime the following vessels are required to maintain a continuous watch in addition to all vessels placed in the first category contemplated by the radio-telegraphic convention, which includes all fast passenger steamships: Vessels of more than 13 knots speed which transport 200 passengers and make voyages of more than 500 miles between two consecutive ports, other passenger vessels dur-

"CLEAN UP AND PAINT UP."

In line with the progressive mayors of many other cities throughout the country, Mayor Percy H. Stewart has issued a proclamation, setting aside next week as a "clean up and paint up" week for Plainfield. There is plenty of work for the betterment of the community which can be done during such a week, as was suggested in a Daily Press editorial some days ago.

Spring means, or always should mean, house cleaning time, and not only housecleaning within the four walls, but municipal housecleaning as well. It means preparations for order, and harmony and beauty during the months when the people of the city live out of doors a good part of the time.

Out in Dayton, Ohio, they had a clean up campaign. The Dayton Herald summarized the whole story in a paragraph, which is well worth repeating here, when it said:

"Clean up and paint up. That is a civic prescription that is worth while. Cleanliness is akin to godliness. You have heard that enough to convince you of its truth, but we sometimes overlook a truth by reason of its sheer familiarity, or at least fail to profit by it as we should. Clean houses, clean lawns, clean streets, clean alleys, clean outbuildings—that condition means health and comfort and aesthetic pleasure. Dirt and tawdry negligence indicate decay and shiftlessness; they invite disease; they are ugly, offensive, unnatural."

In these days there is no finer thing for the people as a whole than to feel that we live in an age of soap and paint, and it is especially fine to live in a community like Plainfield, where these two all important adjuncts to healthful conditions are so freely used to keep things bright and shining. The knockers may say that such a campaign as the Mayor has proposed is a fine thing for the fellow who sells paint, but a somewhat expensive one for the man who has to buy it. That fellow is thinking of the dollar, and not of the good of the whole community. And speaking of the dollar that seems to be about the only thing left that appeals to everyone even if it is dirty. The majority of us, however, prefer the clean dollars, although no one denies that he or she is sometimes tempted by the other kind. That isn't due to the condition of the dollar, however. It's because Uncle Sam says that it is worth a hundred cents, whether it's face is dirty or not.

So the thing for everyone to do is to look around and see if there is anything about their property that needs brightening up; to see where the hose or a bucket of warm water can be successfully applied to better the appearance of the neighborhood. If you have any rubbish piles around behind the barn, where they do not show from the street, they should also be removed or burned up, even if they don't show.

Let the Mayor know that he has a healthy and patriotic group of citizens behind him who are willing to make Plainfield a brighter and better place to live. The interests of the public are paramount to those of the individual. Clean up and paint up!

In these days, when the problem of replacing the millions of trees which are cut down annually to provide building material, and stock from which news print paper is made, an exhibition such as that being held in New York city just now is of unusual interest to everyone. It is the first time that an opportunity has been given in the east for an exhaustive and comprehensive study of the methods being used to replace the timber which is annually sacrificed to the demands of the commercial life. The general subject of lumbering is being set forth, either by objects or lectures, in such a way as to interest the average citizen as much as the man engaged in the lumber industry.

The United States Government is spending $10,000 to show how the nation fights forest fires, either through the use of a number of rangers, men whose duty it is to ride over the mountains and watch for fires, extinguishing them when discovered; by stations and towers, and other devices. Motion pictures, among other things, show how the work of getting out logs in far off forests is carried on, as well as the method of bringing the lumber in the rough to the mills, where it is made ready for the market, and then shipped to various points.

The exhibition will undoubtedly prove an interesting one for all who visit it.

The edition of the Daily Press tomorrow will contain a supplement devoted to the cause of the opponents of Woman Suffrage. The Suffragists issued the paper on Saturday, May 2, and their opponents on the other side have chosen to present their arguments in a supplement, and not attempt to edit the entire paper. The editorial for tomorrow's issue will appear in the supplement, and will be from the pen of Miss Reina A. Lawrence, who has been conducting the anti-suffrage column which usually appears in the Daily Press each Saturday. No one can say, if they peruse tomorrow's special section that they are not fully conversant with the anti-suffrage propaganda.

26TH ANNIVERSARY OF C. E. SOCIETY

Pleasing Program Arranged by Endeavorers of Warren Chapel.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel celebrated its twenty-sixth anniversary, last evening, many of the members of the church, as well as representatives from other local societies being in attendance. George H. Hoagland, president of the socity, presided during the service, while Mrs. J. O. McKelvey presided at the piano. The devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

During the evening vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Joseph Edgar, and the members of the junior choir, while the Misses Bertha Martin and Louise Seader played a duet on the piano. The reports from the secretary and treasurer were presented and showed that much had been accomplished during the course of the past year. The society has at present a membership of forty. The treasurer's report indicated that $350 had been raised for all purposes including $94 for missionary and benevolent purposes.

Rev. Elliot Field, of Philadelphia, was the speaker of the evening. His address was one of encouragement to the society, laying especial emphasis on the great need of a purpose, both in the individual life, as well as the organized life. He impressed his hearers with the necessity of a progressive spirit to move the society in the right channels.

The program of the evening was in charge of a special committee composed of the Misses Hilda Schneider, Hattie Squiers, Adelaide Stiglitz, Ida Wheeler, L. J. Stites, and Theodore J. Martin. The social which followed the meeting was in charge of Misses Dorothy Bosterli, Viola Higgins, Emma Windham, Bertha Hoagland, L. J. Stites, and William Gunzelman.

MISS KINNAMAN SOLOIST WITH PRYOR'S BAND

Pryor and his popular band which will open the season at Willow Grove, Philadelphia, tonight, has chosen as the assisting soloist for the opening week, Miss Ethel Grace Kinnaman, contralto soloist of the First Methodist church, this city. Miss Kinnaman was one of the soloists with Pryor at Asbury Park last summer, and her singing captivated her audiences that she was re-engaged to sing with him this season. This engagement is considered one of the best in musical circles, and speaks well for this young artist's work.

Miss Kinnaman is a contralto with unusual musical talent, possessing a rich and beautiful voice that gives pleasure, and her method of vocalization shows thorough training and culture. Her expression is marked and reveals rare artistic insight. During the year she has been soloist at the First church she has made many friends among the musical people of Plainfield, who will no doubt be glad to know of the success that has crowned her efforts. Miss Kinnaman goes west during the months of July and August and will again sing with Pryor in Kansas City, Mo., in August.

BECKER'S FATE IN JURY'S HANDS

Former Lieutenant Calm as Ordeal Ends.

SEABURY DELIVERS CHARGE

Judge Gives Final Instruction to Men Who Will Decide Becker's Fate. Crowd In Near Riot on Final Day of Trial.

New York, May 22.—Charles Becker, former head of the "strong arm squad," who has been on trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, probably will know his fate before nightfall, the case having reached the jury at noon today.

Justice Seabury finished his charge just before noon, and the men who are to decide whether the former police lieutenant shall pay the death penalty or go free retired for lunch before they started deliberating.

Justice Seabury's instruction to the jury was exceedingly fair, and he carefully reviewed the evidence presented by both sides and told them also not to act too hastily.

By far the largest and one of the most unruly crowds that has attended the trial assembled on the main floor of the criminal courts building two hours before the doors of the courtroom were scheduled to be opened. Fully 300 persons formed a line that twisted about the corridor outside the tribunal. These were gradually augmented in numbers until the reserves of the Elizabeth street station had to use vigorous methods to keep the crowd in order.

When the doors were finally thrown open the crush to get in almost became a riot. The police and court attendants were swamped. Within five minutes every seat in the courtroom was filled, and hundreds of disappointed persons were fighting vainly for admittance.

Verdict Likely In Eight Hours.

Those who heard Mr. Manton's cool and skillful analysis of the evidence and Mr. Whitman's fine presentation of the state's best points against Becker left the trial room with the idea that the verdict depends mostly upon how the jury sifts the credibility of the witnesses. That there was a bad lot on each side all are willing to admit. The credibility of the witnesses and such circumstantial evidence as could be introduced are likely to be the determining factors.

In the first trial the jury was out more than eight hours, although, as it developed later, they agreed within five minutes after leaving the courtroom that Becker was guilty. The eight hours was spent in reviewing and weighing the evidence in order to convince themselves that the impression formed in the jury box was not unjust. It is only a matter of guesswork as to how long this jury will be out, but counsel for both sides and those who have listened to the testimony and observed the demeanor of the jurors believe that a verdict will hardly be reached in less time than was required by the first jury.

ANOTHER CROWD AT ELKS' MINSTREL SHOW

Performance Last Night Received With Enthusiasm —The Topical Song.

Before an audience which crowded the Plainfield Theatre the second and concluding performance of the Elks' minstrels for 1914 was given, last night. The show, if possible ,was better and went snappier than on Wednesday night, and delighted the spectators. The first part had a snap and vim, and in the olio both the amateur and professional acts were received with continued applause.

In every way the show was the most successful that the Elks have ever given. The singing, costuming, decorations, local jests and everything else were carefully prepared, and the audiences showed by the frequent encores that the efforts of the participants were fully appreciated. One of the biggest hits of the performance was Tom Muir's song, "Everybody's Hoping for a Change," the words and music of which were prepared by former City Judge William N. Runyon. The words, which were set to a catchy air, were as follows:

Everybody's Hoping for a Change.

As I walk about the city, I can hear on every hand,
That everybody's hoping for a change
Though the folks who shoot the bull may tell you everything is grand
Yet everybody's hoping for a change
They may say, perhaps no danger lies in overhanging wires
That sticky streets are excellent for nice, new auto tires
Just write it down that all of them are good, old fashioned liars
For everybody's hoping for a change.

Chorus.

If it doesn't come tomorrow that's no reason you should cry
You can bet your bottom dollar that you'll get it bye and bye
There is no such thing as failure and to fear it would be strange
When everybody, everybody's hoping for a change.

Our public school authorities are great for fancy frills
But everybody's hoping for a change
And the things they teach the kids are quite enough to give you chills,
But everybody's hoping for a change
All the merry winter season, they devote to basketball
While music, dances, plays and shows take all the spring and fall
But readin', writin', 'rithmetic aint in the course at all
So everybody's hoping for a change.

Now the Board of Education is a noble band of gents
But everybody's hoping for a change
And they've built the kids a club house, quite regardless of expense.
But everybody's hoping for a change
They have spent a wad of money on a gorgeous swimming pool
A gym for athletics, and a theatre for drool.
There are those who wonder why they didn't spend it for a school
So everybody's hoping for a change.

Dear old Muhlenberg in many ways is up to date, we think
But everybody's hoping for a change
For in matters of contagion she is slightly on the blink
So everybody's hoping for a change
If their first disease is measles, you may join the measles class
But then diptheretic patients musn't come around alas
And the guys with scarlet fever, they can lay out on the grass
So everybody's hoping for a change.

Now the Democrats of Plainfield are a patriotic herd
But everybody's hoping for a change
For the most of them are willing to succeed Elias Bird
So everybody's hoping for a change
We have never seen a contest like the scrap that's on between John Gaffney, Reville, Hoagland, Dilts and forty more I ween
Oh, I wouldn't for a million bucks be Senator Martine
So everybody's hoping for a change.

There are folks who'll howl and tell you that the cost of living's high
And everybody's hoping for a change
New York people claim their business buildings reach too near the sky
And everybody's hoping for a change
When it comes to really high things there are few with any worth
And the claims of other places but excite our scornful mirth
For the coming Plainfield tax rate is the highest thing on earth
So everybody's hoping for a change.

Now we don't like old Huerta and he's got us fighting mad
But everybody's hoping for a change
And we think Francisco Villa and Carranza just as bad.
So everybody's hoping for a change
We don't care a lot for fighting but if that's the thing to do
Let us take the blooming army and the good old navy, too
And go down to Mexico and lick the whole infernal crew
For everybody's hoping for a change.

Difficult to Solve Dictator's Position.

"CONVERSATIONS" ARE ON

Despite His Denial of Resigning It Is Believed the Delegates Have His Promise—Air of Mystery at Mediation Conference.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 22.—An air of mystery hangs over the Clifton House, where the mediation conferences are being held, and a strong feeling that sudden developments in the Mexican situation are impending prevails everywhere. In the conference room the mediators are hearing the arguments of the American and Mexican representatives, but not a word of their discussion reaches the outside.

The feeling of uneasiness which is strongly in evidence throughout the place where an attempt is being made to settle the troubles of Mexico had its start when a press dispatch from Mexico City announced that the Mexican delegates had been authorized by General Huerta to offer his resignation if this should be demanded by the mediators. This message was denied shortly after by those who gave it out. It was explained that the dispatch had been received in code and had been erroneously interpreted, the correct meaning being that General Huerta denied emphatically ever having given such instructions to his delegates.

May Retire.

But despite the dictator's denial the belief persists that he will be willing to retire if the negotiations now being conducted here show that no solution can be arrived at without this step. Whether or not the Mexican delegates have communicated this information to the mediators is known only to the three envoys of the A. B. C group of South American powers with whom they were in conference for more than an hour.

Persons in the direct entourage of the mediators and the representatives are not inclined to believe that this offer will be made before every other means of settlement has failed.

Not one of the mediators or the delegates of either government is willing to discuss the remote possibility of such an offer being made ultimately, but it is clearly evident that Huerta's voluntary retirement is expected.

It is pointed out that Senores Rabasa, Rodriguez and Elguero, the Mexican delegates, are all three men of high social standing and of great fame in Mexico, who would not have accepted the mission which has brought them here had they known beforehand that it would be impossible to arrive at any kind of a solution and that there was no possibility of a successful outcome of the conference.

All were well aware of the fact that President Wilson would accept no arrangement which did not include as the very first condition the immediate elimination of Huerta from the government of Mexico. They also knew that they would have to offer some serious guarantee that whatever reforms they would promise the mediators for Mexico would actually be fulfilled and that no such guarantee would be considered satisfactory if it did not include a promise from the provisional president to retire from his self assumed position at the head of the Mexican government.

JOHN D. MUST SIGN TAX LIST.

Ohio Officials Refuse to Accept Returns From His Employee.

Cleveland, O., May 22.—John D. Rockefeller is to have until 10 a. m. on Monday to file a return on his personal property. The return must bear Mr. Rockefeller's own signature, or else Deputy Tax Commissioners Fackler and Agnew will make their own return on the property, which they estimate to be worth $300,000,000.

Attorney C. E. Buss, representing Mr. Rockefeller, has been preparing his return. He met Mr. Fackler and announced that the list had been completed.

"Has Mr. Rockefeller signed it?" asked Mr. Fackler.

"No. It is signed by the estate superintendent," Mr. Buss replied.

"I'll give you until 10 a. m. Monday to file the return with Mr. Rockefeller's signature," said Mr. Fackler. "One taxpayer is no better than another."

ESSAD PASHA EXILED.

Friends Declare He Had Nothing to Do With Albanian Uprising.

Brindisi, May 22.—Essad Pasha, the Albanian leader deported by order of Prince William, arrived here from Durazzo aboard the steamship Bengasi. He expected to go on to Rome.

The new Albanian ruler exiled Essad Pasha for his alleged connection with an uprising of peasants and the attack on Durazzo, when the palace was fired upon. Friends of Essad say that he was not responsible for either incident. The Moslems in Albania had insisted that a Mussulman prince be appointed to rule over them. Essad assured them that they should have a Moslem, but when the powers chose the Prince of Wied, Essad stood by him and was made minister of the interior. The peasants then turned against Essad.

Karpen Guaranteed Upholstered Furniture CHICAGO-NEW YORK

At Half Karpen List Prices

On the Fifth Gallery, New Building, Tomorrow, Saturday

Karpen is a name to conjure with in furniture, because behind it are sound principles, a high standard and a capable organization.

Karpen upholstered furniture is sold the world over. To the best of our knowledge it has never been sold for as little prices as we shall offer it tomorrow; nor has there been offered at any special price so large and complete a variety of the Karpen product.

To Be Exact, There is $95,428 Worth, Karpen Prices

which we shall sell, beginning tomorrow, Saturday, morning, for an aggregate of $47,714; two, three, and four-piece suites, davenports, sofas, easy chairs, rockers, hall chairs, sofa beds, couches; upholstered in leather, Spanish leather or tapestry; each piece bearing the Karpen guaranty and ours.

History

Nine Karpen brothers founded the business in a little loft a third of a century ago.

There are only seven brothers now; but the little loft has grown into five acres of factory buildings, with five more acres of land for storage of lumber and other materials, the largest plant of its kind in the world, turning out each year three times as much upholstered furniture as any other factory, and selling it in every State in the Union and in the larger cities of the world.

Why? Because Karpen furniture has always given satisfaction. It is furniture people have found comfort in using; it is artistically designed; pleasing to the eye; it wears well; and it has not the usual handicap of excellence—an expensive price.

The Sale Stocks

The Karpen complete line of upholstered furniture for living-room, library, den, sitting-room, bedroom and hall.

When a merchant moves into a new building it is worth a great deal to him to be able to open it with new merchandise.

Karpen Bros. have outgrown the six-story building at 155 and 157 West 34th Street, in which until recently they displayed a complete line of their upholstered furniture.

When they decided to move to 37th Street and Broadway, one of the Karpen brothers came to see us.

"We are going to move," he said. "We want everything new in our new place. The stocks on the six floors of our 34th street building must be disposed of. Wanamaker's is the only house that can do it. Will you take them?

To make a long story short, we took the stocks. Now that we've got them, we can admit frankly we were mighty glad to get them. They constitute a complete sample line of the Karpen product; the pieces whose excellence have brought them large orders. Every one is in first class condition. 95 per cent. are the newest Karpen styles of upholstered furniture in daily demand; the other 5 per cent. are staple styles of slower-moving stocks; seventy-five van loads in all, and with but few exceptions only one piece of a kind.

The Guarantee

Karpen Guaranteed Upholstered Furniture represents the highest achievement of three generations of cabinet-makers who still cling to the old-fashioned idea of doing things in the best way in which they may be done.

All furniture bearing our name is guaranteed to be as represented or your money will be cheerfully returned by the dealer.

Now We Must Move These Great Stocks Quickly from Our Floors

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

BICYCLE CLUB'S SIXTH ANNUAL GRIND WILL SPLINTER ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

Plainfield will once more be the mecca for pedal pushers on Decoration Day when the Plainfield Bicycle Club stages its sixth annual twenty-five mile road race. Heralded throughout the country as the result of its previous successes the annual Queen City sporting event has put Plainfield on the bicycle map and riders from a score of different metropolitan clubs are planning to invade the confines of this municipality one Memorial Day with hopes of taking away some of the numerous handsome and remunerative awards.

Jack Horner, whose name has resounded far and wide as the result of his activity in this event in other years, is once more at the helm, and the fact he is working harder than ever for the cause assures the pedal pushers of a record-breaker this season. The famous Mountainside course of two laps will again be the scene of the twenty-five mile grind and when the pedal pushers take the mark there will be a cosmopolitan delegation on hand to fight for supremacy. Every nation on the globe and all of the important wheel clubs in the East will be represented by their speediest racers and considerable difficulty is being experienced in allotting the handicaps so as to put all of the riders on an equal footing. Jack Horner, who has so satisfactorily attended to the handicapping in other years, is once more in charge of this work and it goes without saying that his excellent judgment will make the event a closely fought one and one that will be of keen interest to the bike fans.

Racing authorities from the metropolitan district headed by Daniel A. Adee, president of the N. A. C., of New York, and Emil Greenbaum, of Brooklyn, will be on hand to witness the matches and the former will officiate as referee while the latter has consented to act as head timekeeper. With officials of this calibre to pick from the local club has established a precedent for road racing, assuring the riders of an opportunity to gain country-wide recognizance for their efforts. The prizes range in size and value from expensive bicycles of the racing model to minor accessories and the complete list will be on exhibition in Jack Horner's store on Somerset street next week.

Plainfield's claim to first place in Decoration Day bicycle racing has been brought about through the efforts of Jack Horner and it is enough to say that no other club has attempted to secure a sanction that would in any way conflict with the Queen City date. Pedal pushers are known to concentrate their ability on Plainfield soil on Memorial Day and indications are that the practice will continue for many years, so firmly has the custom been planted by the promoters.

The long distance bicycle race originated locally with Jack Horner in 1909 when he promoted a ten mile event on the Netherwood course with fourteen entrants. First place at that time was snatched by Sherman Haberle and the popularity of the idea was universal. It was in 1909 that interest began to wane in the Irvington-Milburn race and that year the event died out. As a substitute for the famous road grind, Jack Horner and the local club decided to attempt the twenty-five mile project and this resulted in the laying out of the Mountainside course. In 1909 the quarter century was taken by P. Sorenson, of the Empire Wheelmen, of Brooklyn, in one hour and eight minutes. Paul Heidrick, of Dobbs Ferry, won the time prize with a record of one hour, six and four-fifth seconds.

The second event was conducted in 1910, when Jesse R. Pike, of the C. R. C. A., came in first in one hour, four minutes and fifty seconds. Pike was one of the riders who took part in the Olympic championships at Sweden last year. Percy Haberle, of this city, was second and the time prize winner was G. Orlando, of the Empire City Wheelmen, his time being one hour four minutes and two-fifth seconds. Orlando has since died.

Gifford Jones, a local boy, won the 1912 race and at the same time smashed the former record doing the distance in one hour and three minutes. He is the only local rider to land a first in the event and at that time the first ten men to cross the tape were local riders. For his performance Jones received a Pierce racer as first prize,a Columbia racer as time prize, two Pierson's saddles and one pair of rubber tires.

Gus Wohlrab, scratch man, finished first in 1912 with a mark of one hour, ten minutes and thirty-two seconds. This race was run in a driving rain and the riders exhibited remarkable stamia during the long grill against adverse weather conditions.

Last year's race was won by Nat Gutoff, of the Atlas B.C., in one hour, five minutes and twenty seconds. Time prize went to John Becht who set a mark of one hour, four minutes and three seconds.

The races May 30 will start promptly at 10 o'clock and entries close May 26 with Jack Horner, 33 Somerset street. Included in the prize list among other things are the following: Pierce racer, value $50; Crawford racer, value $30; United States racing tires, value $8; Palmer tires, value $10; Indian tires, value $8; thornproof tires, value $8; coaster brakes, medals, lamps, chains, saddels, fountain pens, cyclometers, pedals and other minor accessories too numerous to mention.

Among the riders who have entered to date are the following most prominent ones: Gus Wohlrab, C. R. C. A., Jersey City; Fred Woisen, Paul Reineke, J. Biavaschi, H. Neibuhr, Wilson Marshall and George Marbeck, of the Acme Wheelmen, of New York city; Harold Platt, Frank Becht, William Napier and T. A. Kennedy, of the Empire City Wheelmen, of Brooklyn; G. A. Neigel and John Utess, of Newark; Merrill Stoner, of the Lewis A. C., of Newark; Joe Sorldal, C. R. C. A., of New York; George Bowker and Lester Bowker, of the Columbia C. C., Inwood, L. I.

MULLIN'S TEAM TO PLAY TOTTENVILLE

First Sunday Ball Game at South Plainfield Promises to Be a Hummer.

The Tottenville team, of Staten Island, has been substituted for the Royal A. C., of this city, in the opening game with Tommy Mullin's all-star South Plainfield baseball club at the latter place Sunday afternoon. Convinced that the local colored aggregation was not strong enough to lineup against his material Mullin decided to cancel the previously arranged date and took on the fast traveling Tottenville combination.

The South Plainfield team's opponent in the opening game is considered a speedy combination and it goes without saying that the home boys will have their work cut out for them in the initial trial. The grounds at South Plainfield have been put in excellent condition for the Sunday baseball stunt and indications are that the project will be the entire success anticipated by the promoters.

Captain Tommy Mullin is busily engaged working on the preliminary arrangements and was on the field last night supervising the reconstruction work. Several auto buses have been chartered to carry the fans from this city, returning after the game, and a large crowd is expected from towns in the immediate vicinity of South Plainfield. Mullin has some crackerjack talent signed up and the team looks like a winner in print.

For the pitching department he has signed such notables as Lou Slocum, Otto Frederickson, "Buck" White and Johnny Dixon. Any of these hurlers are liable to work Sunday afternoon and he will not announce his choice until the last minute. All will be on the field in uniform ready for action. Lou Dixon will do the catching for the team.

Jack Garretson is slated to play the initial sack, Brit Martin will perform at second, Tommy Mullin will take charge of short and "Tuts" Jaeger is down for third. This infield is one that would be hard to beat in this vicinity and it looks as though Mullin had rounded up the cream of Central New Jersey talent. In the field will be Jack Wilson, "Snapper" Bergen, Henry Albert and Katz Miller.

CLIFF RANDOLPH BEATEN.

Twirling his first Atlantic League game in Perth Amboy, yesterday afternoon, Cliff Randolph, the local hurler, was trimmed by a score of 7 to 4 by the Danbury club. Randolph allowed eight hits, and five errors were made behind him. The Perth Amboy players were held to five hits by Welscher. Randolph had bad innings in the fifth and sixth, three runs being scored by the opposition in each of these rounds.

RACING TO BEGIN AT TORONTO.

Toronto, Ont., May 22—Toronto is filling with race followers in anticipation of the opening of the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine tomorrow. The meet will mark the inauguration of the racing season in Eastern Canada, a season which the feature event of the opening day will be the King's Plate, which is the oldest fixture run continuously on the American continent.

FIRST RACE FOR CITY BIKE TITLE

Championship Event as Preliminary to Monster Road Race Decoration Day.

The initial race of the series planned to decide the city bicycle championship will be staged Decoration Day morning prior to the twenty-five mile road race on the Mountainside course. There will be a series of five contests and the first, second and third places in each event will be credited to the winner on the point basis.

The competitor having the greatest number of points at the completion of the series will be awarded a diamond studded gold medal symbolic of the city championship. The second man will get a silver medal and the third will receive a bronze one. The first race will be run over a mile course and the contests will be closed to local pedal pushers.

Considerable interest has been manifested in the affair and it is expected that a large number of entries will be received prior to the first race. All racers will start from scratch and officials appointed by the Plainfield Bicycle Club will be in charge of the events.

NO N. P. H. S. ENTRANTS IN SOMERSET COUNTY EVENTS

Contrary to a number of erroneous reports that have been circulated during the past week North Plainfield High School will not be represented by a delegation of field and track competitors at the annual track meet of Somerset county High Schools in Somerville next Saturday afternoon. Names of such entrants have been mentioned, but the fact remains that the borough school will be unrepresented in the track and field competitions.

Several of those interested in the borough High School, however, are planning to visit Somerville on the day of the meet and will take an active part in various other branches of work programmed.

MULLIN WILL BE OUT OF PLAINFIELD'S LINEUP

When the Plainfield baseball team lines up against Dunellen in the opening game of the season tomorrow afternoon it will be without the services of one of the players who is expected to be a mainstay this season at shortstop. Tommy Mullin announced last night that he will confine his baseball ability exclusively to coaching the North Plainfield High School nine until the curtain falls on the scholastic season and then he will play with the Plainfielders.

Mullin is expected to be a strong factor in the Plainfield team's infield and until his appearance this position will naturally be weak. He has been doing some good work whipping the schoolboys into shape and has so far advanced in this endeavor that he had decided to continue it as long as possible.

JENNINGS HAS ESTABLISHED FINE PITCHING RECORD

Harry Jennings, who pitched first-class ball in Plainfield last summer, and who has been the sensation of the season at Rutgers this year, will be in the box for the New Brunswick college tomorrow when the Rutgers boys will meet Delaware College, at Newark, Del.

After pitching sensational ball for the first five games this year, Jennings went to pieces against Catholic University Wednesday and retired in the fifth inning, after the visitors had secured seven runs. The failure of the Rutgers star was attributed to too much work, after the game this weed-end. Coach Brodie intends to give him a much needed rest. It is possible that Charles Hruby, of Elizabeth, who replaced Jennings Wednesday, may start the game against Delaware.

During the first five games this season, the former Plainfield twirler held his opponents to fifteen hits, pitching a no-hit, no-run game against R. P. I. and holding New York University hitless for eight innings. He is generally regarded as one of the best pitchers in college circles today.

The first one-sided game of the season in the Plainfield High School Interclass baseball league was staged yesterday afternoon when the seniors defeated the sophomores by the score of 11 to 4. Peacock finished the game. Dealaman of the sophomores got the only extra base hit when he knocked a two-bagger in the third inning. # MOTORCYCLE CLUB HAS BUSY SESSION

Three New Members Elected to Membership and Two Initiated Last Night.

The monthly meeting of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club was held in Depot Park, last night, two new members being initiated and three more elected to membership. The applications of John M. Nicholson, Egmond Latzko and Lynn G. Case were also received and turned over to the membership committee. Harry Forrestal and Edward Honeyman were made members of the organization. Richard Pennock, of Dunellen; Warren Ackerman, of this city; and E. R. Jarvis, of Westfield, were elected to membership.

A further discussion as to the purchase of a bunding site for the club was brought up, but no definite decision reached. The committee has so many sites in view that it has been difficult to investigate all of them as yet.

The club decided to purchase fifty arm bands for the members for use on the runs. These are of a similar design to the club's buttons, a winged wheel in gold, a blue background. Harold Scarlett was appointed sergeant-at-arms and Al. Bowlby was made second lieutenant.

It was announced that the monthly "feed" of the organization would be held June 18 at New Market pond when boating, dancing and eating will be features. The committee in charge of this event is composed of Edward Honeyman, chairman; Harry Forrestal, and Alex Herlick.

Following the meeting refreshments were served under the direction of a committee composed of Warren Groff, the club chef, Gus Johnson, second cook; and Lester Renninger, bus boy. Henry Dresselt who was injured several weeks ago when his motorcycle collided with an automobile near Elizabeth was present at the meeting, last night, being conveyed to and from the place in an automobile furnished by the organization. He is much improved but not able to be about yet.

BOY PIANIST GIVES BRILLIANT RECITAL

Master Walter Silbert Charms Audience With His Remarkable Skill.

Walter Silbert, Plainfield's gifted boy pianist, made his first public appearance last evening, at Columbus Hall, before a good sized audience of music lovers. Their cordial sympathy and enthusiastic appreciation will no doubt prove a strong incentive to him to continue his progress in the artistic career towards which he has made so remarkable a start. Though only eleven years of age, he showed in last night's concert the intelligence and poetic insight of a mature musician, and the program that he offered was of a character to test the capabilities of any performer. It was as follows:

Bourree, Sarabande, Bach; Fantasia, D minor, Mozart, Walter Silbert; Page Aria, from Figaro, Mozart; Der Nussbaum, Schumann; Erist's, Wolf, Miss Gabrielle Drosse; Novelette, Shadow Dance, MacDowell; Nocturne op. 32 No. 1, Chopin; Rondon Capriccioso, Mendelssohn; Walter Silbert; Indian love lyrice, Miss Gabrielle Drosse; Romance, F minor, Tschaikowski; Marche Mignonne, Poldini; Valse up. 57, No. 5, Moszkowski, Walter Silbert.

Master Silbert's playing combines brilliancy of technique with an exquisite finish and beauty of phrasing that could only have been attained by such careful training as he has had. His power of interpretation has been developed with great skill, and he has before him the prospect of a distinguished career.

The assisting artist last evening was Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano, a singer of charming voice, whose songs were received with much applause. She was accompanied by another accomplished pianiste, Miss Beatrice Hedges, who is a pupil of Mr. Janke.

THREE IN TWELFTH WON LEAL VICTORY

Three runs in the twelfth inning hung up a victory for the Leal School baseball team on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon when the Staten Island Academy nine was sent down to a 11 to 8 beating. Both teams indulged in some hard hitting and during the greater part of the contest the scoring was nip and tuck. A fusillade of bingles in the last round rang up a lead for the Leal boys that the visitors were unable to overcome.

VanDeventer, Faber, Lyon and Schneider led the local hitters, and Arnold and Parker were the best swatters on the opposite side.

The score:

PETS' FIRST GAME AGAINST DUNELLEN

Arranged for Tomorrow Afternoon at Parker Field—Rivals Lineup.

Plainfield will open its baseball season tomorrow afternoon with the Dunellen team as its opponents on Parker Field. Manager Dorflinger has herded together a bunch of formidable stars and the contest promises to be a hummer as a curtain raiser. Material of the first-class variety in this section has been signed by Dorflinger and much out of town material is on the list.

Foley will do the twirling for the locals with "Big Six" Nelson on the receiving end. Among the notables signed are Billy Coyle, formerly of Dunellen, Ortlieb and Garretson. Although Dorflinger has included Tommy Mullin in his lineup the little Plainfield players stated last night that he would not participate in tomorrow's game owing to the North Plainfield High School contest at Somerville, he being the N. P. H. S. coach.

Percy Harney will oppose the locals on the mound and Barrett, a former leaguer, will do the catching. Foley, who takes the mound for Plainfield is a former Lynn club player, of the New England League.

The teams will lineup as follows according to Dorflinger:

| DUNELLEN | PLAINFIELD |
|---|---|
| Heagney, rf | Coyle, 2b |
| Lambertson, 3b | Mullin, ss |
| Wall, cf | Ortlieb, cf |

NORTH PLAINFIELD JUNIORS RAN AWAY WITH CHURCH BOYS

The North Plainfield Juniors defeated the Grace M. E. boys in a junior baseball game yesterday afternoon by the score of 16 to 5. The boroughites had everything their own way from start to finish and had little trouble in pounding out hits and bringing runs across.

The lineups:

EXHIBITION GAME FOR LOCALS.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team will play the first game for the championship of Somerset county tomorow afternoon at Somerville with the high school team of that place. This will be an exhibition game as it has been for several years as the county exhibit takes place there at that time. Denny will do the twirling for the boroughites and the local batsmen will face Kershaw.

WAGGISH FRIENDS JOKE WITH M'MANUS

Irish Author is Flooded With Congratulatory Messages and Good Wishes.

Waggish friends from the corners of America have flooded Seumas McManus with telegraphic congratulations and heartiest wishes of success in his new avocation, that of a suspected burglar. He replied to many of them by collect telegrams, thanking them in as many words as he could. To a Virginian friend, a banker, who had asked for a share of the swag, he pointed out that, unlike the bank president, the poor burglar was usually lifted before he got the loot.

When asked for an expression of opinion on his case today, Mr. McManus replied, "I think it something your magazine editors ought to be heartily ashamed of. It is a sad commentary on their manner of remunerating their help when we are beginning to be taken for burglars."

The hearing in the case of Mr. McManus will be given on Monday before City Judge W. G. DeMeza, having been put over to that time by Mayor Percy H. Stewart. Mr. McManus plans to sail about June 1 for Ireland where he will spend the summer, as has been his custom for several years.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

I am very glad to have my letter of the 6th made the subject of not unkindly criticism by Mrs. Sykes, whose letter appears in your issue of today. It is a pleasure to me to read comments so free from dogmatic opinion, and I am sure advocates of both sides, pro and con, can learn a lesson from an argument so fairly presented. What I am trying to accomplish through equal suffrage is more important than "votes for women," the latter being only part of the means to the desired end, that end being crystalization of woman's moral and spiritual powers (which I am assured she possesses) into the laws of the land. In every argument made by me, looking to that end, I mean to be absolutely fair and justly to the other side, and I know of no reason why we should get mad with each other if we are sincere. If I am deluded by suffrage sophistry I am alone to blame, since I am pretty old, have seen much of the world, and ought to know better. If suffrage is a fake I want none of it—I can do other useful social work. So far I have heard no reason to convince me that it is a fake. I know this makes me an object of pity to some who can see no argument but their own unsupported opinion. So your correspondent and I won't quarrel.

Is the failure of the Idaho Legislature to pass a measure to clean up the Red Light districts due to woman suffrage or even to any action or inaction of the women of Idaho? Let us be strictly fair about this. I have not stopped over at Boise for a few years, but I think Mrs. Sykes has been out there, and is probably familiar with conditions. Idaho in 1910 had 110,863 men of voting age and 69,818 women, a majority of 41,045 men. I think there are no women in the Legislature. I may be mistaken. With such a majority of male voters there is little left to the women but boasted public opinion and "indirect influence," which was of little use. This may not be a good argument for suffrage in Idaho, or any suffrage State where voting conditions are similar, but it surely clears the women as to the Red Light districts.

Your correspondent "cannot see that the liquor interests enter into the question at all. Votes have little to do with total abstinence or even with temperance—but public opinion has everything to do with it, and our contention which is amply borne out by undisputed facts, is that woman can influence public opinion just as well, if not better, without the vote than with it." I have during the last few months shown by facts and figures from the Illinois elections of November and April last that the women of a large part of that State put over one thousand saloons out of business by their votes, and added twenty-two more "dry" counties to the dry territory. For over a generation men and women labored and prayed for such results in vain, but when women got the little slip of paper, the trick was turned at their first election. This has been proclaimed a great temperance victory by the Anti-Saloon League and other temperance workers. Until the women had the vote in Illinois their moral and spiritual power was unavailable against the saloons. Now this is a fact or a falsehood, but if the latter, not a single anti has contradicted it yet. Do the antis favor State-wide prohibition? If so, and they constitute, as they claim, 90 per cent. of grown women, what is their influence good for in thirty-nine States which have it not?

As to my "inconsistency" regarding prohibition in nine States, it is seeming rather than real. I stated the disagreeable, but generally admitted reason for prohibition in the South, giving the people credit for what they tried to do, but I distinctly said "it is only a make-shift" and that Hobson is pushing a bill for National Prohibition which is wanted to help the State-wide prohibition laws, which are not a success. After what I have said about Illinois it seems needless to answer the question: "Why, if they can do what is needed without the ballot, force it on them against the will of the majority?" I think I have shown that on a large scale, as in Illinois, they can't do what is needed without the ballot. But how could a poor, little, tiny ten per cent. without the ballot, force it upon the great, educated, enlightened and cultured 90 per cent. and all the men voters besides? Oh, that 10 per cent. it surely is dynamic!

I hope we shall hear again from your correspondent. I adore an argument and just dote on facts and statistics.

ALEX. MILLAR.

May 19, 1914.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

I should like through your columns to thank Mayor Stewart for his prompt action in regard to the photoplay, the "House of Bondage." In your editorial notice of the subject you struck the right note, but I would like to emphasize the fact that no matter how moral in its ultimate purpose such a book or play may be, a theatre to which all classes and all ages are admitted is not the place for such an exhibition. Serious diseases in the body are treated by experts. We do not expose ulcers, cancers and other diseases of this kind to the public gaze. If they are contagious we isolate them. Sociologists and reformers may well study the moral diseases of society, but they should not be displayed before the young. It is as true now as in the days of Pape that "vice is a creature of such hideous mien. As to be hated needs but to be seen; yet seen too oft, familiar with her face. We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

That is the danger that young people are exposed to nowadays, in every direction. Magazines, books, plays, moving pictures, even sermons, sometimes—keep thrusting before them, vice in various ways, until familiar with its face, they cease to regard it as vice. Thanking you for your own stand in the matter, I am

Very sincerely yours,
ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

Will you allow one householder and housekeeper to express through your columns her appreciation of Mayor Stewart's excellent suggestion that we make next week a "cleanup" week in Plainfield

We need it—Plainfield and North Plainfield alike. Not but that we are in the main, a well cared for, sanitary community but there does seem to be among us a lack of that civic pride that gives a town a well-groomed, shining look and there do seem to be spots that are nobody's business.. The steps of the station at North avenue, for example, I remarked the other day to a friend that, if I were a city dweller, coming to Plainfield in search of a suburban home, and the first thing I saw was that flight of steps in its usual afternoon condition, I should say "this is no place for me," and take the next train back.

And the brook! Think what a brook should mean to a town, running water, clear, pure and beautiful, with green shaded banks!

Yet there is the brook, where most of last winter the skeleton of a defunct buggy, hobnobbed with a dissipated rocking chair in full view from the Grove street bridge, doubtless, neither was prejudicial to health but, certainly, neither was an inspiring object to look upon.

They have passed on now but there will be others.

Once we had a Town Improvement Society but it died of inanition and appeared to have buried itself under the shrubs of the City Park.

But we need no more societies. What we do need is to follow the example of the israelites in the days of nehemiah, when they repaired the wall, "every one over against his house," and "the people had a mind to work."

Given that sense of individual responsibility and personal interest, then our city beautiful would be no idle dream—and we should find out who ought to take care of the station steps and the brook.

M. I. S. McCutchen.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

Really fascinating to do is punched work, when you have loosely woven material and a large needle to work with. There seems to be a certain rhythm, as the needle goes from one dot to another, which becomes so enjoyable that one does not wish to lay down the work until finished.

Pattern 14500 is a very simple and attractive design for a collar in punched work, which is suitable for wear with a dress or coat. It should be stamped on loosely woven linen and the flowers and leaves should be outlined with mercerized cotton before beginning on the background. Diagrams and full directions for working this pattern are given on the pattern envelope.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The top coat is an indispensable garment to any wardrobe. For the shorter designs, the light-weight wools and the novelty cotton materials are favored, but for a full-length design, such as is shown in No. 7490, a light-weight serge or ratine would be preferable, as they have a slightly more dressy appearance and the coat may then be used for many purposes other than sport. If ratine or serge were used with this design, the broad collar, revers and cuffs would be effective made of cotton velvet, bengaline or moire in a somewhat brighter shade than the body of the coat. This coat has one of the new wide armholes with the sleeve set in at a normal shoulder line. The length of the coat is 48 inches. For size 36, 4¼ yards of 42-inch material will be required with five-eighths of a yard of contrasting material for collar and cuffs. The pattern is cut in six sizes, 32 to 42.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15c in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

RHUBARB PIES.

ONE of the most convenient foods available for making pies is rhubarb or pieplant. Combined with fruits its flavor may be greatly varied.

Rhubarb Custard Pie.—Take one cupful of stewed rhubarb, one-half cupful of sugar, two well beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in three-fourths of a cupful of milk, mix well and bake under crust only.

Two and One Crust Pies.

Two Crust Rhubarb Pie.—For a pie with two crusts take, if it is to be a large pie, two cupfuls of rhubarb cut into half inch pieces and a cupful and one-half of sugar over the top. Before putting on the top crust sprinkle with a generous layer of flour.

One Crust Rhubarb Pie.—Cut two bunches of the stalks of rhubarb into inch pieces, cover with boiling water and allow to stand twenty minutes to extract some of the acid in the fruit. Drain perfectly dry and to each cupful of rhubarb add one cupful of sugar into which has been sifted one level tablespoonful of cornstarch. Add a pinch of salt, mix with rhubarb and turn into a pie pan lined with bits of butter and put on the top crust and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Varying the Style.

Raisin and Rhubarb Pie.—Scrape the stalks of rhubarb and cut into inch long pieces. Pour boiling water over it and cover closely. Leave thus for ten minutes. Drain in a colander. Line a pie plate with a puff paste. Wash well half a cupful of sultana raisins and drain dry. Allow this quantity to each cupful of rhubarb. Fill the crust with alternate layers of rhubarb and raisins, strewing sugar between these. Stick bits of butter here and there. Cover with a crust and bake.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie.—Bake the bottom crust as for lemon meringue or cream pie. Put the crust on the under side of the pie pan. When baked place in the pan. Add rich rhubarb filling. Make meringue of whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth, adding two tablespoonfuls of pulverized sugar for each egg. Cover top of the pie, putting some of the meringue in by dropping with a spoon. Set in hot oven to brown lightly. Serve at once.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Spoiled Llama of the Barnyard.

JACK and Evelyn seemed to be in the best of spirits, so when daddy came in he said:

"It is plain to be seen that I must tell you a funny story this evening. Well, that is all right, I have one ready for you.

"Now you may think that a llama is a very funny thing to have in a barnyard with the other barnyard animals.

"The way he happened to come to the barnyard in the first place was this: The farmer who owned all the animals went one time on a long trip. On this trip he saw a most beautiful llama, who struck his fancy.

"So he bought the llama and took him back to his home.

"A number of his friends told him that they greatly feared that the llama would not get along with the other animals, but the man was willing to run the risk, for he was bent on owning the llama.

"When they got home the llama thought he had never seen so many strange animals in his life, and the other animals thought the same of him. Well, you know, animals have keen senses of humor. And the laughter in the barnyard was the noisiest laughter that ever was heard. And, of course, the llama didn't mind being laughed at, as he could laugh just as hard at the other animals.

"Now, the man thought that the llama would enjoy being driven. He thought the animal could carry things around the farm.

"So after he had been there a few days the llama was hitched to a cart and given the milk bottles to carry and the pails of milk.

"The llama started off at the wildest speed. He went so fast that all the milk spilled over the barnyard, and no one could stop him, and the man cried:

"'Whoa, whoa! Stop!'

"But the llama kept right on. He came to a steep and very rocky bank. The man thought surely that would stop him, but not at all. The llama was used to climbing higher rocks than these. In fact, they seemed no more than pebbles to him. And up he went until the cart broke and fell down the bank.

"Then the llama turned and went back to the barnyard where the other animals stood with their mouths open watching him.

"The llama, when he got back, said to the man in llama talk:

"'You bought me for my beauty, so I will not be made useful.'

"And although the man could not understand llama talk, as a rule, he understood what the llama meant this time.

"Never again did he, at any rate, try to make the llama useful."

ASK FERRY CASE TO BE REOPENED

Mass Meeting at Leonia For Cheaper Rate.

RESOLUTION IS PASSED.

Order Committee to Again Ask Bergen County Board of Freeholders to Reopen Case and Start Action Against Public Service—Want Rate to Be Reduced From 5 to 3 Cents.

Hackensack, N. J., May 22.—Alderman W. D. Brush of Harlem and a delegation of members of the Harlem board of commerce, headed by Secretary C. H. Fuller, attended a mass meeting at the Leonia high school held under the auspices of the Eastern Bergen County Improvement association and the sixteen fighting mayors to protest against the action of the Bergen county board of freeholders in refusing to proceed against the Public Service to have the Fort Lee ferry rate reduced from 5 to 3 cents. Alderman Brush said that his people in Harlem, as well as the business interests, would benefit by a reduced fare, and the board of aldermen had twice voted in favor of it, and the several board of commerce members expressed their support in the fight.

Judge William M. Seufert said the law empowered the freeholders to fix the ferry rates, and he said if the present board wouldn't do as several thousand people requested them it was up to the voters on the east side of the county to put in a board that would recognize their demands. A corporation is privileged to make a reasonable profit, but they have no more right to overcharge for a service any more than a highwayman has the right to steal money from your pocket, concluded the judge. Congressman A. C. Hart of Hackensack said 5 cents was altogether too much for this ferry ride, the shortest on the river, and he said he wanted to aid all he could in the fight.

Mayor Ropes of Englewood reported for the committee that waited upon the freeholders and told of the threat made by Clerk Charles Farley of the New York department to the effect that if the freeholders reduced the fare New York would close up the ferry altogether, for the rental revenue would be affected. The meeting passed a resolution ordering the committee to again ask the freeholders to reopen the ferry case and start action against the Public Service. Many women's clubs were represented at the meeting, which was presided over by Mayor Osler of Leonia.

MARK WASHINGTON BALL DEAD

Newark, N. J., May 22.—Mark Washington Ball, ninety-six years old, who was kissed as a child by General Lafayette when the French soldier was a guest in this city in 1824, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Omberson, 797 High street. He had been in good health up to ten days ago.

He was born in Bloomfield, N. J., Nov. 5, 1818, and moved, with his family, to Newark in 1854. He was a carriage maker and built the first wagons and wheelbarrows that were used in California during the gold hunting days of 1849. The vehicles were sent to the Pacific coast by ship around Cape Horn and took six months to reach there.

He was taken to Trinity church here by his mother when General Lafayette was there. He stood near the door of the church, handed General Lafayette a bouquet, and the general stooped over and kissed him.

SAYS ROOSEVELT PROMISED AID

Mellen Continues Testimony Before Probe Board.

TO BALK THE MORSE DEAL

Former Head of New Haven Says Colonel Promised Not to Prosecute Road For Water Lines if Morse Offer Was Rejected.

Washington, May 22.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, continued his interesting recital before the interstate commerce commission of the financial history of the New Haven railroad.

He disclosed the fact that President Roosevelt, back in 1907, promised that the New Haven's ownership of steamship lines would not be disturbed by the federal government if Mr. Mellen would turn down an offer of $20,000,000 which he had received for these properties from Charles W. Morse. He also said the colonel kept his promise.

These interviews showed plainly there was an understanding between Mr. Mellen and President Roosevelt that the federal government would not disturb the New Haven ownership of water lines. Mr. Mellen testified that Mr. Roosevelt had told him the New Haven's acqunsition of steamship lines would not be interfered with if the New Haven would refuse Charles W. Morse's offer of $20,000,000 for the lines.

This was in 1907 before the panic, when Charles W. Morse charged that he was being pursued and persecuted by the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Mellen had an interview with the president, he said, concerning the sale by the New Haven of its steamship lines. It was at this meeting that Mr. Roosevelt told him that if the New Haven company did not sell its steamships to Charles W. Morse Mr. Mellen "would experience no trouble with his administration for the holding of steamships."

It happened, said Mr. Mellen, that Herbert Knox Smith, then commissioner of corporations, was present at the interview and returned to his office and made a written memorandum of the conversation that took place.

Mr. Mellen after the interview returned to New York, reported to the late J. P. Morgan and later acquired two more steamship lines. Then Mr. Mellen learned that Mr. Roosevelt was "hot." Mr. Mellen was much disturbed.

Disturbed Over Roosevelt.

"Where Mr. Roosevelt thought I had taken advantage of his confidence," said Mr. Mellen, "was in the acquisition of the Windsor line and the Merchants and Miners', and I was very much disturbed, as it seemed to come to a question of veracity between the president of the United States and myself."

"What did the president complain of?" asked Mr. Folk.

"He thought that I had gone further than I should and outside of the discussion at the interview I had with him."

"At which interview?"

"The interview in which I had spoken of the Morse offer and which I had turned down. The president thought that I had gone too far and was too fresh."

It appeared that Mr. Mellen said he recalled that Herbert Knox Smith was present at the interview and that the latter had a written memorandum. Mr. Mellen said that Mr. Smith was a methodical man, and just as soon as the interview ended he had gone to his office and prepared the memorandum.

"It was God's providence that he did," said Mr. Mellen, "and I was very much relieved when I learned that he had made that memorandum and had kept it. It was because of that I urged Mr. Buckland to have Mr. Smith meet me at the president's office and state what he had written and clear the matter up."

"So the steamship companies did not go into the bill that was prepared and filed the latter part of 1907 by Attorney General Bonaparte for the dissolution of the New England transportation monopoly?" said Mr. Folk.

"They did not."

"Why were they left out?"

"Because Mr. Roosevelt kept faith with me. He had said that if I did not sell to Mr. Morse I should experience no trouble with his administration for any holding of steamships."

This statement by Mr. Mellen explains something that has puzzled Washington for several years.

MRS. PANKHURST IN CELL

Forty Militants Arrested In Attempting to Mob Palace.

London, May 22.—Forty militant suffragettes were arrested in rioting that resulted from the efforts of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and her army to enter Buckingham palace and harangue King George.

Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter Sylvia were among those arrested. Several male suffragette sympathizers were also held.

Amid scenes of violent disorder and confusion several hundred militants attempted to rush the police outside the palace and rescue the prisoners. They were finally dispersed and the arrested women and men rushed to police stations in taxicabs.

JUDGE BEN LINDSEY.
Interviews Wilson in Interest of Colorado Strikers.

President Wilson granted a hearing to Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver and a delegation of women and children from the strike districts in Colorado. Judge Lindsey explained to the president that Colorado really has a civil war, in which it is necessary that the federal government shall take a firm hand and force mediation. He expressed the belief that the federal government should order the mines in the strike districts closed and compel the operators to submit to arbitration.

SALTILLO CAPTURED; FEDERAL ARMY FLEES

Evacuating Troops Now Face Extermination.

Juarez, May 22.—With Saltillo in rebel hands and San Luis Potosi menaced by a large army, the 10,000 federal troops under Generals Maas and De Moure, who fled Saltillo, face extermination. Behind is Villa with his army holding Saltillo and pressing forward to the south.

Before them are General Carrera Torres and General Eulalio Gutierrez with 5,000 rebels, who are attacking San Luis Potosi.

Before the federal army in any event can reach San Luis Potosi a stretch of desert 200 miles long must be traversed.

The evacuation of Saltillo and its occupation by Villa occurred today. A telegram from Villa to Rafael Musquiz filed at Pardeon, forty miles north of Saltillo, brought official news of the evacuation, but no details.

Earlier in the day a message from General Felipe Angeles, Villa's artillery chief, to his family in Paris passed through Juarez with the news. Angeles' message stated that the federals left the city only after the rebel columns had made some well directed movements against it, but before any general attack was delivered.

It is reported that heavy skirmishing took place within a radius of eight miles of Saltillo before the evacuation began.

Whether Villa himself has entered the fallen city is not known, but it is practically certain the rebel vanguard entered the city. The federals were retreating southward in the direction of San Luis Potosi, but their line of march, as the railway is destroyed in many places, will be harassed by the rebel forces.

The evacuation came as a surprise to rebels in Juarez and El Paso. Robert V. Pesqueira, diplomatic agent in this country, said:

"Of course we knew Saltillo would be captured, but we did not expect the victory would come so soon and with so little fighting."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE
Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.
If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.
To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

OPEN WINDOWS ENCOURAGE BURGLARS

Personal Service

Now that the summer time is nearly here, when you leave all windows and doors open as much as possible, you should place your valuables out of the reach of "second-story workers" and burglars.

It is foolish to run unnecessary risks when you can rent a Safe Deposit Box in our burglar and fireproof vaults for as low as $5 a year.

And it is particularly unwise to keep more money in the house than is necessary for your immediate needs, for you tempt others to steal it and yourself to spend it. Put it in this strong bank and let it earn interest.

We pay 4% interest on Special Accounts and 3% on Active Checking Accounts.

GIVE OUTDOOR PLAY AT OAKWOOD

CHARMING PRODUCTION

Spacious Lawn and Natural Settings Add Greatly to Pleasure of School's Annual Event—Those Who Will Take Part.

The young women students at Miss Hartridge's School are this afternoon presenting the annual outdoor play "A Midsummer Night's Dream," on the spacious lawn at "Oakwood," the home of Miss Hartridge on Plainfield avenue. A large number of invitations have been issued for the affair and it promises to be one of the most pretentious efforts of the young women in the school's history. Miss Hartridge sets a high standard for the dramatic work of the students and a finished performance may be expected of those to whom parts have been assigned.

The wide expanse of lawn, together with the natural settings, makes "Oakwood" an ideal place for such a production, and nothing is left to be desired on the part of the audience, which will include the parents and friends of the students.

The players—

Treseus, Duke of Athens, B. Jewett; Lysander, in love with Hermia, M. Miller; Demetrius, his rival, M. Winchester; Egeus, an Athenian Noble, father of Hermia, C. ## NURSING BUREAU WILL NEED $250 FOR WORK

While others are planning to get away from the hot city for the summer months, the district nurses are making every effort to care more effectively than ever before for the sick mothers and children who must stay in Plainfield. This work of the Nursing Bureau has increased very largely during the past year. In ten months last year 4,446 visits were made to 427 patients. This year 5,210 visits were made to 945 patients, an increase of 427 people cared for and 764 visits made by the nurses in ten months.

Although the work has been very well supported by the maintaining societies, the King's Daughters, the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the Charity Organization and others, the committee needs at least $250 more if they are to carry on this work through the summer months. There is no city nurse in Plainfield or North Plainfield, so all the work of assisting the doctors to care for the sick must be done through this private society. Certainly it would be a shame if any sick person should be without the help and care of a nurse because this bureau lacks the small sum of $250.

Donations of money, old linen for dressings and second hand sheets, pillow cases, etc., may be sent to the treasurer, Miss Helen Lovell, 323 Babcock building.

Mr. Clarkson was born at Short Hills, near this city, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Clarkson. When a young man he learned the trade of a painter and decorator with James Smith, of this city, and later was a partner in business with Thomas H. Clarkson, his brother.

J. Brognard Betts, a member of the State Board of Education, has forwarded a copy of his decision in the Albert Earley case to Frank Rowley, clerk of the North Plainfield Board of Education, and the matter will be brought before the Board at the adjourned meeting to be held in the Somerset School, Monday night. When interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, this morning, Mr. Betts stated that the matter hinged principally on the nature of the contract into which the Board has entered with Mr. Earley and in disposing of the case it will be necessary to take this into consideration.

All of the members of the borough Board have remained non-committal on the subject and refuse to be quoted. The question will come up for disposition Monday night and those interested anticipate a lively discussion between the two factions that have developed in the body. The anti-Earley division is preparing to present its objections to the present incumbant and it is understood that Mr. Earley's supporters will request that the principal be granted a new contract at once.

Rev. Charles H. Kues Will Continue as Rector of Boro Church.

PREACHER IS POPULAR

Vestry and Congregation Unanimous in Their Decision—New Minister Was for Many Years in Charge of Work at Blackwell's Island.

Rev. Charles H. Kues, who has been acting rector of Holy Cross Episcopal church, the borough, since February last, has resigned his position on the New York city mission staff, and accepted the call recently extended to him by the vestry of Holy Cross church to become the rector. Mr. Kues has for some years been connected with the New Yorkcity missions, having special charge of the work on Blackwell's Island.

Last February he was granted a six months' leave of absence, and the vestry of Holy Cross church was able ta persuade him to take charge of the services here. A call would have been extended to him at that time, and it was only at his request, that the temporary arrangement was made.

The call of the vestry was unanimous, and expressed not only the personal opinion of its members, but also the wish of the people to whom he has already endeared himself to an unusual degree during the short time he has been in North Plainfield. Mr. Kues is considered a preacher of more than ordinary ability and is an indefatigable worker and, under his guidance, it is predicted that Holy Cross parish will become one of the strongest in the diocese. The members of the parish are greatly pleased that Mr. Kues has decided to remain here.

PROBING SILLIMAN CASE

Grave Consideration Being Given to It at Washington—He is Expected at Vera Cruz Today—His Release Clears Situation.

(From Central News.)

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 23.—Disturbing news from Mexico City and apparent imminence of probable disaster to Federals has not had any obvious effect upon the Mexican delegates here. One of the party said this morning, no news had reached them of any violent advance on the part of Villa, nor that Mexico City was in danger of falling and most particularly that Huerta was making arrangements to leave the country.

"I would not believe it,' he said, "unless it came direct from authorities; and I will not believe that President Huerta is going to run away, no matter who says he is."

At the same time the atmosphere is tense, and men of less strength of character that these would allow excitement to grip them and become apparent. Certainty that one of Carranza's representatives is not far away and that he may appear any moment at the hotel, gives all some thought. His presence would be at least embarrassing. It is doubtful if he would receive a particle of recognition, since Carranza refused the proposition of the Mediators that he be represented but if Carranza overturns Huerta, a representative of Carrange will have to be recognized.

Discussing the Agrarian question this morning an attache of Mexican delegates said that could be treated as other than an internal question, with which no other country could have anything to do. He would not say that freeing the peons and making it possible for anybody owning land in Mexico had not been suggested by the delegates, but he did say that agrarian question which all should like to see improved was one that would require many years to settle.

Absence of Martinez del Campo, spokesman for Mexican envoys who is on his way to Washington does not tend to allay feeling of uneasiness. What developments have made it necessary for the Mexican representative to take a trip to consult with Secretary Bryan, is locked in their own breasts, but there was considerable excitement over the telegram when it arrived.

So far as normal discussions with the Mediators are concerned no time is being lost. The Mexicans visited the Mediators early today and were still with them at noon. So earnest is the appreciation that due haste be made that the Mediators may hold a conversation or two tomorrow. This morning the Mediators telephoned across the river to Messrs. Lamar and Lehman asking them if convenient to come to the Canadian side. A long code message received by the representatives of Huerta is being translated.

New York, May 28.—Jose Vasconcelos, who has been mentioned a number of times as a possible representative of the Constitutionalists at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls is quoted today as saying that the rebels will never consent to take part in the present mediation program and that the solution of the Mexican problem will come only when Huerta and those associated with him are driven from that country bf force of arms.

Washington, May 23.—Grave consideration is being given today to the steps which will be taken in connection with the arrest and detention of vice consul John R. Silliman, who will arrive in Vera Cruz today. The treatment accorded the American official by the Mexican Federals at Saltillo, the search of the United States consulate and the seizure of the State Department secret code and the torture of the consular clerk have aroused the administration.

While the release of Sillman has cleared the situation to a certain extent, the insulting manner in which

'CLEAN-UP WEEK' PLANS DISCUSSED

Representatives of Health Board and Civic Bodies Meet.

WILL CANVASS CITY

Large Committee Will Be Delegated to Supervise Work in Residential and Business Sections of the City.

Following the proclamation by Mayor Percy H. Stewart inaugurating "clean-up and paint-up week," which begins today and continues until May 30, representatives of the Board of Health, Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce met in the office of the Mayor last night, to discuss plans whereby valuable aid could be given in the commendable movement. There were many suggestions whereby people generally throughout the city could be induced to co-operate in a general "clean-up" of the town.

It was definitely stated that Mayor Stewart had said that the city's teams and wagons could not be used to carry away rubbish, etc., and it was also emphasized that there would be no city funds available to assist in the work. One plan that seemed to meet with much favor was that of selecting citizens and requesting them to look out for certain blocks throughout the city, the purpose being to have them call on their neighbors and direct their attention to the desire to have yards cleaned up.

It was further suggested that special meetings of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce be held and both bodies take some action toward joining the movement, but it was afterward thought that the time is too short to successfully do that. It was finally decided that the Board of Health should select a large committee of citizens by aid of the city map and through a letter to delegate the members to look after certain blocks.

All of the ministers of the city will be requested to speak of "clean-up week" from the pulpits, tomorrow, this plan being considered one of the best ways of reaching the people. There is a city ordinance which authorizes the Board of Health to enforce the abatement of any nuisance but the Board would rather first secure the co-operation of the people, but if they refuse to lend their aid in this way the Board will taks steps to see that nuisances are abated.

The Board proposes to make a thorough inspection after "clean-up week" for the purpose of seeing to what extent the work has been done. Not only the residential section, but the business section will receive attention and there seems to be a great desire on the part of the merchants to do all that they can to aid in the good work.

Dr. T. S. Davis presided at last night's meeting and the others present included Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, Dr. H. D. Corbusier, A. E. Force, Health Officer N. J. Randolph Chandler, Samuel Rothberg and J. J. Varley.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED WITH PARTY

Miss Helen Hand, of Westervelt avenue, entertained a number of her friends and schoolmates at her home last night at a brithday party. Games, dancing and refreshments featured the evening's entertainment and all present had an enjoyable time.

The guests were the Misses Dorothy Crane, Emma Mantz, Grace and Elsie Van Emburgh, Bertha Boylan, Rose Cooper and Helen Hand, and Jack Hebert, Daniel Denny, James Goodwin, Daniel McNamee, Arthur Hone, Clifford Lowe, Russell Lee, Charles Nash and Harold Lunger.

TWO LOCAL PRISONERS TAKEN TO COUNTY JAIL

Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn left for Elizabeth this morning, with Tony Falconerio and John Cahill, the two prisoners held to await the action of the Grand Jury in the city court by Mayor Stewart yesterday. Neither was able to raise the necessary amount of bail and will be held in the Union county jail pending trial.

Falconerio is charged with atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill and is held in $1,500 bail. He stabbed his aged father three times Thursday night in a brawl at their home on Cottage place. Cahill is alleged to have stolen a quantity of wire from the Public Service and is held in $300 bonds.

CRAFTSMEN HOLD FRATERNAL MEETING

Mayor Percy H. Stewart Addresses Trade Unions of This City at Smoker.

A movement that is destined to provide for a closer fraternal feeling among the craftsmen and union labor men of this city was inaugurated last evening, at the Building Trades Council rooms when these gathering of union men of all trades at the invitation of the International Association of Federated Machinists. William Fairbanks, president of the local union, presided.

Mayor Percy Hamilton Stewart gave an address of welcome to the representatives of the various unions of the city, who were gathering under one common roof for the first time in the history of the city. He congratulated the men on the progress which the laboring man had made through organized effort, and expressed a desire that the new fraternal movement might prove a success. He suggested that the men not become discouraged if those improvements for which they sought came slowly, as all things of a permanent and lasting nature were realized only after hard work on the part of those who had endeavored to bring them to pass.

Hugh V. Reilly, of Newark, the business agent of the machinist's union of this district, was present, and spoke on the great results obtained for the working men only after years of work by labor organizations. He plead especially for a united stand on the part of the union men. He heartily endorsed the movement which was about to start, and felt greatly encouraged by the desire of the union men of the city to come together for the broadening of the feeling among their organizations. William Lunger, of the Carpenter's Local, No. 155, also addressed the meeting.

A social time and smoker followed the addresses, and was in charge of a committee composed of Charles J. McCarthy, William Fairbanks, James Symonds, Augustus Reid, and Oscar Zegbaum.

WILL REQUEST BOARD TO AUTHORIZE ISSUE

Plan to Start Work at Once for Erection of New Graded School.

The Plainfield Board of Education has called a meeting of the Board of School Estimate for next Monday night to be held in the Plainfield High School for the purpose of considering a plan to authorize an issue of $100,000 bonds. These will be used to build a new graded school on the Evergreen avenue site recently purchased for that purpose. The amount asked for will cover the cost for erecting and furnishing the structure which will have a capacity of about 400 pupils. It will so be designed that four class rooms may be added at any future time at a minimum expense.

When seen this morning one of the school officials stated that the Board was face to face with the fact that the school accommodations of the city were already hopelessly inadequate to take care of the increased number of children which applied for admission to our schools every year, and that, while they had determined to use part of the new high school next year to relieve the congestion in the grades, this relief could not be counted on for more than a year as the growth of the High School itself will soon require the use of the entire building for high school purposes.

By the fall of 1915 seats for at least 400 more children will be needed and unless a start is made at once in building a new school Plainfield will be unable to take care of its public school pupils.

HELPED RESCUE DROWNING PEOPLE

Chris. Lundbach Proves Himself a Hero in Steamship Accident.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Had Just Stepped Off the Gang Plank When it Broke—Plainfield Party safe—One Man Crazed as Result of Excitement.

Chris Lundbach, of this city, who with a number of others went to Hoboken, yesterday to see a party of Plainfielders sail on the Scandanavia-American Liner Frederick VIII, was one of the heroes following the catastrophe, when a gang plank broke, allowing between 50 and 60 people to was told exclusively in Plainfield in yesterday's Daily Press. He had just stepped off the gangplank, after bidding his wife good-bye, she being among the Plainfielders, when he heard a crash. Turning quickly around he saw those who had been on the plank fall into the river. He immediately joined others in helping to rescue men, women and children. Mr. Lundbach succeeded in saving several people.

In describing the accident today, Mr. Lundbach said that it was an awful sight, one that he will never forget, the men, women and children screaming with fright, added to which was the panic-stricken passengers who crowded to the rail of the big ocean liner and were heipless to render any assistance. Hundreds of people also gathered on the pier and this made somewhat more difficult the work of rescue.

One of the life-savers, Mr. Lundbach said, remained in the water so long in his work of rescue that he was seized with cramps and had to be taken out. Another man who fell in was so frightened that he completely lost his reason and had to be strapped down. Mr. Lundbach said that the Plainfield party went aboard the liner quite early in the day and was comfortably settled in its quarters when the boat was ready to sail. Mr. Lundbach had bid his wife goodbye inside the boat and with many others was hurrying to reach the pier just as the whistle was blowing for "all-aboard."

The Plainfielders in the party who are on their way to Copenhagen to spend the summer are the Misses Anna Sorenson, and Clara Hansen, Mrs. Chris Lundbach and two children, Mrs. A. Jensen and child, Frank Goldman, J. Morgansen and Chris. Rasmussen.

The Willow Grove Sunday-school will meet at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, to be followed by church service. Superintendent Sisserson will be in charge.

Rev. Dr. Tomlinson will preach at the morning service of the Baptist church at 10:45 tomorrow. Sunday-school will be at 9:30, and B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7.30 in the evening.

Since the gathering at the Baptist church Thursday afternoon when Mrs. William R. Moody, of Northfield, Mass., spoke about the large Saunders are in the points for the lo- Junior League Society from all over the country, the members of the local league are beginning to make plans for spending a few weeks at the camp this summer.

The F. F. C. is playing its second game of the season this afternoon with the Netherwood A. C. on the later's grounds. Venizia and G. Saunders are on the points for the locals and expect to bring home the bacon.

The Boy Scouts are making plans to start on their hike as soon as school closes on June 18. It will be forty miles and in the direction of Lake Hopatcong.

Holton Roberts, of Union avenue, did a brave act on Wednesday when he jumped into the "Back" pond and saved Frank Weldon, of Grand street, from drowning. Weldon had gone to the pond with several other boys to fish and in stepping back to haul in on the line lost his footing. Being unable to swim the current carried him out from shore into twenty feet of water. He had gone down for the third time when Roberts jumped in after him and managed to get him near enough to shore so several women who were passing by could get hold of him. Weldon was taken to his home by Roberts and after several hours was fully recovered Both boys are eleven years of age and belong to the Boy Scouts.

An interesting and instructive meeting of the Junior League was held at the home of the president, Miss Elizabeth Babcock, on North avenue, yesterday afternoon. One of the girls read an interesting book, while the rest sewed for the missions.

Somerville

Voorhees Kline, James Gaston, George R. Nevius and C. Harry Ten Eyck have returned from Lake Hopatcong, where they have concluded arrangements for the opening of Camp Onaway-Leisure. The official opening of the camp will be on Memorial Day, and special arrangements have been made for a large number of guests over the holiday. This place is a favorite resort for Somerville young people, and this year it will be bigger and better than ever before. The water at the lake is reported as being unusually high for this time of the year, and that fishing has never been better.

There was a dance last night in Germania Hall by a number of young men of this place and Raritan, under the name of the Jolly Sports. There was a large attendance.

The members of the Y. M. H. A. of this place will have an outing on Sunday, May 31. The outing will take the form of a trolley party.

Raritan

If you suffer from kindney backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement should add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statement of a Plainfield citizen who used them and who publicly tells of the benefit derived.

Thomas Haskard, 927 S. Second St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's Drug Store, have relieved me time and time again when I have been suffering from kidney trouble and I owe a great deal to them. I never hesitate to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know of their merit."

News of Interest in Building World

HARBURGER TRACT IS BEING DEVELOPED

Jacob Sachar and Bloom Company Erecting Several Houses.

Jacob Sachar who has been developing and improving the Harburger estate on West Front street near Giraud avenue by erecting several houses, has again started in partnership with the Bloom Contracting Company to erect five two-story two family houses. The houses will all be the same on the floor plan but will have slightly differing exteriors. The buildings will be of frame construction with clapboards below the belt course and shingles above. The roofs will be shingled.

The floor plan for each floor of the houses is as follows, beginning at the front: A vestibule for common use for the two families, a parlor, dining-room, reception room, kitchen, bath-room and three bedrooms. Each building will be supplied with steam or hot water heating plants and with combination ranges for cooking. The trim will be chestnut and sypress. The size of each building will be 24' O" wide and 52' O" long with a 10 foot veranda on the first floor with a large balcony over for the second floor.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS UNDERGOING REPAIRS

Many Property Owners Are Busy Making Improvements.

Several places of business throughout the centre of the city have undergone several minor alterations during the course of the past few weeks. Louis Moledesky, who occupies the store at 4 Somerset street has had a new front put in. The store at 110 West Front street has, not only a new front, but has had extensive interior alterations as well.

The store at 218 West Front street in the Stillman building, for many years occupied by Frank Rowley, has undergone alterations at the cost of $1,700. The old front has been taken out and a new one put in. Frank T. McInerny had the mason contract for this work, while Wright and Hummer were the carpenters. The alterations in the front of fire headquarters were described earlier in the week through these columns.

The partition which formerly separated 156-158 East Front street, has been removed, thus giving Paul Collier a greater floor space for his sporting goods establishment. Interior alterations are now being made at 237 West Front street, and will be occupied by W. W. Warnock when they are completed. Alterations to other stores in the same building have been completed.

While alterations do not constitute a building boom, the indications are that the heads of Plainfield are calling for improvements, and sooner or later, additional buildings will be so needed that the money market conditions will no longer interfere with the long deferred boom.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following property transfers have been filed in the office of the county register:

Lucy VanBoskerck to B. F. Tallamy, mason work, $6,324.

ONLY TWO PERMITS ISSUED THIS WEEK

However, There Are Many Buildings in Course of Construction.

Building permits during the past week have been scarce at the office of Inspector T. O. Doane, but two having been issued during the course of that time. This may be somewhat discouraging to some, especially those who take the single fact by its self, but it should be remembered that there are in the vicinity of twenty-five to thirty dwellings either in the course of construction or about to be erected in various parts of the city, which should keep a number of the building trades mechanics busy for a short time.

It is also known that the Bloom Contracting Company, together with Jacob Sachar, anticipate erecting five two story, two family dwellings on the old Harburger estate on West Front street as well as three of a one family type.

Bertram Pittis has been granted a permit to erect a cement hollow block barn at the rear of 180-184 East Front street, at a cost of $1,200. Albert Pittis is the architect, and Aubury Lambert the contractor.

A permit has been issued to erect an extension to the east side of the residence at 935 Central avenue. The structure will be twenty-one feet long sixteen feet wide, and fourteen feet high. The foundations will be of brick, with a frame superstructure. The cost is estimated at $1,200. Wilder and White, of New York, are the architects. B. F. Tallamy and Brother are the masonry contractors, while Stahl and Kinney, of the borough, will care for the carpentry.

IN THE SUBURBS

The annual meeting of the Dunellen Home Investment Company was held recently at the office of the Watchung Water Company in the First National Bank building and the annual election of directors held. The old board, consisting of Lewis T. Churchill, Fred Fedderman, Samuel M. Titus and J. Arthur Bogardus were re-elected. The board then proceeded with the election of the officers for the coming year selecting the following: Lewis T. Churchill, president; Samuel M. Titus, vice-president; Fred A. Fedderman, secretary, and J. Arthur Bogardus, treasurer.

Walter G. Clawson, of Dunellen, has secured the contract for considerable additional work at the Young nurseries in Middlesex borough, where he recently completed quite an extensive contract for work in the masonry line.

The farm owned by Walter G. Titus situated along the lake at New Market, has been sold through the agency of Charles E. Tinsman, of Dunellen, to Homer M. Trueman, who is expected to take possession about the first of July. There are about ten acres in the tract.

Herbert L. Dunham has purchased a piece of land sixty feet frontage on Prospect avenue, Dunellen, and running through to Whittier avenue near the Seven-day Baptist church. The land was bought from Miss Jessie M. Utter, of Plainfield, and the deal was put through by Lewis Laire. Mr. Dunham will later on build a house upon his new holdings.

A property in Dunellen, in Chancery between the Home Building & Loan Association, of Dunellen, complainant, and George F. Giles and others, defendants, was sold by Sheriff Appleby Thursday. Five shares of the stock in the second series of the Loan Association were included. The decree and costs amounted to $1,286.23, and the property was knocked down to George Giles, of Dunellen, for that amount.

Among the realty transfers recorded at New Brunswick the past week are the following:

Margaret McIlrath has bought of Adelbert Tappen and wife, land in Piscataway township.

Mary A. Clark has bought of Plainfield Land & Building Company a lot in Oakdale park, Piscataway township.

George W. Harris has bought of Piscataway Township house and one acre of land in Piscataway township.

John R. Martin and wife, to Jos. Vitrecin, lots 87-88, revised map John Ross Martin property, Borough Metuchen, $95.00.

The Inhabitants Township, to Geo. W. Harris, house and one acre land, adjoining Geo. R. Conover, township Piscataway, $1.00.

Laura A. Bassford has bought of Emma F. Spear and husband property in Urland Manor, Metuchen.

Mary A. Johnston has bought of Albert H. Sadler lots in Pleasant View Park, Piscataway township.

Walter J. Doyle has bought of Henry Wrage and wife, house and lot in Dunellen.

Contractor T. Newton Apgar, of Dunellen, has broken ground for the new public school to be erected in the west end section at Bound Brook. It will be known as the La Monte school. The building will be constructed of brick and hollow tile and will contain eight classrooms with accommodations for 320 pupils. An auditorium with a seating capacity of 500 will occupy the first floor and will include a stage and a balcony which will provide seats for 150 more. The contract price is $40,496.

Michael Gallagher, of Dunellen, who is having a garage erected at North and Washington avenues, has decided to make it a two-story structure, instead of one story, as was first intended. Walter G. Clawson is the contractor.

The Dunellen Home and Investment has sold two lots on Columbia avenue, that borough, to Frederick Harrington. It is thought that Mr. Harrington will erect a dwelling on the site shortly.

Patrick Egan and wife have purchased of Clarence M. Haight and wife, a lot in Piscataway township.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT GIVES PLEASING SOCIAL

The intermediate department of the Sunday school of Trinity Reformed church held an enjoyable social last evening, the affair being largely attended by members and friends of the department. William D. Murray, superintendent of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, gave an interesting talk on "Why Boys and Girls are Like Watches."

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of the church, and F. E. Smith, superintendent of the home school, also made short addresses. There was an informal program of vocal and instrumental music, after which there were games and refreshments. Mrs. Leonard Smith was in charge of the affair.

FELL FROM TROLLEY.

Tony Viceano, an Italian, attempted to alight from a Somerset street trolley last evening while the car was in motion, at Somerset street and Somerset place, and sustained several minor bruises. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan was called and had the man removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where his injuries were dressed. It was the opinion of the physician that the man was overcome by the heat, and fell from the steps of the cars, as it was not going at sufficient speed for one to have fallen because of the motion of the trolley. Viceano is much improved at the hospital this morning.

FUNERAL OF TIMOTHY LYONS.

The funeral services of Timothy Lyons, of Orchard place, were held yesterday morning from St. Mary's R. C. church, when Father Griffen, of Seton Hall, a nephew of Mr. Lyons, was the celebrant of a solemn requiem mass. Father McDonald acted as deacon, and Father Sciolla as sub-deacon. The service was largely attended. The interment was made at the Holy Name cemetery, Jersey City, where six relatives acted as bearers.

"PEEPER" BUSY.

Mrs. Robert Kirkwood, of 147 Randolph road, reported to Patrolman John Kelley last night that someone was peeping into her windows. She claimed Ralph DeLagnon, was the man and announced that she would file a complaint with the police but up to noon today no action had been taken in the matter.

BOYS BROKE INTO STORE.

Julius Shrager, of 211 Spooner avenue, reported to the police last night that someone had broken into his mineral water store on Muhlenberg place. Patrolman John Kelley upon investigation found that four small boys were the guilty parties but Mr. Shrager refused to make a complaint.

ROYAL GERMAN RIVAL OF T. R.

Prince Henry to Visit South America and Offset Other Influences.

There is talk in high industrial, commercial and diplomatic circles of Berlin to the effect that the trip of Prince Henry of Prussia, brother to the kaiser, to South America will be a mission of commercial and political importance. Prince Henry goes as a passenger on the maiden trip of the steamship Cape Trafalgar of the Hamburg-American company's South America line. He is going on an aggressive commercial prestige campaign in South America, which has been planned for some time.

The relations of Germany with the Argentine Republic, which are particularly warm, are to be extended to Chile and Brazil. The kaiser again shows his support of his friend Herr Ballin by sending Prince Henry on a new steamer of his line in order to impress the people of the South American capitals with the German mercantile marine.

It is believed that the sending of the kaiser's brother on this mission is intended to offset the trip of Colonel Roosevelt, in addition to counteracting the French propaganda in South America, which is thought to be injuring German trade.

THE CENTENARY OF ILLINOIS.

Already a Campaign Has Begun to Create Interest In Celebration of 1918.

The state of Illinois is taking time by the forelock and is already inaugurating a campaign to arouse public sentiment for the centennial celebration of its admittance to the Union as a state in December, 1818. The celebration therefore will not take place until over four years have passed, but the Illinois legislature has already provided for the Illinois centennial commission. This body recently provided for the state wide celebration committee, of which Senator Kent E. Keller of Ava is chairman.

SENATOR KENT E. KELLER.

The work of this committee is to arouse public sentiment in the coming centennial by appealing directly to newspapers, churches, schools, the Grand Army, women's clubs and civic and patriotic organizations. In addition to this, Chairman Keller will undertake a state wide tour in which every county in the state will be visited. This preliminary campaign of education will, it is estimated, require about a year's work. Senator Keller is peculiarly well fitted for this work. His ancestors were among the first settlers of Illinois, and he has always taken a keen interest in the romantic history of his native state. He is noted as an eloquent speaker.

Senator Keller represents the Carbondale district. He was born on June 4, 1867, and educated in a country school and at the Southern Illinois Normal university. Later he studied at Heidelberg, Germany. He adopted law as a profession and engaged actively in politics. He was elected state senator in 1912.

It is planned to make this centennial celebration the most elaborate of any ever attempted by any state. It will consist of local celebrations in every county and a general celebration at Springfield. This celebration at the state capital will probably partake of a national character because the history of Illinois is so interwoven with that of the country at large.

RINGS OF AIR.

How to Blow Out a Lighted Candle Twelve Feet Away.

The distance from which an average man can blow out a candle rarely exceeds three feet. If he is an adept at blowing smoke rings, however, a candle may be extinguished at twelve feet. Of course the smoke isn't necessary. An ordinary air ring will do and has the added advantage of being invisible. Simply pucker the mouth as you would to blow a smoke ring and expel air in a quick, sharp manner. It takes a good deal of practice to do it.

An easier way to show the effect if one is doubtful is to place a sheet of cloth or canvas over the open side of a box otherwise closed, making a small, round hole in another side. Then tap in a sharp manner on the canvas and invisible air rings will be produced. If the hole is pointed at a person's face and the rings are made he will feel them as they strike his face. Only a few trials are necessary to extinguish a candle at twelve feet. To render the rings visible a smudge may be burned in the box, or a small dish of ammonia may be placed side by side with a small dish of hydrochloric acid, the combined fumes of these liquids making a dense smoke.

The explanation why one can put out the candle at twelve feet is that the energy of expulsion is conserved and practically all retained in the smoke ring, while a simple blowing has to set in motion a whole stream of air and is therefore wasteful.—Chicago Record-Herald.

BOTH SIGNED THE NOTE.

A Financial Formality That Puzzled Both Clay and Webster.

The men in official Washington seem to have less of a halo about them than in the good old days, when the towering form of Webster or Henry Clay would attract more attention on Pennsylvania avenue than a brass band or a tango dancer in 1914. In a bank the other day I saw a note indorsed jointly by Henry Clay and Daniel Webster. The story is told that Clay asked Webster to indorse a note with him for $500.

"All right," said the studious and thoughtful Webster, "I'll do so, Clay, if you'll make it $1,000 and give me half." Clay agreed to the compact, and the two set out for Banker Riggs, signed the note with due solemnity and secured the proceeds. As they swung across the threshold out again on the avenue and divided the money Webster in his ponderous voice remarked to Clay, "Henry, why do you suppose Mr. Riggs wanted our names on that note?"

"It baffles me, Daniel," responded Clay. "Perhaps he desired some memento to hand down to posterity, for I cannot at this moment conceive how it is going to be paid for the present generation."

The canceled note is today a valued souvenir, worth many times its face, because of the illustrious signers.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

The young people found dancing on the large veranda a pleasing feature of the affair. Music was furnished by an orchestra. During the evening refreshments were served, after which the dancing was continued until a late hour.

LOST BICYCLE AWAITS ARRIVAL OF AN OWNER

If the person who lost a bicycle on North avenue last Friday night will call at the eating establishment of Patrick J. Melvin on that street with a description of the two wheeled steed he will be given his former property together with a lengthy reprimand on the subject of "Carelessness" which "P. J." has composed during the week. When the proprietor of the restaurant closed his place of business on that date he noticed a bicycle lying sleepily against the curb and took it in with the intention of providing the rubber-tired servant with a night's lodging.

Melvin anticipated a visit from the owner in the morning but none appeared to lay claim to the vehicle and after waiting for several days he inserted an advertisement in the local papers. The loser evidently neglected to read the lost and found columns, however, and either did not gain the knowledge that Melvin had the wheel or was ashamed to lay claim to it.

As time went on and the wheel still claimed residence in the appetite satisfying station the proprietor of the place became worried lest the incident should result seriously and with a view to locating the silent owner of the bicycle requested a Daily Press reporter to herald his deed about the city for the purpose of establishing a possible identification. The relationship between the wheel and the owner is unknown but those who have interested themselves in the case are at present running down meague clues in Mr. Melvin's behalf.

P. H. S. MOUND OPPONENT IN CONNIE MACK'S FOLD

Arthur Armstrong well known twirler of the Rahway High School baseball team who has pitched several times against the local high school nine, is getting a tryout today with the Philadelphia Americans. Big League scouts have been after him for two years and he finally decided to go with Connie Mack. Armstrong is an exceptional high school pitcher and is a terror to other school teams that he faces. He has invariably won a victory when playing against teams in this vicinity. He is a southpaw and has great speed and many curves.

Armstrong was to have pitched for Mack's team last Sunday at Perth Amboy but was unable to because of a sore arm. He has just turned nineteen years and with the proper coaching he should develop into a big league star.

The players who took part in the innovation were Albert Beers and H. J. Cochran, of the Plainfield Country Club, who were pitted against E. F. H. Prendergast and H. M. Glazebrook, of the Elizabeth Country Club.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR A PATRIOTIC AUTHOR

"The Heroes of Vera Cruz," Written by Rev. John Grixston Currier.

In the issue of the "Living Church," a weekly record of the news, word and thought of the church, there apears this week a poem written by Rev. John G. Currier, formerly assistant curate of the Grace Episcopal church in this city. Mr. Currier is now connected with the Episcopal church of The Advocate in Philadelphia.

The poem follows:

'THE HEROES OF VERA CRUZ.

Bowed down, while flag draped caissons wend their way
With martyred head through city streets and quay.
Deep tolling bell, sad dirge and solemn tread
Of martial escort mark the requiem said.
Our first sad thoughts give place to pride today
That we should have such sons to serve, who say Nor "Where?" nor "Why?" Nor murmur though they bled.
O Country Ours! Thrice blest above all lands!
Unique among great nations of the earth,
Thou giv'st thy sons in service of mankind
To heal the wounds, unbind the burdened hands
Of weaker men, dispel deep gloom with mirth,
Till dawns a worldwide Peace from God's own mind.

—JOHN GRIXSTON CURRIER.

MISS KARR'S PUPILS GIVE A RECITAL

Young Women Present Pleasing Program of Classical Numbers.

The advanced pupils of Miss Grace Powell Karr gave a pleasing recital in the latter's studio in the Babcock building last evening, the program bein an attractive one and was well rendered. As is the custom the program opened and closed with a piano quartet. Two duos were played, both of which were interesting in that, though the plots were similar, the music of one, Faust, was in striking contrast to the music of the other, Lucia di Lammermoor.

Self control, sensitive interpretation, clear cut technic, delicate phrasing and many other fine points which make music a never-ending pleasure to play or listen to, predominated in the playing of all the pupils. Some of the music, duo selections, was loaned by the Plainfield Public Library.

Poet and Peasant, overture, piano quartet, Von Suppe, Miss Dorothy M. Lunger, Miss Flora L. Rosenthal, Miss Edna F. Smith, Miss Marion V. Avery; Serenade, Moszkowski, Miss Laura W. # SCHOOL FRATERNITY ENTERTAINS PUPILS

Many Attended May Party in the Y. W. C. A. by Sigma Gamma Kappa Club.

The Sigma Gamma Kappa Club, of the North Plainfield High School, entertained about one hundred and fifty of the high school students and a large number of parents at their annual May party held at the Y. FOURTH—Every piece and suite is offered at one-half Karpen list prices; never, we understand, has Karpen furniture been sold at retail for so little.

The concern is going to remove to bigger quarters and has decided to put into their new building an entirely new-made sample line.

Therefore, Karpen Brothers have let their present samples go at one half the usual price.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Jack Horner is to be congratulated on his zealous efforts to put Plainfield on the country's bicycle racing calendar. He has already brought recognizance on the Queen City for a wide radius around New Jersey and the monster meet planned for Decoration Day promises to eclipse all of the previous successes. Much hard work and no little amount of time has been expended by the local promoter to make the event a banner one and his efforts have been met with enthusiastic and universal response in the cycle world. Stars of every calibre, size and nationality will take the mark next Saturday to compete for the remunerative rewards offered and it would not surprise those interested to see the course records go to smithereens. Weather conditions, of course, will have a lot to do with the outcome, and everyone is hoping for an ideal day, that being the only remaining anxiety.

All roads lead to South Plainfield tomorrow afternoon. Just how Sunday baseball three and one-half miles from civilization will be received by the fans remains to be seen but Tommy Mullin certainly deserves the support of all lovers of the national pastime in his dive into the managerial world. As a magnate Mullin is bound to be a success and he will do the double stunt in acting as a player-manager, something that made Frank Chance, the peerless leader of the American League, a leading figure in the baseball limelight several years ago. Special buses will go to the scene of battle from this city at regular intervals during the afternoon and it goes without saying that there will be a plentiful sprinkling of Queen City straw hats in the bleachers (imaginary bleachers, for none as yet have been erected.

The success of the two-day field and track carnival just closed by the Plainfield High School Athletic Association is an example of the grip sports have taken on the red and blue student. During the two afternoons enthusiasm was rife on Parker Field and a large gathering of juvenile sprinters and jumpers turned out in running togs. More events of this nature would be welcomed by the city youth and we hope to see the time when local promoters will get wise to the fact that Plainfield youngsters, not yet in high school, need just such competition as this.

We rise to remark that Plainfield High School will be unrepresented in aquatics for sometime to come if the Elks have anything to do with the erection of a swimming tank. The antlered minstrelers are much against water in schools.

Hard times are with us again. The baseball season always brings the wolf around. "Nibs" Hand, like several other local stars, has had to beat it for a suburban town in order to pull down a few shekels pastiming. "Nibs" is catching for High Bridge.

That famous North Plainfield High School spirit has taken hold of Tommy Mullin. The little coach has come through with the announcement that he will not desert N. P. H. S. for the Pets until the schoolboy season closes. Wehandittoyou, Thomas.

Approached by a fan who had lost a bet on the recent P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. ball game, Captain Ralph Smalley, of the boroughites, had no excuse to offer and in his own words he passed it up by stating the result was due to "too much near baseball." "As we didn't win the first, I will offer no prediction on the second," said Ralph.

Somebody said that Crescent Oval was going to be torn up for building lots about a year ago, but "everybody is still hoping for a change," as the blackface artists say. The diamond remains in a pretty healthy condition to date.

Remember those box scores tonight. Do your part, managers, and get them into the Press as soon as possible after the last putout.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I go hunting for shore birds at this time of the year?—J. T. E.

Answer—You cannot hunt shore birds at this time under the law. The State wardens have been deputized as Federal wardens and they would probably prosecute you under the Federal law.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I obtain a kennel license?—H. J. T.

Answer—Only those who have five or more dogs which are kept for breding, show or sporting purposes, may obtain a kennel license. Apply to the city clerk at his office in the city building on North avenue.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a law against the use of noisy trolley care on the local line?—N. D. P.

Answer—There is a city ordinance against the use or operation upon any of the Plainfield streets of a street railway car by a motor or motors of such defective construction as to produce loud and unnecessary noise.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In the absence of the Mayor who acts as city executive in Plainfield?—N. J. H.

Answer—The city judge acts in the capacity of Mayor in the administration of such oathes and affirmations of office as the Mayor is authorized to make.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What country won the International (Davis) Cup matches in 1913?—K. T.

Answer—American won the matches from the British Isles team at London.

Lodges scheduled to meet tonight are as follows: Plainfield Council, No. 402, U. C. T., at the Babcock building, and Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., at Coward Hall.

JACK FRITTS AND PLATT ADAMS IN PENTATHLON

The greatest outdoor athletic carnival of the year staged tomorrow afternoon at Celtic Park, the home of the Irish-American A. C., when the New York Postoffice Clerks hold their annual games.

Jack Fritts, the Plainfield athlete who competes under the auspices of the Pastime A. C., has entered and has been practising hard for the event on Parker Field during the last month. Platt Adams, one of America's greatest all-around performers, who played first base for the local Y. M. C. A. baseball team two years ago, will be jack's opponent in the Pentathlon, the contest for the all-around title.

WHAT LOCAL PLAYERS ARE DOING IN FAST COMPANY

Lidgate continues to hold down his job as regular catcher on the York Tri-State League Club. In yesterday's 6 to 5 defeat at the hands of Wilmington he cracked out two perfect singles and two assists and one put-out besides scoring a run. One run in the eleventh gave the rival team a victory.

Nothing has been heard from Carl Johnson, the former Plainfield schoolteacher, since the International League season opened. His friends here have watched anxiously for his name in the lineup but he has yet to perform in his first league game.

Swarthmore College hung up one of its most notable victories of the season yesterday, when it took the Michigan collegians into camp by a score of 6 to 5. Jack Riffert, the former Plainfield High School athlete, again performed in right field for the winners and is credited with one hit and a run. "Riff" has been putting up a good article of ball for the Swarthmore team and has performed in every college game this season played by his team.

Harold Schenck will be back in center field for the Rutgers College team when that aggregation lines up against Deleware College, at Newark Del., this afternoon.

Ernie Lindeman, former Plainfield pitcher, will be on the mound for Suburbans, of Brooklyn, against the Passaic nine on Suburban Oval tomorrow afternoon. Lindeman is taking the job vacated by Cliff Randolph who formerly pitched for the Suburbans.

Cliff Randolph's defeat in his first Atlantic League game came as a source of keen regret to his friends in this city Thursday. Cliff has the makings of a good leaguer and many look forward to his success on the minor circuit.

Jack Martin appears to have struck his stride in the National League race and is at present pulling off some big stunts around the third corner as a substitute for Charlie Deal. In yesterday's 2 to 0 defeat over Chicago Jack failed to come through with his usual hit but there were only three made by his team and the fact that he did not get one is no disgrace. Jack worked the rival hurler for his usual free trip, however, and accounted for one putout.

Frank Bruggy had one of his big days at Worcester Wednesday afternoon when the Lawrence Club won 12 to 1. In four trips to the plate he batted out two doubles and a triple and tallied three runs. In the catching department he had only one chance, a putout.

Flick Luyster was also prominent in that game slamming out two doubles and tallying three runs. He had two put-outs in the outfield.

Al Carlstrom continues to be the sensation of the Buffalo team in the International League. His all around playing has been heralded as the best on the circuit and he has been pounding the ball with regularity.

FORMER N. P. H. S. ATHLETE HAS MADE GOOD IN COLLEGE

Friends of Carroll Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Taylor of Fairview avenue, were greatly surprised yesterday to see him with suit case in hand, coming from the railroad station. He was not expected home before next Tuesday evening but started from his college a week earlier than he was to and took everybody, even his parents by surprise. Taylor has been a student in the Colorado School of Mines, at Golden, Col. for the the past year and has made good both in studies and in athletics. He has taken enough subjects in the first year so that it will necessitate his taking three years instead of four and this year he had to take but one examination. He is pursuing an engineering course.

In athletics, "Curly" has upheld his fine record of the North Plainfield High School, and made both the varsity basketball and baseball teams. This is an exception as there are very few Freshman that even get a chance at the representative teams. He played center on the basketball team and figured in many exciting games. He played in right field on the baseball team and had fine batting and fielding averages. He received two large insignia's for his fine work. Taylor will remain home for the summer and then return to college in the fall.

BASEBALL NOTES

Cleveland fans claim the Naps are a good road team and that they like em best when they are on the road.

It is said that Clyde Engle's poor showing at the first sack for the Red Sox is due to his golf playing.

Birdie Cree, former Yankee gardener, now with Baltimore, is leading the hitsmiths in the International League.

If Pfeffer, the Superbas' twirler, can kee pup his present fast gait he surely will be reckoned with the top-notch flingers of the season.

The New York Yankees were the last team in the American League to fall victim to a shut-out, the Red Sox performing the whitewash act.

Joe Bush, the Athletics' young twirler, is the third right-handed batter to drive the ball over the right field fence at Shibe Park, Philadelphia.

As Charlie Dooin is finding his troubles in finding capable players for short and second base, the Phillies evidently are beginning to feel the loss of Mike Doolan.

The Detroit Tigers have won seven of the eight games played with the White Sox, and the Cincinnati Reds have defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in seven out of nine games.

"Moose" McCormick is certainly showing the goods as a manager. The former pinch hitter of the Giants has his Chattanooga team going at top speed and running over everything in the Southern League.

With so many watches, rocks, etc., being presented to major leaguers this season, jewelers will do well to encourage minor leaguers to do their best in order to break into the big show.

Ten players who were with Cincinnati last year have drifted from Redland. Among them are Tinker, Brown, Bescher, Sheckard, Suggs, Kling, Egan, Packard, Johnson and Wickland.

"Lefty" Robinson is pitching fine ball for Miller Huggins' team. The southpaw looks to be the most valuable player obtained by the Cardinals in the big trade with the Pirates last winter.

On "ladies' day" at the Minneapolis ball park a band enlivens the doings by putting over the latest hesitation, tango and other modern dance hits. Considerable class to the Messrs. Cantillon.

WITH THE BOXERS

The Paris authorities have prohibited public or private boxing bouts between women.

Promoter Snowy Baker says that Georges Carpentier is afraid of the water, hence his refusal to make the long trip to Australia.

Gunboat Smith denies that he was ever knocked out by Jim Coffey. The Irish heavyweight claims that he stopped the Gunboat in a round at a Philadelphia gym.

Dr. E. H. PORTER

Health Commissioner of the State of New York, says:

"Now in regard to the ice that is harvested, it seems to me, from what I am able to gather, from information and from what experience I have had and from what my chemists and bacteriologists and experts of the department tell me, that I am safe in stating to you as a general proposition that under ordinary conditions there is hardly a thing on the public market today that is consumed in the household of this State that is less liable to convey infection and is less dangerous to the community at large than the ice that you sell."

Dr. Porter is speaking in general terms and when you consider that the product we handle is CERTIFIED by one of the leading scientists of New York, the PURITY OF OUR ICE IS UNQUESTIONABLE.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE IN A NUTSHELL

Mere Change not Progress

"The demand for any sweeping and revolutionary change in existing conditions, political, industrial or religious, throws upon the sponsors of such a change the burden of proof. Present evils must be clearly demonstrated, and the proposed remedies must hold out a reasonable hope of permanent betterment."

Conditions in this country render comparison with the result of Woman Suffrage in any other impossible and futile. This is largely true of individual States.

For example, those of the East, with their ever-increasing alien population. Those of the South, with their huge illiterate negro population. New York City faces problems making it incomparable with any Western State.

(A) At the Presidential election in 1912, only 47.9 per cent. of the vote possible of men and women voted in the six suffrage States of California, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Washington. In the six adjoining or neighboring male suffrage States of Kansas, Nebraska, Oregon, Nevada, South Dakota and Missouri, 69.1 per cent. of the possible vote, voted at the same election.

Analysis of these figures proves that either only 19.1 per cent. of the women voted, or that men lose their interest where women have the ballot.

(1) Women do not use the taxpaying and school tax franchise in the non-suffrage States in which they exist. They do not vote for prohibition, declining to "waste their votes on a losing proposition," (Dr. Helen L. Sumner). In sparsely settled rural districts in the suffrage States they aid prohibition, but not in the cities.

(B) Nine male-suffrage States have state-wide prohibition.

Local option was defeated in Los Angeles by a vote of 2 to 1 six years before women voted. One month after they voted it won 3 to 1.

Pasadena, practically a dry city during all its history, legalized the sale of liquor at the first election after women voted.

(2) Women's votes have not abolished "white slavery," shortened hours or raised wages. The ballot never raised men's wages, it cannot affect women's. Dr. Helen L. Sumner, a suffragist, states that "wages of all men and women are controlled by economic conditions."

(C) In the United States as a whole women receive 55.3 per cent. of men's wages; in Massachuseits 62 per cent.; in Colorado 47 per cent.

(D) In a male-suffrage State, New York City was granted equal pay for male and female teachers. In Utah women teachers receive 70 per cent. of male teachers' salaries; in Maine, 75 per cent.; Virginia, 80 per cent.; in Indiana and Missouri, 90 per cent.; New Mexico, 99 per cent.

Woman suffrage States show no improvement over male-suffrage States in child labor legislation, or conditions of labor for women or girls. "New York and Massachusetts lead in all legislation favorable to working women, under man-made laws which protect women."

(E) In Colorado boys of any age and girls over ten may engage in any street trade. In Utah boys of twelve, girls of sixteen, exception being made in the case of girl bootblacks. They may begin that work at twelve.

We Anti-Suffragists maintain that until the suffrage States give better results of the ballot in woman's hands, they justify for us our claim, that the experiment is too costly and is incompatible with:

The doubled expense of the electorate.

The doubling not alone the desirable, educated, patriotic vote, but the ignorant, illiterate, unscruplous vote. Statistics in suffrage States show that it is the latter which turns out in force.

The effect upon the ethics and acts of the women—already evidenced in the fight for the ballot.

On the homes and families, as evidenced by the training of the youth of the day.

The undeniable fact that as women are neglecting homes and children, so are they abandoning church life and activities, charity, philanthropy, etc., for the work of suffrage.

We further maintain that:

While Mormonism flourishes without attempted abatement in a State having had equal suffrage 18 years.

(F) While every Socialist is a suffragist, and suffrage leaders declare, "We welcome every socialistic vote."

While "white slavery," intemperance, divorce evils, labor conditions, and political methods, show neither abatement nor improvement in suffrage States.

While no proof is forthcoming that women in America, not judged by classes or individuals, but as a whole, are suffering under oppression or injustice.

We maintain that no adequate demonstration has ever been offered, of the necessity or expediency of a governmental revolution, which involves forcing upon 90 per cent. opposing or indifferent women, political duties and responsibilities. Women who do give proof that they stand for and successfully perform many of them in the home, the church, the school, the hospital. In charity, in philanthropy, in social and welfare service. In the betterment of all conditions of vice, of poverty and of labor. The protection of women and girls, the training and protection of minors of both sexes mentally, morally and physically. Who do not consider that their duties are bounded by the walls of their homes. Who do desire, however, to carry out these duties which belong to women alone, in their capacity as the makers of homes, and rearers of children, duties unimpaired by the further responsibilities and burdens which they feel a conscientious patriotic exercise of the franchise would entail. Who desire, and believe with the help of legislators where necessary, they can carry on their outside duties best as women, not as party politicians.

Who stand for the rights of every child, to have the personal care of and association with a mother and home-maker, as well as the support and protection of a father and bread winner.

Who stand for the rights of their country, to have workers in all the departments designated above, apart from its rulers and defenders.

Who stand for the sacred right and patriotic duty of women to be those workers, and to be the trainers and educators of the potential defenders and rulers.

And who finally stand for woman's rights, to every privilege and protection accorded her, in recognition of her power and service in these manifold duties and responsibilities.

We maintain that women can no more qualify to fill every department in civilized life, domestic, governmental and industrial than can men.

SOME LESSONS FROM AUSTRALIA

By an Australian Woman.

Already in Australia, the Dominion which has acceded to the demand for votes for women, there is a sharp cleavage in the ranks of the feminists. Some profess to be satisfied with the vote, others with that women should enter Parliament, and, under the banner of "Sex Equality," advocate the removal of all restrictions on women in industrial and professional life. Woman is no longer to be the home-keeper, but is to enter into general competition with man.

Defining industry as something a part from domestic duties, there should be no occasion for the Australian woman in dustry. Australia has not to face any problem of a surplus female element in the population. In the Commonwealth for every one hundred women there are one hundred and eleven men (x) which means that there should be a place for every Australian woman as wife and home-keeper for an Australian man.

*Miss Beatrix Tracy.

xMr. H. B. Samuels in the "Morning Leader" gives the following figures: "At the end of last year there were 232,930 more men than women there. In New South Wales alone there were 102,834 more men than women. In Western Australia, in a total population of 277,000, there are 44,000 more men than women. In the State of Queensland, in a population of 560,000, there are 47,000 more men than women."

She's your creator.
She's what's dead on to me.

A SUFFRAGIST CHARGE RETRACTED

The Woman's Journal, official suffrage organ, repeatedly prints statements regarding those opposed to suffrage without apparently taking pains to verify them. In the issue of April 11, 1914, it makes a false statement and an attack with no basis of fact on Miss Minnie Bronson, General Secretary of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. We have ascertained the facts and herewith present them.

The Statement.

The statement from the Woman's Journal was headed "New Light Shed on Miss Bronson. Leading Anti-Suffrage speaker Opposed Local Option in New Jersey," and read:

"An interesting incident in Miss Bronson's career has just come to light. New Jersey is a very wet State. Thus far all attempts even to secure a local option law have failed. In the country at large most of the people who do not favor State-wide prohibition believe that any locality has a right to vote out saloons if the majority of the men choose to do so; but it seems that Miss Bronson does not think so, as she spoke at a legislative hearing against the local option bill when it was pending in New Jersey several years ago.

"Mrs. T. E. Bodine, of Plainfield, N. J., head of the evangelistic department of the New Jersey W. C. T. U., writes to Mrs. W. H. Stokes, of 9 Vought avenue, Freehold, N. J.:

"'It was at Trenton in March, 1908, that I heard Miss Bronson speak before the committee on local option. She certainly spoke against the measure, and from her argument I presume that she was engaged by the Liquor Dealers' Association, since she seemed to represent them.'

"Comment would be superfluous."

The Truth.

After the publication had been brought to her attention Miss Bronson made the following statement:

"I was never in Trenton until I appeared for the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage in 1912. Never spoke at any hearing there except in opposition to woman suffrage."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor at Washington, under date of April 22, 1914, made this official report:

"I beg to say that the daily reports made by Miss Minnie Bronson state that she was in Augusta, Ga., March 1, 2 and 3, 1908.

"This is, I believe, the information you desired to secure.

"ETHELBERT STEWART,
"Acting Commissioner of Labor Statistics."

The official representative of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, writing from Newark, N. J., April 22, 1914, says:

"Confirming my reply to your inquiry over the telephone, the public hearing on the Crosby Local Option Bill was held at Trenton on March 2, 1908. No woman spoke against the bill, and, in fact, in all our experience we have never known a woman to appear at a hearing against any temperance measure or in favor of any liquor bill.

"SAMUEL WILSON,
"Assistant Superintendent."

The Retraction.

The following are extracts from letters of Mrs. T. C. Bodine to Mrs. A. M. Dodge:

"Plainfield, N. J., April 15, 1914.

"If I were misinformed in regard to Miss Bronson and have taken another for her, it is only just that I regret it and am certainly very willing to so inform Mrs. Stokes, who has quoted me. I sat in the gallery at that local option hearing, and not personally knowing Miss Bronson may have been misinformed as to her identity."

"April 16, 1914.

"Since writing you yesterday, I conferred with the person who designated and seemed to identify the person as Miss Bronson at Trenton at the time you referred. Upon conference yesterday she was not positive and led me to think I had perhaps been misinformed and at once wrote Mrs. Stokes to that effect."

"April 25, 1914.

"Mrs. A. M. Dodge.

"Dear Madam: Since convincing data has been brought to my attention that no woman spoke against the Crosby Local Option Bill at the hearing in Trenton, March 2, 1908, I hereby retract the statement quoted from me in the Woman's Journal of April 11, 1914. I was misinformed and greatly regret the injustice done Miss Bronson.

"Yours truly,
"(Mrs. T. C.) S. W. BODINE."

MOTHERS OF YESTERDAY AND TOMORROW : :

By Marjorie Dorman.
New York Evening Sun, May 9, 1914

"Tomorrow is Mother's Day."

(By some strange happening—wilful appropriation or oversight— the Suffragists issued this proclamation a week ago, asking the Ministers to say a good word for Mother from their pulpits—a good suffrage word, of course. But as a matter of fact the almanac states in unmistakable terms that Mother's Day is to be observed on the second Sunday in May. Only Thursday the House passed the Heflin resolution asking the President to see that flags are flown from Government buildings throughout the country on the second Sunday in May, "Mother's Day.")

Every day is Mother's Day at our house. When she is actually in the house, however, it seems more like Mother's Day than when she is not filling the rooms with her gentle presence. We love mother best with her hat off, when her kind and patient eyes are not in shadow, and we can touch the little streaks of silver in her soft brown hair.

When, as children, we came trooping in from school, we always shouted as we crossed the threshold, "Where are you, Mother?" if there came no answering call "In the kitchen, darlings," or "Here in my room," a chill fell on us and the very spirit of Life itself seemed to have vanished. How empty the place suddenly became—how loud and lonely sounded the ticking of the clock in the dining room. Then came the sad realization that on Tuesday afternoons the "Ladies' Aid" or "Foreign Missions" always swallowed her up, and that for the time being we must postpone sharing our small joys and sorrows with Mother.

Where are you, Mother? ask the children of all ages, of all times. For it's sharing life with you that keeps youth sweet and clean and wholesome. It's having you for an anchor in time of temptation that helps us weather many a gale. It's knowing that we shall always find you at the same old stand, with your hat off and your kind hand held out to us (no matter in what mood we come) that forces us to believe in a life beyond life, a Power greater than the powers of the world and the flesh. Oh, Mother, life is a grim and bitter business. We are often too rushed to give you the tender words of appreciation which are your due. Do you know that to us your sons and daughters, you stand for spiritual force, and that you are just a little lower than the angels of Heaven? Do you know that your non-partisan attitude in all the squabbles of your children has made you our court of last resort.

They would have us believe, the suffragists, that you are a failure. They tell us that to be a success you must identify yourself with the Republican, the Democratic or the Progressive party. They want you to keep your hat on most of the time. They want you to parade and hike and attend caucuses, primaries and conventions. Your work is never finished now, dear. Must this load be added to your other tasks? And if you are going to become a mother to the Municipality, who is to mother us? Who is to be waiting for us at home in time of need?

The children of tomorrow wait just across life's threshold on the side nearest heaven. "Where are you, Mother?" they call. Oh, girls of today who are the mothers of to-morrow, where you are there must your children be also. They are your hostages to fortune. They are your natural and inevitable handicap. Even as they spread they clip your wings.

How may a woman enter the public arena and run as far and as fast as a man if little hands cling to her skirts? How can she compete with men and win at their games if she carries a baby in her arms? Success may only come by dropping the baby, or by refusing ever to feel the pressure of its little round head against her heart.

Our Mothers, you whom we honor tomorrow, because of us you have won no fame in the public arena. You have played the game of life for higher stakes; self abnegation and self sacrifice have been your lot. They were the portion of the Christ in whose footsteps you have followed. Your goal has been spiritual achievement, not worldly success.

Tomorrow your sons and daughters careless and strong and young, will arise in the gates and call you blessed. When the church bells ring throughout the land fold your worn hands and breathe a prayer for us all, your children. We need your intercession sadly, for many of us have come a bitter distance since we learned to whisper at your knee "Our Father, Which Art in Heaven." Some of us have tasted the dregs in the cup.

Oh, Mothers, our Mothers, what have you not endured for us, in your bodies, in your hearts, and in your souls? As we pause to pay our tribute to you there rises a lump in the throat and we cannot see because our eyes are blind with tears. The ground upon which we are standing is holy ground. Your halo is the connecting link between earth and heaven. Do not discard it for a wreath of dusty laurel leaves. Blessed are you among women today, for of all women you have chosen the better part.

PROMINENT CATHOLICS ARE OPPOSED TO WOMEN VOTING

The following extracts from a letter of Cardinal Gibbons, read at a Mass meeting in Baltimore, last spring, speak plainly the personal opinions of that eminent man.

"Equal rights do not imply that both sexes should engage promiscuously in the same pursuits, but rather that each sex should discharge those duties which are adapted to its physical constitution and are sanctioned by the canons of society.

"When I deprecate female suffrage I am pleading for the dignity of women. I am contending for her honor. I am striving to perpetuate those peerless prerogatives inherent in sex; those charges and graces which exalt womankind and make her the ornament and the coveted companion of man.

"We must remember that though woman does not personally vote, she exercises the right of suffrage by proxy. So powerful is the influence which a sensible matron exerts over her husband and sons they will rarely fail to follow her counsel, which comes from inspired rather than labored reasoning."

"The Christian religion has exalted woman to her present sphere. She is no longer the slave of man or the toy of his caprice, but the equal, the peer of man. She is the queen of the domestic kingdom, and her proper sphere is in the home. She is justly honored everywhere by reason of her sex.

'Now if she were to enter political life, it is much to be feared that her dignity would be impaired, if not jeopardized. As soon as women seek to enter politics, they may expect to be soiled by its dust, and the grace and charm inherent in women would be seriously impaired by her rude contact and contention with men in political life.

"Woman, as wife and mother, will have ample occasion to engage all her time and faculties. The wife who absents herself from her home habitually, inevitably neglects her children and causes her husband to suffer because of her absence.

"The country has enough voters. Although women may now exercise suffrage, the finest among them are voting by proxy. Their power is incalculable. We cannot exaggerate the influence of a good woman on the men of her circle.

"We read that Thermistocles was on one occasion approached by his son, who asked a considerable favor. 'I cannot grant what you ask,' said the great general, 'you must go to your mother. It is true that Greece rules the world, that Athens rules Greece, that I rule Athens, but, my son, your mother rules me.'

"Since it is beyond dispute that the most representative women are getting what they want indirectly, I believe that society cannot afford to risk the safety of the family and the destruction of the home. What would be the value to our national life of votes obtained by the rag-time tactics that disgrace the name of womanhood?"

Bishop McFaul of Trenton is another prominent Prelate whose expressions of disapproval of Woman Suffrage, are unqualified.

After Suffrage was granted to women in California in 1911, Archbishop Reardon of San Francisco, addressed to the Women of his church an open letter, through the columns of his paper, The Monitor.

In it he pointed out, that since this new responsibility had been put upon each woman of the State—with or without her will—it was the duty of every good conscientious woman to vote, as it was entirely certain that others less scrupulous would surely do so.

He then urged all to give careful, thoughtful consideration to each issue and each candidate, and according to her best judgment cast her ballot for Purity, Social order, Charity, Temperance and the Home.

This was misconstrued in some quarters, as a declaration in favor of the enfranchisement of women in Calinfornia.

As a matter of fact it was no more than the frequently declared principles of the strongest Antis; that in Suffrage States, it is the duty of every thinking woman to vote, whether opposed to the obligation to do so, or not.

WOMEN NOT CLASSED WITH IDIOTS AND CRIMINALS.

By Alice Hill Chittenden
(President of the New York State Association Opposed to Women Suffrage.)

At a recent meeting at which both sides of the woman suffrage question was presented, the suffrage speaker made the following statement, as her introductory remark:

"The Constitution of New York State says that every person over 21 years old who shall have been a citizen for ninety days and an inhabitant of this State for one year shall be allowed to vote, except criminals, idiots and women."

Isn't it about time for both men and women to enter a vigorous protest against the deliberate utterance on a public platform of such a distinctly false statement as this? Women are not mentioned in Section 1, Article 2, of the Constitution of New York, which article defines the qualifications of voters, and neither are criminals nor idiots mentioned. No one has ever classed women with these other classes in a community, except Suffragists.

If they choose to place their sex in the ranks with the unfortunate and undesirable citizens of the State, let them do so on their own authority and not fall back upon the Constitution to support their contention. The Legislature of New York has the power to enact laws excluding all persons convicted of bribery or crime from the exercise of suffrage. Such persons are, in other words, disfranchised by the State. Here again, the Suffragists make an error in referring to women as a disfranchised class. Since they have never been enfranchised they cannot be disfranchised.

Again, I repeat, it is time a halt was called to making a statement so utterly misleading and false and using is as propaganda for winning thoughtless girls and women to the suffrage cause. According to Washing dispatches one of the features of the parade there is to be a float containing the figures of an idiot, a criminal, a woman and a baby, and the originator of this idea says that "it will drive home a forceful argument." There is no argument here at all, but a deliberate attempt to misrepresent the status of women.—New York Tribune.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE SYMPATHIZERS

Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin Tells of Character of People Supporting Cause.

GRANGERS GIVE AID

Some Leading Newspapers Also Support Those Opposed to Votes for Women—Says Liquor Interests Have Nothing to Fear.

It becomes every day plainer that the Anti-Suffragists are not leading a forlorn hope. It looked like that when we began, because the Suffragists had half a century start. But in the last three or four years the movement of protest has become general and strong.

First, we were told that the working girls were all against us. We believed it until the tremendous enrollment of wage-earning women in New Jersey—over three-quarters of our ten thousand New Jersey women over twenty-one—led us to think differently. Then the Wage Earners' League developed in New York and is growing rapidly on its own impulse.

We were told that all federated labor was against us and, Pittsburgh, with Miss Emmeline Pitt, editor of a labor paper, and secretary of a labor union, brings us convincing testimony to the contrary. We were told that all the Granges were against us and in a debate before the Grange at Troy, N. Y., the farmers gave us strong proof of their sympathy, even in the presence of Gen. Rosalie Jones, a Master of a Grange.

The New Jersey Granges have welcomed and endorsed Mrs. Claire K. Oliphant, of Trenton, the New Jersey association secretary. The Pennsylvania Granges were heard through their own representative, Mrs. Poillet, who spoke at the Harrisburg Anti-Suffrage Convention, in no uncertain terms as to the opinion of the Grangers regarding suffrage.

We were told that all social workers were for suffrage, and the Suffolk Bulletin, of Long Island, presented a long list of Anti-Suffrage social workers.

We were told that "everybody with brains was a Suffragist," and we contentedly perused our list of members and noted upon it Senators, Representatives, Justices of the Supreme Court, lawyers, actors, clergymen, professors—brains enough among them to free us from that stigma, anyway. "No newspapers and magazines stand for you"—we are told. The New York Times is quite a paper; The Philadelphia Ledger has occasionally been heard of. We do not crave the support of the yellow journals, or the "organs of the newer civilization," like the feminest Harper's Weekly or the Socialist papers. The larger magazines treat us fairly; the Atlantic, the North American Review, the Unpopular Review have all given us a splendid hearing and all the smaller papers print both sides. But we are not such stuff as journalism is made of. We do not stand for the new, the radical, the spectacular, the astonishing "Bein' good ain't news," as the young reporter said when he found his first assignment was a church conference.

Newspaper men come to us daily and say, "our papers want to feature you—why won't you make some news?" If we believed in urging our cause that way, we could and would. We don't believe in it. This thing has got to win out on its merits, not on any enthusiasm artificially stimulated by freaks of behaviour.

Publicity is a big game. Miss Winsor, of Philadelphia, admitted in open debate at Oak Lane, Pa., that the demand for an amendment to the Federal Constitution was productive of the "greatest publicity the suffrage cause had ever had." We have no use for the methods that do not scruple to use the Federal Government as an advertiseing agency.

Therefore, if you want noise and notoriety, bands and banners, sentiment and oratory, ribbons and rainbows, plausible theories ad superficial arguments you will be a Suffragist.

If you prefer plain statements, without heat or bias, dealing with the matter as it will work out when put into practical action in great cities, in congested areas and at all political danger points, come to us. We have been told that all liquor dealers and vicious interests are with us. The U. S. Brewing Association and the Knights of the Royal Arch both disclaim any affiliation, and the first says the Anti-Suffragists have never asked them for aid, though they "have had appeals from the other side."

The Royal Arch testifies "after careful investigation, we find we have nothing to fear from the woman's vote."

And so it goes.

Come and learn, friends and readers of this paper. Do not take any one's say so; look the matter up for yourself. We will show you our reasons for thinking equal suffrage inexpedient and votes for women a poor way to solve America's many and pressing problems, many of which prove to be seriously complicated by enlarging the electorates of our Eastern and Southern States.

GRACE DUFFIELD GOODWIN.

SUFFRAGE QUESTION NOT INDIVIDUAL ONE

Mrs. Joost Says Right Can Be Bestowed Upon Some and Not All.

All arguments which involve the premise that the right of suffrage is a natural right are far aside the mark, because the right of suffrage is not a natural right. It is one that a free government may bestow to A and withhold from B without impairment of the natural rights of B. This the highest court of the land has declared more than once.

The question is not to be determined by regarding each person as an isolated individual and by an application to each person of the general principle that each individual should enjoy equal privileges, but it should rather be determined upon a view of the present conditions of our social life, in consideration of the preservation of that life, and consequently of the continued uplift of the family, which is the unit. The primary calling of woman in society—and I use the term "society" not as expressing social life—is wife and mother. Can she fill those places as well as she now can, if upon her is cast the duty of suffrage? Does she need the suffrage to secure for her any rights or privileges which are now wrongfully withheld from her under existing laws? Is not her influence in her present sphere as potent as it would be if she descended into the arena of practical politics? And, on the other hand, has she not now, perforce of her femininity and the chivalry which goes out to it, the privileges greater than law-making man affords to man as distinct from woman? Can she unsex herself for sex equality in suffrage and yet rely upon the continuance of that tender regard that she has ever received from the hands of man as a lawmaker? If she desires to vote in order to select men, then she must know the men for whom she votes. How is she to gain this knowledge save by leaving her womanly duties of wife and mother? If she desires to vote for women, then she must descend more or less into the arena of practical politics, or at least bring the women for whom she votes into that arena. Civilized society is ruled largely by sentiment. The contention of the suffragists would stifle sentiment, for they, crying aloud for equality, surely would not be so illogical as to insist upon any sex privilege which now exists out of chivalry for woman. In fine, the preservation of the home and family and the sphere of wife and mother are better for our civilization at large than the mere bestowal of a privilege which would come to those who are now more favored than man under the laws, and which if properly exercised would mean abdication from the family hearth.

SUFFRAGE IN IDAHO

I have been spending the winter in Idaho and naturally since my return I have been asked many questions concerning the working of equal suffrage in that State. They have had it for about seventeen or eighteen years and its effects should be evident now. I must confess to having been much surprised as to the general attitude of the women whom I met.

My first experience was at a little supper party where I met a few of the prominent people of the place. The friends whith whom I had gone rather mischievously introduced me as a very determined Anti-Suffragist. But the embarrassment this occasioned was soon dispelled, for almost all present avowed their sympathy with my views, and when it was further added that I wrote for a paper on the subject, I was offered plenty of material.

Here is a little story, that the wife of one of the prominent physicians told me, and was confirmed by the others present. In an important Mayoralty contest in Idaho, one candidate was the Mayor and his administration had been very weak and open to criticism. His oponent stood for a much more stringent enforcement of the existing laws, and in their State of public opinion, was expected to win out by a large majority. The Mayor, however, was backed by the liquor interests (whose same liquor interests of which we, who are opposed to woman suffrage, hear so much) and a few days before the election ten women, employed and paid by the Mayor's supporters, made a house to house canvas with the result that the inefficient Mayor was re-elected and the wished for reforms were put off to another season.

Apropos of this, talking with a prominent citizen there the other day, he told me that one effect of woman suffrage in politics had been to introduce an element of scandal and what he called "filth" into campaign work. And he explained that women workers were employed at five dollars a day to make a house to house visitation telling scandalous stories about candidates—stories which if told by a man would have resulted either in personal conflict or a libel suit, but coming from women could not be so easily combated. How about the "purifying influence" of women in politics?

On this subject, Earl Barnes, an earnest advocate of equal suffrage says, in his book: "Woman in Modern Society."

"In Idaho, as in Colorado, the payment of women political workers seems to have become a rather widespread abuse. Under the conditions of the State, with many new settlers constantly arriving, it has long been thought necessary to employ paid workers to register voters, get them out on Election Day and influence those who are uncertain. After 1896 women were often hired to do this work, and were paid from three to five dollars a day. With their weak sense of party affiliation, it is claimed that they will work for the party that pays best. A candidate with plenty of money, may hire so many workers that it becomes a system of wholesale bribery. It is universally conceded that this is an abuse, and that many women look on election service as a source of pin money to a degree that is undesirable. Meantime practical politicians assured me that it was a system that women found in operation when they came in; that far more men than women were employed and that the abuse could be corrected by proper legislation."

Eighteen years have passed and the proper legislation has not been enacted.

Lest any one should ask, "Who is this Earl Barnes?" I will say that his is profesor of education in Leland University and for aught I know, may be so still.

Many Suffragists give what they call a "Lesson in Geography," in which they point out that suffrage has spread through contiguous States and triumphantly ask "It it were injurious would it have spread in this manner?" Well, there are two ways of looking at that. Weeds spread rapidly from one field to another, and it is much harder work to root out a weed than a useful plant. That is one reason why we "antis" are so anxious that this warmful need should not gain a foot hold here.

But there is another reason for this geographical situation—I was invited while in Boise to attend a meeting of the Good Citizenship Club, at which the subject of teaching the Bible in schools was to be discussed. We talked on this subject from our various points, but the best argument was made by one of the older women who said in effect: "I don't know that there would be any difficulty in using the Bible as a literary text book, but if we try to teach religion or ethics from it, we will run against a snag. You all know that if we want anything done in Idaho, we must have the support of the Mormons, for they run the State. Now if we use the Bible to teach religion, they will demand the Mormon Bible also should be used." There lies the secret of the spread of suffrage in neighboring States. The Mormons are advancing their outposts secretly but surely, and woman suffrage is a valuable asset for them!

I attended an election when in Boise and went to the polls with a friend who had been and is still theoretically in favor of woman suffrage. It didn't take five minutes to vote and where we were the polling place was as quiet as could be desired, but in another part o the town there was some fighting. The question to be voted on was which of two men should be nominated as postmaster, and only those were allowed to vote who had voted for Wilson As we went out one of the ladies said, "I can't see that our women's vote has done much good" and the other replied, "I think you're right," and as we walked on she explained that it really seemed as if it was enough for the women to take a bill to the Legislature to have it defeated. I had been told this before, and a few days later I received a copy of the Idaho Clubwoman for April, 1913, which gives some rather startling information, on the way in which women are treated by the Legislature of a suffrage State.

"The women of Idaho have been humiliated by the majority of the Senate in the insult offered to Miss French, dean of women of the university. Because she is deeply interested in the growth of women, she worked hard with other clubwomen for a women's building for household economies of the university.

"We are good losers. We were willing to accept the decision of the Senate. We admire men who are not afraid to vote yes or no, but we object very seriously to losing in the manner the Senate forced upon us. Miss French is one of our best known and most distinguished women, and when we call to your attention, the fact that she is being considered for chief of the National Children's Bureau, nothing further need be said. Some of the senators had a very perverted idea of humor. It has been some satisfaction to know that their action has received the most severe censure."—Idaho Clubwoman.

And on another page we read of the defeat in the Senate, of a bill similar to the Iowa abatement and injunction law, recommended by vice commissioners as the best law known, and the only law ever devised that has reduced prostitution to a minimum.

With a curious lack of the contrast afforded, the same number of the Clubwoman prints the following:

Victory for Vermont Women.

"The club world, and especially social hygiene workers, will be interested to know of the victory gained by the Vermont Federation of Women's Clubs, in having success crown their efforts for health legislation.

"Two years ago, at the suggestion of the retiring president, Mrs. Ashton, the federation voted to spend $200 in a Statewide health campaign and in an attempt to interest the public in the work of staying the spread of the black plague. Dr. Evangeline Young, a specialist of Boston, was engaged to speak in eight important Vermont towns. Her subject, "Social Hygiene," was treated in a splendid manner. The result was a petition signed by many many representative clubwomen asking the Legislature to take action to prevent the spread of the social evil.

"Dr. Young's efforts were supplemented later on by Dr. Grace Sherwood, who induced the popular representative from her district to prepare a bill, which was modeled after the California law, though not so stringent. They hardly dared hope for the passage of the bill, merely expecting to get the matter before the public; and Mrs. George H. Smile, of Montpelier, chairman of legislation, a woman of unusual charm and tact, appeared before a joint committee and delivered a rather wonderful address. The men were much prejudiced at first and almost inclined to resent the appearance of a woman on such an errand, but at the close of her talk every man went forward and shook hands with her, and she was informed that the committee had voted unanimously to report the bill. The federation had Dr. Sherwood's address printed and distributed to every member of the Legislature, and the result was that the bill passed both House and Senate by unanimous vote and was promptly signed by the Governor."

The bill presented to the Idaho Legislature was backed, we are told, by over 3,000 clubwomen, representing 3,000 votes presumably, yet note the difference!

I will close with two or three clipping from the Idaho Statesman for March 13 on which date the Republicans held a banquet to which Republicans and Progressives were alike invited with the hope of closing the breach between the parties. But the women were not invited. Their vote was considered negligible.

"Will the County Commissioners summon a bunch of women jurors? There are several cases to come up before the court this term, in which women could prove valuable jurors, and the commissioners Thursday considered the subject of drawing a dozen out of the 30 to be impaneled.

"I am in favor of it," remarked one of the commissioners. "Suppose we try it." "Not on your life," said another. "We have enough troubles now with a courthouse ready to tumble down on our heads, without bringing a bunch of women here unless it is absolutely necessary."

"Still, women have real good sense, you know; it might do no harm to try them again."

"Nix on the women," said the third, while the county clerk held his pen poised, ready to draw out the names. The subject was left in abeyance at adjournmentt." — Idaho Statesman.

Boise a Divorce Meccs.

"It seems that Boise is now the meca towards which those wanting divorce are hiking by the scores instead of to Reno as heretofore. Reno is losing that form of harvest and Boise is reaping it. From the financial standpoint this looks all right for Boise. It may be a question whether ore rather lax divorce laws square with the eternal proprieties and whether such laxity tends to weaken the bonds of marriage and thus work an injury to society.

And now, if a young and attractive woman comes to stay at Boise for some months she is speedily assigned to this divorce colony which, I am told, is steadily growing.

MISS PHILLIPS DESCRIBES WIDOWS' PENSION LAW

WIDOWS' PENSIONS.

There seems to be some confusion in the public mind in regard to persons who are eligible for the State aid known as "Widows' Pensions." Aged widows with no children as well as deserted women and wives of husbands in insane asylums all have appeared to claim this new State bounty.

The name of the Act itself, if more generally known, would prevent some of this confusion. It is entitled "An Act to Promote Home Life for Dependent Children," (Chapter 281, Laws 1913), Article 1, defines the only widow eligible as "any widow who is the mother of a child or children under the age of sixteen and who is unable to support them and maintain her home."

Article 5 provides that "if upon completion of the examination, the Court concludes that unless relief is granted the mother will be unable to properly support and educate her children, and that they may become a public charge it shall make an order committing said family to the care of the State Board of Children's Guardians and directing that there shall be paid to the mother, through the State Board of Children's Guardians, monthly out of the County funds the following amounts for the maintenance and support of the children under 16, $9 for one such child, $14 for 2 and $4 each additional child."

The wording of this Act makes it clear that New Jersey has now undertaken not a new system of "pension," which is a reward for past service and independent of need, but a new field entirely, that is Public relief of a special class, namely widows with children. The object of this legislation is to maintain home life where the mother is a proper one and allow her to bring up her own children instead of letting them go to Institutions. Every Charitable or Social Agency in the State is, of course, in sympathy with the aims of such legislation. As a matter of practice many questions arise as to the proper methods of administration.

The State Board of Children's Guardians, which long ago placed New Jersey in the van of States having an interest in the welfare of children, has been fairly overwhelmed with the amount of work thrown upon it since this Act went into effect so that last February County Judges were asked not to hold any more hearings of widows until the State Board could properly take care of children already committed. The recently adjourned legislature appropriated $23,000 to the State Board for carrying out the Act. On Friday of this week Civil Service Examinations were held for the position of Chief and this new officer with six or seven assistants will soon be in the field. Hearings will probably be resumed during the summer.

The latest hearing held in Union County was December 30, 1913. That day 55 widows applied, thirty-seven were heard and twenty-five granted pensions, twelve refused pensions. The total amount of pensions granted this day was $415 a month on behalf of 70 children or roughly speaking $5000 a year was dispensed by the County Judge in less than five hours. Every hearing for awhile will probably cost the County as much, if not more and in addition we pay our share, of course of the administration expenses, this year $23,000 appropriated by the State.

All of which is rather irrelevant if by this act to promote Home life, children are well maintained in good homes which without this aid might have been broken up. The State Board of Children's Guardians has most comprehensive plans for carrying out the work of investigation and supervision in the most adequate manner.

It is for all of us to watch the administration of this law and after a few years the history of the children whose mothers have been granted the relief will demonstrate one way or another the efficacy of the legislation.

MRS. CHITTENDEN SAYS VOTE IS NOT "SURE TO COME"

"Mrs. Pankhurst said that 'even the antis admitted that woman suffrage was sure to come.' The suffrage leader's acquaintance with anti-suffragism must be very limited. We have certainly never made such a statement. We are already aware of a tremendous reaction among the women of the country and England against placing active and potential motherhood on the political firing line.

"Under the educational campaign conducted by anti-suffragists in recent years the suffragists have had to abandon one theory after another upon which their plea for suffrage was formerly based. The early suffragist, for instance, claimed the ballot as woman's right, but since it has been shown that the ballot is not an inherent right for either man or woman this point is no longer made in suffrage speeches. The theory that women who pay taxes should vote has also been given up as an argument by suffrage advocates, for it has been demonstrated that in this country the payment of taxes and voting do not go hand in hand. Even a suffrage leader said last winter that no intelligent suffragist now used the 'no taxation without representation' argument, knowing the fallacy upon which it is based. We have been told that the woman in industry needs the ballot for her protection, but it is a fact that the laws protecting women engaged in gainful occupations are better in many instances in the States where women do not vote than they are in the States where woman suffrage has prevailed for many years. Washington and California enacted the much talked of eight-hour law for women in certain inductries before women voted in either of those States. But in California this law does not extend to the canning industries, which employ more women than any other industry in that State, nor have women been able to extend this law to cover canneries since their enfranchisement in California. Women do not vote in any of the States which prohibit all night work for women.

"The assertion has been repeatedly made that woman's vote would purify politics, but Judge Lindsey himself in the 'Beast and the Jungle' drew a horrible picture of political conditions in Denver, and in a recent speech in Boston he spoke of the 'rottenness' (his own language) of Denver politics until the establishment of a third party last autumn. A prominent suffragist of Colorado recently maintained that 'whether women will purify politics, uplift man or stand for a high moral tone is entirely beside the question.' This claim has also been abandoned as an argument for woman suffrage, and there is little left for the suffragists to fall back on now except the assertion voiced by one in authority in the suffrage ranks who said last winter: 'We do not care whether suffrage is a right, a privilege or a responsibility; we want it and propose to have it.'

"Having pointed out the fallaciousness of these and other claims upon which the plea for woman suffrage rests, it now remains for us to continue our campaign of education and show that woman suffrage is part of the program of the feminist movement with its dangerous tendencies which can only lead to social revolution. It is also indissolubly linked with the doctrines and teachings of Socialism. We believe these are two of the gravest dangers involved in the woman suffrage movement at the present time, and we would be false to the faith that is in us if we should relinquish or lessen our endeavors to impress these facts upon the public at all times and seasons.

"ALICE HILL CHITTENDEN.

"President of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage."

BY NO MEANS "SURE TO COME."

That is a hasty and unreflecting judgment which declares that woman suffrage is "sure to come" and that it is therefore useless to contend against it.

Woman suffrage is not "sure to come." It can be restricted within its present limits by the energetic and concerted action of the men and women who are opposed to it. It is now on its way to defeat at the polls in several of the most important States in the Union.

From the boastfulness of the suffragists it might be supposed that the suffrage movement was sweeping everything before it. But this is not true. The suffrage movement has not gained a foot of territory through the vote of the male electorate, east of the Mississippi river. Not one of the New England States, not one of the Middle States not one of the Southern States, not one of the Middle Western States has given full suffrage to women.

Nor is this all. Every State east of the Mississippi in which the proposal to give the ballot to women has been submitted to the voters has defeated it by an overwhelming majority.

What, then, is the present situation? Simply, that in nine States west of the Mississippi women have the full vote. The combined population of these nine States is less than the combined population of New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia. The combined population of seven of them is less than the population of New York city alone. Are these nine most sparsely-settled States—only three of which have a population of as many as a million each—likely to force their policy upon the other thirty-nine?

And what is the immediate prospect? No one will deny that the East, not to mention the South, is more conservative than the West. Suppose that New York votes upon this question next year. Is it any more likely to be carried for suffrage than Ohio, which defeated it by a majority of 87,455? Suppose that the proposed suffrage amendment is submitted to the voters of New Jersey next year. Are they any more likely to adopt it than the voters of Wisconsin, who rejected it by a majority of 91,479? Suppose that the question goes to the voters of Pennsylvania next year. Is it probable that they will act upon it any more favorably than those of Michigan, who gave a majority of 96,144 against it? —"The Remonstrance," April, 1914.

THE WAGE-EARNING WOMAN AND THE STATE

JANUARY, 1914.

By Minnie Bronson.

In 1910 the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women published a brochure by Miss Bronson on the Wage Earning Woman and the State, the object of which was to show the fact that votes of women have not brought about better laws for the protection of the woman wage earner. Later this brochure was revised to include the legislation of 1911.

Recently two pamphlets have appeared attacking the facts in the brochure of Miss Bronson, facts vouched for by a statistician of the United States Bureau of Labor.

The misstatements and errors in these two pamphlets are so palpable that they would deserve no reply whatsoever, if it were not for the reputation of the authors for fairness and a knowledge of the law. A few instances of this ignorance of facts are deemed necessary to prove the utter unreliability of the pamphlets in question.

The first of these "attacks" purports to be the joint work of Miss Edith Abbott, of Hull House, and Miss Sophonisba Breckenridge, Assistant Professor of Social Economy in the University of Chicago, with an introduction by Miss Jane Addams. Surely these are names to reckon with in a statement of fact and it is startlnig that these three women could have been responsible for the errors which appear in their pamphlet.

Perhaps the most important of these is the statement that while the eight-hour law for women in California was passed before equal suffrage was adopted, it was passed by the "same legislature which also passed the woman suffrage amendment."

The Legislature of California did not amend the Constitution of the State admitting women to the franchise; they submitted the question to a vote of the people, as everyone knows, and it became an amendment to the Constitution by a majority vote in its favor. It would be just as correct to claim that the New York legislature had amended the Constitution of New York State admitting women to the franchise, because they have also voted to submit the question of woman suffrage to the people in 1915.

However, this criticism establishes the fact by suffrage authority that the eight-hour law for women in California was passed months before woman suffrage obtained in the State, and would be on the statute books today even if woman suffrage had been defeated at the polls, showing that it was in no sense due to the votes of women.

Again on page 8, referring to employers' liability laws, workmen's compensation laws and laws providing an eight-hour day for federal, state and municipal employes, the statement is made:

"It should be understood that this legislation, although it may, in a few cases, protect the working woman as well as the working man, represents the results of long years of earnest struggle by working men with votes to improve their condition."

This whole sentence is misleading in the extreme. Not one of the laws quoted apply to men alone. They are blanket laws and protect all women employed in various industries, as well as men, and the statement that such legislation may, in a few cases, protect the working woman is a plain distortion of fact. More men than women are protected by such legislation, but this is simply a statement of the obvious fact that more men come under the application of dustry. Only one worker in every seven is a woman. But these women come under th eapplication of the law as well as the men.

In addition, however, to these laws protective to both men and woman alike, nearly every state in the United States has passed additional legislation for the protection of working women which does not in any sense apply to working men.

Another contention of Miss Bronson's is further emphasized in this same paragraph of Miss Abbott's, who says, "these laws represent long years of earnest struggle by working men with votes to improve their condition," but on page 20 she confesses that the women teachers of New York obtained equal pay with the men teachers after six years of effort through indirect influence. This is direct confirmation from suffrage sources of the anti-suffrage arguments that the vote does not raise wages and that the vote is not the quickest way to bring about good legislation.

Another pamphlet, the product of the combined talent of three of New York's leading Suffragists, Mrs. Florence Kelley and the Misses Pauline and Josephine Goldmark, is even more incorrect. The main contention being that the argument of Miss Bronson is misleading because it "ignores the fundamental differences in the industrial condition of suffrage and non-suffrage states"—that "these fundamental differences are not even hinted at." This settles once for all the fact that Mrs. Kelley and the Misses Goldmark did not take the time to read Miss Bronson's pamphlet for on page 6 she distinctly says: "If we eliminate from this comparison the manufacturing States of the east, which for obvious reasons have the most, and perhaps the best, remedial legislation, we are able to determine more definitely what woman suffrage has accomplished for wage-earning women in the states where women have the franchise." Then follows a comparison of western states, suffrage and non-suffrage having like industrial conditions. Such carelessness in a review which claims to be critical destroys the effect of any further argument advanced by it. Some of the criticisms in the pamphlet of the Misses Goldmark and Mrs. Kelley have been covered by the above reply to Miss Abbott, and others are answered by the brochure that follows.

Briefly, the important point is that this brochure of Miss Bronson which caused such extreme excitement among the Suffragists that they brought out six leaders of the best talent in the cause to refute it, was first written in 1910 and was revised in 1911, and any criticism of it today would be just as absurd as to criticise the findings of the Census of 1900 because they do not accord with the Census of 1910.

The following brochure, therefore, has been prepared by Miss Bronson to bring the legislation cited up to date and this may need to be revised in the future, as new laws for woman's protection are secured.

THE WAGE-EARNING WOMAN AND THE STATE.

A Comparison of the Laws for Her Protection in Various States of the Union.

By MINNIE BRONSON,
General Secretary National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

One of the most forcible arguments advanced by the advocates of woman suffrage is that it would lead to a fairer treatment of women in industry and to better laws for their protection. The claim is made that the laws on our statute books are unjust to the wage-earning woman, and that her only redress from this discrimination is in the ballot.

So often has this view been urged that it has come to be accepted by many wage-earning women who have for this reason become advocates of a cause otherwise distasteful to them. A study of the laws of the various States of the United States will show that these conclusions are as fallacious as the premise is untrue.

Laws for the Protection of the Wage-Earning Women.

Reference to the laws governing labor of women shows that our law makers, far from enacting laws which discriminate against the wage-earning woman, are constantly enacting new and better laws for her protection; that these laws are constantly improved, not because women have the ballot, or want it, but because women are entering more and more into the industrial life of our country. And, because of her great function to society, because of her physical disadvantage, and, above all, because she is not herself a law maker, public opinion demands that her rights and her interests shall be doubly conserved and safe-guarded from any probable injustice by man, and that she shall be given the opportunity to become whatever her abilities, natural or acquired, permit. And in obedience to this demand the laws enacted for the protection of wage-earning women are more beneficient and far-reaching than the laws for the protection of wage-earning men.

Comparison of Laws in Suffrage and Non-Suffrage States.

In all the States of the United States laws have been passed for the protection of women who must work, which laws are distinct from and in addition to the laws protecting all wage-earners, men and women alike; that is to say that in all States the laws for the safeguarding of wage-earning women are better than the laws for the safeguarding of wage-earning men. Moreover, a comparison of the labor laws of the various States shows that the votes of women have not brought about better conditions in the suffrage States than exist in male suffrage States having practically identical conditions industrially and geographically. In other words there is not a law for the protection of working women found in suffrage States which cannot be met by laws equally as good or better in adjoining male suffrage States.

In thirty-seven States laws have been passed limiting the hours of labor at which an adult woman may be employed. Of the nine States where women vote two set no limitation whatever to the number of hours a woman may work, and three others enacted these laws before women had ever voted in these States. (1)

Forty-three States compel employers in stores, factories, shops, etc., to provide seats for female employes. Five States have no such laws, and one of the five is a suffrage State. (2)

In thirty-nine States, the Territory of Alaska and the District of Columbia, the earnings of a married woman are secured to her absolutely, and cannot be required by law, as can the earnings of a married man, for the support of the family, nor are they liable for their husband's debts. Eleven States do not provide and three are suffrage States. (3)

Night Labor.

Sixteen States regulate the employment of women at night and specifically state the hours between which a woman may not be employed. These States include the male suffrage States of Nebraska, Indiana, Massachusetts, where all night work for women is forbidden, the States of Conecticut, South Carolina and New Hampshire where night work in mercantile establishments is forbidden; the States of Minnesota, New York and Ohio forbidding night work for women under twenty-one, and the States of Wisconsin and Delaware regulating the conditions and hours of night work. None of these States are equal suffrage States. (4)

Four other States forbid night labor for females between sixteen and eighteen years, who are not protected by the child labor laws. Two of these latter are woman suffrage States, but their laws were passed before women voted in those States.

Twenty-seven States restrict the number of hours during which a woman may be employed both by the day and week, thus insuring one day of rest in seven. Of these twenty-seven States, Utah and Arizona are the only suffrage States whose laws were passed under woman suffrage. Colorado and Washington restrict the number of hours per day to eight, but set no limit to the number of hours per week,so that a woman may, under the law in Washington and Colorado, be employed the whole seven days in the week for eight hours per day and these hours may be at night, while Wyoming, where women have voted for forty-five years, and Kansas, where women have had municipal suffrage for twenty-five years, place no limit whatever to the length of time a woman may be employed. (5)

Suffragists claim that an eight-hour day for women exists only in women suffrage States (there are four States where women vote that have eight-hour laws. In two of these the law was passed before women had voted and cannot, therefore, be claimed as a victory of woman suffrage); but they do not add that a law recognized by all social workers as a sine qua non of remedial legislation for working women; namely, the prohibition of night labor, is not to be found on the statute books of any suffrage State, and it was not until 1913, twenty years after woman suffrage came into Colorado, that a law was finally secured limiting the hours of labor for women who work in that State.

Fifteen States, only one of which is a suffrage State, prohibit the employment of women for more than fifty-four hours a week. (6) Arizona's law, passed under woman suffrage, provides for an eight-hour day, but permits fifty-six hours a week and there is no night prohibition. California's law of eight hours per day and forty-eight per week was passed nine months before woman suffrage succeeded in the State.

Comparison of Laws Affecting Wage Earning Women in Suffrage and Western Non-Suffrage States.

If we eliminate from this comparison the manufacturing States of the east, which, for obvious reasons, have the most, and perhaps the best, remedial laws for wage-earning women, and consider only those states which have practically similar conditions, we are able to determine more definitely what woman suffrage has accomplished for wage-earning women in the States where women have the franchise.

The Suffrage States of Kansas and Wyoming place no restriction upon the number of hours a woman may be employed, but the neighboring male suffrage States of Oklahoma, Dakota, North Dakota and Nebraska, regulate the hours by law, and Nebraska on the east, reaches the high tide of remedial legislation by prohibiting the employment of women at night in all manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishments and in hotels and restaurants and limits the number of hours per week thereby ensuring one day of rest in seven. (7)

This law of Nebraska is for nine hours a day and fifty-four hours a week, not before five o'clock in the morning or after ten o'clock at night, an infinitely better law than the eight-hour law of Colorado, which does not limit the hours by the week or forbid night work, thus making possible the employment of women for fifty-six hours a week, and these hours may be night work. (8)

There are several laws pertaining to the work of women in two or three States as, for instance, a law in Massachusetts prohibiting employers from deducting the wages of women when time is lost because machinery has broken down, a law in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont prohibiting the employment of women for fixed periods before and after childbirth (this act follows the precedent established in the leading industrial nations of Europe); or a law in Delaware and Louisiana exempting the wages of women from execution, but none of these laws are found in suffrage States.

Wage of Teachers.

With reference to the wages of teachers, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, a suffragist writer, says: "Woman needs the ballot because it leads to fairer treatment of women in public service. In Massachusetts the average pay of a female teacher is only one-third that of a male teacher and in almost all of the States it is unequal; but in Wyoming and Utah the law provides that they shall receive equal pay for equal work."

This statement is misleading. Where teachers are doing the same grade of work, it will be found that no such percentage as three to one obtains in Massachusetts. It may be that the sum of the salaries of female teachers in the state, divided by the number of such teachers, is only one-third of the average pay of male teachers; but the majority of male teachers are principals, supervisors, superintendents and college professors, while the country school teachers, the kindergartners and under teachers, are women.

It is true that few women are found in the highest-paid positions of a teaching force, but this is due to other causes than political. In four hundred and seventy-five colleges of various grades and attendance in the United States only eight have women presidents, yet it will scarcely be claimed that this is due to woman's political status.

There seems to be a growing sentiment, not only among fathers, but mothers as well that their sons, whose training at home is so largely in the hands of the mothers, should be brought under the influence of men in their school life; that, since the grown boy's life of affairs will be spent with men, it should be from men that he learns to meet it and its obligations; that he should not receive his impressions of life entirely from a sex to which he does not belong.

It is not denied that female teachers do not in the majority of cases receive the same pay as men for the work of equal grade, but here the law of supply and demand is paramount.

The states of Wyoming and Utah have, as Miss Blackwell says, a law providing that women shall have equal pay with men for equal work, but the condition in Wyoming and Utah is analogous to that in Massachusetts, where, Miss Blackwell says, "the average pay for a female teacher is only one-third that of a male teacher and in almost all of the states it is unequal," for the average monthly wage of female teachers in Utah is $53.60, while the average pay of men is $77.32 That is, the average pay of female teachers is only 70 per cent. of the male teachers, while in Maine it is 75 per cent., in Virginia 80 per cent., in Indiana and Missouri 90 per cent. and in New Mexico 99 per cent. Also, in Wyoming the average monthly wage of men teachers is $85.26, as compared with $53.05, the average monthly wage of female teachers, or a difference of $32.21 per month, as compared with a difference in Iowa of $21.81; South Dakota, $20.44; Washington, $16.66; Ohio, $14.50; Pennsylvania, $14.38; in Oklahoma, $8.61; and in North Dakota, $8.24; while in the southern states the difference ranges from $20.22 in Louisiana to $6.16 in Alabama. (a)

The average monthly salary for all men teachers in the United States is $62.35, and of women teachers $51.61, a difference of $10.74, which is less than one-third the difference found in Wyoming and less than one-half the difference found in Utah.

Since it is the "average pay" of which Miss Blackwell complains, it would seem that her argument has no foundation in fact. Very recently the women teachers of the City of New York have been granted equal pay with men teachers. The working of this law was passed in a male suffragé state by a legislature elected by male suffrage.

Wages in General Employment.

Dr. Helen L. Sumner, in her book entitled "Equal Suffrage" says: "Taking public employment as a whole, women in Colorado receive considerable less remuneration than men." It is the old story, she says, of supply and demand in the commercial world and suffrage has probably nothing to do with the wages of either men or women. "The wages of men and women in all fields of industry are governed by economic conditions." (9)

She shows by tables carefully compiled that in Colodaro the pay of women in private employment has been steadily lower than that of men, never reaching quite one-half as much and that while the average weekly wage of women in Colorado is 97 cents higher than the average weekly wage of women in the United States as a whole, the average weekly pay of men in Colorado is $3.62 higher than in the United States as a whole.

That is, in the United States as a whole, women receive an average of 55.3 per cent. of the average of men's wages. And in Massachusetts 62 per cent. of men's wages. In Colorado women receive on an average only 47 per cent. of the average of men's wages.

Labor Legislation Shows Constant Improvement.

The history of labor legislation shows conclusively that laws for the wage-earning woman are constantly improving, in accord with her increasing employment in the industrial world; that her rights and interests are best safeguarded in those states where her numbers and opportunties for work are greatest; and that each year sees new and better laws enacted by legislators who are bitterly denounced, by the advocates for woman suffrage, as unjustly discriminating against the wage-earning women.

Legislation for Working Women, 1912-1913.

The year 1912-1913 shows the remarkable improvement in laws affecting the wage-earning women. Seventy-two laws were enacted by the legislatures of 32 states affecting the employment of women and children. Chief in importance among them were the laws restricting or prohibiting night work by women and the numerous laws which were enacted or amended regulating the hours of her labor show a marked tendency to their continued reduction.

Only eight of the seventy-two laws were passed in woman suffrage States. Two of these laws were the eight hour laws of Arizona and Colorado already discussed elsewhere in this pamphlet, the nine-hour law of Idaho and the industrial commissions of Oregon, Utah, Colorado and California and Washington.

The history of labor legislation shows invariably that suffrage States, instead of being in the vanguard of remedial legislation, have usually lagged behind and have only enacted labor laws when the majority of male suffrage States have pointed the way.

Equal guardianship law passed in 1906.

Colorado—

Women were given suffrage July 6, 1893.An Act of April 7, 1893, submitted the question to a vote at the general election. In force July 6, 1893.

Equal guardianship law passed April 8, 1895.

"Every married woman is hereby constituted and declared to be the joint guardian of her children with her husband, with equal powers, rights and duties in regard to them with the husband. Upon the death of either father or mother, the surviving parent, whether of full age or a minor, of a child likely to be born or of a child under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried may by deed or last will, duly executed, dispose of the custody and tuition of such child during its minority or for any less time, to any proper person."

Idaho—

Women given suffrage by constitutional amendment ratified November 3, 1896. (Art. 6, Sec. 2.) In 1899, the election law was changed omitting the word "male" to conform to the amendment to the constitution.

Laws 1897, 55 Sec. 5774, seems to give equal guardianship. "Either the father or mother of a minor, being themselves respectively competent to transact their own business, and not otherwise unsuitable, must be entitled to the guardianship of the minor."

The law this repealed stated that the father was entitled to guardianship; if father were dead, the mother was so entitled.

State v Beslin, 19 Idaho 185 (1911) holds that this section combined with Section 2696,which makes the mother as well as the father liable for the child's support; and Sec. 2698, "When a husband and wife live in a state of separation, without being divorced," the court may award custody to either,—makes husband and wife equal guardians. "—She had equal right with the father to the actual care and custody of the child * * ." " * * The mother has equal rights to the custody of the child with the father."

This was a criminal action in which the defendant had assisted the mother in keeping her child from its father. The trial court convicted him of child stealing, but he was released on appeal.

Illinois—

"* * *the parents of the minor, if living, and in case of the death of either of the parents, the surviving parent, they being respectively competent to transact their own business and fit persons, shall be entitled to the custody of the person of the minor and the direction of his education. The parents of a minor shall have equal powers, rights and duties concerning the minor. In case the father and mother live apart, the court may, for good reason, award the custody and education of the minor to either parent or to some other person * * *."

Illinois Statutes Annoted 1913, Sec. 6001. The portion as to equal powers, rights and duties put in April 18, 1901. Prior thereto the husband was guardian; if husband were dead, the mother was guardian.

The father may by will dispose of the custody and tuition of the minor. "Provided no such will shall take effect to deprive the mother, during her life, of the custody and tuition of the child, without her consent. If she be a fit and competent person to have such custody and tuition." Act. July 1, 1872.

Ill. Stats. 1913, Sec. 6002.

If father is dead, the mother may by will dispose of the custody and tuition of the minor.

Guardianship of Children.

29. Cyclopoedia of Law 1588 states the law well;

"hWere the father and mother are living together they are jointly entitled to the custody of their children. But the primary right to the custody of the children is in the father, and at common law, in case the parents are living apart and there is a dispute as to the custody, the right of the father is superior to that of the mother. This common law rule, however, has been much modified by statutes under which the rights of the parents as against each other are equal, and the custody of the children is to be determined according to the exigencies of the particular case( citing Iowa, N. J., Ala., N. Y., Ohio, Pa., England), and even in the absence of statute the father has only a primary and not an absolute right, which is subject to the general rule that the welfare of the child is the paramount consideration, in pursuance of which the mother may be given preference over the father where her custody appears most beneficial to the child."

Even at common law, the mother was often preferred as custodian of the child. This is well stated on Draper v Draper, 68 Ill. 20.:

"It is objected that the court erred in decreeing the custody of the children to the mother instead of to the father; that he has the legal right to their custody.—Even at the common law, the court, acting for the best interests of the child, would, when of tender years, usually intrust it to the mother."

This decision was rendered more than twenty years ago.

Welch v. Welch, 33 Wis. 541.

Green v Green, 52 Iowa 403.

Giles v Giles, 30 Nebr. 624.

Cocke v Hannumfi 38 Miss. 439.

As long ago as 1826 in New York Chancellor Kent said (Vol. 2, Kent Commentaries, page 194) that in determining the custody of children, when the parents did not agree, it was the duty of the court to consider the welfare of the child, and that neither parent had an absolute right. If the child was of a sufficiently mature age to judge for itself, the court would consult the inclination of the child. For this he cites many cases, both in England and America.

In divorce,

"In selecting a custodian the courts are free in the exercise of a sound discretion to promote the welfare of the children, and are not bound to recognize the paramount right which the father had at common law to the custody of the children. The welfare of the children and the protection of their interests are the matters of primary consideration with the courts."

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND THE EQUAL GUARDIANSHIP LAW

A suffragist, writing on equal guardianship says:

"It took the mothers of Massachusetts fifty-five years to get an equal guardianship law, but after the women obtained the ballot in Colorado, the very next legislature enacted one."

The Colorado law was not the result of woman suffrage in that State, as the suffragist writer would have us infer, but was placed on the statute books through the efforts of a Buffalo woman, then a resident of Colorado, with the co-operation of good men in the Senate and House of the Legislature. Before she undertook the work for equal guardianship in Colorado, she returned to Buffalo and consulted with Mrs. George W. Townsend of that city who had succeeded in securing an equal guardianship law in New York the year before and who was able to advise her what lines to pursue.

It is not too much to say, therefore, that Mrs. Townsend was largely instrumental in the passage of the law for Colorado, as she had been in New York the previous year.

Mrs. Townsend was the active head of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union of Buffalo for years, was one of the most public-spirited women of the State, and has been identified with every movement in woman's behalf during the last thirty years. In answer to a letter of inquiry, she says of her efforts for equal guardianship:

"Knowing that the woman suffragists had been working for long years to secure equal guardianship, our Union was especially careful that the Suffrage Association should not know of the Union's effort until after the law was passed.

"I remember that a prominent suffragist called to see me as soon as she heard of it, and said, 'How did you acomplish this great good and not let us know?' And I answered, 'Because we did not let you know.' I think I was justified in saying that, because many men in both houses were so opposed to woman suffrage that they would not have voted for our bills. The guardianship bill was passed without a negative vote in either house.

"The work was done in a systematic manner. Circulars giving full information in regard to laws in other States, and as to what we desired to accomplish, and reasons therefor, were sent to every legislator. There was no lobbying, and, in fact, it was not necessary for me to go to Albany at all.

"My experience for eighteen years as President of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, in close relations with all classes of women, has led me to believe that the ballot given to woman at the present time would be more of a hindrance than a help, and I should never wish to see it without educational and other qualifications."

It appears, therefore, that, though enacted after woman suffrage was established, in point of time, the equal guardianship law of Colorado should not be credited to "equal suffrage"; in one case, at least, the efforts of the suffragists delayed its enactment for some years. And above all, the remarkable success of Mrs. Townsend and the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, as indicated in the vote on this bill, goes to prove that women can accomplish more along all lines of human betterment without the ballot, than with it. It all depends on the woman!

BRITISH SUFFRAGISTS ARE "LUNATIC FRINGE" OF CLASS

"Outlook," May 16, 1914.

The destruction by a militant suffragist (the name applied to a victim of the prevalent outbreak of hysteria) of a portrait of Henry James, the novelist, painted by Sargent, who is perhaps the most brilliant portrait-painter of his time, is especially interesting to us because both the artist and his subject are American. The portrait was a tribute from a group of friends to the distinguished novelist, and was hanging in the exhibition of the Royal Academy. A woman, very appropriately armed with a butcher's cleaver concealed under her clothing, approached it and suddenly slashed the picture so effectively as probably to destroy it.

It was a brutal attack in a field which ought to be neutral ground among civilized peoples, and it was a contemptible attack because it was secret. To assassinate a work of art is to destroy a public possession. It is to diminish the resources of society; it is to kill while evading the responsibilities of murder. The militants have succeeded in closing many of the most interesting buildings and treasures of art in England. They will probably now succeed in closing the exhibitions. So far as possible they are diminishing the resources of life.

It has been asked why the British Government does not end this form of ruthless guerrilla fighting by granting what the militants claim. But no concession would end this conflict. This method of agitation would not be ended with the achievement of the ballot for women. It is a temper which will be revealed whenever women of this type want things in the future which the majority is not disposed to give them. To recognize this kind of agitation as legitimate would be to encourage a form of outrage which would make society impossible. Women who are willing to destroy works of art and burn the property of private persons will not be satisfied with the ballot. They will never be satisfied unless what they want is instantly conceded to them. If they have the ballot they will use the same methods to secure whatever legislation they think ought to be passed. It is an issue which society must meet.

The agitation for suffrage is an entirely different matter; it is with the "lunatic fringe" of the suffragist movement that the British Government is dealing.

The Anti-Suffragist maintains that Woman's place is in the Home, because the Home and the family are the foundations on which rest the highest civilization.

In the Church, because from it derives her highest moral and spiritual help and inspiration, because in "fellowship with the Church we aid each other in doing and getting good."

In works of Charity and Philanthropy, because with a conscientious use of her leisure hours, she can better investigate the needs of the poor or helpless, and with her superior knowledge of the details of human necessities she can better alleviate suffering and aid poverty than can men, in their lives of long regular hours, of steady employment

In Social and Welfare service, especially conditions of vice affecting women and minors of both sexes, for similar reasons, and because generations of experience have taught that with woman to investigate evils, and instigate reform and improvement, men legislate and work for betterment, in every department of life.

In educational work in every branch, because it represents so strong an element in the preparation of the youth of every country for life.

We believe it to be her duty to personally understand and be competent to direct the working of every department of her home. To know that it is sanitary, healthy and wholesome in every detail. It is her duty to know, that upon her rest not alone the mental, moral and physical training of her children, but the welfare and happiness of every inmate of her home.

It is emphatically every woman's duty to acquaint herself with industrial conditions, and in every instance where they are wrong, to work for, and enforce remedial legislation, as we are constantly witnessing her power to do.

Every woman can, and it is her duty to do much towards remedying evils in industrial life, by refusing—even if it entails some sacrifice—to patronize shops which cannot satisfactorily demonstrate that their goods are manufactured and sold under healthful, safe and sanitary conditions. Furthermore that they pay every adult employe, male or female, a proper living wage.

We declare it the duty of every woman to study as far as is possible every department of civic and Governmental activity, and work untiringly for improvement and remedy wherever they are needed.

We are not, as we are declared by others to be, blind to conditions which need improving, laws, which are either inadequate, or not properly enforced, or to the necessity of laws being changed to meet changed conditions. We do, however, believe, that if every woman would devote the time and energy, which many are now expending, on a visionary but, to them, self-gratifying method of attacking evils, to making the direct attack through existing channels, improvement and change which is really progress, would follow.

We are upheld in that contention, by what women have done and are doing without the ballot, and will continue to do.

If men have made the complete failure of its use, which it is claimed that they have, we cannot expect the promised millenium from its use by women, nor have we had any proof of it in States in which Woman Suffrage has been established from three to forty-six years.

As witness Colorado.

The Anti-Suffragist maintains that men as a whole are as qualified to use the ballot conscientiously, thoughtfully, honestly as women as a whole. That their efforts always have been and always will be for the best good to the country as representing the Family and the Home; in the last analysis women and children.

When the Suffragist describes the voter, she apparently takes for her criterion the selfish unscrupulous politician whose only goal is self-gain.

When the Anti-Suffragist refers to the "voters" she takes as her criterion the vast majority of men in varied forms of industrial and professional life, whose goals are the highest fulfillment of their duty to others.

The Suffragist has before her a goal of self-gratification, the power to vote, because in it she sees a "privilege" granted to men, to which she claims a "right" instead of a duty and responsibility from which she is exempt.

The Anti-Suffragist has before her a goal of woman's work and duties as described and designated above, performed as women and not as party politicians, claiming as the "right" of the great majority of the women she represents, a continued exemption from the duties and responsibilities of men.

The issue of Equal Suffrage is the only one on which the Suffragists feel that men alone, are entirely qualified to vote, never having been willing that every woman should have an opportunity to register her personal opinion and desire on it.

The Anti-Suffragist relies upon the the New Jersey man of 1915 to ponder well the following points before committing all the women of his state to "Votes for Women."

First. It is the visible aspect of Feminism, Socialism and the ultimate destruction of the Home and the Family.

Second. How has Equal Suffrage fulfilled the claims made for it in Suffrage States?

Third. To realize how very small percentage of the women of the State are represented by the few who are clamoring for the ballot.

REINA A. LAWRENCE.

The vote is a symbol of government, and leads at once into the atmosphere of politics; to make herself an intelligent voter (and no other kind is wanted) a woman must study up the subjects on which she is to vote and cast her ballot with a personal knowledge of current politics in every detail. She must take it all from her husband, which means that he is thus given two votes instead of one, not equal suffrage, but a double suffrage for the man. In this connection, I am irresistibly reminded of the policeman at a Cooper Union woman suffrage meeting who thus spoke after it was over to a friend in the corridor.

"Do I believe in woman suffrage? Sure I do. There's my wife and my four daughters. If I had five votes to deliver, right out of my own house, I could get all I wanted in my district."

EMILY P. BISSELL.

THE MILITANT AND THE CHILD

By Mrs. Francis M. Scott.

The following words occur almost at the beginning of Edna Kenton's paper on "The Militant Woman, and Women" in the November Century: "The middle of the last century saw the stupendous upheaval with the 'Origin of Species' and 'The Descent of Man' marking the epochal divide." Thereafter follows a brilliant, glittering series of assertions which are never demonstrated, of accusations largely unfounded, and no conclusions at all that the amazed and earnest reader can discover. It is not my purpose, however, to attack Mrs. Kenton's bewildering article in detail nor, indeed, to attack it at all. The woman question or movement is world-wide, it is a part of the immediately modern environment in which we live, it both threatens and blesses, it inspires, it horrifies, and it often amazes.

The Lessons of Science.

If the "stupendous upheaval" of the nineteenth century had any teaching for us at all we should have learned at least these things: That specialization of function is a part of the evolutionary process; that differentiation of sex has been of age-long development, and always in one direction, the higher the development the more complete the differentiation; that evolution growth is slow and orderly; that abnormalities die on the way, effecting nothing; that the propagation of any species and its improvement is the only work in which Nature is interested and, finally, that not until man was reached has there been ,so far as we know, any appearance of what we call morality, nor any effort to govern or control or deny the sex desire.

Frankly I do not know just what is meant by "sex freedom" and "sex war." I do not know whether it means freedom and war for denial or freedom and war for the gratification of the fundamental impulse of life, therefore I am somewhat at a loss, but as I wish to touch the difficult part of this doctrine as delicately and as frankly as I can I will not stop for definitions. In the high hysterical mood so characteristic of the arguing woman when she attacks sex questions it is difficult to make her stop and remember that sex intercourse is as natural as breathing, and while not as necessary for life to the individual, here and now at this minute, is a necessity for the creation of the future generations who are to inherit the earth.

The obsession which impels the feminists to let this one aspect of life blot out every other is no more reasonable than an attempt to create a wild excitement on the subject of breathing, letting that important act direct and color every thought. Sanity and common sense demand that an end should be put to the unnatural and because unnatural, abhorrent attitude which is being assumed toward a phase of life gravely important if you like, but not its only controlling influence.

The Child.

The only way in which it should be held to be the controlling influence is in its consequence, and that consequence is utterly ignored in all the present wild talk and action. That consequence is the child.

In Mrs. Kenton's paper there are few allusions to the child. The following are the most important:

A statement that "in homes of one or two children lies another great reservoir of waste energy among women."

A little story of an English mother naturally and properly indignant at the laws ignoring of her claim to be considered legally the "parent" of her child and held justified thereby in becoming a "wild woman" in spite of her husband's wishes.

The paragraph in which the offensive phrase, "and England * * * still feels that the chief end of life is to spawn soldiers."

That is all. When the law was framed which the woman of the second quotation resents, the father alone was held responsible by the State for the well-being, the education, the feeding and housing of the child. All this is an outworn, outgrown condition. The law always lags, for its function is only to confirm, to put into a compulsory form for all what the people have already generally adopted and approved. Changes in the law do not demand fires and stones, but rather such an upbuilding of public opinion as shall force needed changes upon the statute books, as has been done and is still being done continuously in our own country.

It is a little difficult to write temperately of the third of the above quotations. The needless, cruel insult flung at every mother who has given her son to her country defeats itself by its own unworthiness. It is not as spawn that we would consider the overlooked, the forgotten, the deliberately ignored child. There are many other things written of by Mrs. Kenton—votes for women, office for women, economic independence for women, work for women, bombs and fire, hammers and stones, rioting and hunger-striking, and at last sex freedom and sex war for women! But what of the child? This fierce individualism which clutches at everything it sees, where will it bring the succeeding generations which must suffer for the madness which urges these women on beyond all reason?

Human Government.

Human society has slowly climbed from unspeakable depths of ignorance to its present place, from which it can at last take stock of itself, and, learning from the past, continue with intention and self-knowledge its upward way. The various forms of government which men have agreed to impose upon themselves have brought about in the last 500 years changes that are stupendous, changes that are generally speaking all for the betterment of the human race and all these changes for good have been wrought with the help of, and under the control of, what this article characterizes as "the blind, stupid, heavy thing that men conceive to be government."

What conception of government the feminists have it is difficut to comprehend. Mrs. Pankhurst, the high priestess of militancy, according to the newspaper reports, has just declared that "at last women have learned the joy of war, a joy too long withheld from them by men." Yet the despised men are outgrowing war, and more and more regarding it as only the last bitter resort, not a joy.

The New Psychology.

To quote further: "Perhaps the new psychology of the human race will have for its starting point neither male nor female, but the individual and its own." What does this mean? Are we then to be modestly aware of gender only and lose our hard earned sex, to be a possesive neuter, or are we to return to a dividing cell form of reproduction? Pseudo-science, to the informed, is only laughable and such a sentence as the above, if not entirely meaningless ,shows an amazing misapprehension of the stately march of human development.

The march includes, must include, the intellectual development of the whole race, women and men alike. No real difference of opinion exists on this point among intelligent, thoughtful persons, and no one desires to withhold from any human being the opportunity to fulfill him or herself. Let us grant this before we go further. I speak with assurance or every one of those with whom I have been associated in opposing votes or women. The vote is only a way of avoiding a physical contest over every difference of opinion. It is a convenience, a method of compromise, a very human and fallible instrument for the expression of the will of the people, but it has been made the war cry, the shibboleth, the crux of this modern movement. The desire for what it has come to mean has given birth to the militant woman. Mrs. Kenton is right when she says that "Militancy is not a disease, it is a symptom." Militancy is the discharging ulcer of the insidious disease of feminism.

Service.

"Every woman is a servant to or of some one or something, the servant half of the human race." Why this scorn? Is service then a contemptible thing? Have the long ages of the world rolled on and has the human race not yet learned that service is all there is of life, that individual freedom is a myth, that we work, suffer, love, and are glad together, that even at birth and death our lives rest on others, and that not our slightest act, perhaps not our slightest thought, is without its shaping influence?

Some years ago Benjamin Kidd wrote a book on Western civilization. He therein deduced from his examination of the law made and in process of making, from the lectures he heard, the conversations he had, and the keen observation he used in all his various inquiries, that the principle which inspired the civilization of Western countries was that of preparation for the future of the race, its physical and moral welfare, and to provide more perfect conditions for its development and growth. Such an admirable, and dignified, and worth-while principle is not animating these "wild women" who demand sex freedom, sex war, the legalized struction of unborn children, economic freedom and war anyway. They willfully misconstrue service into slavery, unless it is impersonal service, and demand a liberty amounting to license.

The Old Ideals.

When the feminists "refuse to accept the old ideals of the relations between men and women" what do they mean to substitute? The "ideals" have been good and pure ones, the following them, the practice, has ttoo often been another matter, but if we cannot look to our women to conserve the purity of the family, and only a very few of the most logical of these women see the necessity of this conclusion and, alas, accept it.

"It is a wise child that knoweth his own father," but, unless he can trust the woman, no man can know his own child, while no woman can be mistaken as to the paternity of hers. All a man's faith must rest on the woman. For her children's sake should she not carry her torch of purity hih? This is no plea for a double standard of chastity. Let there be but one, and let it be woman's, but because men since the history of the race began have been lax, do not let us, in proof of our emancipation, put ourselves, as Mrs. Kenton suggests, outside the "pale of mere convention," by breaking laws "as a protest against the lawmakers in power."

The stress laid upon economic freedom, and its "spiritual necessity" is out of all proportion to its importance. Marriage is a partnership, in which there should be a fair and equitable division of the labor of the famlly, and the first requisite of the woman's share in that partnership must be her freedom to consider first the welfare of the child, the future citizen, and nothing could be undertaken by the mother which might interfere with that most important duty.

It is for this reason, and this alone, that wherever possible a woman with children should be relieved of responsibilities which take her out of her home. It is because she may be needed, and needed imperatively, that it is wrong for her to undertake work the proper attention to which compels her to be constantly and regularly away from her home. This does not make her a slave to her husband, nor even to her children. It does, however, and should, make both mother and father the slaves of the future as foreshadowed in the child.

Wild Riot Will Die Down.

Fortunately this stormy gust which threatens to overcome us will be succeeded by a period of quiet, for the winds do not blow always. We are too close as yet to discern the wheat below the chaff which is blowing in our eyes, and then the sound of the wind is deafening. We may be sure that the feminists will not alter the human race, although for a little time they may harmfully and wantonly disturb some part of it. The wild riot of individualism will die down and the temple of service will stand clear again on the eternal hills. The little child shall again lead us, and we shall build painstakingly and slowly for the future of the race, having learned that we must take nature for our teacher, abide by her laws, follow her precepts, and reach such perfection as we may through constructive effort, and not by the incendiary, ungoverned haste and impetuosity of the militant woman.—New York Times, Nov. 16, 1913.

VOTE IS INJURIOUS TO WORKING WOMEN

Statement of Miss Marjorie Dorman.

Representing as I do an organization of self-supporting women, my approach to the question of woman suffrage must necessarily be a practical one. Our town and city governments are large corporations formed for the purpose of transacting public business with public funds. Women, as compared with men, have had but little experience in private or trust or corporate business affairs. In the report on Statistics of Women at Work issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor through the Bureau of the Census in 1907 it is stated that while 90 per cent. of the males of sixteen years of age and over in this country are wage earners, only 20 per cent. of the females of sixteen years of age and over are engaged in any kind of gainful pursuits. So long as this relative inexperience of women in business affairs continues—and unless the home is to be neglected, gentlemen, it must always continue—it is not to be expected that the combined votes of men and women will give as good results as the votes of men alone. As an organization of business women, the Wage Earners' Anti-Suffrage League maintains that the rights and property of all citizens, female as well as male, are more intelligently cared for at present than would be the case if women were added to the electorate. So much for the effect of the votes of women upon the general welfare.

Considering the question as to whether or not the ballot would confer any individual and material benefit upon the 20 per cent. of women in industrial and professional life, we have only to recall the fact that millions of male voters are out of work in this country today to realize the absurdity of such a question. Nevertheless, the belief that the ballot would materially aid the women who toil leads many estimable but illogical women to join the suffrage movement. We realize, however, that the ballot does not control the laws of supply and demand, and that education and personal efficiency are the only methods leading to individual success.

Relative to the 20 per cent. of women who are bread-winners in this country, it is interesting to note that 40 per cent. are engaged in personal and domestic service. Therefore my sex, without the medium of the ballot-box, already possess the power to effect beneficient changes in the lives of nearly half the women who toil in the United States. Moreover, 23 per cent. of this 20 per cent. are under voting age. Hundreds of thousands of girls enter the industries at fourteen and sixteen years of age and leave them to enter homes of their own before they are twenty-one. Woman's relation to labor is transient and accidental, not permanent like that of man.

It has been stated by Suffragists that we working women need the ballot in order to secure adequate laws for our protection. Since only one woman in every five is a working woman, and since force of numbers controls in all elections, it would be difficult for the 20 per cent. of working women to outvote the 90 per cent. of working men to obtain any legislation favorable to themselves without the aid of men's votes. This statement, that working women must vote in order to obtain juster legislation is, moreover, a libel on American manhood, which American women are quick to resent.

The moment women entered the industries and attempted to become the economic competitors of men they at the same time became an object of solicitude to the general public.

Every labor law which men have placed on the statute books of this country is a blanket law and protects the woman who toils beside the man. Such laws, like the splendid employers' liability law which was recently passed in New York State, read "all employees," "any employee," "no employee." There is nowhere to be found any law which discriminates against working women in favor of working men. On the contrary, in every section of this country, but particularly in the East, special sex legislation has been and is being devised which discriminates against the working man in favor of the working woman—and this done by the votes of men, gentlemen. They have given us every protection possessed by themselves, plus numerous laws by which they, on the contrary, are not protected.

Already the abolition of night work for woman is assured in several States—it must be abolished in all States. It can never be abolished for men. Certain dangerous occupations such as the running of elevators, the cleaning and oiling of moving machinery, the handling of explosives, etc., is prohibited to women in some States—these should be prohibited to women in every civilized community. The same is true of all occupations requiring constant standing. Provision for seats for female employees in stores and shops has been made by the laws of numerous States—but men neither ask nor receive such protection. Women are protected by some sort of minimum wage legislation in Massachusetts, Oregon and California; it is being considered in one form or another in many other States. Moreover, we working women have an eight, nine or ten hour day in several States. Thus without the vote working women have obtained protective laws which men, with the vote, have never, and never will, secure.

Far from wishing to abrogate these laws and place the working man and woman on a legal equality, we seek still greater protection and privilege from the law for women in every occupation. It is obviously impossible, for the sake of future generations, that the law abolish the distinctions hitherto made between the strength of men and the weakness of women. Honorable women, however, cannot confront abstract justice and demand greater protection than that accorded men unless they ask this protection in the name of weakness. To add this weakness, propped up as it is by exemption from military and jury duty the very foundations of our government. Gentlemen, every successful business man will tell you that this is an age of specialization. Since, according to the last census, only 19.5 per cent. of the women of this country are unmarried, it is only natural to suppose that the great majority of women are concentrating and specializing on the American baby crop. This is the most direct influence a woman can bring to bear upon the State. She brings it through the channels of education and religion in the quiet haven of home. Do not force these homes and these mothers into that struggle for temporal place and power, which is politics. Do not insist that women of this nation become partisans and combatants. The moral force of women has been great hitherto solely because they were outside the political conflict, and so were disinterested. Whatever women might gain in material or practical knowledge would be more than offset by the dust and grime of the struggle. Let us, ratner, like the wise men, follow the light of a star and lay whatever gifts of genius we possess at the feet of a little child. Surely a wise woman can do no nobler thing.

THE VOTE IN AUSTRALIA

In "The Unexpurgated Case Against Woman Suffrage," Sir Almroth Wright states that "the woman voter of the colonies is only a pawn in the game of politics, and of the opportunist politicians who have enfranchised her."

In "Australia, From a Woman's Point of View," Miss Jessie Ackermann, a prominent Suffragist, makes the following remarks on the point raised by Sir Almroth Wright:

"The women electors are divided into two classes: those who want to vote and use it, and those who regard citizenship as a joke, and a very unpleasant one at that.

"It is a statement of fact to declare that the individual is so party-ridden as to be anti-anything and everything that is not clearly and plainly branded with the party earmark.

"There are but two political parties and, each being so criminally 'anti,' the women are at a great disadvantage in exercising the vote. The many who 'detest' it foolishly imagine they have nothing either to gain or lose by the use of it. The other class is composed largely of the wives of working-men.

"It would be unfair to other women to say that the Labour women vote because they are burdened with a sense of responsibility they dare not shirk. It is not true. They vote largely from party instinct.

"(The polling of Labour women) is due to the unrelenting, every-acting agencies of organization. In many parts of Australia a leader among the working-women knows where to put her hand on her forces at any hour. Not only so, bue she is able to marshal them into line in quick time. They are in small companies ready to take up marching orders at the first call to action. Upon election days they swarm to party rescue from every quarter."

To which she adds in reply to "their being pawns in the game of politics," "The point is not how or why they vote, but that they vote."

Finally, in regard to the expression used by Sir A. Wright, "the opportunist politicians who have enfranchised her," a striking confirmation of the accuracy of the description is given by Miss Ackermann. Miss Ackermann states that in Western Australia, "a society of women" passed the following resolution and "appointed a committee to wait upon the Government, requesting them to bring in a Bill" on the lines indicated:

"Whereas, The ballot was thrust upon the women of this State to meet a political and party emergency, before public sentiment was ripe for it, and no effort has been made to educate them up to the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. Resolved: That the Government be called upon to enforce voting by all men and women duly qualified, under penalty of a fine of five pounds for the first offense, and a month's imprisonment for the second."

It is quite true that the "experience" of Australia, if rightly interpreted, has much to teach us regarding the experiment of Woman Suffrage.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AS IT IS IN NEW ZEALAND

By A Woman Doctor.

I have been asked what my personal experience of the Woman question is in New Zealand. It is that the emancipators of women have gone very much too far. The idea many people at home have of New Zealand, based largely on the inflated statements of a few who lead the van of "progress," is that a few really or would-be enlighttened Acts on a statute-book have made a Utopia in the Southern Pacific. Even if this idea were correct, it would not necessarily be a proper model for the Old County to copy. I consider myself that whether Woman Suffrage is the cause, or merely one of the consequences, or simply an accompaniment this country is not one of happy family life. The census returns are not yet issued, so I cannot give the very latest statistics, and, in any case, statistics prove very little. Marriage is not so frequent here as it should be in a young country; the small birth-rate causes continual anxiety, and incessant appeal for increase of population by emigration from Great Britain; the high death-rate amongst children is a disgrace to the women of New Zealand. In the opinion of many schoolmasters and doctors, and some soldiers I have met, who hail from the Old Country, and, therefore are able to make a comparison, the proportion of nervous children is very large, particularly among the boys. The standard of education is low; the public school code sets a high ideal, but one that most of the schools fall far short of, except in large centres, and it must be remembered our "towns" would often be called "villages" at home. Divorce is thought much less of here than at home, but what is grievously common is separation by mutual consent and wife desertion, matters which frequently cannot appear in statistics, as many cases never come before the Courts. Wife desertion is so serious in extent, that special legal arrangements have had to be made with the authorities at Sydney, which is the nearest port for any in a hurry to leave New Zealand, just as Calais is for England.

Catching Them Young.

A few years ago the newspapers showed us the poetry of the youngest life member of the National Suffrage Association, a child just three months, still in long dresses. A year ago, a newspaper informed us of the appearance of the youngest suffragette, a youngster whose seven summers had given her such wisdom in government affairs that she was addressing a Legislature in behalf of "Votes for Women."

Now comes the news from Middleboro, Mass., that in the seventh grade of the Grammar School there are thirty girls organized to promote the cause of Woman Suffrage. Fortunately for the peace of mind of the citizens of Middleboro, these doughty champions promise that they will not break windows, but they do hold fast to the hope that "they will interest the men in the movement." The boys have not been let in as yet, but the "will come in handy in passing out literature."

America has been treated to political advice from women across the sea, fresh from college, who with no knowledge of the conditions which obtain in our politics, sought to advise us in regard to this "revolutionary change," as Mr. Gladstone pronounced Woman Suffrage.

Now it seems, we are to have aid from nearer home and we await with interest the organization of the kindergartens, for it would seem that this germ of hysteria and emotionalism attacks youth as well as those of middle age.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND CHILD LABOR LEGISLATION

(1914)

(By MINNIE BRONSON.)

The question of child labor from the standpoint of the State is not a question of sentiment but one of racial deterioration and industrial effectiveness.

A free government demands an intelligent citizenship for its support, and its industrial and commercial superiority depends upon the mental, physical and moral worth of its people. It is the province therefore of the State to enact laws to protect children from the demoralizing effects of premature labor and insure to them that physical, mental and moral development which is required to produce the efficient adult citizen.

During the last twenty years nearly all of the States of the United States have taken practical measures for the protection of minors who are wage-earners. Where it was found that labor interfered with the mental development of the child, the state passed laws to insure that child his right to the educational advantages which the State furnishes as its safeguard from illiteracy and ignorance. When it was found that labor stunted the physical development of the child the State interfered on the broad principle of the physical welfare of the race and passed laws restricting the age at which children could be employed as wage earners. Compulsory education laws have been passed in every State but seven and in two of these States certain counties and cities are subject to compulsory school attendance laws. Child labor laws have been passed in every State but seven and in two of these States certain counties and cities are subject to compulsory school attendance laws. Child labor laws have been passed in every State of the United States.

These laws were in the beginning meager and but slightly protective, but wherever the general public became awakened to the fact that child labor existed here in America, that young children were to be found in our coal mines, in glass factories, cotton mills, etc., public opinion demanded better and more efficient laws for their protection and each year has seen the tide rising. States hitherto indifferent are constantly joining the ranks and the laws are gradually becoming more inclusive and stringent.

The last three years show the most remarkable progress in our history. In 1911 legislative sessions were held in forty-one States. Of these no less than thirty enacted new laws relating to child labor. In 1912, out of fourteen States which held legislative sessions, important improvements were made in five States, Arizona, Minnesota, Maryland, Mississippi and Rhode Island, and in 1913, of forty-three States holding legislative sessions, thirty-two enacted bills bearing on child labor.

It has been claimed by those who see in the enfranchisement of women the solution of all the ills of our body politic, that legislation for the protection of children would be more easily secured if women had the franchise. On the other hand, those of us who oppose Woman Suffrage, believe that women can, and have, accomplished more along this line by creating public opinion against injustice to the child and influencing legislation toward the conservation of the race than if they worked the ballot as men do.

The ballot can do nothing. The organization in all States of child labor committees, with the sole object of promoting remedial legislation for the children who work, the fact that these committees are composed not only of women but of men who vote, answers conclusively the claim. These committees have done more to promote child labor legislation than all other influences combined, and the women members have influenced the result as much as the men, and the fact that the latter had the ballot has not increased either their influence or their effectiveness. Moreover, a study of laws for children which exist in suffrage and non-suffrage States further refutes the theory, for the best child-labor laws are found not in the States where women vote, but in those States where men only have the franchise.

In the following comparison of laws it must be borne in mind that the child labor laws of Oregon, Kansas and Arizona were passed under male suffrage.

Reference to child labor laws discloses first that the ages below which child labor is prohibited varies from twelve to eighteen years. Second, that the number of employments varies greatly from all work to mine work only. Obviously the States which prohibit child labor in several occupations have more effective legislation than those which prohibit work in only one or two, even though the age limit is the same.

Wyoming and Utah prohibit work in mines and dangerous occupations only. (1) while the States of North Dakota, Minnesota, Oregon, Oklahoma and Nebraska with practically identical conditions prohibit the employment of children in twenty-five specified employments and all children under fourteen years, without exception, during school hours.

Only five States in the United States place the working age in mines and factories as low as twelve years. Idaho, a suffrage State for nearly eighteen years, is one of the five and in Idaho mining is one of the great industries of the State. (2)

Nineteen States prohibit the employment of children under sixteen in employments hazardous to life and limb, such as adjusting belts on machinery, circular and band saws, rolling mill machinery, etc. Of these nineteen States the law of Colorado alone is in any sense due to the votes of women.

Seven States prohibit the employment of minors under eighteen years in a specified list of seventeen specially dangerous occupations, such as hoisting machines or dynamos, establishments wherein nitro-glycerine, dynamite, etc., are manufactured. None of these are suffrage States save Arizona, and Arizona's law was passed under male suffrage. (3)

Eleven States prohibit the employment of minors under twenty-one in barrooms. The Western male suffrae States of Nevada and South Dakota are two of the eleven, but sunrage States of Nevada and South Colorado and Wyoming where women have voted from twenty to forty-five years, are conspicuously absent. (4)

Hours of Labor.

Sixteen States prohibit the employment of boys under the age of sixteen and girls under eighteen years for more than six days a week or more than eight hours a day or before 7 o'clock in the morning or after 6 o'clock in the evening. (5)

These States include the great industrial States of New York, Massa*chusetts, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin,* Mississippi, Indiana and the western male suffrage States of Minnesota, Nevada, North Dakota and Missouri, while of the three suffrage States in the list two, namely, Arizona and California, passed the law under male suffrage.

In reference to night work, thirty States set an early closing hour for children under sixteen, New York lead all the rest by setting the hour at 5p. m., but none are later than 8 p. m. Children have no postitive immunity from night work unless the hours are explicitly stated between which it is unlawful to employ them. Colorado and Arizona alone of the suffrage States have such a law and Arizona's law was passed under male suffrage. (6)

California prohibits night labor for children under eighteen, but the closing hours is 10 p. m., while Washington, where women have voted for nearly four years, prohibits chiid labor at night in bake shops only. (7)

Previous to the winter of 1911 Colorado, where women had then voted for eighteen years, had practically no protective legislation for the child who works. The law then on the statute books was passed in 1891, two years before woman-suffrage carried in that State.

The best feature of the law of 1911 was the eight-hour provision for children under sixteen, but eleven male suffrage States had had such a law for years.

Mr. Edward N. Clopper, of the National Child Labor Committee, says: "In Vol. VIII of the report on the condition of woman and child wage-earners in the United States referring to juvenile delinquency, says: that the largest number of delinquent boys is found in those occupations in which the nature of the employment does not permit supervision, namely, newspaper selling, errand running, delivery service and messenger service. Boys engaged in these occupations, together with bootblacks and peddlers, all work under conditions which bring them into continual temptations to dishonestly and other offenses.

"In Colorado the only restriction imposed by the State Legislature for this kind of work relates to girls un*der ten years, there being no interfer*ence whatever with the sacred rights of boys to exploit themselves in city streets. In Utah the age limit for selling papers and other publications is twelve years for boys and sixteen years for girls, but for female bootblacks the law describes a graceful downward curve reducing the age limit to twelve years, thereby opening up a new field of usefulness for all the little girls who wish to follow the dainty, dignified and essentially feminine profession of shining shoes at the gutter's edge." (8)

In Washington, a suffrage State since 1910, any child, boy or girl, ten years of age, is permitted to beg or peddle or sing on the street for gain. (9)

The report of the Child Labor Committee for November, 1913, says:

"It is scarcely more perilous for girls than it is for boys to sell papers, peddle gum, guide beggars, black shoes and tend stands or engage in any other form of street trading. Not only do children who work thus out of schol hour gradually fall behind in their studies and reach a limit of mental capacity lower than the promise of earlier years, but physically and morally they suffer positive harm." And yet in Colorado, which suffragists claim has the safest and most progressive children's law on the statute books of any State, boys of any age may engage in street trades and girls, if they have reached the age of ten.

"Wisconsin, a male suffrage State, has set the highest mark so far attained in this country in the protection of both boys and girls in this work, the age limit for girls being eighteen years, while boys under twelve are forbidden to sell newspapers and boys under fourteen may not engage in any other street trade." (10)

Two notable advances were made in the standards of protection of working children during the year 1913, both of them in male suffrage States: (11)

1. Ohio adopted a children's code, the first state to codify its laws relating to children. This code fixes a minimum age limit for employment at fifteen years for boys and sixteen years for girls. This is the highest age limit reached for girls in any state and this was enacted the very next winter following the defeat of woman suffrage in Ohio by 87,455.

2. Enactment of a law in the male suffrage State of Massachusetts limiting the hours of labor for children under eighteen to eight per day. Fourteen other States already had this law, but Massachusetts is the first commonwealth in the world with cotton textile manufacturing as the leading industry to establish to high a standard.

Also two notable defeats mar the record of child labor legislation for 1913: (12)

1. The Uniform Child Labor Law was defeated in Idaho, a woman suffrage State, by a vote of 31 to 12.

2. Utah, a woman suffrage State, defeated a bill fixing an eighteen-year limit for specially hazardous occupations, although seven male suffrage States have written such a law on their statute books.

Much has been said of the report of the Inter-Parliamentary Union that Colorado had the sanest and most progressive children's law in the world. This statement has reference to the Juvenile Court of Colorado and referred especially to the provision which makes a parent responsible for the delinquency of a child. But there are nineteen States where women do not vote which make the parent responsible for the child and the penalty is equal, if not greater, than in Colorado. The only difference is a difference of method with the advantage against Colorado. In the latter State, a boy must be pronounced delinquent and get into court before the parent is obligated, while in the nineteen States mentioned the parent is held responsible if the child is sent to work before he is of legal age. It is true this constitutes delinquency in the Colorado law, but unfortunately in the latter State no proof of age is required other than the affidavit of the parent or guardian, though twenty-five male suffrage States require documentary proof in the form of birth or baptismal certificates.

Mr. Owen Lovejoy, Secretary of the National Child Labor Committee in his report of the proceedings at Birmingham, Ala., in March, 1911, says:

"The States which do not require proof of the child's age, or at least any proof worthy of the name, are Colorado, Florida, Louisiana, Nevada, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Wyoming, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Wisconsin, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

"Our agents have frequently found eight, nine and ten-year-old boys applying for work in these States upon affidavits certifying them to be fourteen or sixteen years of age.

"When we lay upon the greedy parent the temptation to deceive in order to secure employment for a child we are guilty of placing the burden upon the weak, where it does not belong, and promoting perjury by process of law.'

It will be noticed that the four equal suffrage States of Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming are all in Mr. Lovejoy's list. The truth is that the suffrage States, far from being in the van of remedial legislation for children, have been laggards in the work. Not one of them has been a pioneer in the movement, but they have always followed the lead of other states in child labor laws, and usually long after these laws have been incorporated in the statutes of adjoining States.

The Juvenile Court Law of Colorado is deservedly famous, but it was not the first court of its kind established in the United States. (13) The law establishing a Juvenile Court in Illinois was passed some time before the Colorado law and its features were practically the same. It was the Juvenile Court Law of Illinois that formed the basis for the Colorado law, and Chicago had a juvenile court some years before the Denver court was established.

The National Child Labor Committee has prepared a model child labor law for uniform legislation. It followed the principle of embodying in the text the best provisions contained in the laws of the various States. The bill contains forty-nine sections and the following table shows the number of these model provisions already enacted in the suffrage States and those of similar locality and conditions:

Wyoming contains none
Idaho contains none
Colorado contains seven
Utah contains eight
California contains twelve
Oregon contains fourteen
Oklahoma contains fifteen
North Dakota contains fifteen
Minnesota contains twenty
Nebraska contains twenty-five
Wisconsin contains twenty-seven (14)

These facts are not given with any intention of disparaging the work of the four equal suffrage States, but merely to disprove the claim of the suffragists that if women were given the ballot they would bring about better laws for the protection of children than exist under male suffrage. *Neither can they claim that the inad*equacies of the law are due solely to the conditions of life and labor in a western and chiefly agricultural community, for we find North Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Oklahoma with better provisions and more inclusive laws.

Judge Lindsay says that inadequate labor laws in Colorado no more prove that women should not vote than that men should not vote. Perhaps that is true, but Judge Lindsay utterly mistakes the purpose of their citation, which is to show that women have not bettered things in these respects where they have had the opportunity to vote; that the ballot in the hands of women has had no influence whatever upon child labor legislation.

Women Are Better Protected Than Men by Labor Legislation.

It is claimed by Suffragists that more men than women enjoy the benefits of a working day limited by law. This is simply equivalent to saying that there are more men than women engaged in industry. No one denies this obvious fact. In every seven bread-winners only one is a woman. It is further stated that in twelve States the working day is limited to eight hours for men in mines, without a corresponding law for women. But in all of these twelve States the law forbids the employment of women in mines, a far more humane law than if they were allowed to work for eight hours a day as do men.

It is also claimed that men in the public service of State or Federal Government have an eight-hour law, but this law applies equally to women in public service, and in Washington, D. C., where government employes have a seven-hour working day, the number of men and women employed are nearly equal and neither can vote.

It is also said that twenty-four States have an eight-hour working day for men on railroads and allied industries, but these laws were passed for the protection of the traveling public from the dangers incident to overworked train employes.

And further that many States prohibit the employment of men, in occupations dangerous to health, for more than eight hours a day. But here again women are protected since they are forbidden to work in such dangerous occupations at all.

Present Standard of Remedial Legislation Has Been Reached Without the Vote of Women.

These are facts which cannot be controverted either by assertion or argument. Such misleading statements have been made in reference to the subject that the wage-earning woman is led to believe that existing laws were framed not for her protection, but for her extinction. And yet the history of legislation of all past time shows no such improvement in humane laws, as that enacted in the last decade for the protection and safeguarding of the women and children who work.

If so much has been accomplished without the votes of women, and so little has been done with this vote, it would seem to behoove the wage-earning woman to inquire carefully into the specious promises of the advocates for equal suffrage. Such inquiry will show her that the variation in the wage paid to male and female workers is due partly to the operation of the law of supply and demand, and partly to the impermanence of women as wage-earners, and that neither the wage paid to woman nor remedial legislation in her behalf depends upon her political status.

It is hardly conceivable that equal suffrage would reverse the remedial legislation already enacted, but the constantly reiterated demand that woman shall be allowed to stand on exactly the same footing as man may render ineffective much of the law which now gives her an advantage.

FIGURES TO SHOW FEW VOTE IN SUFFRAGE STATES

Official records show an immense contrast between the total possible vote in States where women vote and the actual vote. This article compares the record of six "suffrage" States and six adjoining "non-suffrage" States.

The figures indicate either that the imposition of the vote upon women has caused a host of men to evade the responsibility of the ballot or that very few women vote in the suffrage States.

In either case the problem is serious and additional proof of the perils of woman suffrage.

Figures showing the surprising weakness of the total vote of both males and females in the six suffrage States in the Presidential election of 1912 and the contrasting high percentage of the total vote in six adjoining non-suffrage States.

*Then a non-suffrage State.

If 69 per cent. of the men voted in the woman suffrage States, as they did in the non-woman suffrage States, an anlysis of the figures shows that only 17.8 per cent. of the women voters in the suffrage States actually voted.

Here are the striking facts: In the six woman suffrage States only 47½ per cent. of the total possible vote was cast. In the six non-suffrage States near the suffrage States 69 per cent. of the total possible vote was cast, showing that woman suffrage, according to these statistics, which have been secured from the Secretaries of State of the various States and from the most accurate published figures available, tends to decrease the actual voting strength rather than to increase healthy interest in politics.

"It is a mistake to believe that the baby any more than the older child, needs the direct care and presence of the mother. Careful experiment has shown that a new-born baby does not know its own mother, and a new-made mother does not know her own baby."—Mrs. C. P. Gilman in "Woman and Economics."

"The home is the enemy of woman. Purporting to be her protector, it is her oppressor. It is her fortress, but she does not live in the state apartments, she lives in the dungeon."—W. L. George in "Woman and Tomorrow."

THE RED BEHIND THE YELLOW SOCIALISM IN WAKE OF SUFFRAGE

The writer stood on Fifth avenue one night last November watching the woman suffrage parade. It moved past him a giddy, fluttering mass of yellow, its bands playing popular airs, while the marchers kept time with their yellow jack o'lanterns hoisted on sticks. Their faces were wreathed in smiles, and now and again they broke into song as this or that popular tune caught their fancy. It was a veritable fairyland of dancing yellow.

Suddenly the scene changed. The yellow was gone, and in its place was red—red sashes, red banners, red hat bands, red dresses. The light, gay music had died away, and there burst on the night air the solemn, stirring strains of the "Marseillaise," the famous revolutionary anthem. Men and women were marching past now, hundreds of them in close ranks, with firm, steady tread, determination written on their grim, set faces. All was red, red, red, and, as the writer gazed, stunned by the sudden, weird transformation, he saw displayed on the red banner the inscription —Every Socialist is a Woman Suffragist.

Behind that giddy body of yellow Suffragists came the compact mass of red clad Socialists. Just so in our whole nation today. Socialists are behind Woman Suffrage and, if they should succeed in getting it, as the red suddenly flashed out in place of the yellow before the writer's eyes in the parade that November night, so will the Socialist Republic and the Co-operative Commonwealth burst forth close in the wake of Woman Suffrage.

Do you realize what this would mean? Do you appreciate what Socialism stands for?

In the Economic Revolution, the Socialists propose to do away with private productive property. The State will then own everything, and every one will work for the State for a living.

The Socialists call our present marriage cermoney "useless and ridiculous," and they intend to substitute for it "a mutual understanding" that can be terminated by "quick, easy di*vorce at the will of either party.*" People will then "live like birds." In the place of our homes of today, they will give us one kitchen, one laundry, etc., for many so-called families. They will even have State nurseries to take care of the children after they are a year old, while their mothers are out working for a living under the State.

Earl Marx, the father of Socialism, speaks thus of the family and home life in "The Communist Manifesto:"

"On what foundation is the present family based? On capital, on private gain. In its completely developed form, this family exists only among the bourgeoisie. But this state of things finds its complement in the practical absence of family among the proletarians (working class) and in public prostitution: The bourgeoisie family will vanish as a matter of course when its compliment vanishes, and both will vanish with the vanishing of capital."

Already the Woman's Suffrage Party of Cook county, Illinois, of which Mrs. Charlotte Rhodus is president, have officially declared that "the sanctity of marriage is meaningless." They have addressed an open letter to the Illinois Legislature which states: "Under the regime of sanctity, ninety per cent. of the race have become weaklings. Under sanctity white slavery has grown to astonishing proportions. The church should cease to enforce its designs by means of a civil law;" and this same organization has made "easy divorce" its slogan.

The increasing Socialist vote in the suffrage States shows that the Socialists are right in identifying suffrage with socialism. And this is in pioneer communities, where Socialism makes a less powerful appeal than in the manufacturing districts and crowded cities of the East, where the Socialist gains would be even more rapid and startling, if women were given the vote. The Socialists have already opened naturalization bureaus in New York city for the purpose of making citizens of foreign-born women so they can vote for Socialism if they get the ballot. They are conducting an extensive campaign among women to educate them in Socialism.

The Progressive Woman has this to say editorially:

"Get something done. Bring Socialism to the attention of women voters and Suffragists. They are fighting for justice. And by fighting for justice they are fighting the capitalist system, which exists by justice alone. Act! Move! Hustle! for the realization of our slogan: A half million Socialist women voter in 1916, and a 50 per cent. woman membership in the Socialist party."

Daniel DeLeon, one of the most prominent American Socialists, says: "All the facts, all the reasoning, focus into one conclusion. Woman suffrage must take its place as an integral splinter in the torch that lights the path of the social revolution."

There is no getting away from the fact that Woman Suffrage and Socialism are indissolubly linked. In a state of affairs recognized by every serious student of political and social conditions today. Socialists like Inez Milholland, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Alice Stone Blackwell and Jessie Ashley are prominent leaders in the Woman Suffrage party. All Socialists favor Woman Suffrage because they know what it means to their cause. We are indeed threatened by a red peril in a yellow cloak.

Where do you stand? Are you in favor of it? Do you care to see private property abolished? Do you agree with Miss Ashley that wifehood is slavery? Do you think that the marriage ceremony is "useless and ridiculous?" Do you wish to have it done away with for "a mutual understanding" to be broken at the will of either party?

If you want these things, then work for Woman Suffrage with the Socialists. But, if you hold your family relations, your home, your religion, as sacred and inviolate, if you desire to preserve them for yourself and for your children for all time, then work with all your might against the companion, the handmaid, the forerunner of Socialism—Woman Suffrage.

OLDER SUFFRAGISTS ARE DISMAYED BY OTHERS

The November Century prints a long article called "The Militant Woman—and Women," in which the writer, an ardent feminist, says: "It was St. Paul who laid down the Christian ideal for women; nothing invented of man has ever had a more stultifying effect upon the character and morals of women and men."

This frank indictment of the Christian ideal of womanhood will cause many people to inquire with interest what is being offered in its place. That the ideals of the younger Suffragists differ radically from those of an older generation has been clearly brought out in a recent article in Harper's Weekly by Winifred Harper Cooley, in which she comments with amusement on the dismay of the middle-aged Suffragists at the radical utterances of the younger women in their ranks. She says these older women have not kept up with the times—that to them the vote is a fetish, which they want merely to prove their equality with man and to "demonstrate democracy"—but that the younger women consider the vote the merest tool, a means to an end—that end being a complete social revolution.

Miss Inez Milholland (ardent Suffragist, and believer in Feminism, of which she says suffrage is only the "immediate political aspect") takes the same line of argument in an article in McClure's. She says that a large part of the Suffragists are women of the old types, bred to another standard and naturally conservative, "but it will certainly not be long before the steady influx to the voting ranks of these million of younger women whose impressions are being formed in the more alert, stirring air of today will bring the real issues more sharply before us; and it is to be assumed that the institutions most likely to be changed are the institutions in which the sex as a sex is most peculiarly and vitally interested; namely, the home and marriage itself."

(To this we would reply that it is highly desirable that they should be made acquainted.—Editor.)

EVERETT P. WHEELER TELLS WHY VOTES FOR WOMEN ARE UNNECESSARY

The first point in a discussion like this is to see distinctly where the two sides differ. We who are opposed to the extension of political suffrage to women do not object to either of two things:

1. To the giving to all citizens who are women the same civil rights that men, as citizens, have.

2. To giving to women who are qualified the opportunity to do any right work that they are fit to do.

What we do object to is the imposition of the burden of political activity upon the women citizens of voting age, which the majority do not desire and for which most of them are unfitted by virtue of their very constitution and the part they have to perform in the body politic, which is of far greater importance than any political part. We maintain that the effect of political suffrage to women wherever it has existed for any considerable time has been evil and not good. We maintain that there is no good result which could be attained by the extension of political suffrage to all women citizens that cannot be better accomplished by leaving the suffrage where it is, allowing, however, free opportunity to qualify women to impress their views of social reform upon the voters and upon committees of legislative bodies.

Civil Rights of Men and Women Now Equal.

1. There have been times undoubtedly, both ancient and modern, when the civil rights of women, both in person and property, have not been as well protected as those of men. But without the ballot and by force of reason and argument in most civilized countries the person of woman and her property are now just as sacred, just as carefully guarded, and in many instances more so than those of man. For example, a woman who is a citizen has precisely the same rights to appeal to the courts for protection that a man has. If she needs more immediate protection than the courts can give, she has the same right to appeal to the police.

Equal Opportunities Now Open to Women.

2. There have also been many periods in history both ancient and modern, in which the woman did not have opportunities of education or for the use of her talents comparable to those of man. But in all civilized countries now, education is open to women. In many countries, and especially in America, colleges are endowed, high schools and common schools are supported by the State and are open equally to women as to men. There are many women physicians, many more women nurses. The majority of teachers in America are women. They are trained at the public expense and provision is rapidly being made for similar training in other countries.

There are exceptional women who are called to great public careers. I would not hold them back. In this State where women have not political suffrage, that noble woman, Katherine Bement Davis, has just been made head of the Department of Correction in this city of six million people.

The suffragists love to refer to Joan of Arc. Had I lived in her time I would gladly have marched under her banner. She was the greatest general in France. The suffrage did not put her at the head of the army. She was too wise to ask the women of France to follow her. She knew it was better for the commonwealth that they should do their duty at home.

But we are told that times have changed, and that the progress of civilization is driving women into wage earning employments. The reason why so many women go into industrial pursuits is mainly this—that the education they asked has opened these pursuits to them. The demand for the public education of women, for example, has given girls the training without which they could not possibly become teachers or skilful stenographers or typewriters or telegraph operators. And so you may go through the whole list.

No doubt there are many instances where women have to work to earn a living just as men do. They always have done this. In the old days, spinning and weaving at home was work. It is also work when done at a factory. Indeed many women reformers advocate the prohibition of work in the house for pay, and maintain that it is better to have this done in a factory. In any case it was work in the old days and is work now. But the fact not to be considered an objection by those who want women to be on the same plane as men. The great majority of human beings earn their own living in one way or another. The American idea is that labor is honorable; that those who earn their living are really more to be respected than those who do not. So let us dismiss the claim that the suffrage is necessary to enable women to be freed from the duty of earning their own living.

Other suffragists argue that if they get into power and control legislatures they will raise the wages of women. This can never be done by legislation except in the case of persons employed by the State. No doubt there are many cases of hardship where women are undrepaid. So also are many men. We who are opposed to woman suffrage are doing more to improve the condition of working women than the suffragists. Our methods are practical, theirs ineffective. Women have been protected and cared for by men in a degree increasing with civilization. Some of them are tired of this and want to be independent. The economic independence of woman is their cry. Sex independence is another cry. Yet when it comes to the point, the desire for benefits from men, is just as strong as ever. These feminist orators forget that opportunity and obligation are tied together by a cord that no human being can cut. If you neglect the one, you lose the other. For a time people may think themselves exempt from this inevitable law of nature, which is really the law of God, and as sure as the law of gravitation. If these women succeed, which God forbid, in breaking down the relation of mutual dependence which hitherto has existed between the sexes, and put woman upon an entirely independent plane, they will find that the innumerable benefits and blessings that have accrued to woman, just as much as to man, from the relation which has hitherto existed, will go too. In the end the law of the strongest will prevail. The modern fabric of civilization being broken down we should have to begin over again; the stronger sex would enslave the weaker and we should begin another cycle of centuries to end after countless sufferings where we are now.

How can any American fail to see in the history of our own country fifty years ago a parallel case. We wage a long and bloody war to maintain the union of the States and to set the black free from slavery. When they were emancipated it was necessary to protect them in their civil rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Immediately the argument was brought forward, which is now advanced by the suffragist, that the ballot was the only means of securing these rights and that the blacks would be enslaved again unless they had the ballot. Accordingly the ballot was given them without regard to intelligence, education or previous training. As long as federal bayonets supported the fabric it stood. The blacks voted, controlled elections and did their utmost to ruin the South. In this they measurably succeeded. It is not too much to say that the suffering inflicted upon the South in the period of reconstruction was almost as great as that inflicted by the scourge of war. Conditions became so bad that the Northern people refused to stand for it any longer. Federal soldiers were withdrawn, the whole fabric of negro supremacy fell and the negro vote in most of the Southern States has practically been suppressed. This also has its evils, some of them very great, but all comes back to this. The stronger race physically will never allow itself to be dominated by the weaker.

The Burden of Suffrage Ought Not to Be Imposed on Women Who Do Not Want It.

3. I come then to my third point which is that we ought not to impose the burden of the suffrage upon the majority of women who do not want it, and who are satisfied with their present condition. I see it stated in one of the suffragist pamphlets that the suffrage has not been extended because men asked for the vote. That is one of the untrue statements that are frequent in suffrage literature. Their authors draw upon their imagination for their facts. The reverse is the truth. In England at the end of the Eighteenth Century there was a general demand from those who had not the suffrage that they should receive it. This was ignored for a while owing to the wars of the French Revolution. But as soon as Waterloo was won and the English were at liberty to attend to their own affairs, the demand came with redoubled force and the Reform Bill of 1831, extending the franchise to many cities and districts which had no representation whatever in parliament, was the result. In like manner in this country at the close of the Revolution a property qualification was required in almost all the States for the exercise of the elective franchise. The extent of this qualification was reduced on the urgent request of the owners of less property than was required by law of a voter. Then finally those who had not property sufficient to qualify them for the franchise urged that they be also admitted and they were. In short the whole basis of representation has been changed. Both in England and in this country, it was once largely the representation of property and of the individual as a property owner. In this country that method of designating those who are to exercise the elective franchise has been abolished altogether. We have come to the proposition universally recognized as the American doctrine that in the selection of those who are to exercise the franchise, not so much of governing themselves as of selecting the representatives who are to govern the State, the question to be determined is how the electors may most wisely be designated. For example, in many States there is a registration of voters and only those who are registered are allowed to vote. A man may have been a citizen all his life, he may have resided in his district for many years, but unless he registers he cannot vote, and he must register on certain particular days. If business or duty keep him from the registration booth on those days, he loses his vote. The proposed suffrage amendment of this State imposes upon women who are citizens the same requirements as to residence that are imposed upon men, i. e., a man must have resided in the State a certain period, and in the district in which he lives a short period before he is entitled to vote. This very limitation contained in the woman suffrage amendment shows that there is no inheritance right to the suffrage. The civil rights of a citizen are just as sacred and just as carefully protected by law on the first day of his citizenship as when he has resided here five or fifty years. But the suffrage rests on the basis not of right, but of wise policy and is never absolute.

Again a youth mty be thoroughly educated, may be entirely competent to exercise the elective franchise and yet unless he is twenty-one years of age he cannot vote. Officers of the United States Army and Navy, do not vote.

All these restrictions which are universally admitted to be necessary show that there is no such thing as a right to the franchise of voting. It is a privilege and a burden. Those amiable individuals, both men and women, who say that it only takes five minutes once a year to put a piece of paper in a box, who say that the woman will go to the polls with her husband just as she goes to church with him, and will maintain throughout the discharge of her political obligations the same tranquil spirit with which she performs her religious duties ,show that they know nothing about politics. Politics is a campaign. The game of politics is one of the most exciting games in the world. Once women get into it it will excite them even more than it does men. Everybody knows that women who are gamesters are worse than men. The very qualities that fit them for the rearing of their children unfit them for these exciting contests. That is not to their discredit. It is to their credit and honor. The point simply is that they are fitted by nature for the one and not fitted by nature for the other.

The truth is that all this talk about equal political rights to legislative representation is fallacious. The Senator from Colorado represents a State with a population of 799,024. Yet his vote in the Senate has the same weight as that of a Senator from New York, which has a population of 9,113,279, nearly twelve times as much. The total population of nine suffrage States is less than that of New York. Yet they have eighteen votes in the Senate to our two. Where is the equality here? All these matters are subject of agreement. Do not delude yourselves with the phantasm of absolutely political equality. It exists nowhere.

I see it often stated that the 7,000,000 of women wage earners in the United States are so many arguments for giving the franchise to women. If this were a valid argument it would be countered by the statement that the 17,000,000 wives and mothers in this country are so many arguments against it. We ought not to legislate for the minority aaginst the will of the majority.

But in point of fact half these wage earners are under voting age and when they come to voting age most of them join the ranks of the married women. No reasonable man can deny that the majority, the great majority of married women in America are happy, well cared for, well fed, well clothed and enjoy the blessing and privileges of the family and of motherhood. Of course there are discontented and unhappy women who are wives and mothers. Some of them are discontented and unhappy because they are rich and idle and have no definite employment. They get tired of dressing and playing bridge and they want something better to do. Let me call their attention to the fact that without the suffrage they can engage in political activity. The field is wide, the harvest is great, the laborers are few. From every side we hear the call from philanthropic and religious societies for intelligent assistance. Ask the pastor of any church; ask the head of any philanthropic society; ask the headworker of any settlement. The answer would be unanimous that they do not have enough volunteers to aid them in their great work. And those that do volunteer very often do not hold out. They come for a few weeks and then fall away. What would the suffrage do to enlarge the army of workers in the great cause of righteousness? Not one thing. On the contrary, it would diminish the number of those who would volunteer for this work. They would be more interested in politics.

Within a week I see this announcement in the papers:

"Mrs. Gertrude A. Lee today became chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Colorado. She says she is a machine politician. According to her view the machine impregnable and unassailable alone can assure party success. I expect to remain chairman of the State committee until after the elections next fall. My aim is to organize our party so that Democrats will be returned for all these offices. Senator Thomas's term expires. We cannot afford to let a Republican succeed him."

Permit me to point out that it is very natural that a Senator should favor suffrage for women, when he has a well organized machine headed by a clever woman who favors woman suffrage, and who favors his reelection. We did not expect Mr. Murphy, during the recent campaign, to speak ill of Tammany Hall. No more can we expect a politician from a suffrage State, to speak ill of woman suffrage.

Political Suffrage for Women Produces Bad Results.

4. That brings me to the fourth point, which is that the extension of political suffrage to woman has produced bad results wherever it has long existed and is sure to do so wherever it is long permitted to continue. The reason of this is obvious. There is a great deal of human nature left in spite of any legislation that can be made either by men or women. In the suffrage States the good wives and mothers love their husbands, love their children, find their first duty and their first delight at home and consequently keep out of politics. The selfish woman, the ambitious woman, the woman to whom politics is a gainful trade, have gone in with vigor. It was a committee of such women in Colorado that wrote President Wilson immediately upon his inauguration that the "organization has rendered sterling service in the battles of Colorado Democrocy, its members are entitled to something more than clerkships." In short the clerkships which they could get by passing civil service examinations on an equality with men were not enough. They wanted their share of the spoils. Undoubtedly good women have done much for social improvement in Colorado. My observation is that they have accomplished more here than there.

In Illinois at the last election women politicians defeated one of the ablest, most upright and experienced judges in the State, Judge Puterbaugh, because he was not a Suffragist. That is the report I get from friends in the suffrage States where the system has been working long, that the women who take an active part in politics and who organize the machine and play the game, care very little for the ability or character of the candidates in comparison with "whether they are sound on the goose," the goose in this case being woman suffrage.

All history snows that when women are engrossed with public contests and ambitions they become vindictive and implacable. It was the women in the amphitheatre that raised the hand for the death of the gladiator. It was a woman that urged Macbeth to slay Duncan. It was a woman that pressed the reluctant Charles to the massacre of St. Bartholemew. It was women who sat around the guillotine in 1792, and who fired the houses of suspects and slew their inmates during the commune.

All this is natural—is indeed inevitable. The whole trend of civilization has been to specialize. The woman alone can be a mother. That duty, that privilege, that burden is denied to man. To the good mother the one child is the object of immediate care and attention, necessarily so, otherwise the infant would perish. John Fiske has pointed out that in the long run duration of infancy we find a prime cause of development of the moral nature, the features of patient, unselfish devotion and the like. When the woman gets into political strife she is as fierce and regardless of consequences as she would be for her child.

When we come to legislation the very qualities which make the mother and the wife devoted and helpful become hindrances. The best mother is she who cares with most devotion for her child. The worst legislation is that which cares specially for the individual and fails to look at the interest of the whole. In this way the whole tendency of civilization has been to give a man a capacity for dealing with all subjects in a large and comprehensive way and give to woman the power and skill most effective with the individual case.

Let me give you an instance of this from the suffage judge, Lindsey, of Denver. I know not what others may say, but for my part I would rest the whole argument upon this which we have quite unconsciously from his own mouth. Some good women had seen a few particular cases in which innocent young girls were deceived and led astray by wicked men. That is, of course, a great sin and we all condemn it, no one more strongly than myself. What is the remedy? I would say—those who sympathize with me on this subject would say—the remedy is in the home. The girl who is led astray was not properly taught by her mother. The man who led her astray was not properly taught by his mother. That is the probable explanation. It is true that sometimes men and women who are well taught are carried away by passion. As a rule, however, children who are well trained at home do not go astray. But the Suffragists with that perversion of good intentions, which is common among them, think the remedy is to be found in legislation. Accordingly they procured the Legislature of Colorado, as they have in New York, to make a law fixing the age of consent at eighteen. That means that if a wicked woman who is not eighteen, or claims she is not eighteen, leads a young man astray, seduces him, she is not punishable, but she has the power, although she was really the guilty party, to complain of him and put him in jail. This is exactly what happened in Colorado. Judge Lindsey, before whom these lads were brought, charged with what the State calls rape, but which is really not that in any sense of the word, said that the woman was more guilty than the men. He could not punish her and he refused to punish the men and let them go free. He was accused by a committee of Anti-Suffragists with not enforcing the law, which he himself had assisted to procure. He excuses himself by making this statement which I give in his own words:

"We have heard girls as young as sixteen boast of their clandestine relations with boys and young men, and tell with the mock pride of a bad boy, who relates his escapades to his chums, of how they deliberately set traps for young men. I heard such a girl, in the most unmoral way, boast of her clandestine relations with twenty-five young men, in the course of a few weeks."

Here we have the Suffragists making a bad law, electing a judge to enforce it, finding that he does not enforce it, justifying his refusal so to do and combining for his defense against the charge that he fails to enforce the law of Colorado. That is what Suffragists call good legislation and good administration. To my mind it is bad as bad can be. It brings law into contempt. It led Rudyard Kipling to say of us:

"The cynic devil in his blood
Which bids him flout the Law he makes,
Which bids him make the Law he flouts."

Believe me, my friends, what St. John says is true: "Sin is lawlessness." Young people who are brought up in habits of self restraint and obedience to law, resist temptation and keep themselves pure. Those who are not, yield to temptation and defile their bodies. It is lawlessness that establishes wicked houses, and provides them with inmates.

Good Women Can Do More for Social Betterment Without Suffrage.

5. Now let me come to the fifth point. Long experience in politics has convinced me that the reformers who really have political influence are those who do not want anything for themselves. The regular politicians recognize that politics is a game, and it is perfectly legitimate in their opinion to play it for all it is worth But they despise a man who pretends to be an independent and to genuinely wish the public welfare and yet is found after election in the ranks of the office seekers. A man who is to be independent and who asks nothing for himself, who studies his subject and speaks intelligently about it, will always have a hearing before a legislative committee or an executive. But the man who has an axe to grind, unless he belongs to the regular machine is listened to, if at all, with ill-concealed aversion. In their present position, intelligent, thoughtful women who give serious study to social problems receive great consideration, quite as much as they ought. If anything the tendency of legislators is to attach undue importance to their opinions, which are often the result of sentiment rather than of reflection. Once get the women into the game of politics, make it the object of political leaders to get out all the women to vote and induce them, if possible, to vote against their husbands or their brothers, and the influence for good of the intelligent and wise woman will be less than it is now.

I have argued this subject thus far upon the basis of the suffrage for women as a question by itself. But I appeal especially to the many good and noble women who are Suffragists, and for whom I have unfeigned respect, to consider seriously that the question of the suffrage is but a small part of the Feminism Movement, and that what the most zealous advocates of woman suffrage really want is independence and domination. That is what Inez Milholland stated frankly a year ago. As Edna Kenton said in the Century last November, "It is sex war. Who doubts it?" She speaks of women as being "the suppressed sex." She declares against "the unspeakable dullness of unvaried home life. It has been a long deadly routine, a life servitude imposed upon her for ages in a man-made world. Of the Feminist Movement, so-called, suffrage is a tiny part." She speaks of the good wife and mother as "a parasite." She declares:

"It was St. Paul who laid down the Christian ideal for women. Nothing invented of man has ever had a more stultifying effect upon the character and morals of women and of men."

Let us stop a moment to ask what was St. Paul's ideal. It was in the first place one of absolute purity in the sex relation. The nasty spectacles which were common in the Roman Empire as they are today, he condemned. He knew nothing of any double standard. His standard for man as for woman was the highest. So was that of St. Paul's Master, Christ Himself. This acording to Miss Kenton is stultifying. Another Suffragist in the December Atlantic speaks a little more plainly. Mr.W.L. George, a prominent spokesman of the Feminist Movement in England declares of the English Feminists, "They are emphatically arrayed against modern marriage which they look upon as slave union." "Modern marriage represents a condition of sex slavery." "In the main feminists are opposed to indissoluble Christian marriage."

In the great Suffragist congress at Buda Pesth last summer Madame Veronee declared with applause: "We make no difference between legitimate motherhood and illigitimate motherhood." For this she was showered with flowers.

It is obvious that when many of the Suffragists are strenuous against a double standard, what they want is to lower the standerd for wamen. They would set up a system of week-end marriages,where the woman goes off with the man and then they separate. Naturally they want the State to set up a phalanstery where the children who happen to be the result of these transmitory unions will be trained. As one of their leading writers says: "They will be quite as well cared for in a State managed establishment when they are well, and much better when they are sick."

Do you not perceive, good women, that this which is odious and repugnant to you is simply an inevitable consequence of feminine independence. The husband and wife in Christian marriage are dependent upon each other. The ideal St.Paul speaks of, which Kenton reviles, is one of mutual heipfulness-and devoted love. The man is to love his wife as his own body. He promises in the Christian service tolove, to honor and to cherish. The woman does the same. For us who are oposed to political suffrage for women this ideal is ennobling. We see as we study history that the development of the race has been on the same lines as the development of this ideal of marriage.

I know very well that many of you are loyal to this ideal. You advocate woman suffrage because you think that it will purify politics and promote wise legislation. In those desires I sympathize. For those objects I have fought for forty years. There is no man living who honors and reveres the true woman more highly than I do. As your true friend I come to you tonight. I beseech you to consider seriously what I have said. Ask yourselves whether universal suffrage for woman is not the logical consequence of these pernicious teachings, which you hate as I do. Then study history. The Roman Empire tried this scheme of "free marriage" as they called it.

When Roman women were emancipated from their legal bondage, they lost their sense of duty and responsibility; they lost their reverence for home and the family tie; they lost their sense of duty to their children. No longer did a Roman matron say as the mother of the Gracchi said of her children:

"These are my jewels."

The result was that the Roman Empire, which was then the greatest in the world, decayed and went to pieces. It fell a prey to the inroads of the northern barbarians. All its wealth and all its power ceased to be a defense when virtue and honor failed. Even the Campagna, once the terror of boundless fertility, became a pestilential swamp.

But I am persuaded better things for our American commonwealth, though I thus speak. The truths of Christianity have found a firmer lodgment in the breasts of our American women than they did in ancient Rome. American women will be true to these teachings, which have given them their dignity and honorable position. They will take to heart the wise words of Governor Glynn:

"Oneof the great errors of modern thought is the notion that a people can be made permanently prosperous by legislation."

They will refuse to listen to the foolish cry that women should be independent of man and will find their glory and their virtue, not in the contests of politics, but in their happy homes, their well taught children, who in their turn will honor and gladly help their parents. Thus will they give to the commonwealth strength and wisdom to overcome the evils that do threaten but which can only be cured by removing their cause—the covetousness, the greed, the envy that spring up in those discontented breasts which forget the restraints of duty and the eternal law of God. They will not forsake the guide of their youth nor forget the covenant of their God. And the campaign for woman suffrage will fail as so many plausible schemes for social betterment have failed,because it is opposed to the fundamental laws of human nature, which man may disobey, but which he cannot destroy.

WHAT AN ENGLISH SUFFRAGIST THINKS ARE QUALIFICATIONS

Th following extract from the letter of an Englishwoman will show to what extreme the Militants in England have sent thoughtful, law-abiding Suffragists:

"Personally I think a vote should not be a question of sex, but of suitability, the necessary qualifications being age between 25 and 70, an income of not less than 500 pounds from property in the United Kingdom or Colonies, and the passing of such an exam as proves a proper knowledge, and intelligent interest in the Government of this country and its dependencies; failure to record a vote twice running, without due reason to constitute disfranchisement. My chief regret about the Militants is that such lawlessness cannot be turned into more useful channels, such as the removal of some who are members, one in particular, who would be 'a good miss'."

The qualifications, of course, seem to us absurd, but the lady's whole idea seems to be, to go to a violent extreme from Militancy, and the hopeless lawlessness which prompts it.

In a former letter this lady says: "A Suffragist, yes, but one who would rather see everything just as it has been, than have had the women of her country disgraced as they are bing, by a certain number of themselves. How can any of your women welcome Mrs. Pankhurst?"

JUDGE LINDSEY SAYS "IT IS TIME TO CALL A HALT"

A brideless bridegroom passed through Cincinnati yesterday in the person of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, familiarly known as "the daddy of the Juvenile Court."

His stop was short—just between trains—as he has a lecture engagement to fill in Lewisburg, O. In his usual trenchant way he had some comments to make upon matters of public import.

"I am not in harmony or in sympathy with the feminist movement in this country at the present time," said the Judge.

"Do you mean by that your are against woman suffrage?" he was asked.

"No, not that. Equal suffrage has many admirable features, but the trouble is that the women will not stop there. Other questions of sex are vexatious and with which I heartily disagree.

"The one great argument of the feminist is that it will make better men. As I see it will make looser women.

"Here comes a feminist who advocates woman choosing the father of her child. What piffle! In a single stroke she would break down the barriers that have protected the legitimacy of our children for centuries.

"Do you know that the greatest problem that confronts the courts of our cities today is that of illigitimate birth? Insurance statistics and other sources of information show that men and women both are marrying at later ages than in years gone by.

"It has been my aim for years to protect the unfortunate woman who has brought into the world a being that must be part of our citizenship. If she is to be protected, how much greater protection should be given to the child?

"Yet this very protection that is asked by the courts can, and has been turned about by feminists to mean greater laxity in the marriage problem.

"They apparently cannot see that in helping the unfortunate there was no intention of encouraging the condition.

"If the idea that these faddists continue to create grow and spread, the only thing I can see ahead is loose morals and loose marriage laws, such as are in Scotland and some of the older countries where the barriers have been broken down. It is time to call a halt.

"But how can it be done

"The solution has been searched for high and low by moralists and reformers, yet the cure has not been found.

"On the other hand, many elements are conspiring to make the work of the feminist more plausible.

"There are tango dancers and sensuous turkey trots; there are books, novels and magazines which arouse sensuality—worst of all, there is a perfect flood of sex plays that whet the mind on matters that our forefathers talked of in dark places.

"And what has been given the general public to bring about a counter action? Nothing absolutely nothing. Mind you, I am not saying that well-meaning folk are not doing all that they can, but I do say that there is nothing that attracts the mind of the general public that these good people can never reach.

"We have laws, yes, even too many laws. Stiff and inviolate, demanding a sentence that has no limitation in administration.

"How many cases have come before me where guilt has been shown, and yet deep down I have found it was a case of the 'woman tempted me.'

"What can a judge do in such cases? The law says the prisoner must go to the penitentiary for three years or up to twenty.

"Stiff and burdensome, it reacts against itself. There must be more elasticity to the sentences provided. There must be more discretionary powers given to our courts."—(From the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune, January 17, 1914.)

THE PASSING CALL.

I'm petered out and tired to death
Of farmin' and the like;
I'd like to put my bunit on
And start off on a hike.
I've been readin lately, lots
About them suffragettes,
And all their doin's 'round the world
And glory that they gets.

It must be nice to trapse the streets
A steppin' 'long so high,
With streamin' banners in one's hands
A flutterin' to the sky.
It must be GRAND to tilt your nose
At every man we meet,
Defyin' all them tyrants grim
Who've kept us under feet.

Tho' I hant cause for much complaint
'Bout treatment that I get;
I sometimes really long to be
Aarin' suffragette.
My John's a good pervider—
Ive a cosy home—and yet,
It don't pervent my yearnin'
To be a suffragette.

think the call is passin' though,
And I guess I'll just keep on
With my bakin' and my brewin'
And bein' a wife to John.
That somehow seems to fill the need
And don't leave much regret,
That I can't prance along the street,
A howlin' suffragette.

STATEMENT PREPARED BY GEORGE M. PULLER, EX-GOVERNMENT STATISTICIAN

In the six suffrage States of California, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, and Washington (Oregon, Arizona and Kansas did not have woman suffrage till voted on at election, Nov. 5th, 1912) the abstract of U. S. Census 1910, pages 110 and 118, show there were in April 1910 3,170,152 men and women over 21 years of age (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese). The total vote actually cast for President, Nov. 5th, 1912, in the six women suffrage States was 1,521,590. So. 47.9 per cent. of the men and women (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese) over 21 years of age (in April 1910) actually voted.

In the six adjoining and neighboring States of Kansas, Nebraska, Oregon, Nevada, South Dakota and Missouri, where men alone vote the total number of men 21 years of age and over (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese) was in April 1910 (Abstract of Census page 110) 2,295,119, total vote in the six male suffrage States for President, Nov. 5th, 1912, 1,587,948 69.1 per cent. of the men over 21 years of age (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese) actually voted—or about 45 per cent. more of the possible voters in the male suffrage States voted, than did the possible voters in the six adjoining woman suffrage States. If 69.1 per cent. of the men voted in the woman suffrage States (as men in the adjoining male suffrage States did vote) then an analysis of the figures shows that only 19.1 per cent. of the women over 21 years of age in the suffrage States actually voted. If more than 19.1 per cent. of the men voted, so it is impossible to escape one or the other conclusion, that the women do not vote as generally as men when given the ballot, or if they do, their voting does cause less interest to be taken in politics by men, and in either event, the suffrage cause is harmful to a Republic.

Our Western States being new States in which a great deal of land has been opened for settlement and made ready for irrigation, naturally has increased and is still increasing rapidly in population. So in fact, there was a great many more men and women over twenty-one years of age Nov. 5, 1911 (one year prior to last Presidential election) than the 1910 census shows. If the six woman suffrage States, and the six male suffrage States above mentioned, have increased in the same proportion, for April 1910. to Nov. 1911, one and one-half years, as they increased for 1900 to 1910, and no one can doubt it, then the six woman suffrage States had on Nov. 1st, 1911, 3,572,510 possible men and women voters (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese) for last Presidential election, in which event only 42.5 per cent. of the men and women over twenty-one years of age cared to vote.

In the six male suffrage States, previously named, the total number of men over twenty-one years of age (exclusive of Japanese and Chinese) (estimated) Nov. 1st, 1911, was 2,397,878, in which event 66.2 per cent. of the men over twenty-one years of age actually voted, or 55.7 per cent. more possible voters voted than in the six suffrage States.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

According to advice from Secretary of the State Jordan's office, at Sacramento, Calif., (where the names and addresses of all registered voters are sent, in order that sample ballots can be mailed them a according to law) 804,633 men and 180,000 women registered in California to vote at election Nov. 5th, 1912 (see Los Angeles Times, Oct. 27, 1912). This shows that about 93 per cent. of the men in California over 21 registered, and only about 27 per cent of the women. The total vote for President Nov 5th, 1912 all candidates, in California was 673,527. Total registration 984,633—68.4 per cent of men and women who registered, voted. If 68.4 per cent. of the registered women actually voted (which is not likely, as women did not register as generally as men, it is not to be supposed they voted so generally) then only 18.3 per cent. of the women over twenty-one years of age (in April 1910) voted Nov. 5, 1912 in the State of California.

SAN FRANCISCO.

In San Francisco the latter part of 1912, at a local option election, out of 120,859 women over 21 years of age in the city, 40,655 women and 93,023 men registered, yet only 15,087 votes all told were cast for local option and it is estimated that approximately one woman in eight who was interested enough to register, took the trouble to go to the polls.

At a city election in San Francisco, Nov. 11th, 1913—49,833 women registered and 19,678 voted, about 1-4 of the votes being cast by women. In three precincts no women voted. In 49 out of 673 precincts, there was an average of less than ten votes per precinct, by women (Analysis of vote by Registrar of Elections Lemansky, see Los Angeles Times, Nov. 20th, 1913) Census 1910 shows there were 120,859 women over twenty-one years of age in San Francisco, so only 16.2 per cent. voted in election Nov. 11th, 1913.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

At an election, Mar. 24, 1913, in Los Angeles, Cal., involving radical changes in the City Charter, only 31,000 voters (men and women) out of 222,817 (Census 1910 P. 113) cast their ballots. This too, after a Citizen Committee of 1,000 advocated, in all the newspapers the adoption of certain propositions and the defeat of others. Nine out of ten of the reform measures were defeated. The Los Angeles Times of Mar. 26th, 1913 says "The vote of the women was disappointing. In some precincts it was a negligible quantity while in others it was only about 1-3 of the total. Yet suffragists carried on an active campaign, attended and spoke at all day meetings and even worked at their headquarters on Easter Sunday."

At an election, June 3, 1913 in Los Angeles, for Mayor, Rose was elected by 8,037 majority over Shank. Los Angeles had good government officials for several years before women had the ballot Rose ran an "pen town" platform and Shenk on good government. Every newspaper and practically every Minister in the city was for Shenk, and asked the voters to elect Shenk and have a "clean city" in the interest of the young men and women of Los Angeles. The Los Angeles Times of June 5th, 1913 gives total vote 84,055, nearly one hundred thousand under registration. The Times further says that in spite of the excellent organization of Mrs. John S. Myers and her corps of assistants, the women did not turn out in any large numbers, and of those who did a considerable percentage appeared to favor the election of Rose. As there was 222,877 men and women over twenty-one years of age in Los Angeles (Census 1910) only 38.2 per cent. of men and women of voting age voted. The Los Angeles Express June 4th, 1913 had an editorial on the disgrace of electing Rose.

CHICAGO.

At an election in Chicago, Feb. 24th, 1914—47,537 women voted. Chicago had in 1910, 625,629 women over twenty-one years of age. (Letter from Director of Census Feb. 28th, 1914) Less than 8 per cent. of the women of Chicago over twenty-one years of age voted.

So many of our best people are being misled on the liquor question by the suffragists, that it is well to submit some facts on that subject. No State in which women have voted on the question has statewide prohibition ever been adopted. Nine States where men alone vote, have state-wide prohibition. Nov. 5th, 1912 Colorado voted on state-wide prohibition. 75,877 votes were cast for the measure and 116,744 against (see page 159, Abstracts of Votes compiled from official returns by James B. Pearce, Secretary of State, Denver, Colo.) If 58 per cent. of the women over twenty-one years of age in Colorado had voted for prohibition the measure would have become a law by 6,014 majority, without a single male vote being cast for prohibition. There being 213,425 women over twenty-one years of age in Colorado (Page 118, Abstracts of Census 1910.)

WYOMING.

Wyoming legalized gambling for about forty years after women had the ballot and had neither State-wide prohibition or local option laws.

LOS ANGELES.

About six years prior to the adoption of woman suffrage in California, Los Angeles voted on local option and the measure was defeated two to one. About a month after women had the ballot in Los Angeles, the question was again voted on and the saloons won by nearly three to one.

December 1912 Los Angeles voted on the question of abolishing free lunches in saloons, but the measure was defeated and lunches are still free in Los Angeles saloons. Missouri and I think Connecticut have Statewide laws prohibiting free lunches in saloons.

PASADENA, CALIF.

Pasadena, Calif., for many years, in fact, practically for its entire history, had been a dry city. But soon after women were given the franchise the sale of liquor was legalized. Pasadena had in 1910 2,688 more women over twenty-one years of age than men (about 29 per cent.)

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.

Dec. 2, 1913, Santa Monica, Calif. voted wet. Ballots nearly three to one for liquor to be sold on Sundays and nights. The Los Angeles Times of Dec. 3rd says the triumph of "demon rum" and "the sparking cabaret" is attributed to the women, who voted two to one against a Sunday drought. Total vote for the saloons and Sunday liquor 2,173 against 814. Letter under date of Dec. 13th, 1913 from Director of U. S. Census shows that in 1910 Santa Monica had 2,462 males and 2,748 females over twenty-one years of age; 286 more women than men, yet we have the sale of liquor legalized in cafe's all night and on Sundays in a city of homes of less than 8,000 (7,847) people and I doubt that a parallel can be found in any State where the franchise is limited to men.

REDONO, CALIF.

Redono, Calif., voted on local option Oct. 14th, 1913. The saloons won. Los Angeles Times of Oct. 15th, says that both sides claim the result was due to the women votes.

ANAHEIM, CALIF.

Anaheim, Calif. (population 2,628) voted local option, Nov. 6th, 1913. The saloons won. See Los Angeles Times, Nov. 7th, 1913.

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

In Colorado Springs, Colo., where the sale of liquor was prohibited for many years, women voted on the question about two years ago and liquor selling was legalized. Colorado Springs had 813 more women than men over twenty-one years of age in 1910. Letter of Director of Census, Feb. 28th, 1914. On pages 202 and 203 Annual Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, you will find that in the six States that had woman suffrage, Jan. 1st, 1912 (California, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Washington) there were 26,232 liquor dealers paying special license to the government for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1913. From page 24 Abstract of U. S. Censur 1910 you will find the six suffrage States above mentioned had a population of 5,163,473, one liquor dealer for every 196 people in the six States. For the remaining 42 States and Dist. of Columbia, there were 226,009 liquor dealers paying license for the same period. These 42 States and District of Columbia had a population of 88,808,796 or one liquor dealer for every 392 people, or just one-half of the number of dealers per capita that the woman suffrage States require, and then we are told by the suffragists that they are not favorable to the liquor interests. (Kansas, Oregon and Arizona only adopted woman suffrage Nov. 5th, 1912. Kansas had been a prohibition State for more than 25 years.) 99 Counties out of 120 in Kentucky the whiskey distilling State have local option. 65 out of 114 Counties in Missouri have no saloons and about one-half of the people in the United States outside of Woman suffrage States live in dry territory. Eugene W. Chafin former candidate on the Prohibition ticket for President, said at Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 15, 1914 that the support expected by Prohibitionists in California from women had not yet developed. See Los Angeles Times, Feb. 16, 1914.

CHICAGO.

In the recent campaign in Chicago (Feb. 1914) Miss Marion H. Drake, who was nominated for alderman in the first ward was quoted in the newspapers as standing "for free lunch and saloons." The National Liquor Dealers' Association, in annual convention in Washington, D. C., in February 1914 were addressed by Congressman Dyer, of Missouri who was quoted by The Washington Star of Feb. 5th, 1914, as saying "If I get a chance I will vote for women suffrage. If suffrage is obtained I will stop you fellows worrying about prohibition."

The suffragists tell us on all occasions that if women had the ballot, much better laws for the education and welfare of the child and youth of our Country will be enacted. Let me cite a few instances to disprove such a theory.

BERKELY, CALIF.

At Berkely, Calif. April 12, 1913, for the issuance of bonds for play grounds only about 1500 of the 8,000 women of the City voted. The Mayor, who has been a zealous worker for woman suffrage, reprimands the women for their negligence of this particular issue, which of all others should interest them. In a newspaper article, he asks "Where were the mothers?" Berkely has 1301 more women than men over twenty-one years of age (Letter Feb. 28th, 1914 Director of U. S. Census at Pasadena, Cal., where there are 2,688 more women than men of voting age, the play grounds that were the pride of Pasadena, and were established before women had the ballot, were discontinued last July on account of the failure of voters to vote money for the purchase of the grounds. (See Los Angeles Times, July 27th, 1913) No other play grounds have been purchased or been provided for the children.

At an election Nov. 12th, 1913, Pasadena, Calif. failed to vote bonds, to repair leaky roofs and make sanitary repairs on School houses, to complete new schools under construction and to make it possible to provide school for the entire school year. Supt. of Schools said the School year would have to be cut a month or two, and some schools will have to close when rains begin. (See Los Angeles Times Nov. 13th, 1913).

It happened to rain Nov. 12th in Pasadena, and some thought the bonds might have carried, had the vote been taken on a fair day, when the ladies could more conveniently get to the polls. So it was decided to have another election to vote for bonds in a less amount than was voted on Nov. 12th. So on Jan. 16th 1914, a fair day, another election was held, and the bonds again defeated. So the voters of Pasadena have decided that the repair of leaky roofs and sanitary improvements, etc. of school houses as well as play grounds for the children are to be indefinitely postponed. Letter dated Jan. 12th, 1914 from Director of U. S. Census states there were in 1910, 9,262 males and 11,950 females over twenty-one years of age. The total vote for and against the bonds was 4,832, only 22.7 per cent. of the voters of Pasadena (population 30,291) was interested enough to go to the polls at election Jan. 16th.

SEATTLE.

Much has been said by suffragists about the recall of a Mayor in Seattle (who has since been renominated and elected) and the abolishing of the barbary coast at San Francisco. Mayor Harper was recalled at Los Angeles about four years before women voted, on account of not enforcing the law against vice, etc., and more than 50 cities in the country have abolished segregated vice districts in the past two years. Los Angeles abolished their segregated vice district about six years before women had the ballot, but it took Denver nearly 20 years after women voted to do away with its segregated vice district.

Helen M. Forster in Los Angeles Times, Nov. 7th, 1913 under head of Woman Lectures Women, commends Senator Works for daring to call attention to the neglect of citizenship by women voters which she says are facts backed up by data and registration lists.

Denver Post, Oct. 17th, 1913. Report of Mrs. Stewart Walling and Dr. Elizabeth Cassidy, Colorado Reformatory—"Rotten nothing but filth and graft found at Buena Vista. Merely a preparatory school for the penitentiary. The reformatory submerged in politics is a monument of graft, ignorance, stupidity, extravagance and mismanagement. Building so infested with vermin that only fire could purify it."

The Daily News of Denver, of Oct. 3rd, 1913 says the Rev. A. H. Shattuck of Grand Junction has stirred up the animals in fine shape by a public denunciation of conditions which he alleges exist in Grand Junction, Colo. Here are a few of the opinions he expresses:

"Lawlessness is pronounced among us."

"Illicit liquor selling is notorious."

"Gambling joints are in full swing."

"Boys and girls roam our streets late at night in unrestrained violation of the curfew ordinance." (The mothers are possibly away from home attending to political affairs.)

"Officials who hate unjust gain we need."

I believe that you will all agree with me that the main object of voting is to register the will of the majority, that it may be crystallized into the law of the land and that any propaganda that tends to, and does in some instances defeat the wishes of the majority, is inimical to our form of government.

I think from the instances cited, I have shown beyond question that women when given the ballot do not and from their physical organization can never vote, as generally as men, however much she may desire to do so, on account of their duty of motherhood. When a man votes in a male suffrage State his vote counts one, but in a woman suffrage State, unless his wife votes, his vote counts only one-half. If a single man, if the women of his class do not vote, as generally as men of his class and opinions, his vote is of less effect than if women were not enfranchised. The fact that the different classes of women do not vote, in so large a proportion as men of the different classes in the suffrage States, tends to, and in many instances does, defeat the will of the majority, and no cause can be just or right that defeats the will of the majority. Womens failure to vote as generally as men where they have been given the ballot, in many cases causes laws to be enacted that are the will of the minority; and that is one of the great injustices of woman suffrage, for laws made by minorities are injurious to our free institutions. For an illustration, at an election on the liquor question, the liquor men, gamblers, many hotels cafes, brewery interests, property holders, that rent property for any of the businesses that furnish supplies directly or indirectly for the liquor traffic, see to it that their wives, mothers, sisters, cousins and aunts actually vote, (besides inducing many of their women friends to vote) as the issue is one of financial importance to them, while the women opposed to the liquor traffic, not having a monetary interest involved, fail to vote, as generally as men opposed to saloons vote. So in many instances the sale of liquor is legalized, where women vote (on account of their failure to vote as generally as the men who oppose the liquor traffic) and where, if men alone had voted, the saloon would have been abolished.

PLEDGE OF SUFFRAGISTS.

In Great Britain there is a pledge invented by the Militant Suffragettes and adopted by the suffragists in general, and by a section of them in this country, called the "Pledge of Will and Won't," it is as follows: "The Pledge of WILL and WON'T" of the Woman's Political Union.

I hereby promise that:

1. I will give what I can and do my share of the work to gain votes for women.

2. I will not give either money or service to any other cause until the women of New York State have been enfranchised.

Signature .....

Address .....

Date .....

Over here the following pledge was written and all suffragists urged to adopt it:

"Until women are enfranchised, efforts to ameliorate social conditions can be at best crippled. Therefore, I have decided to give such time and money as I can spare to those causes only that will bring about the political freedom of women."

Let it be understood that there are still women who believe in Equal Suffrage among the world's workers. They would not sign any pledge binding them to throw aside all the high and noble things in life until they gain that which they may never possess.

When the well-instructed suffragist is confronted with these pledges, she tells us that "all the charity and all the welfare work being done today are as naught, until the causes of them are wiped out."

In our state house I have seen suffragists yell, jump and slap each other on the back like men, and to my mind the most convincing argument is to go to the State House and see the two bodies of people, suffragists and anti-suffragists.—H. Edna Whittier, Lexington, Mass.

Suffragists endorsements printed broadcast as an advertisement of a play censored by the police.

(N. Y. American, Dec. 31, 1913)

"I consider the uncensored moving picture shows which expose the youth of our city to the pernicious and unlicensed portrayal of vice in its worst form as one of the greatest evils of our present day.

"I am surprised to see that Mrs. Belmont, Mrs. Catt, Mrs. Milholland-Boissevan and other women have leagued themselves behind this vile portrayal of life—are its sponsers, as it were. What are these women thinking about? They talk about the lessons that the poor, strange immigrant girl, coming here without knowing the language and the people, can learn in seeing what may happen through white slavery.

"Why do not these women who are trying—so they claim—to uplift and protect innocent, ignorant immigrant girls go down to the Immigration Bureau and to Ellis Island and become personally responsible for these girls as they enter our port? Why don't they become the 'big sister' or the 'big mother' to these girls? Then they would be doing a work that would actually count, instead of fostering and building up, through their approbation, one of the worst and most vicious ways of leading girls and boys away from living right."

At Hartford, Conn., the suffrage organization sold at its headquarters "The Hartford Vice Report" for the benefit of its treasury a report printed for private circulation only. A picture on a circular distributed in Parson's Opera House advertising a lecture given by the Suffragists in Hartford was reproduced on blotters, so that they might be on the desks of Hartford business men. The post-office authorities excluded this blotter from the mails.

(N. Y. Sun, Jan. 17, 1914.)

The Grand Jury returned indictments yesterday against three persons held to be responsible for the moving picture film "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic." The jury agreed that the opinions of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Inez Milholland-Boissevain and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont would not aid them in their judgment and did not call them as witnesses.

Meantime there were editorial protests against the continuance of such plays.

(The New York World.)

A play which transfers a red light resort to the public stage for acting before innocent girls and their unwarned mothers finds the police power carefully consulting the courts and the law before making up its mind what to do.

The police power does not wait upon preliminary court judgments when vice and indecency flaunt themselves on the sidewalk. Must it any more wait when these things are staged to attract the prurient and entrap the innocent and decent in a purely mercenary purpose of making a financial success of a play which had otherwise failed?

(New York Times, Dec. 29, 1913.)

"Some of the films," said Justice Gavegan in his decision in the Park Theatre case, "depict scenes supposed to be enacted in a resort where women are subjected to involuntary degradation. As it is well known that to maintain such a place is of itself a criminal offense, I am unable to perceive why the public exhibition for money of scenes supposed to transpire therein should be entitled to the protection of a court of equity.

"It is contended by the plaintiff in affidavits furnished by disinterested individuals whose motives it is not within the province of this court to question that the pictures contain a great moral lesson to fathers and mothers calculated to impress upon their minds the urgent need of protecting their daughters from the influence of evil associations.

"The answer to this is that the exhibition has not been confined to fathers and mothers; that there is no evidence before me that the owners thereof propose to desire to so confine it, and that the evidence shows they are conducting the enterprise not for the uplift of public morals but for private gain.

"It might be possible to find individuals of such morbid curiosity that they would be willing to pay an admission price to see the inside workings of a sewer, and others of such avaricious enterprise that they would be ready to capitalize such morbid curiosity and furnish the exhibition for a price, and still others among the well meaning and unwary who would lend their sanction and privilege to the idea, in the belief that such an exhibition by its horrible example might tend to improve the habits of cleanliness of some in the audience and that the public ought to know about it in any event. If the illustration is disagreeable it is no more so than the facts with which I have to deal.

"The exhibition in question, or at least parts of it, tend to deprave and corrupt the morals of those whose minds are open to such influences, and therefore the application for an injunction is denied."

(New York Sun.)

The Woman's Political Union held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Maxine Elliot Theatre to discuss suffrage, stage censorship and more particularly, the production of "The Lure," a "white slave" play. Including guests of the members more than 600 were present.

The speakers were Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, who presided; Mary Nash, who plays the leading role in "The Lure;" Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, and George Probert, of "The Lure" company.

Mrs. Blatch said that she considered that there was not an immoral suggestion in the play and that, in fact, it was almost puritanical. Mr. Probert agreed with her, and so did Dr. Shaw, who said that "the conditions represented in 'The Lure' would be absolutely impossible if woman had the vote."

The report of this remark of Dr. Shaw's was followed by the appearance of the following letter:

(New York Sun.)

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: Without having been previously informed of the character of a play now running in this town I took my wife to see it. I am still tingling with the subsequent shame of that experience, coupled, however, with gratitude that my companion was not my young daughter.

* * * * * *

The scene of this play is stated on the program to be Colorado. In Colorado women have had the vote for twenty years. The right moral of the play, therefore, ought to be that the political activities of women do not better conditions of government, since, according to the playwrite, in a commonwealth where women were enfranchised in 1893 girls can be decoyed at the present time from main thoroughfares in municipalities for forcible abuse in brothels; threats to enlist police aid are met with the sufficient response that the police will do nothing; a moral degenerate can be elected to the United States Senate; politics rests on the earnings of fallen women.

The conclusion of the play bears out the moral of the inefficiency of women as political crusaders. The playwright has drawn an ideal characterization of a woman candidate for a Colorado mayoralty, and this purifying Suffragette assures her own election by accepting joyously the aid of a political corruptionist, who, disgusted at the discovered degeneracy of the United States Senator, offers to compel a horde of floaters to vote for the woman candidate instead of the Senator's man, for whom originally they were hired.

AN AMERICAN CITIZEN.

In the meantime action had been taken by the courts, on which the New York Times commented editorially as follows:

(New York Times.)

Chief Magistrate McAdoo, in issuing warrants to restrain two theatre managers from continuing the performance in this city of two plays, on the grounds of indecency and a tendency to corrupt public morals, bases his action on Section 1140 of the Penal Code. The section provides that it shall be a misdemeanor to "prepare, advertise, give, present or participate in any obscene, indecent, immoral or impure drama, play, exhibition, show or entertainment." Obviously, it might be construed by some individuals to apply to other stage performances than those now assailed by the law. But it surely applies directly to these plays.

There has been a great deal of painful and morally degrading discussion of evils which can never be lessened by promiscuous and irresponsible debate. The public movement against these brothel dramas indicates that the people are alive to the dangers of the situation. They have called a halt. Too many abominable books with a pretense of moral purpose have been tolerated.

Two months later public attention was turned to the defense by leading Suffragists of motion pictures censored and debarred by the courts.

For three days prior to the closing by the police of "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic," a moving picture play, a placard stood in front of the theatre proclaiming the endorsements of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Mrs. Inez Milholland-Boissevain, all suffrage leaders.

(N. Y. Tribune, Dec. 20, 1913.)

The police descended upon the moving picture play entitled "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic" at the Park theatre last night, and closed the doors in the face of a large crowd of ticket holders and others clamoring for a chance to buy tickets.

Last night's raid was made under Section 1140A of the penal law, which makes it a misdeameanor to give an improper theatrical performance.

The manager of the theatre was taken before Magistrate TenEyck last Tuesday on complaint of Inspector Dwyer that the pictures were dangerous to the morals of girls. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt came to his defense, and the magistrate, after viewing the film, ruled there was no violation of any law.

(New York Tribune, Dec. 27, 1913.)

Justice Gavegan, in the Supreme Court, yesterday vacated the temporary injunction, issued a week ago, under which the Sociological Research Film Company was enabled to continue to exhibit pictures of "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic" at the Park Theatre.

Under this decision the police were empowered to follow up their earlier action of prohibiting the exhibition of the films.

The film company came into court armed with affidavits from several well-known sociologists, who stated they had seen the films complained of and had found them entirely moral and instructive rather than immoral and debasing. Affidavits were made by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Mrs. Inez Milholland-Boissevain, all prominent Suffragists, and Dr. James P. Warbasse, author of "Medical Sociology," and Dr. Frederick H. Robinson, editor of The Medical Review of Reviews.

Mrs. Catt said that she believed the story told by the moving pictures "will do more good than any other lesson, tenet or precept with regard to such matters."

WOMAN BOUND.

(Apologies to Leigh Hunt.)

"Ballots" for the power of routing,
What of all things, blithe and gay,
Should I light on in my way
But the horrid thing himself,
That worst of monsters, Man with Pelf
For his sins I held him up,
Cards and women, song and cup,
Long on scorn and hate I fed him,
Then what d'ye think I did? I wed him!
Faith, I thought him cowed! Not he!
For he rules with wicked glee.
But woe is me, of all my ills,
The worst is this, he pays my bills!

RESULTS OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Wellington, Sept. 1.

The safest general statement that can be made concerning the operation of the reform is that it has disappointed in approximately equal proportions the hopes and the fears of the eager partisans of both sides. Woman has assuredly not been unsexed by her political enfranchisement. The "red ruin and the breaking up of" families which was so freely prophesied as inevitable has not been realised. But if domestic life has not been poisoned or embittered by the change it cannot be said that public life has received the moral stimulus which was expected. Nobody supposed that woman would make many direct contributions to the solution of the problems of statesmanship. Even by the measure which qualified her as an elector she continued to be expressly excluded from a seat in either House of Parliament, and no serious suggestion has ever been made that the bar should be removed. Probably all but a very small fraction of the most ardent supporters of woman's enfranchisement are well satisfied to see her leaving all the normal work of politics even outside of Parliament, to the coarser sex. Even in the discharge of that elementary but fundamental duty which has been entrusted to her woman has contributed little if anything to the raising of a standard which was not previously very high. In spite of the caucus and the "mandate," the choosing of good legislators is still the chief duty of an elector and the supreme need of a democracy. It was natural to assume that without touching the details of statesmanship, enfranchised woman would at least be able by her moral instincts and her intuitive appreciation of character to cleanse and elevate politics by making the character of a candidate the paramount consideration. Character, as Mr. Chamberlain has said, is the first essential in public life. We expected woman to take the same view, but we have been disappointed.

Sept. 8.

Has there been any quickening of the pace of legislation with regard to matters of special feminine interest which can reasonably be attributed to the direct or indirect influence of women? The partisans of woman's franchise, after the fashion of enthusiasts, are accustomed to attribute to it every good thing that has happened in Parliament since the institution of the reform. The Married Persons Separation Act, 1896, the Slander of Women Act, 1898, and the Contagious Disease Repeal Act, 1910, are actually mentioned among the triumphs of woman's suffrage. Yet in the first case our Parliament was one year, in the second case seven years, and in the third case twenty-four years behind the British Parliament, which led the way without the aid of an enfranchised womanhood. The abolition of the bookmaker also figures in the list. Yet the bookmaker has not been abolished. He is just as much alive now as before the women got the vote. Apart from some minor restrictions on his activity, all that has happened to him is that in 1907 the Legislature instituted the extraordinary experiment of giving him a license, and that in 1910 the license was revoked. The women's vote may as fairly be debited with the folly of 1907 as credited with the undoing of it three years later. Most of the measures mentioned are decidedly 'small beer.' Juvenile smoking suppression and servants' registry offices are the subjects of two of them, and as to the first of these the Big Dominion was ahead of us with legislation on the same lines but decidedly more drastic than our own.

These measures, as well as others of greater importance in the list, have no appreciable connection whatever with the political power of woman. Old Age Pensions, technical schools, and the like have owed little or nothing to that power, and it is only because they put the sexes on an equality that such a cause is presumed. The equalising of conditions in regard to divorce is an important matter in which the operation of this cause may be more reasonably inferred. Women did show themselves strongly in favor of that reform, and may be taken to have hastened it. In general these lists of women's triumphs are glaring examples of the post hoc, propter hoc fallacy. If woman is to be credited with all the good things that have fallen to her from the legislative table during the last eighteen years, or even with half the good things that have fallen for everybody, she must in fairness be also debited with her share in the bad things. The onward march of Democracy, which has crowded our statute-book with interesting and sometimes valuable experiments, has been accompanied by a lowering of the standards of public life, a sapping of individual independence, a weakening of the sense of public duty.

Just here, where women's moral instinct might have been expected to help us there is really no evidence that it has done so; and if the post hoc, propter hoc argument were really sound her influence would have to be set down as bad. As a matter of fact, she must in general be conceded to have neither helped nor hindered.

ANTIS COUNT OF PARADERS.

Declare That Suffragists Had Only 1,485 in Line at Washington.

By Telegraph to the Editor of the Times.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Since The Times and other newspapers printed this morning the uncontradicted assertion of the suffragists that they had in their parade to the Capitol here yesterday 5,000 women, I hope you will allow me the necessary space to refute such an absurdly exaggerated claim.

According to the count of a committee of men interested in neither suffrage nor anti-suffrage there were in the parade, exclusive of police and musicians, exactly 1,265 men, women and children. Including the police and musicians and the women who rode in automobiles, the total in the line of march numbered 1,485.

MRS. ARTHUR M. DODGE,
President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

TAXATION AND SUFFRAGE.

Those who advocate woman suffrage are fond of quoting the colonial dictum that taxation without representation is tyranny, and declare that this, one of "the fundamental principles upon which the country was founded," is shamefully violated under present circumstances as far as women are concerned. Women, they say, are taxed. But women have no votes. Having no votes they are not represented in the tax-laying body. Hence, they conclude, here is taxation without representation.

Any one who has examined the "argument" critically, and realizes what a total lack of connection there is between the dictum and the interpretation put upon it, is inclined to smile at the display of logic and to dismiss the whole matter as nonsense. But, as undoubtedly many people who have not looked into the question sincerely believe that women have here a real grievance, a few words of explanation may not be superfluous.

The colonists declared that taxation without representation was tyrannical—which is one thing. The suffragists pretend they said that taxation without votes was tyrannical—which is quite another thing. There is nothing unjust in requiring all citizens who can afford it to contribute to the support of the government, whether they vote or not. They get in exchange for their taxes the government's protection to life, liberty and property and all other benefits of a well-ordered society. The colonists never said or thought that taxation and votes went together and nothing of the kind has ever been attempted. Thousands upon thousands of men, as well as women, in this country are taxed without being able to vote. That is the condition of the residents of the District of Columbia. The property of minors is taxed, yet they have no votes. A man may own taxable property in a dozen different States and yet can vote in only one. Finally the tariff is a tax upon every man, woman and child, citizen and alien alike in the country.

The truth is, that the phrase "taxation without representation" did not refer to individuals at all, but to the dealings of one commonwealth with another. It did not mean that neither this man nor that woman should be taxed unless he or she were personally represented in the government. The slightest reflection will show the absurdity of such a construction. At most, only those would be personally represented who voted for successful candidates. A man who has not only not voted for those who are elected, and so have power to tax him, but has endeavored to keep them out, cannot be said to be "represented" by them. Yet would any one contend that all adherents of defeated candidates should be absolved from paying taxes because they were not "represented?"

A very few words will be sufficient to explain what the colonists mean by "taxation without representation," and why they thought it so unjust. The whole thing arose out of the imposition of the notorious Stamp Tax in 1765. The colonists were on this side of the Atlantic, Parliament in England. There were no representatives of the colonies in Parliament, familiar with conditions over here, and competent to explain what taxes would bear most lightly upon the inhabitants. Under such circumstances Parliament coolly decreed this burdensome tax, to be collected wholly from the colonists and not from the inhabitants of Great Britain as well. Moreover, the money so raised was not to be expended in the colonies but withdrawn to England.

In order to create an analogous situation in this country now, and support the present contention of the suffragists, the following grotesque circumstances would have to be imagined. The women would have to be moved in a body to the Pacific coast, the men, retaining the sole power of legislation, remaining east of the Alleghenies. If, then, the men proceeded to declare a tax upon, let us say, every article of clothing worn by the women without consulting the latter, without paying a similar tax on their own clothing, and appropriating the proceeds of the tax on the women to themselves, the women would be justified in crying that the colonial dictum was being violated.

But when men and women are jointly members of the same community; when taxes are laid not upon the women for the benefit of the men, or vice versa; when, finally they are imposed by representatives drawn from the community and not by outsiders, the dictum is absolutely and utterly irrelevant.

FREDERICK DWIGHT.

The Salt Lake City Herald of Utah, where women have had the vote since 1896, in a recent editorial, headed, "Ballott ineffective," says: "Eastern champions of woman suffrage repose an undue confidence in the potency of the ballot. It is not the mighty weapon they suppose it nor the infallible remedy for industrial ills they seem to believe. Did its use endow its possessors with a tithe of the supposed authority, the men of America would long since have established the social justice and the industrial democracy so highly desired and so greatly lacking."

HEALTH BOARD WILL TAKE ACTION

Unless Citizens Co-operate in "Clean-up and Paint-up Week."

PROGRAM FOR TODAY

Residents Are Urged to Remove all Inflammable Materials—List of Dumps Where Rubbish May Be Taken.

"Clean-up and Paint-up Week" in Plainfield is now well underway, and as a rule citizens generally are co-operating in the movement to make the city a better and more attractive place in which to live. The Board of Health has taken the initiative and has a large committee at work assisting in a general supervision of the work.

Section one, of article one, of the city ordinance, which applies to general nuisances, reads as follows:

"Whatever is dangerous to human life or to health and whatever renders the ground, air, food or water unwholesome and an inury to human health, is hereby declared to be a nuisance and is prohibited." In case householders and citizens generally fail to abate such nuisances, the Board of Health will take steps to act under the above provision.

The clean-up plan for today calls for a clearing out of all places where waste inflammable materials of all sorts have been thrown or stored. Cellars, attics, storerooms, closets, hallways, etc., should be cleared of old boxes, papers, rags, bits of wood—anything likely to cause fire. Thrifty householders will collect the old wood, split it for kindling and pile it neatly ready for use. The old papers, etc., will be put in bundles ready to be taken to the dumps, or disposed of in other ways.

Bonfires will not be permitted on account of the danger likely to result. Hundreds of fires are started in Plainfield every year in this way, which might prove very serious, but for the work of the fire department. This clean-up week is for the benefit of the city, therefore the methods used should not be such as might prove detrimental.

It has been remarked by those who are in a position to know, that Plainfield as a whole is unusually "clean," but there is still room for improvement, so this is your chance to help bring about this improvement.

If newspapers and magazines are tied in bundles, the Salvation Army will remove them free of charge, if notified (Telephone 707-W). They will also take old clothing and discarded furniture.

The only dumps where rubbish may be taken are the following: East Seventh street, between Leland avenue and Terrill road, David Hand; rear 674 West Front street, Sylvanus Hoffman; Arlington avenue extension, J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company; Willever street, off Rushmore avenue, between Second and Third streets.

JEWISH NATIONAL FLOWER DAY OBSERVED HERE

The Jewish national flower day was observed in this city yesterday, when a sale of flowers was conducted under the direction of Camp No. 57, Order Sons of Zion. Over four hundred plants were sold by the committee of young women, netting a good sum for the purpose of re-inhabiting the Holy Land by the Hebrews. The committee in charge of the sale was composed of the Misses Sadies Rothberg, Edith Rosenson, Lena Moldezsky, Ethel Shrager, Bessie and Rose Davidson and Bertha Frucht.

At a meeting of the lodge last evening resolutions expressing appreciation of the work accomplished and the aid given by the general public were adopted. Delegates were also elected to the convention of the order to be held at Providence, June 21, 22 and 23. Henry Rosenbaum and Harry Katz were elected.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

"The Closure of the Month of May" is Impressively Observed.

The annual children's service at St. Mary's church, designated as "the closure of the month of May," was held yesterday afternoon. Practically all the juvenile members of the parish participated, the assemblage forming a prety picture as the immaculately white-clad children marched from the Parochial School to the church. The crowning of the statue formed part of the service, during which Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan gave an appropriate sermon.

The blessing of the sacred sacrament was given in conclusion. Rev. Father MacDonald assisted in the ceremony. Previous to there entrance to the church, the children were grouped on the lawn where they were photographed by Paul Collier.

HORSE TAG DAY TO BE HELD NEXT MONDAY

S. P. C. A. Will Raise Funds to Carry on Work of Organization Hereabouts.

National Horse Day will be observed in Plainfield next Monday by a tag day to raise money to carry on the work of the S. P. C. A. The day will differ from the ordinary day in the fact that tags will be sold only by personal solicitation, and not through indiscriminate holding up of people on the streets. In addition to the sale on Monday, tags for the horses, and buttons for the people, will be on sale at the Y. M. C. A. and Schreiner Brothers all of this week.

The event next Monday, June 1, will be the second national horse day and comes as a result of resolutions adopted by the National Tteam Owners Association and the American Humane Society. To aid the work Dr. H. M. Maxson, head of the local schools has instructed every principal to make mention of the day in some way during the school exercises on Monday nixt.

Mrs. S. G. Van Hoeson, agent of the society in Plainfield and vicinity has charge of the arrangements, and she will personally see that every fireman and policeman in this city has buttons, and every horse connected with these two departments is furnished with a tag on Monday. She said this morning that on the similar day last year one town of about 5,000 inhabitants raised $247 for the work, and she already has had $25 subscribed locally for the cause. The day will also be observed in Westfield.

The tags are circular in shape cut from blue cardboard, and besides a drawing of a horse's head have on them "National Horse Tag Day, June 1st, 1914. Humane Societies and Team Owners Association." On the buttons, which are celluloid, printed in gold red, blue and black, is to be found the same inscription but the center picture is that of an attractive woman holding a big horse.

The S. P. C. A. will hold its regular monthly meeting this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. at 4:30 when routine business will be transacted, and plans completed for the tag day.

COMMISSIONERS MEET PROPERTY OWNERS TONIGHT

Arthur E. Smith, Albert H. Atterbury and J. Fred MacDonald the newly-appointed commissioner in the matter of the Madison avenue widening project, will hold their first meeting in the Common Council rooms, tonight, for the purpose of treating with the property owners. It is the intention of the council to widen this avenue between Front street and the railroad.

Previous attempts have been met with opposition to the improvement on the part of Harry Dreir and the estate of Samuel Dreir, as their property will suffer the most by the widening. A previous commission submitted a report of assessments for benefits and damages, but under another ordinance a new commission was named later and the members will begin their work tonight.

REV. J. M. HARE ACCEPTS THE CALL

Will Become Pastor of Scotch Plains Baptist Church.

COMMENCING JUNE 1

New Minister Prominent in Baptist Denomination of the State—Will Succed Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, who has been pastor of the Parmly Memorial Baptist church of Jersey City Heights for several years, has accepted the call to the Scotch Plains Baptist church, succeeding Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, who served the church for a number of years prior to several months ago, when he resigned to engage in literary work and follow up other lines of endeavor, including the Boy Scout movement for which he is librarian.

The announcement that Mr. Hare had been given the call and that he had accepted the same, was made at the morning service in the church yesterday, by David Hand, chairman of the pulpit committee. He informed the congregation that the call was unanimous on the part of the committee as well as the trustees of the church.

The members of the church are much pleased over the acceptance by Mr. Hare. He will begin his new duties on June 1. It is expected that with the coming of the new pastor there will be a revival of interest in the work at the parish house, as well as all the other departments of church work.

For many years Mr. Hare has been a prominent figure in the Baptist denomination in New Jersey. He is a strong preacher and he has the reputation for doing good pastoral work. During the time he has served Parmly Memorial church, Jersey City, he succeeded in building a handsome new edifice, one of the finest in that city, but the work has been too arduous and for that reason Mr. Hare desires to take a country charge, where he will be able to regain his full health and strength.

The Scotch Plains church is the second oldest of the denomination in the State, the Stelton Baptist church being the oldest. The Plains church is the mother of the First Baptist church, of New York. It has had a number of notable pastors, including Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, father of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan; Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks, Rev. G. M. Schott and more recently Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews.

Y. M. H. A. MEET TO PLAN FOR STATE SESSION

The executive council of the State Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. met in this city yesterday afternoon and made plans for the State convention to be held at Trenton, September 13. Thirty-two representatives from various cities of the State were present at yesterday's session.

During the meeting three recently organized associaions were elected to the State body. Several changes to the by-laws were presented and adopted. Reports of the educational and lecture work as carried on by the State officers and local associations were presented and showed much progress in these lines. The next meeting of the council will be held in Paterson early in July. The officers of the State body are as follows: President, H. S. Feller; first vice-president, H. Y. Brodsky; second vice-president, Joseph H. Stone; financial secretary, Dr. B. Feldman; treasurer, S. M. Westheisman; sergeant-at-arms, Andrew Gold. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the session under the direction of a committee of local young women.

HIS CONDITION UNCHANGED.

The condition of Joseph Coffey, the boy who sustained a badly injured knee as the result of falling in a friendly wrestling match, remains the same at Muhlenberg Hospital. The physicians are making every effort to save the limb and to attain that end the youthful patient is being put through heroic treatment. Specialists from New York have been drafted into the case, but they also can give no assurance of the limb being saved.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 67 degrees; 11 a. m., 78 degrees; 1 p. m., 81 degrees.

ENVOYS REJECT BRYAN'S PLAN

Secretary of State Wanted Commision Government for Mexico.

OUTLOOK IS FAVORABLE

Justice Lamar Indicates that Matters are Progressing Well—Net Closing Around Huerta—Force of Rebels is Moving on Jalapa.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

Envoys reject Bryan's plan for a commission form of government in Mexico.

General Carranza sent word to President Wilson that he will not send any representative, formal or informal, to the mediation conference.

A report received at Vera Cruz was that the rebels had captured San Luis Potosi.

Confirmation of reports of rebel activity in the state of Vera Cruz was contained in a dispatch to the Spanish ambassador in Washington from the Mexican foreign office. It said 3,000 rebels had landed about fifty miles north of Vera Cruz and are moving to attack Jalapa, capital of the state.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 25.—It is known that Secretary Bryan is strongly in favor of establishing a commission form of government in Mexico pending election of a president, a vice president and members of congress under constitutional forms. The Bryan plan, as it became known here, provides for a commission of three men, one to be named by the federals, one by the Constitutionalists and one by the A, B, C mediators.

From the information obtained there is hardly any likelihood that such a plan will be accepted by the Brazilian ambassador and the Argentine and Chilean ministers. The understanding of their position is that it is not their province to assume responsibility for any such arrangement. The feeling among the mediators is said to be that the present undertaking, while initiated by the A, B, C nations, must be concluded between the representatives of Mexico and the United States. The mediators regard themselves as mere conciliators and not as possessing any right or power to determine how Mexico shall be ruled. Whatever is the outcome of the Bryan plan, it seems to be assured that the third commissioner must be chosen by some other method than the selection by the three South American diplomats.

Closing Around Huerta.

Washington, May 25.—The reports of the landing of a Constitutionalist force about fifty miles north of Vera Cruz were confirmed in a dispatch received at the Spanish embassy and conveyed by Ambassador Riano to Secretary of State Bryan. Mr. Bryan gave out the following statement:

"The Spanish ambassador has communicated to the state department a message just received from the Mexican foreign office to the effect that a Constitutionalist force of 3,000 has landed on the coast of the state of Vera Cruz, and the foreign office explains that the movement of federal troops in that neighborhood is against the Constitutionalists and not against the Americans.

"The explanation is made by the Mexican government in order that its activities in that direction may not be misunderstood."

Neither Ambassador Riano nor Secretary Bryan could tell at what point the landing had been made. Members of the Constitutional junta in Washington said that the estimate of 3,000 men in the rebel force is too high. They added that there are something more than 1,000 men in the landing force, which is commanded by General Candido Aguilar. The point of landing is about fifty miles north of Vera Cruz city, and the objective of the movement is Jalapa, capital of the state of Vera Cruz. Also it is said by the Constitutionalists that the force under General Aguilar will furnish one more line of attack in the narrowing circle of concentration which it is the hope of the Carranza leaders to throw around the capital. The troops were conveyed from Tampico on board the steamer Yucatan.

DECISION RESERVED IN ANGLEMAN CASE

Vice-Chancellor Allows Lawyer to File Brief in His Own Behalf.

Trenton, May 25—After hearing the evidence today, Vice-Chancellor Backes reserved decision in the disbarment proceedings against Winfield S. Angleman, a Plainfield lawyer. The Vice Chancellor gave permission to Mr. Angleman to file a brief in his own behalf.

The allegation against Mr. Angleman upon which the disbarment proceedings were ordered by Chancellor Walker, is that he accepted fees from Mrs. Belle Overbaugh, of Plainfield, to institute a divorce suit for her and failed to prosecute the case. The proceedings were also broadened to include alleged irregularities on the part of Mr. Angleman in connection with a mortgage in Plainfield.

WALPOLE EXTRADITED TO NEW YORK STATE

Taken There Today to Be Tried on Three Counts Preferred by Whitman.

Lynus Walpole Jr., of Scotch Plains, who has been indicted by the New York State authorities, on three separate counts, will be taken from the Union County jail at Elizabeth today to the Tombs, in New York pending arraignment at some future date. Since being re-arrested in this city Walpole has been confined in jail awaiting extradition. The requisition papers in the case were signed today.

Walpole was originally arrested on a Union County complaint but it is probable that the proceedings in this State will be discontinued inasmuch as the youth is being prosecuted by the New York State authorities. When the case was taken up by Prosecutor Charles Whitman, Walpole was re-arrested in this city after being out on $1,000 bail in the Union County case. Arranged before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, following apprehension he was held on a second bond for the New York courts and could not furnish the necessary amount.

REV. DR. PIERCE TO GIVE UP PASTORATE

Will Devote His Time to Evangelistic and Literary Work.

Rev. Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of Lenox avenue, this city, who has been pastor of the Second Avenue Baptist church, New York, for the past six years, to the surprise of his congregation yesterday, presented his resignation. He gave as his reason for giving up the pastorate his desire to enter the evangelistic field and do more literary work for which he has a great fondness.

During his pastorate in New York, Dr. Pierce has accomplished a great deal. In addition to his regular preaching he has organized religious classes among all sorts of foreigners and the membership and following of the church is unusually large. For several years Dr. Pierce has made his home in this city, where he has many warm friends.

Prior to going to the New York church, Dr. Pierce was for ten years pastor of what was then known as the Penn Avenue Baptist church, of Scranton, Pa., but which has since been changed to the Emmanuel Baptist church, and before that he held several pastorates in the West, all being very successful. He is a prominent figure in the Baptist denomination, and has gained much fame through his clever chalk talks which have been a valuable help to him in his work of preaching the Gospel.

CYCLIST BREAKS HIS ARM.

Harry Matson, a young man living on West Third street, received a broken arm yesterday, in a fall from his wheel on West Fourth street. The machine slipped on a wet car track as Matson was riding at good speed near Liberty street. He was picked up by bystanders and assisted to the office of a nearby physician. Beside the broken arm, the young man was badly cut and bruised.

MERCHANTS TO CLOSE.

The majority of the local places of business are to be closed next Saturday (Decoration Day) and the Business Men's Association desire the co-operation of the public in doing their shopping early on Friday.

THREE JAILED IN 'SPEAKEASY' RAID

Police Break up West End Nuisance Shadowed by Sergeant Higgins.

OFFICER IN SCUFFLE

More Arrests Will Follow—Hearing Will be Held in City Court this Afternoon—Place Has Been Under Suspicion for Some Time Past.

Matching himself against three intoxicated men in the middle of the road on South Second street, yesterday afterndon, Sergeant Maurice Higgins, of the police department, held his opponents at bay until the arrival of help from headquarters and incidentally succeeded in breaking up what is alleged to be one of the worst dives in the West End section of the city. Higgins had spent the morning in "shadowing" several suspicious Sunday resorts along South Second street and early in the afternoon had gained enough evidence to warrant placing the frequenters of a restaurant conducted by Raphael Campenuto, at 836 South Second street, under arrest.

Apprenending a customer as he came from the door of the place in a staggering condition, Higgins was preparing to hustle him off to headquarters when two of the man's friends appeared on the scene. A battle was the reuslt and the police officer brought into play all of his pugilistic knowledge to combat the frenzied onslaught of his foes. After being buffeted about for several minutes Higgins managed to send a bystander to the home of Patrolman Hendershot for help and meanwhile Chief Kiely had been notified by telephone of the fracas.

Hendershot arrived to snatch one of the prisoners as he was preparing to make a getaway. Higgins meanwhile had suceeded in quelling the other and when the patrol wagon arrived they were taken to headquarters.

Chief Kiely arrived on the scene and conducted an investigation into the interior conditions of the alleged "joint." On entering he found six men drinking an amber colored fluid. When he demanded to know the nature of the refreshments the proprietor is said to have admitted that he was dispensing beer.

Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, the two prisoners who resisted arrested gave their names as John Boyle and John Kelley, and according to the authorities, both have police court records. The prisoners, proprietor and witnesses corraled in the "clean-up" will be arraigned for a hearing this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

COUNCILMAN CALKINS WILL EXPLAIN LIQUOR ORDINANCE

Councilman Leighton Calkins will address a meeting of the Federated Men's Clubs tomorrow evening, in the Parish House of the Congregational church. At this time Mr. Calkins will explain fully the intent and purpose of his bill now pending in the Common Council.

The object of the meeting is to give the people a chance to understand the measure before it comes up for final action. As the measure is one in which all citizens are interested, all voters are urged to be present to hear Mr. Calkins, and to participate in the open discussion which will follow the address.

PROCTOR'S PICTURES.

Big attractions are announced today at Proctor's where the latest installment of "The Perils of Pauline" are to be shown both afternoon and evening as the headliner of the bill. Other feature films on today's bill include "The Water Dog," "The Career of Waterloo Peterson" "Fashionable Dances," "Who's Who," "The Little Madonna," and "Will Blood Tell." "Lucille Love" will be shown tomorrow in the latest installment, with "The Courting of Prudence," "Forced to be Stylish," and "How Green Saved His Life," as features of the occasion. Other features for the week are announced as follows: Wednesday, "The Third Degree"; Thursday, "Seeing South America with Colonel Roosevelt"; Friday, "Hearts Adrift."

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

George Elliott, of 802 West Front street, who was arrested by Patrolman Kelley last week, on a charge of disorderly conduct, consisting of loafing about the city streets after midnight, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, and after a reprimand by the court was allowed to go on a suspended sentence. His arrest followed complaints filed by residents of West Eighth street, who objected to his loafing in a suspicious manner around their homes.

PLANS MELLEN GRAND JURY.

Pelletier Wants Indictments For Any Acts Committed In Boston.

Boston, May 25.—District Attorney Pelletier announced that he would try to indict officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and others as the result of the testimony given last week by Charles S. Mellen before the interstate commerce commission. His detectives are trying to determine whether any of the "hold-ups, conspiracies or extortions," to use the district attorney's language, occurred in Suffolk county.

If the district attorney thinks that he has jurisdiction a special session of the Suffolk county grand jury will be called. The district attorney issued a statement calling on all citizens to aid him by furnishing evidence to corroborate Mellen's testimony. The statement adds:

"Such conduct as Mr. Mellen describes calls for the rigorous punishment of officials for breaking the criminal law."

Miss Woods Goes to Wed General Huerta's Officer.

Vera Cruz, May 25.—Miss Elizabeth Woods, an American girl, eighteen years old, left Vera Cruz for Mexico City, where she will wed General Jiminez Castro of the federal army, commanding at Cuernavaca. They met six months ago at Cuernavaca, following the battle between the federals and the Zapatistas.

Miss Woods and her parents came to Vera Cruz as refugees, but she insisted on returning when General Castro wrote, asking her to come back to marry him. Her parents reluctantly agreed and went on the train with her. John Woods, her father, is a business man of Cuernavaca.

General Castro was several times wounded, and the American girl nursed him back to health.

INDEPENDENTS WIN FIRST GAME OVER S. S. PLAYERS

The Independents ,a new aggregation of ball stars in this section scored a defeat over the Monroe avenue Sunday School Leaguers Saturday afternoon by a count of 10 to 6. Hard hitting and some ragged fielding the latter element contributed by the Monroes, gave the Independents an easy verdict and their chances of coming out in the lead were never in any real danger. Fourteen errors were charged up against the losing side, many of which came at critical points.

Dufford, Compton and the Terry brothers led the hitting for the winners while Barret and Beckman did some effective willow wielding for the churchboys. Many stolen bases also figured in the issue.

The score:

Somerville

Word was received here late Saturday afternoon that the strange dog that bit four persons in this place on Thursday afternoon last was afflicted with rabies, and it is said that Officer Robert Holmes and William Ianson, the former being bitten on the arm and the latter on the leg, will be taken to the Pasteur Institute, New York city, for treatment. Saturday morning former Senator L. A. Thompson shot a stray hound dog on his premises on West Cliff street. The animal was acting in a peculiar manner and was evidently mad.

The Second Reformed church was crowded last night at the annual memorial services, held under the auspices of General Wadsworth Post, No. 75, G. A. R. The members of Company M also attended in a body. An interesting address was delivered by Rev. M. D. Church, pastor of the Methodist church.

Notices have been published announcing that the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed at the First Reformed church on the first Sunday morning in June; the sacrament of infant baptism the second Sunday morning, and Children's Day celebration the second Sunday evening in June.

L. M. Codington, of this place, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Savings Bank Association. A meeting of the association was held last week at Newark.

Miss Margaret Opdyke, of this place, is a guest of relatives at Clinton.

Ivanhoe Council, No. 72, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a patriotic open meeting this evening in its rooms at the close of the regular session, to which the public generally is invited. A special address will be delivered by Rev. James A. Deojay, of New York city. J. Hart Herder, of this place, will render several vocal selections, and there will also be other features

'Plains & Fanwood.

The pupils and teachers of Public School No. 1 have been working for the past week preparing for the annual "open session day" which will be held in the school tomorrow afternoon and evening. The walls in the rooms and corridors are covered with exhibits of the pupils work during the school term ending June 18. Although the parents are welcome to attend all during the day the hours especially appointed at which time the corps of teachers will be at liberty are from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and 8 to 10 in the evening.

Dr. H. K. Carroll occupied the pulpit both at the morning and evening services at the Methodist church yesterday. In the evening the local lodge of Junior Order American Mechanics attended in a body and listened to a special sermon.

The Fanwood Field Club will play two games next Saturday, both being on the home grounds. The third and deciding game with the Mt. Pleasant A. C. will be one of the attractions. The Garwood A. C. will probably be the other. The Field Club and Mt. Pleasant have each won a game and Saturday's contest will be the deciding one.

A movement has been started by several local women to organize a society of Camp Fire Girls and a meeting will be held in the Scotch Plains Public Library this evening at 8 o'clock. Several members of the New York Camp Fire Girls will be present and explain the object of the organization and other questions. The girls of this place will probably welcome such an organization.

The Scotch Plains Public Library will be open this evening between the hours of 8 and 10 for the purpose of circulating books. Librarian Anson will be in charge.

Robert Hooker, a former resident of this place, has returned to his home in Newark after visiting Maurice Hall, of the borough.

Edward L. Hand, of Park avenue, has purchased an automobile.

The forest fires on the mountains back of the 'Plains are becoming more frequent every day and greatly endanger houses that are in that section. The one back of the Henderson estate Friday evening spread so rapidly that it threatened to consume several dwellings before the local fire department could get it under control. As it was they worked from 7:30 to long past midnight to keep it from destroying the outbuildings on the Henderson estate. The fires are of incendiary origin.

When the new outfit for the Scotch Plains police force (Patrolman Ashton) arrives he will be able to cope with any trouble. The Township Committee has ordered a summer uniform of blue with short coat and white visored cap. He will also have a bicycle in order to run down law breakers.

STYLISH RELIABLE

Cleanliness Isn't Next to Godliness;

It Is Godliness!

Civilization starts in the home. It then extends to the community and then the entire country.

No home is healthier and happier than it is clean; no community is healthier or more prosperous than it is clean.

"Clean-up Week" is a nudge to negligence to take a care lest civic inertia should set in and do for this city what it has done for every city in history that failed to recognize its first duty—the duty of cleanliness.

ASLEEP AT THE SWITCH.

The new method of drawing grand juries may be all right, but it seems to us that there must have been something radically wrong with the last one chosen. At least four cases which were brought before it evidently were not acted upon, for no arrests have been made by the police in any of them. In one case in which it is said that no indictment was found, a professional crook who had served two and a half years in Sing Sing, and who passed two bad checks in this city, evidently was not indicted. There are persistent rumors that no bills were found in the case of the man who robbed gas meters in this city, one of the robberies resulting in an explosion, and in the case of a boy who is alleged to have robbed nearly a score of stores here. A newspaper man at Elizabeth who wrote and had printed a story that Danton, the man who was accused of holding up two Summit policemen, had not been indicted, is said to have been summoned to appear in court to tell where he got his information. Altogether it looks as if the Grand Jury evidently was asleep at the switch, or else is trying to save the county money by letting accused persons go without the expense of a trial.

MAKE VACATION PAY.

This is an editorial not of pecuniary interest to the individual summer vacationer, but of public benefit. Make your vacation this season pay. Make it pay wour city; make it pay the citizens generally. Share with those who have been unable to go upon an outing, the things you see and the ideas you cultivate. Keep your eyes open for new "stunts" that will make Plainfield a bigger, brighter and better community.

The summer vacation season is about to be launched. You are planning your trip. Bear in mind that there are many people who will remain in the city during the hot weather, in the city they will spend their summer vacation. Why not bring back a part of your outing to the folks at home? Many of those who cannot go to the seashore, the lakes or the mountains, are the very ones who need the trip most. Bring home to them the results of your trip.

Make your vacation pay. Remember some of the things which you see and which impress you. If you see some beauty spot, imbibe of it and bring home the idea you gain. If you witness some beneficial event, stow away the plan and transplant it when you return from your outing. Every city has something to learn fom its neighbors; you may help transmit this education. The impressions which you have received and forgotten on vacations heretofore, might have worked wonders for the home city if you had applied them. Cultivate these ideas on your outing this summer; they may mean a better and brighter city for you to spend your working days in.

Perhaps it will be parks, perhaps it will be ornamental lighting, or it may be well paved streets, efficient public markets, playgrounds, pageants, or possibly it will be beautiful homes and maybe handsome factory buildings, which you will see. Suppose you try to bring home one good impression and set it to action for a better Plainfield. Then your vacation will really pay.

There is no telling to what extent the holiday craze will go in the cities. Plainfield merchants have been requested to close up all day on Saturdays during August, but there does not seem to have been any concerted action toward doing as the civic committee of the College Club has asked, and the merchants feel that they have good reason for refusing to do so. In New York three of the largest stores in the city have announced that they will close all day on Saturday during July and August, while in Newark, where the Saturday half holiday during the summer months has been the practice for many years, the principal stores are now closing on Saturday at six o'clock the year round, except, of course, during the summer, when the half holiday prevails.

The Board of Health is going at the clean-up work with a vigor which promises well for the success of the project. Aid has been sought from many residents of the city, requesting them to take charge of certain districts, and see that they are properly cleaned up, preparatory to an inspection which will be made Friday. The clean-up week idea is by no means new. It has been tried successfully in cities great and small throughout the country, and the results have been remarkable. In this city we believe that by the time Saturday comes there will be hundreds less rubbish piles than there were last Saturday.

Annual Meeting and Dinner of Men's Club An Enjoyable Affair.

The annual meeting, election of officers and dinner of the Mens' Club of the Seventh Day Baptist church, was held last evening, when forty of the men gathered at the church to bring to a close one of the most prosperous years of the organization.

Frank J. Hubbard acted as toastmaster, at the dinner, while several members addressed the gathering on the general subject of "Service." Dr. O. B. Whitford gave a toast to the supper, and to the members of the Woman's Society for Christian work of the church, which served the repast.

The speakers and the subjects are as follows: Dr. Henry M. Mason, "Relation of Education to Service;" Raymond C. Burdick, "The Reasonableness of Service"; Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, "The Value of Service". Theodore G. Davis, "The Ideas of Service"; John B. Cottrell, "The Cheerfulness of Service"; Rev. Edwin Shaw "The Extremity of Service." The addresses were short, and to the point making a very profitable evening together.

During the business session of the evening, the following officers were elected: President, Irving Hunting; vice-president Franklin A. Langworthy; secretary, George Clarke, treasurer, Alexander W. Vars.

GOES FREE FOR A CHANGE.

Upon her promise to take the pledge this morning, Judge DeMeza allowed her to go on a suspended sentence.

POSTPONED HEARING.

The hearing in the case of Seumus MacManus, charged with disorderly conduct, was postponed from this morning to tomorrow morning in the city court. ## RECOVERING BODIES OF LIGHTSHIP WRECK

Seven Already Found; One Is a Woman.

Halifax, N. S., May 25.—The toll of dead recovered from the lightship Halifax 19 totals seven. The bodies were buried side by side in the little Methodist cemetery at Liscomb by Rev. E. Plowman.

One was a woman unidentified, and of the remaining six the names of only two became known from their clothing. These were William Morris of Glasgow and John Gorman.

It is believed that there were sixteen on board, but no one survives to tell the tragic story.

The search for bodies today resulted only in the finding of one. All of those recovered had life belts. The captain of the government steamer Stanley, who is in charge of the searching operations, reports to the marine department that if belts were put on by the others they may be found during the next couple of days. He sent a wireless message to Halifax stating that the sea was going down and the indications were that the water would be calm enough soon to search the wreck more carefully. Some of the crew may have stuck to the ship, though there is not the slightest hope that any living person will be found on board.

The wreck is lying on her side, almost submerged, and the sea has been breaking over her all day.

The chronometer was washed ashore among other wreckage. This stopped at 2:10 Greenwich time, so that the disaster must have occurred somewhere about 10 o'clock on Friday night.

COMPELLED TO EXCHANGE SUIT FOR SAILOR TOGS

Discharged from the navy and having no further use for Uncle Sam's navy blue uniform, George Curtis, of 823 St. Mary's avenue, took Ernest Whitney, of 3 Chatham street, to a barn in the rear of his home yesterday afternoon and compelled him to exchange suits, according to a report filed with the police by Whitney, who is now looking for Curtis. Whitney met Curtis yesterday morning and walked with him to St. Mary's avenue, stopping in the latter's barn. Once inside Curtis is alleged to have forced Whitney to take off a new suit of clothes and don the sailor togs.

Much abashed and enraged, Whitney went to his home on Chatham street and after securing a change of clothing made a report to the police. Curtis is well known to the local authorities and will be picked up on sight. He has been in the toils a number of times for various offenses and only two weeks ago got a fine of $10 for being drunk.

She took it upon herself to get rid of him and drove the intruder away with the iron weapon. Palmer is an old offender and was sentenced to pay a fine of $15 or spend sixty days in the county jail. The woman was allowed to go on her promise to leave town within twenty-four hours.

A heavy business in every one of its departments was done, and the store was crowded all the time from the opening to the closing hour.

The firm were especially pleased with the many congratulations and wishes for success which they received. These were from customers old friends and nearly every rival business house in the Broad and Market streets retail trading district. Many of the latter sent floral pieces to the Michael store, and representatives of various firms called in person to pay their respects and to wish the new concern well.

Many changes have been made in the store since it came into the hands of the new owners, but the complete task of re-arrangment will not be finished for several weeks. Half a million dollars' worth of new stock has already been distributed among the various departments of the store.

You Help in Rendering Good Telephone Service

THERE are three important factors necessary in rendering good telephone service:

1. The Party who is calling.
2. The Telephone Operator.
3. You.

When a customer desires to reach you by telephone, and the operator finds that your telephone is busy, she is obliged to report: "Line's busy." It is her way of saying: "His telephone door is closed." She has done her part; the person calling has done his.

You can help in rendering good telephone service by providing telephone facilities adequate to prevent frequent "Busy" reports.

Upon request we shall be glad to furnish a record showing the number of times your line has been reported "Busy" and recommend the facilities necessary in order to KEEP YOUR TELEPHONE DOOR OPEN AT ALL TIMES.

ROOSEVELT IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Emphatically Denies He'll Run For Governor.

TO REJUVENATE THE PARTY

Is Making Tentative Plans With Other Progressive Leaders For the Fall Campaign—Silent on His Candidacy For 1916.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 25.—The report that Colonel Roosevelt would run for governor on the Progressive ticket next fall was settled by the colonel himself. He said that he would not be a candidate and that no one could induce him to think of such a thing. He called the report absurd and asserted that his candidacy was not being considered at the conference at Sagamore Hill.

"There is absolutely nothing in it," said he, speaking rather more emphatically than usual—"absolutely nothing. Does not this, my third denial, convince you of my sincerity?"

The teeth came together with a click; one fist waved in the air and finally struck the other palm with a resounding whack. And then the colonel, having looked very fierce for a moment, broke into a smile as he thought perhaps as did one of the reporters to whom he spoke, "I thrice presented him a kingly crown, which he did thrice refuse."

Anyway, it became known that since Colonel Roosevelt's return he has been presented on numerous occasions by optimistic Progressives with the crown that goes with the governorship of New York. The state leaders who have come to Oyster Bay have come to convince the colonel of the advisability and even the necessity of his saving the party by capturing the state and becoming its governor.

But he has declined in each instance to consider such a course and has been very largely impelled to do so, it is understood, by his desire to save the party, not in any one state, but in the nation at large. He has told his New York followers that the late summer and fall months will be devoted to a big swing or stump speaking right across the continent, with stops wherever the party's organization seems to be most crippled and in need of his aid.

Reticent About 1916.

Colonel Roosevelt has declined to speak publicy about 1916 and his intentions regarding that year of presidential election, but it is well understood here that the summer and fall speaking tour is to be largely an opening wedge toward that end. In a word, it will give an opportunity to feel the public pulse and what still remains of his popularity.

The colonel's callers today were as they have been previously, men of importance in the Progressive column. Frank B. Kellogg, a former president of the American Bar association, who was known as Roosevelt's trust buster, was one of the first to arrive. He had come from Minneapolis. While he was yet closeted with the colonel, Bourke Cockran, one of the law partners of Martin T. Manton, who defended Becker, came to Sagamore Hill, and the political talk became general. William Loeb, Jr., who was secretary to President Roosevelt, was there too.

It is very apparent here that Mr. Roosevelt is preparing to launch himself with all of his well known vigor into the business of resuscitating the bull moose party, and it is quite as well understood that the party is his party and is to be run by him as he sees fit.

ROOSEVELT LECTURE PLANS.

Colonel Will Spend a Busy Day In Washington Tuesday.

Washington, May 25.—Plans for Colonel Roosevelt's lecture on Tuesday before the National Geographic society on his Brazilian explorations were completed. They provide for eight hours' stay in the capital, into which will be crowded the colonel's lecture, his first glimpses of his African trophies in the National museum, a private dinner at a downtown hotel with a few friends, for which all political significance is disclaimed by its managers, and an opportunity for any one to ask him about his newly discovered river.

The colonel will arrive here at 3:20 Tuesday afternoon and leave at midnight. George K. Cherry, Leo E. Miller and Anthony Fiala, members of his staff on the Brazilian trip, will accompany him. A special police escort will be detailed for him while here.

Weather Forecast.

REAR ADMIRAL WINSLOW.

Rumor He Will Succeed Fletcher at Vera Cruz.

Information has come to light of the purpose of the navy department to place Rear Admiral Winslow in command of the fleet in Mexican waters when Rear Admiral Badger, now in supreme command, returns to American waters. This on its face might indicate that Rear Admiral Fletcher, who directed the occupation of Vera Cruz, was to be superseded for reasons growing out of his handling of the situation at Vera Cruz, particularly his appointment of Robert J. Kerr of Chicago as civil governor of the captured city.

MAY PROBE FINANCES OF OTHER RAILROADS

Sweeping Inquiry Is Planned by Folk.

Washington, May 25.—That the interstate commerce commission will delve into the fiscal operations of other railroads than the New York, New Haven and Hartford is the report prevalent in official circles. The New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio may be included in the proposed investigation relative to financiering methods employed in certain deals.

The amazing revelations of Charles S. Mellen, formerly president of the New Haven, has about convinced the interstate commerce commission that a sweeping inquiry into the fiscal operations of other big railroad systems is imperative. Officials of the commission have no hesitancy in declaring that they would welcome such an inquiry, and there is a strong sentiment in the senate to take such a step.

Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel of the commission in its present investigation of the affairs of the New Haven, is said to be looking into the operations of the New York Central in anticipation of an official inquiry. The Rock Island and the St. Louis and San Francisco roads, which have figured conspicuously in Wall street reports in the last year or two, are other roads mentioned, concerning which men high in the financial and banking worlds, it is believed, could give much interesting testimony.

ENGINE HITS AUTO.

Six Are Injured, Two of Whom May Die From Wounds.

Haverstraw, N. Y., May 25.—Two persons were so dangerously injured that it is feared they will die, a third is believed to have been crippled for life and three others were less seriously injured when a New York, Ontario and Western freight train crashed into an automobile on Cemetery crossing, in West Side avenue.

Michael Colono, the crossing flagman, was substituting for William Knapp, the regular West Shore flagman, who had been ordered off duty to have his eyes examined. Colono disappeared immediately after the accident and is still missing, though constables had searched for him throughout the day.

Colono had raised the gates—twin wooden spars—at Cemetery crossing just after a southbound passenger train had gone by and failed to see the New York, Ontario and Western freight train approaching the crossing from the north. As the red lantern on the gates went up, signaling that all was safe, the automobile with its six passengers, held up by the passenger train, resumed its journey, only to be hit by the engine.

BANK TAX LAW ATTACKED.

Jersey Citizens Allege That Measure Was Illegally Put Through.

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—Robert S. Ross and William J. Field, both of Jersey City, began suit in the supreme court here to test the validity of the bank stock tax act.

They alleged that the assembly committee substitute for the original bill was introduced after March 5 without unanimous consent, as required, and that the original bill should have been an assembly measure, as is required of revenue raising legislation.

Chief Justice Gummere granted an order that depositions be taken at the statehouse on June 5. Attorney General Wescott will argue for the state in behalf of the law.

BIG FORTUNE TO MRS. MAYO.

With $20,000,000 Widow Will Carry Out Colonel's Kentucky Plan.

Paintsville, Ky., May 25.—The will of Colonel John C. C. Mayo, Kentucky capitalist and Democratic national committeeman, who died in New York, will be probated here on June 1. His entire fortune was left to his widow, who will endeavor to carry out the plans Mr. Mayo had for further development in eastern Kentucky.

Close friends of Mr. Mayo say his fortune will amount to at least $20,000,000. Mr. Mayo carried $275,000 worth of insurance at the time of his death, having dropped $250,000 several years ago.

ROCKEFELLER IN AUTO CRASH

His Car Struck Another, but No One Is Hurt.

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 25.—While John D. Rockefeller was giving five women an automobile ride another car collided with his at the top of the Elmsford hill, and a serious accident was narrowly averted.

Mr. Rockefeller was going east on the White Plains road, and the second car was coming down the Hartsdale road. This is a bad junction, and neither chauffeur could see the other car until almost on it. Mr. Rockefeller's car being on the right side of the road, it was impossible for his chauffeur to steer clear. The chauffeur of the second car applied the brakes as soon as he saw Mr. Rockefeller's automobile, but he couldn't stop his car in time to prevent the crash. He struck the Rockefeller car in the front, smashing the radiator and the fender. The women screamed, but Mr. Rockefeller was cool and assured them that the danger was over and the damage not heavy.

Somerville High School Nine Snatches Victory in the Twelfth Inning.

A SEPCTACULAR FINISH

Teams Even up on Hits and the Race is Nip and Tuck During the Dozen Rounds of Play—Game Gives Somerville the Lead.

The North Plainfield and Somerville High School baseball teams went twelve innings Saturday afternoon at the latter place before the Somerville boys won the decision by the score of 4 to 3. The contest was fast and exciting throughout and the home team only won after Dunning dropped a long fly with a man on second base. Denny was on the mound for the boroughites and Kershaw, the Somerville slabsman, opposed the local batters. He fanned fifteen men. The local players were in good form and gave Denny fine support in all but two instances. None of the Somerville runs were earned but were made on four errors.

Both teams were blanked in the initial inning and the local team started the scoring in the second. Dilts made first on an error and went home when Conroy placed the ball against the left field fence for a double. Smalley flied out and Denny struck out. VanMater came across with a fine single scoring Conroy. Hebert struck out ending the inning. The home team came back in the last half of this period and put one run over the rubber. Robeson doubled and on the hit and run play, scored when Dilts let one go through him. North Plainfield was held scoreless for five successive innings through the fine twirling of Kershaw and his airtight support. The county seaters tied the score in the fifth. Kershaw and Schomp singled in order and the former went home when Dilts upset another fast one off Robeson's bat. The game then resolved itself into a pitcher's battle until the eighth inning when the local boys took advantage of Kershaw's weak points and drew a run over the platter. VanMater walked and Abrams fanned. Dunning and Townley both singled scoring VanMater. The home team tied matters up in their part of this inning. Robeson singled and stole second. Dumont singled to left and Dunning let the ball get by him and Robeson scored. In the next three stanzas neither side scored and the locals were blanked in their half of the twelfth. Somerville sent in Ammerman as a pinch hitter and he singled and went to second on the next play. McHugh went out, Denny to Burner and Kershaw whiffed the air three times. Schomp then hit a hard one to left center and Dunning dropped it, Ammerman scoring with the winning run. This was the first game for the Somerset County Championship and the second game will be played next Saturday on Hyde Oval. Robeson, Dumont and Kershaw were the leading batters for the home team and Townley led the locals with three bingles. The score:

FRITTS TAKES THIRD IN THE PENTATHLON

Contest for All Around Athletic Title Won by Teammate of Local Boy.

Competing against the country's athletic cracks in the Pentathlon, held in Celtic Park, New York, yesterday afternoon, in connection with the games of the New York Postoffice Clerks, Jack Fritts, of this city, again snatched third place in the event. The Plainfield competitor was one out of a field of eleven and rang up twenty-six points. Platt Adams, formerly first baseman on the local Y. M. C. A. baseball team, and the logical choice for the all-around title, was beaten out by an unknown to the athletic world and had to be content with second place, tallying twenty-three points.

P. F. O'Connor, a titian-haired Pastime A. C. man and fellow clubmate of Fritts, carried off the championship with twenty points. Although he scored only one first his all around test was so good that it netted him the best average at the end. Among the eleven competitors who tried for the prize was Melvin Sheppard, the ex-Olympic champion, and he secured ninth place with a total of thirty-nine points. Sheppard won the 200 meters, the first event, but was beaten out in the 1,500 meter run, an event in which he holds an Olympic record. Myles McHugh, of the Pastime A. C., won the latter race and Fritts was second. Fritts also scored a third in the javelin throw with a mark of 147 feet 6 inches, and finished well up in all of the other events, although he did not break into the first three places.

MARTIN DIVIDES UP.

Charlie Deal's return to the Boston National League club's fold Saturday, after an enforced lay-off, was the cause for the benching of Jack Martin in the eighth. Jack has been playing some good ball during Deal's absence and will probably divide up honors with the regular third sacker for the time being, at least.

Dunellen the Victim of Steinbach's Hurling in Initial Contest of the Season.

BUT THREE HITS MADE

Mysterious Moundsman Completely Baffles the Villagers — Entirely New Lineup for Pets—Dorflinger Retained Only Two Old Players.

Ernest Dorflinger's Plainfield Pets opened their season Saturday afternoon on Parker Field by defeating the Dunellen baseball nine by the score of 4 to 1. The locals were the winners at all times and the only run that the visitors made was in the seventh when Wall hit for a trip around the bases. Steinbach was in the box for the locals and was effective at all times and was given excellent support throughout the entire game. The locals hit the opposing pitcher for eight safeties.

Plainfield's first run came in the fourth when Harney was hit pretty hard and also gave a base on balls. Coyle hit for a double and was sacrificed to third by Ortlieb. The Dunellen team was blanked for the first six periods and their only tally came in the next inning on Wall's clout. Plainfield scored three times in the seventh which gave them a comfortable lead of three runs. Ballaue doubled on the first ball pitched and was sent home on two singles. Ortlieb was hit by the pitcher and the third run was made on a safe hit.

Coyle led the local batters with a two bagger and two singles and Green was second with two singles. Wall led the visitors with a home run and a single. In the fifth inning Hannon was hit in the head by a pitched ball and was forced to retire, Montross taking his place at first base. Harney struck out three men and Steinbach sent five back to the bench. The score:

LEALS ELIMINATED FROM LEAGUE RACE

Plainfield High School's Victory Puts an End to Private School Bid.

After scoring six runs in the opening period of the second interscholastic game between Leals School and Plainfield High School, Saturday afternoon the High School boys slowed up and had the private school nine at their mercy during the rest of the encounter.

In the first inning the entire High School nine had a turn at bat, with the result that six batsmen crossed the pan. In Leals half of the first inning eight batsmen faced the pitcher and three crossed the pan. Brick did the twirling for High School and kept the private school boys well in hand at all times, striking out five men and passing four. Leals used three pitchers to hold their opponents down. Stewart started off in the box, but in the middle of the first inning he changed places with Faber at short. With the beginning of the second inning he again took up the pitching job, but soon turned it over to Faber. Voorhees went in to pitch in the fourth period and held the High School scoreless during the rest of the game.

Hetfield used his stick to good advantage in the game hitting the ball for two neat singles. O'Leary and Rosenson also got two singles. For Leals out of the running for the city made two hits. This game puts Leals out of teh running for the city championship.

FORMER PETS HELP DEFEAT SOMERVILLE

Stallings in the Limelight With a Home Run Tap Over the Fence.

Manager Snyder's High Bridge baseball team was treated to a bumping at Hackettstown Saturday afternoon when the home club annexed an 11 to 5 verdict. One thousand people attended the encounter which was the opening game of the season for the home aggregation and the spectators were treated to some excellent all around baseball.

DeMott, formerly of the Cincinnati National League club, was in the box for Hackettstown and proved a terror to the visiting batsmen, allowing them but five scatttered bingles. The Hackettstown lineup was made up of several former Pets who did some fine work in Saturday's contest. Bill Stallings, Wally Cosgrove, Joe Harter and Dave Driscoll, former Plainfield players, all wore Hackettstown uniforms. "Home-run" Wolf, formerly of Dunellen, played center field. Stallings won a place in the hearts of the thousand fans by hitting the ball over the center field fence for a circuit trip. "Nibs" Hand and Grimes played with High Bridge.

ONE RUN IN THE EIGHTH GAVE SOMERVILLE A GAME

Manager Parker's Somerville baseball club visited Flemington Saturday afternoon and copped a 1 to 0 verdict at the expense of the home club in a closely played game. The only run of the game came in the eighth inning when the Somerset county seat players bunched their hits and took advantage of a bad error. Many brilliant plays were made by members of both teams and the large gathering of fans that witnessed the encounter were treated to some good baseball during the nine rounds of play.

Hits were kept well scattered during the contest and but two passes were issued by the moundsmen who appeared for the combatants. This was the first of a series of contests arranged to be played between these two rivals and a return game will be staged at Somerville in the near future. Eddie Kraft was in the best of form for Somerville and held the opposition to a quartet of scattered bingles while Parker, of the home club, allowed but half a dozen. Lou Dixon, of this city, caught for Somerville.

MRS. STOCKTON, OF P. C. C., ONLY LOCAL COMPETITOR

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, one of Plainfield's foremost golfers, is a starter in the women's metropolitan championship golf tournament practise play for which began this morning over the links of the Essex County Country Club at West Orange. She started her trip around the links with Mrs. M. D. Peterson, of Englewood, as an opponent at 10:30 this morning.

There is a record field of seventy-eight entered, and in order to avoid any misunderstanding the partners were drawn by lot. All day will be given over to the testing ground, the first matches being scheduled for tomorrow morning. Miss Marion Hollins, the West Brook girl, who won first honors last year, will defend her title.

"RUBY" ROBERT MADE DEFENDANT IN SUIT

Wife Starts Action for Absolute Divorce From "Fitz" on Cruelty Charge.

Robrt Fitzsimmons, former world's champion heavyweight pugilist, is being sued for divorce in the Circuit Court of Chicago, by Mrs Julia Fitzsimmons, who charged that he had treated her with extreme and repeated cruelty since their marriage in San Francisco in 1903. Action was started Saturday.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons alleges that her husband threatened to kill her when she left him in July, 1910, and says she fears that unless restrained by the court he will carry out his threat.

While his wife is spending her time in the courts the ruby Cornishman is performing before the footlight in New York's great white way. He is making daily trips between his home in Dunellen and New York and does not appear to be worrying about the outcome of the suit.

APGAR ELEVENTH IN CLUB'S MERCHANDISE HANDICAP MEET

Neaf Apgar, the local sharpshooter, set up a score of 10, 14, 20-44 in the merchandise sliding handicap prize shoot of the Smith Gun Club held in Wiedemayer's Park, Newark, Saturday afternoon, winning eleventh place out of a field of twenty competitors. The event was run off in a ten-bird string followed by two twenty-bird strings.

Gunners were out strong for practise on the club's range and many good practise scores were hung up. During the preliminary shooting Apgar set up marks of 23,23,23, 20. His trial records were the fifth best of the afternoon.

WESTFIELD WILL HAVE BASEBALL THIS SUMMER

The Westfield Athletic Association has been organized by a number of Westfield young men, with a view of furnishing baseball in Mt. Ararat this year.

That they are capable of playing the game in a way that will be pleasing to the lovers of that sport is shown by the account of the game played at Somerville two weeks ago.

The ball grounds have been leased and will be put in shape and the grandstand will be repaired, which will call for an outlay of about $250.

All players are members of the association and not only give their services but are paying dues in order to give Westfield a team.

ROD AND REEL

Several local deep sea fishermen made a try for sea bass and blackfish at the Klondyke Banks yesterday while several others tried for ling and whiting off the rockaway shore. The catches were good in both cases and many other Plainfielders are planning a similar trip next Sunday.

Many fished for eels and flounders in Raritan Bay yesterday. Some big eels have been taken in the creek near Keyport recently.

Water Witch is another mecca for flounder fishermen. The place was crowded yesterday and many boats went out early in the morning returning at night with record catches.

Two Plainfield anglers went out for blackfish on one of the Sheepshead Bay boats yesterday and returned with big strings.

On one of the Canarsie boats yesterday fishermen got so many ling and whiting that hundreds of these fish were left at the dock.

A party of Plainfielders left by automobile this morning for the Delaware Water Gap section where they will spend the week fishing for trout. This afternoon they will stop off at Lake Hopatcong and try for pickerel at that place.

The fresh water anglers were out too. Many motoring trips scheduled to North Jersey streams for trout, while the opening of the pickerel season last Wednesday sent many after these fish in the lakes in this part of the State.

Flounders are still with us, and many tried for these tasty panfish, at Jersey shore points, as well as at Canarsie, Wrick Lead, Freport and points on the Long Island shore.

The salt water eels are also running, and some nice sized ones have been taken during the week.

BISONS ARE BUMPED.

The Buffalo team of the International League, for whom Albin Carlstrom, formerly of the Plainfield Pets, plays first base, dropped a game Saturday to the Providence club after annexing twelve straight decisions. In a double header Carlstrom accepted twenty-nine putouts without an error.

CHAPELITES DISPOSE OF BAPTIST PLAYERS

Hope Team Ran Away With Rivals in S. S. League Race Saturday.

The Hope Chapel team, of the Sunday-school Baseball League, had little trouble in disposing of the First Baptist aggregation on the Probasco Field, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 7 to 3. The Hope contingent led from start to finish and proved their superiority with the willow and in the field. The Chapelites exhibited a complete reversal of form from their work of last week against the Monroes and now appear to be serious contenders for the title.

BILL DODD'S HOMER IN THE ELEVENTH WINS GAME

The Netherwood A. C. journeyed to Bound Brook Sunday afternoon and defeated the Primrose A. C. in an exciting eleven inning game by the score of six to five. The game was a pitchers' battle between Denny and Bednar with Denny getting the best of it. He struck out fourteen batsmen and allowed eight hits while Bednar struck out seven and was touched for twelve bingles by the Netherwood swatsmiths.

In the eleventh inning, with two down and nobody on base "Bill" Dodd connected with one of Bednar's shoots for a home run thereby winning the game. Hoffmaster, Kyle and J. Denny starred at the bat, each getting two hits. Wertal was the only member of the Primroses to garner two hits. Kyle also made some sensational stops around third.

KIRBY WINS "MET" TITLE.

Oswald Kirkby, of the home club, defeated Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, in the Metropolitan Association golf final at the Englewood Country Club Saturday afternoon by 3 up and 1 to play. This is the first time that an Englewood man has ever won the metropolitan championship.

GARRETSON WILL NOT PLAY.

Jack Garretson, the former Plainfield Pets' first baseman, has announced that he will not wear a Plainfield uniform during the coming season. Garretson will play Sunday ball with the Mullin aggregation at South Plainfield and on Saturday's will sport Saurer regalia.

CYCLISTS HAD GREAT RUN TO SHORE RESORT

Coney Island the Objective Point of Plainfield Motorists Yesterday.

Twenty members of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club enjoyed a spin to Coney Island yesterday, being present at the opening day celebration of New York's famous coast resort. The run was made by way of Elizabethport, Staten Island and Brooklyn ferry. The start was made from Jack Horner's store on Somerset street at 8:30 and the motorists arrived at the shore in time for the noon day meal. Some delay was experienced on the trip going down owing to tire trouble on Second Lieut. Bowlby's machine, and Herbert Alberts later discovered a nail and a pin in his tire.

Dinner was served at Reisenweber's and a general good time followed the meal after which the cyclists did the Island and witnessed "Dare-Devil" Beachy's death-defying stunts in the air. This was a special feature of Coney's opening day program and Beachey gave a phenomenal exhibition witnessed by a Sunday crowd that numbered many thousands.

The return start was made at 4:30 to Staten Island and home by way of Tottenville and Amboy. Plainfield was reached at 7.30. Those who made the trip were the Misses Higgins, Ball, Shay Thompson, and Mrs. Horner, and Ralph Auerbach, H. Alberts, Al Case, Al Tomilson, Al Hansen, P. Phillips, C. Giles, H. Scarlett, H. Hansen, Al Bowlby Fred Harold, E. S. Bird and Jack Horner.

PLAINFIELD PERFORMERS IN GREATER BALL CIRCLES

Joe Harter, former Plainfield center fielder and star hitter of the Pets two years ago, performed at short for the Lancaster team in a game against the Oakland club, at Daubert's Field, Brooklyn, yesterday. Lancaster lost 10 to 9. Joe scored two runs, one hit, two putouts and one assist. He also figured in a double play.

Ernie Lindeman, former local pitcher, was in the best of form yesterday afternoon and held the strong Passaic team to three hits and fanned fourteen on Suburban Oval, Brooklyn. The Suburbans won 11 to 0. Besides doing some good work on the mound Ernie clouted out two hits and scored a brace of runs. He is also credited with one assist.

Harry Jennings, the Rutgers College twirler who pitched Plainfield to Central New Jersey League pennant last year, was treated to his bumps at Newark, Del., Saturday afternoon when Delaware defeated the New Brunswick college by a score of 11 to 6. He was knocked out of the box in the third inning.

Lidgate was in action again yesterday in a York Tri-State League uniform. His team made a number of costly errors, two of which were charged to him, and lost by a score of 4 to 1. Liddy managed to break into a double play and accounted for two assists.

Although Charlie Deal has returned to the fold of the Boston National League Club, he does not seem to be spoiling Jack Martin's chances of getting into the game as a regular at third. Although he divided up the game with Deal on Saturday, Jack performed the full nine innings when Boston beat Chicago by a score of 3 to 2 yesterday. Jack got three putouts and two assists and his sacrifice hit started the rally in the fifth that netted the Braves their trio of runs and victory.

LOCAL KNIGHTS WILL NOT ENTER STATE BALL LEAGUE

It was stated on good authority here Saturday night that the Watchung Council, of Plainfield, would not be represented in the Knights of Columbus Baseball League during the coming season, but there is a possibility that the local Knights may organize to play independently in this section. There is an abundance of good material available and the players have been holding weekly practice with a view to organizing a representative team. Bayley Council, of Elizabeth, was also mentioned as a possible entrant, but the league schedule has been drawn up minus both Plainfield and Elizabeth, and it is not probable that it will be revised.

The schedule, which opens on Decoration Day, has been arranged as follows for the first round:

June 7—Montclair at Orange, Star of Bethlehem at Jersey City, Brooklyn at Chrome.

June 14—Orange at Star of Bethlehem, Brooklyn at Jersey City, Montclair at Chrome.

June 21—Montclair at Star of Bethlehem, Orange at Brooklyn, Chrome at Jersey City.

June 28—Montclair at Jersey City, Star of Bethlehem at Brooklyn, Chrome at Orange.

SOMERSET SCHOOLS HOLD FIELD DAY

Borough Teachers and Pupils to Take Part in County Affair.

The second annual field day and school exhibit for Somerset County was held at Somerville, on Saturday. It was very largely attended. Practically all the schools were represented. The North Plainfield work, in charge of Mr. Stillman, Miss Spencer, and Miss Sydenham, was notable. It was not only favorably commented on by the general public, but by Assistant Commissoner of Education Lewis H. Carris, who was in attendance.

Sports were enjoyed by the children from 10:00 to 12:00. Then Mr. Carris addressed a joint meeting of the county boards of education and the teachers on "The Value of Industrial Training."

An oral spelling match was held at 2:00 o'clock. About thirty pupils took part. The first and third honors were taken by Pearl Staats and Louise Crawford, of the Riverside School, Montgomery township. Miss Blanche Knorr, teacher, while the second honor was won by Clifford Docherty of the Montgomery School, Hillsborough township. Mrs. Alice Leigh, teacher. It was noticeable that the pupils of the small county schools were the last to be spelled down.

A source of great enjoyment to the children was the playground apparatus, which was installed on the Somerville school grounds last fall at a cost of $900. This part of the grounds was thronged all day by eager performers.

The weather being perfect, the whole day was greatly enjoyed by all present.

NETHERWOOD A. C. TOOK MEASURE OF FANWOODS

The Netherwood A. C. took the measure of the Fanwood Field Club on their home grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 3. Wahl doing mound duty for the field club for the first three innings did not allow a hit. Wilmerding worked the first three stanzas for Netherwood not allowing a man to reach third, when Coughlin took up the burden and held the visitors scoreless until the eighth. Venizia, who twirled the last six rounds for the Fanwood boys, had an off day, being touched up for counters in all but the last two innings.

LaRue started things going in the fourth after two were out by putting a grass cutter along the third base line which G. Saunders fumbled leaving LaRue safe on first, who went to second on Pollock's out. Coughlin landed one over in right field for a one timer, sending in LaRue with the first run. They tallied another in the fifth on a walk and singles by Wilmerding and Grosset. One more was gathered in the sixth and the last two came in the seventh on a walk, two errors and singles by Uller and Horan.

Coughlin was the mainstay for Netherwood. Besides bringing in two of his team's runs he pitched a good article of ball in all but the eighth. Lidgate, who has been pastiming at first in all of the Field Club games, had his first day behind the bat and from the way he held Venizia and threw to the bases it looks as if Cap. Anson had found a permanent backstop.

The score.

NO BASKETBALL GAME.

The North Plainfield High School girls elected to play an exhibition game of basketball at Somerville last Saturday but at the last minute they were informed by the Somerville team that the game had been put off because of some social event that was to take place in the night and it was thought that the girls would be too tired if they played in the morning.

TIGER SWATSMITHS PUT ELI TO ROUT

Contest Between Former College Stars Called in the Sixth Inning.

Six innings of assault on the national game of baseball proved to be sufficient for the Princeton graduates, who claim residence in Plainfield, to assert their superiority over the Yale graduates on the Plainfield Country Club diamond Saturday afternoon, the final score being 10 to 1. One counter in the second, three in the third and six in the fourth weer enough to put the contest on ice and when darkness appeared in the sixth the contest was called.

A feature of the game was a near "squeeze" play pulled by "Don" McGee, Baker and "Cliff" McGee. This trio of players exhibited some clever manipulation of the sphere and their work was a feature of the Yale team's performance. Gougle's twirling and his clout for two bases were also conspicuous features of the play.

Yale solitary marker was scored by "Kid" Wallace through some timely hitting and clever work on the paths between bases. The teams lined up as follows:

Substitutes:—Tweedy for Carter, 4th inning.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

.14297

Small doilies will often be found very useful, and this artistic design is suitable for use on a finger-bowl or tumbler doily. It is six and one-quarter inches in diameter and four transfers are included in the pattern. The design may be developed in heavily padded solid work and eyelets or solid work alone. The edge should be firmly padded, so as to keep its shape when laundered, and covered with buttonhole-stitches laid evenly and closely together. If desired, a narrow cluny lace edging may be added. Fine white round-thread linen should be used for making the doily and the embroidery should be done with white mercerized cotton.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern, No. 14297, will be supplied to readers for 10 cents.

Some Cookery Suggestions

USEFUL SOUPS.

DINNER MENU.
Macaroni Soup.
Salmi Lamb.
Vegetable Salad.
Orange Shortcake.
Coffee.

USEFUL soups for the housewife that has an eye to the question of economy are the following:

Mutton Broth.—Take one pound neck of mutton (scrag end), one small carrot, one turnip, one onion, one quart of water, one and one-half ounces of pearl barley and one teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Cut up the meat into small pieces, remove the fat and place the meat and bone in the stewpan with the cold water and one dessertspoonful of salt. Let this come to the boil and skim well. Next add the vegetables, previously washed, peeled, and cut into very small dice, and the pearl barley, and boil gently for two hours. Cut meat into small pieces, return to the soup, cook, add parsley and serve.

An Italian Soup.

Macaroni Soup.—Prepare a stock with two pounds of gravy beef, veal meat and bones or pieces of mutton free from fat, one carrot, one onion, one bay leaf, parsley, two cloves and two quarts of water. Boil gently for three hours, season, skim and strain. Blanch three ounces of macaroni, broken up rather small, and cook these in the prepared stock, together with one pint of tomato puree. The macaroni will require about thirty minutes to cook. Season carefully with salt and pepper and add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese just before serving.

Celery Puree.—Wash and trim one or two heads of celery, remove the green leaves, if any, and cut the celery into slices. Boil in stock or salted water till tender, strain off liquor and set it aside for a soup.

Rub the cooked celery through a sieve. Melt an ounce of butter in a stewpan, stir in half an ounce of flour and cook a little, add one gill of milk and stir till it boils, put in the celery puree, season to taste and cook.

Vegetable Soups.

Cauliflower Soup.—Take one cauliflower, one small onion, two ounces of crushed tapioca, one ounce of ground rice, one teaspoonful sugar, salt, pepper and nutmeg, one gill of cream, one and one-half pints of milk. Wash and trim the cauliflower, peel and blanch the onion, cook both in salted water until tender, drain (keep the water) and rub through a fine sieve and chop the onion finely. Bring one pint of the water in which the cauliflower has been cooked to the boil, stir in the crushed tapioca and a chopped onion, let simmer for twenty minutes, then stir in the ground rice, boil up the milk and add it to the soup and cook for a few minutes. Season to taste.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Fairies Play In The Sand.

Beautiful Castles Can Be Built of Sand.

DADDY knew that he could not let much more time go by without a fairy story, so he thought he would tell one to Jack and Evelyn at once.

"I am going to tell you this evening the story of the fairies' latest party, for they had one the other day," said he.

"Goody!" cried Evelyn. "It is ages since you have told us about the fairies."

"Well, I thought so, too," laughed daddy. And then they all laughed, and daddy commenced his story.

"The fairies found just the nicest sort of a place where it was very, very sandy. They hadn't had a party in the sand for so long that they were very much excited about it. The fairies adore being together and never, never grow tired of playing with one another. That would be quite impossible.

"They all marched in file to the sandy place. They thought that would be a very amusing way to go, and they had a little band to head the procession.

"The crickets were taken along to furnish the music, and they were very proud of being called the band. Also they were very proud of being invited to go to the fairies' party.

"And the fairies, marching behind the crickets, sang—

"Here we go to play in the sand,
Headed by a little band.

"And, of course, the crickets sang and beat their wings together with greater vim than ever when they heard the fairies singing about their band.

"When they got to the sandy place they all commenced to play without a moment's waiting."

"While they were playing the crickets kept up their music, for they had heard that big, real people liked music at all sorts of funny times, such as when they ate and when they were at afternoon teas, so the crickets wanted to keep up with the times and do their best.

"But the game that they really had the most fun over was 'Here we go round the mulberry bush.'

"They played that a great deal. They put a funny stick up on the top of a sand pile which they made, and then they would march around it in a ring. They fell down so often in the soft sand that it amused the others much. They laughed so hard over the funny way they fell that the crickets said:

"'This is enough to keep us cheerful for the rest of our lives.'"

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

8129

The collar, the sleeve and the vest are the points of interest in the modern blouse; these may be varied according to one's own personal fancy. The Japanese collar is perhaps the most general favorite owing to its becomingness. It preserves the "V" shaped front and is high in back, which makes it especially suitable to the woman with a slender throat. Sleeves may be long or short, but as the season advances, it is not difficult to predict that short ones will be most generally favored. Number 8129 is a blouse showing the raglan shoulder, Japanese collar and inset vest and an unusually smart girdle. If the blouse is made of a plain material, taffeta, poplin or linen, it is effective to have the vest and girdle of a figured silk or poplin. There are some unusually pretty materials for this purpose among the new cotton crepes; many of them show Chinese and Japanese designs, others, the dainty Dolly Varden figures. These are especially pretty with white or light-colored silks or poplins. With this blouse, a chemisette may be worn or the throat may be left open. This design requires for size 36 two yards of 36-inch material. Silk poplin is one of the most popular materials just now for afternoon wear. It comes in many of the new shades, ranging in price from $1.25 a yard and up. This pattern is cut in six sizes, 34 to 44.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

ROBBER IMPERILS LIVES OF COUPLE

Causes Explosion by Breaking Into Gas Meter.

NEARLY CAUGHT IN A TRAP

Was With Difficulty That Thief and Owner of House and His Wife Managed to Get From Building—Got $1.25 For His Work—Much Damage Done.

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—A thief was nearly caught in a trap while robbing a house in this city. He, with two others in the house, narrowly escaped being burned to death as the result of an explosion. It was with difficulty that the owner of the house and his wife managed to get from the building.

The house is owned by Martin Smith and is in Klagg avenue. Smith and his wife retired early. Some time later they were awakened by the report of an explosion in the house, and as they started downstairs they were met by a rush of flames and smoke from the lower floor, and they were nearly overcome when they got to the street.

In the meantime neighbors who heard the explosion hurried to the house, and James Abbott, a twelve-year-old boy, had sent in an alarm. Much damage was done before the flames could be extinguished.

An investigation was then made, and it was found that one of the windows on the lower floor had been pried open. The slot gas meter was broken into and $1.25 taken from it. It is supposed that the thief, after breaking open the machine, went about the lower floor looking for plunder. The escaping gas filled the room, and the thief, in trying to find the break, lighted a match, and then the explosion followed.

PRISON FOR AUTO THIEF.

John Gargare, Who Received Stolen Cars, Will Not Appeal.

Toms River, N. J., May 25.—John Gargare, a garage manager at Lakewood and prominent in politics, was sentenced to not less than a year and a half nor more than three years and a fine of $1,000 and costs.

He was convicted of buying from Dan Reilly, a New York chauffeur, a car that he knew had been stolen. Gargare will not appeal and will begin at once to serve his sentence.

Gargare was first implicated in confessions made by Dan Reilly and Chester Travis, chauffeurs, who received jail sentences for the theft of automobiles. The two said that they had been employed by Gargare in wholesale theft of cars. They received $300 for each machine.

SAVES BROTHER'S LIFE.

Eight-year-old Sister Rescues Lad From Flames In Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—While Mr. and Mrs. David Murray of 63 West State street were attending church, having left their four-year-old son, Percival, in the care of their eight-year-old daughter, Eleanor, the boy took some matches in a bedroom in which he was playing and ignited the curtains.

His little sister smelled the smoke, rushed to the side of her brother and rescued him from probable incineration. He was painfully burned about the hands and face. Slight damage was done to the house, as the neighbors and fire department put out the blaze.

NEED GREATER SEATING CAPACITY

Plainfield Schools Operated Under a Disadvantage at the Present Time.

PART-TIME CLASSES

State Law Requires Educational Facilities for Every Child Applying—Urgent Demand for Another Graded School to Meet Enrollment.

The announcement that the Board of Education will ask for the funds to build another graded school has given rise to a good deal of discussion in the city as to the present condition of school accommodation.

Comparatively few people realize that for the past year Plainfield has been operating its schools under a big disadvantage, owing to the fact that there has not been enough seats to accommodate the pupils.

The State law requires that the Board shall give educational facilities to every child applying, and the school population of Plainfield is increasing about half as fast again as the general population due to the fact that within the past twenty years Plainfield has constantly been receiving new inhabitants who come from New York city or other large commercial centres in order to get the advantage of suburban life. Many of these new comers are young married people who are largely influenced in settling in Plainfield by the fact that our school facilities are unusually good, consequently it has been a constant scramble on the part of the School Board to keep up with the demands of this increasing school population.

In 1901 the schools registered 2,697 pupils; last year, they registered 4,017. That makes an increase of 1,320 in the 12 years. During this time there has been added a net seating capacity of only 770. When we comply fully with the State law which requires us to put retarded children into special classes we shall have to reduce out present seating capacity for normal pupils by 50 more. In the last 12 years the pupils have increased about 600 more than we have increased the seating capacity, and the schools have many more classes than school rooms.

There are at the present time 14 classes in the city without class rooms, to say nothing of the 250 pupils in the High School that come only afternoons because the seats are all occupied in the morning. These extra classes are provided for by doubling up with other classes, dividing the use of a room between two classes. This means that 36 classes, or about 1,200 pupils, are discommoded, because of lack of school accommodations. It inevitably involves some loss to the children, and very much unpleasantness and inconvenience to the mothers in the homes who have to prepare two midday meals instead of one on account of their children having different school hours. Next fall there will be 4 more classes to be added to the 14.

When the High School addition comes into use next Fall, it will at once relieve the High School pupils, and by using the Stillman School as a temporary relief and transferring pupils from various schools, we shall relieve part of this overcrowding, but there will still remain 8 classes for which there will be no class room. The Stillman building which will be emptied by the transfer of the grammar grades to the High School, will have all the rooms taken up by the children transferred from other schools. This building is not suitable for ordinary class room work. The floor area of the class rooms is but 24x20 feet. According to State requirements, we should not have more than 28 pupils in each of those rooms. The ceilings are 9 feet instead of 12 and the ventilation is imperfect. It is not practicable to alter the building so as to make it suitable for regular school rooms. The State Inspector would have condemned the building for regular class use if he had not understood that it was to be vacated for ordinary school use at an early date. For these reasons, the classes transferred to it should not be kept there more than a year, and a new building is imperatively needed for their accommodation at the earliest possible date. The Stillman School, while not suitable for regular class room work, can be made of great value for work with the special classes of defective pupils which cannot number more than 15 pupils each.

The transfer of the Grammar classes to the High School will fill the new building. If the High School goes on increasing as it has in the past, a year from next fall two or three of these grammar classes will have to be sent away from the High School, and unless a new school building is erected at once, there will be no place to send them. We shall have to begin again the process of doubling up classes in some of the

WILL "THOROUGHLY DISCUSS" QUESTION

Democratic Club Meets Tonight to Thresh Out Naming of Postmaster.

Although it was reported that the Plainfield Democratic Club, last week, decided to allow United States Senator James E. Martine to name the postmaster for Plainfield, without further suggestion on its part, a special meeting of the club is announced for tonight for the purpose of "thoroughly discussing" the matter. Just what is hoped to be accomplished by this action cannot be learned, but at any ratte it is proposed to "discuss" the matter.

It is said that the club has given formal endorsement to four candidates for the office, and the selection of any one of the four would be agreeable to the club and its followers. Inasmuch as Senator Martine stated last week that the appointment would be made within a week or ten days, anxious ones have been expecting news of the election any day. It is believed that Mr. Martine has made up his mind who he will recommend for the job, but he has carefully avoided giving anyone the slightest intimation as to who is to get the plumb.

Additional interest was aroused in the postmastership fight today, when it became known that a petition is being circulated favoring the appointment of Mr. Reville as postmaster. This petition has been quite widely circulated and contains a large number of names, it is said.

Just what bearing such a petition could have is hard to understand at present, especially in view of the fact that following the investigation of the old charges against Mr. Reville, it was announced that the charges were sustained and according to authentic information, Mr. Reville was eliminated as a possible candidate.

In view of the attitude taken by the postal authorities in the case of Mr. Reville, it is the opinion among many people that he would not be considered eligible for the office of postmaster. The belief is still held here that Alvin E. Hoagland is likely to get the appointment, in fact many of the leading Democrats in the city conceded the fact. It is known that several of the "57" candidates have already visited Washington and called on Senator Martine, but the latter, according to report, has not given the office-seekers any encouragement.

MISS HENRY WILL TELL OF WORK IN THE SOUTH

Miss Margaret E. Henry, who is to speak tomorrow evening at the monthly missionary meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, is an interesting personage, and will tell of the work of Maryville College among the mountaineers of the South. Miss Henry knows whereof she speaks in describing conditions among these people, for she herself was one of them and has lived among them.

Miss Henry was at one time a missionary in Japan under the Presbyterian Board, but being obliged to give up that work on account of illness has since been representing Maryville College as field secretary. All who are privileged to hear Miss Henry will doubtless be profitted and will want to hear her again.

WILL TREAT WITH PROPERTY OWNERS

New Commission Takes Up Madison Avenue Widening Project.

LISTEN TO ARGUMENTS

Affected Owners Present Their Side of Case at Preliminary Meeting in Council Rooms — Adjournment Taken to June 2.

J. Fred MacDonald, chairman; Albert H. Atterbury, secretary, and A. E. Smith, the recently appointed commissioners in the matter of assessing benefits and damages for the proposed widening of Madison avenue, held their first meeting in the Common Council rooms last night, for the purpose of treating with property owners. Not much was accomplished, the work being of a preliminary nature.

William Newcorn was present to represent the estate of Samuel Dreier; J. Henry Crane represented Wadley & Goodenough; Robert Newton Crane represented owners of two or three small properties, while Henry DeMott and William Mills were present to look after their own interests. Edward Ryder was the representative of the Gillies estate and the Public Service Corporation was also represented.

During the informal discussion little that was new was brought out. Mr. Newcorn informed the commission that he was having plans, estimates, etc., prepared to show to what extent the Dreier estate would be damaged and what little benefit would be derived from making the improvement. These plans will be presented at a future meeting of the commission.

The other property owners and representatives present reviewed chiefly the same arguments offered at previous meetings, the majority of them being opposed to having their property taken for the improvement unless a more liberal allowance was made in the way of benefits. Mr. Mills was one of those who favored the widening and is willing to abide by the decision of the commission, believing that it will be a great improvement to the property.

The Public Service Corporation is willing to give the necessary land for the widening in front of its property, provided it is not assessed for benefits. The arguments of J. Henry Crane, Robertt Newton Crane and Henry DeMott were practically the same as made at a meeting of the Common Council several weeks ago.

The commission did not express any opinions last night, it being its duty to simply listen to what the affected property owners had to say. The next step for the commissioners will be to go over the property for the purpose of assessing benefits and damages which will be contained in a subsequent report to be presented to the Common Council. An adjournment was taken last night to Tuesday night, June 2, when further progress will be made in the work undertaken.

PETIT JURY PANEL DRAWN BY COMMISSIONERS

Jury Commissioner Russ and Sheriff W. B. Wright, yesterday drew another petit jury panel of sixty members, the third of the term. The members of this panel will begin service next Monday and continue for two weeks. A fourth panel will be drawn June 8, and will serve for the remainder of the term.

Among those drawn from this end of the county are Charles F. Feller, Jr., Fanwood; Ambrose A. King, Westfield; Edmund D. Young, Percy S. Brown, William B. Ackor, Joseph Brown and Daniel J. Courain, of this city; Harry P. Robinson, Fanwood borough; Harry J. Miller, Westfield; George McVoy, Fanwood township; Horace B. Guerin, New Providence.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The meeting scheduled for last evening in the interests of a colored Y. M. C. A. at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, was postponed for the time being, although it was planned to have a meting called for Wednesday evening, June 3.

LAND QUESTION MAIN POINT IN DISPUTE

Think Tentative Agreement Has Been Reached at Niagara Falls Conference.

Niagara Falls, Ont. May 26.—Undoubtedly the land question is the main point at issue between the various parties to the Peace Conference and the one which will occupy most of the time of the mediators and delegates. Undoubtedly, also, some sort of an agreement, tentative, of course has been reached upon it. Commissioner Da Gama this morning, with a smile on his face, as though pleased that something definite had been accomplished announced that a statement on the land question would be issued later in the day. This congealing of the main point of many discussions is what has given pleasure to President Wilson, satisfaction to the mediators, and gratification to the American delegates. Also definite formulation of a concrete plan means that, after nearly a week of constant conferences and conversations, a real start in the formal negotiations can be made and actual discussion of at least one important matter can be taken up in full and formal debate.

AGAIN CHANGE ORDERS FOR MOVING OF FLEET

Washington, May 26—Although officials insisted the move had no significance, an overnight order rescinding previous plans for the withdrawal of a division of the fleet now lying off Vera Cruz caused some speculation today. It was believed events that were less hopeful had prompted the administration to reconsider its proposal to call north several of the battleships now stewing in the tropic sun in Mexican waters. This, however, was vigorously denied. It is known, however, that the position of General Funston's force is not regarded as being especially a happy one. Until the Mexicans disclose an intention to cease mobilizing men and guns near the American lines the warships will probably remain with their full force of blue jackets and marines.

In case re-inforcements are needed for the troops now guarding Vera Cruz the several thousand men on board the ships would be necessary for immediate call until more troops could be rushed from Galveston on board the army transports now massed there. The sailors, in a sense, are veterans and, having landed before and being acquainted with the town and its approaches, would be invaluable.

While the health of the sailors is excellent, according to reports reaching the Navy Department, Secretary Daniels is desirous of giving as many of them as possible an opportunity to return to a cooler climate. This will be done at the earliest possible moment, but not at the present moment, it was declared.

TABLET IN MEMORY OF MRS. M. C. EDGERTON

Bronze Memorial Erected at Day Nursery in Honor of One Who Aided Work.

In memory of Mrs. Mary C. Edgerton, a handsome bronze tablet has been placed in the Day Nursery on West Front street, the work having been done by Grove Hinman of this city. The inscription reads:

"Erected by the Trustees
In Recognition of
The Generosity of
MARY CLOSSON EDGERTON
Who, by her bequest, materially assisted the King's Daughters in the purchase of this Day Nursery."

This is the second tablet of the kind placed in the Day Nursery by the Hinman Bronze Works, the first having been set some time ago as a memorial to Mrs. T. J. Mumford. Mrs. A. M. Most was chairman of the committee which had charge of the work of erecting the tablet. Mrs. Edgerton in her will, left a number of bequests to local charities besides the Day Nursery.

He came to New York and engaged in newspaper work. Mr. Riis had been active in the small parks and playgrounds movement and in the tenement house and school reforms in New York.

RUNAWAY BLOCKS RAILROAD TRAFFIC

Horse Runs Down Tracks From Grant to Clinton Ave. Before Being Stopped.

JUST MISSED EXPRESS

William Kerwin's Act Prevents Destruction of Bivona Brothers' $500 Show Rig—Spirited Steed Escapes Injury in Wild Flight.

One of the most exciting runaways that has occurred in the city these many moons, stirred up a portion of the West End this morning, and incidentally interfered with traffic on the New Jersey Central. The terrorized horse not only traversed a long stretch of area, but got on the railroad tracks, running along one of them for nearly a mile. It barely escaped being struck by an express and held up a freight rain for ten minutes before getting transferred to its proper sphere. Despite the wild flight, neither horse nor vehicle suffered any noticeable injury.

The rig, which is valued at $500, belongs to Bivona Brothers, of North avenue, Westfield, and is used by them to peddle fish about town. It is a very showy affair, being all in white, wagon and horse included. It attracts attention everywhere and has been a big advertisement for the business. The brothers were busy delivering in the vicinity of Third and Liberty streets shortly before 10 o'clock this morning, leaving a colored boy to watch the outfit. Something frightened the horse; it bolted suddenly and so did the pickaninny, the latter's move being impelled by the sudden jerk. He landed in a confused heap in the roadway.

The frightened animal continued west on Third street through Muhlenberg place to South Second street, and thence to Grant avenue where it entered the driveway heading to the Grant Avenue station. It skirted the south and west ends of the depot proper and swung on the tracks just as the 9:55 Philadelphia express swept by toward Plainfield. Station Agent Hoffman was atracted by the clatter, but rushed out too late to head off the white streak.

The fence separating the east and west bound tracks compelled the horse to turn west. The roadbed is flush with the rails in front of the station and by the time the still terrorized animal got headed straight the wheels had gotten into the eastbound passenger track and were securely held. Over the ties the rig went bumping along past the full length of the Pond Tool Works to the storage yard end nearer Clinton avenue. There William Kerwin, an employe, heard the racket and looked over the fence to investigate. As soon as he realized the danger the rig was in he leaped the fence. By running hard he managed to climb in the back of the bouncing wagon and brought the now winded horse to a stop just as the engineer of an eastbound freight halted his train on the Clinton avenue bridge.

The section gang in charge of Henry Lewis chanced to be working nearby, otherwise it would have been a proposition to get the rig back to the street. One man led the horse while the others lifted the wagon bodily from between the rails and up an embankment. It was then taken across the old Clinton avenue baseball grounds to South Second street, where Patrolman Tobias Nolan took charge until the arrival of the owners. An hour later the rig was making rounds as though nothing had happened.

FUNERAL OF MISS MC HARDY.

The funeral services of Miss Wilhelmina McHardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McHardy, of Johnston avenue, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of the parents at 2 o'clock. Rev. Evarts C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, officiated. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

CONSISTORY TO MEET.

The consistory of Trinity Reformed church will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening. Several matters of importance are to come before the meeting, including the completion of plans for the every-member canvas to be made of the congregation during the course of the next month.

RAFFEAL CARUTENTIO GETS A HEAVY FINE

"Speak-easy" Proprietor to Pay $100, Beside Gettnig a Jail Sentence.

Adjudged guilty of violating the sixth section of the city ordinance by keeping a resort for the purpose of buying or drinking spirituous or fermented liquors, Raffeal Carütentio, of 826 South Second street, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and serve thirty days in the county jail following a hearing in the city court before City Judge W. G. DeMeza last night.

John Kelley and John Boyle, two frequenters of the resort, who resisted arrest when the place was raided, were also found guilty. Kelley was sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail and Boyle was given the option of paying a fine of $10 or going to Elizabeth for a period of forty days. John Lyons, Michael Gartland Patrick Kiely, who were arrested when the place was "pulled" Sunday afternoon, by Sergeant Higgins, Chief Kiely and Patrolman Hendershot, turned city's evidence and as a result were allowed to go with a suspension of sentence.

Carutentio's place was raided by the police shortly after noon Sunday, several bottles of beer he is alleged to have had on sale being confiscated in the round-up. Testifying for the prosecution, John Lyons and Michael Gartland said that they had purchased intoxicants from the proprietor Sunday morning and had paid him for the goods received. John P. Owens, who represented the defendant, entered a plea of not guilty on behalf of his client and filed several exceptions to the court procedure. Following the sentencing of the defendant the latter's counsel announced that preparations would be made at once to carry the case to the higher courts.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., prosecuted the case on behalf of the city under the sixth section of the city ordinance claiming that a violation was apparent inasmuch as Carutentio had dispensed intoxicants. Although the city ordinance provides for a fine of $100 or a sentence of thirty days in the county jail for guilty offenders at the discretion of the city magistrate, a Supreme Court ruling given recently makes the combination of this sentence obligatory.

$40 IN FINES FOR ACTS OF ROWDYISM

Seven Men Attacked Small Boy in Netherwood Section Saturday.

Taking advantage of a sixteen-year-old boy and committing acts of rowdyism in the east-end section of the town last Saturday afternoon, cost Henry Clarkson and Charles Lundstrum $20 apiece when arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court yesterday afternoon. Clarkson, Lundstrum and five other young men between twenty and twenty-five years of age, were playing ball in a lot near Leland avenue when Henry B. Groesheim, of Newark, a small boy, went by and someone yelled "Get him." A scuffle followed in which the boy had his coat torn off his back and was treated to a general drubbing.

The youths admitted that they had a case of beer in the lot while playing ball and were feeling "pretty good" as the boy went by on his way from the Netherwood station to his brother's home on George street street where his mother is an invalid. It has been his custom to visit his parent over the week-end and he was on the way to the house when the attack occured.

Clarkson and Lundstrum were singled out by the complainant as the ringleaders of the attack and were adjudged guilty and fined by the court.

CURTIS FORCED TO RETURN SUIT TAKEN IN A "SWAP"

Appearing in the city court this morning to answer to a complaint charging him with forcing Ernest Whitney, a sixteen-year-old boy, to exchange a new suit for a sailor's uniform in a barn, Sunday afternoon, George Curtis of 823 George street, entered a plea of guilty and was let go following a severe reprimand dealt out by City Judge W. G. DeMeza. The youth was recently discharged from the navy and claimed that the Whitney boy, who is an invalid, agreed to "swap" suits with him.

After suspending sentence on Curtis, who is an old offender, Judge DeMeza instructed him to return the clothes confiscated. Sunday afternoon. The change was made in court

EARLEY MATTER TO BE DROPPED

Present Incumbent Appointed for 1914-15 at a Salary of $1.400.

INCREASE IN BUDGET

Financial Provisions for Next Year Made at Boro Board of Education May Meeting Last Night—Lengthy Opinion From State Board.

Members of the North Plainfield Board of Education at the May meeting in the Somerset School, last night, decided to drop the Earley controversy and re-engage Albert Earley as principal of the North Plainfield High School for another year at a salary of $1,400. Mr. Earley's re-appointment means that he will head the borough institution for ten years as it will bring him under the tenure of office act. He will be immune from dismissal for that period of time unless charges of incompetency can be proven against him.

The budget for the coming year amounting to $2[illegible],500 was adopted at the meeting. This sum is between $500 and $600 more than last year. With the May meeting the term of Dr. A. H. Dundon as school physician terminated and his application for re-appointment was accepted. Dr. Roger Cooley was also a candidate for the position.

Supervising Principal Arthur Vossler presented a list of twenty-five high school seniors and requested that the Board authorize the graduation of these providing they pass the specified examinations. No official list of the 1914 graduates can be obtained at this time inasmuch as the pupils will have to pass the required tests in order to qualify for graduation. The class is made up of nine boys and sixteen girls.

J. Brognard Betts, assistant commissioner of education, submittted a lengthy report on the Early question. It was said that the Board's reasons assigned for his dismissal were not sufficient to sustain its action. The opinion stated that the desire to evade the tenure act provisions was not sufficient cause to warrant the dismissal of a teacher and that further charges would have to be brought before Mr. Earley could be removed.

"DUTCH" IDES PAL IS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Arrested Near Clinton Avenue This Morning by Railroad Detectives.

"Dicky" Dunn, reputed to be a highwayman and bail jumper, and Charles Wies, a companion, were arrested on the Central Railroad track near Clinton avenue, this morning, by Detectives Laverett and Hiney, who found them riding on freight cars. This is the second time that Detective Hiney has taken the well-known criminal into custody and when Dunn recognized his captor he made no effort to get away. He is well known for his ability to elude the officers of the law and has many times escaped after being caught.

Arraigned in the city court this morning before Judge DeMeza the two prisoners were remanded back until tomorrow morning for trial on a charge of trespassing on the railroad. Meanwhile an investigation is being conducted by the detectives.

"Dicky" Dunn is at present wanted by the police of Bayonne for highway robbery and representatives from that place will come here this afternoon to make arrangements for his removal to Bayonne. He is a former member of the notorious "Dutch" Ides gang which operated in this vicinity until several years ago when the ringleader was shot and killed in Waverly when he was discovered acting suspiciously in a freight station by two policemen.

EXTEND CORDIAL WELCOME.

An anticipated visit of Ernesto Nathan, former Mayor of Rome, to this country, has aroused unusual interest among Americans, especially patriotic societies. Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. Embodied in the resolutions are an appreciation of the statesmanship and qualities as an eminent citizen and patriot of Mr. Nathan.

STYLISH RELIABLE

Cleanliness Isn't Next to Godliness;

It Is Godliness!

Civilization starts in the home. It then extends to the community and then the entire country.

No home is healthier and happier than it is clean; no community is healthier or more prosperous than it is clean.

"Clean-up Week" is a nudge to negligence to take a care lest civic inertia should set in and do for this city what it has done for every city in history that failed to recognize its first duty—the duty of cleanliness.

CALLS SESSION TO DECIDE HIS FATE

Paterson's City Clerk Thinks He'll Remain.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Accused of Knocking Down Registrar of Vital Statistics—Mayor Suspended Him and Board of Aldermen Sustained Suspension—Obtained From Supreme Court Writ of Certiorari.

Paterson, N. J., May 26.—Wallace R. King, president of the board of aldermen, directed City Clerk T. Simpson Standeven to call a special meeting of the board for tonight to decide whether or not Standeven ought to be thrown out of his job.

Mr. Standeven issued the notices, but as one of the aldermen has died and another is in a hospital not more than nine can attend, and counsel for Standeven insists that a two-thirds vote of the full board is necessary to remove his client. Standeven has three friends among the nine.

The city clerk is charged with assault and battery, having knocked down Charles S. Gall, registrar of vital statistics, on May 13. Mayor Fordyce suspended Standeven, and the board of aldermen sustained the suspension, but Standeven obtained from Supreme Court Justice Minturn a writ of certiorari taking the board's action to the supreme court for review and giving back his job to Standeven while the argument is pending.

Fearing that the supreme court would not uphold the summary suspension of Standeven, the aldermen decided to have a trial and to give him a chance to state his side of the case.

DOESN'T LIKE JAIL LIFE.

Tries to Avoid Warrant Which Awaited Him When He Left Cell.

Morristown, N. J., May 26.—Determined that he was not going to spend another season in the county jail, Patrick Darcy of Mount Hope, who just finished a one month sentence for disorderly conduct, started for the tall timber when he saw Constable Oscar Jennings hiding behind a tree on the courthouse lawn with a warrant for Darcy's arrest on a charge of larceny. "Stop him," yelled the constable as Darcy ran up Court street. James Beam, a Boonton lawyer, attempted to do so, but Darcy broke away from him and turned down Ann street. District Court Clerk Harry Zwenger, Jail Keeper Edward Carroll and Deputy Sheriff Thomas E. Lowe joined in the chase and after pressing a passing auto into service captured Marcy on Miller road.

When taken to the police court Darcy's only complaint was that he did not like the accommodations of the county jail. He was committed to await the action of the grand jury.

HOMES AT SMALL COST.

Need of better housing for families in moderate circumstances was the cause of a discussion among a group of Plainfield business men yesterday afternoon. It was stated by a well-known merchant that until within the last few months not a house had been erected in this city, which would give decent living accommodations at a reasonable figure. He said that employes in his own store were compelled to pay higher rent than they could really afford in order to have their families live comfortably.

There is no disputing the fact that the problem of better housing facilities at the lowest possible cost consistent with necessary standards of sanitation and conveniences, in an accesible part of the city, is one which is absorbing more and more attention here. The solution would seem to lie in the construction of small houses at a cost reduced to the lowest figure by standardization of plans permitting low rentals or minimum selling prices. Architects and builders in many cities, as well as better housing advocates and big employers, have been giving the matter close attention.

The result has been the formation and incorporation of several large building companies devoted entirely to the construction of low-priced model homes for organizations, housing companies, employers and others interested in housing improvement.

One of these companies is said to make a practice of constructing four standard types of workers' homes, the cheapest of which, consisting of three rooms—living room, bedroom and kitchen—with sink of running water and toilet costs approximately $750. The cheapest house with bath contains five rooms and costs $1,500, while prices range on up to $2,575 for a six room house with bath and all modern conveniences.

One of the house types is a bungalow with a large living room, two double bedrooms and kitchen. It is also provided with a large front porch and small rear one. Constructed of hollow tile, the inside surface furnishes walls which do not require plastering. A cooking range heats the entire house. Each bungalow has a centre chimney, toilet, soapstone washtub and sink.

Another type is a five-room two-story house with living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. A cemented cellar and hot-air furnace are furnished. Still another type is a six room house with three bedrooms. Good closets are provided in all the different types.

It is declared these houses can be built to rent with a profit, at from $6 to $19 per month. This would seem to contradict the assertions that better housing facilities mean higher rentals. There is a rich field here for some wideawake realty promoter.

Swatting flies is as much a part of the cleanup and paintup campaign as any other feature. The prevention of more flies breeding by doing away with places where they can breed, is much more important than the actual work of killing the parent-flies. As the Municipal Journal in a recent issue said, the killing of flies is of little permanent benefit. So long as the people leave food available for them, and breeding places in the shape of manure, garbage, and piles of old decaying matter, nature will see to it that a sufficient supply of flies are on hand to clean up after careless humans. Those who have studied the subject say that one pair of flies which are permitted to live can in one season bring forth enough ancestors to give full sized swarms to cities like New York or Chicago. So during a cleanup week, be sure even if you do not get time to do anything else, that you remove all possible breeding places for the pests. Not until all stagnant ponds are drained, and every bit of decaying garbage and manure is removed, can there be any hope for a flyless town.

The American Flag Association has sent a circular to officials and others urging proper observance of flag day, which falls on June 14, a Sunday, suggesting that the exercises be held in the schools on June 15. It is particularly appropriate to observe this day this year, because of the present situation bordering on war with Mexico. The stars and stripes have come to possess new beauty for friendly eyes and new terror for the foes of liberty, and of law and order and of lawful government.

The Board of Trade trustees have done their share toward stimulating interest in the Plainfield Fourth of July celebration. A $25 cup has been ordered to be used as a trophy in one of the races which have been arranged for that day. Many of the wealthy citizens of the city could help this safe and sane observance of the day by donating similar cups, thus making the athletic meeting more interesting to Plainfielders.

Plainfield merchants will close their stores on Saturday of this week, Decoration Day. Several of them feel that this will be a hardship as this day is always the busiest in the week. The people of Plainfield can show that they appreciate the patriotism and the interest displayed in the welfare of the clerks, by patronizing the stores on Friday and Friday night.

It was inadvertently stated in this column last night that the Civic Committee of the College Club had requested the Plainfield merchants to close their stores all day during the month of August. The Club members have only asked that the stores be closed at noon on Saturdays during August.

WELL KNOWN METHODIST MINISTER PASSES AWAY

Rev. W. F. Randolph, a retired member of the Newark Methodist Episcopal Conference, and a brother of Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, died Sunday afternoon in a sanitarium at Amityville, L. I. He was the father of Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, of Montclair, formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church, the borough.

Mr. Randolph leaves a widow and another son, who resides in Bernardsville, and a daughter, Mrs. John Garey, of Elizabeth. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in the Methodist Episcopal church at Port Jervis, N. Y.

Mr. Randolph entered the ministry in 1863, joining the Wisconsin Conference. In 1867 he united with the New Jersey Conference and in 1882 he was transferred to the Newark Conference, where he served various churches until 1904, when he retired from active service.

SUGGEST A "SAFE AND SANE" FOURTH

Proctor and Sanderson Offer Playhouses for Appropriate Celebration.

The management of the two Proctor & Sanderson theatres in this city, has offered the use of the playhouses on July 4, for any "Sane Fourth" exercises that may be arranged by a committee which Mayor Percy H. Stewart may name. It is suggested that the Front street house may be used in entertaining children with an appropriate program of "movies," while the Second street auditorium may be used for a program of short addresses by public officials and other prominent men on patriotic topics, together with the reading of the Declaration of Independence, and other features which may be properly introduced on such an occasion.

Whether this plan is followed or not, many of the prominent men of the city realize that something should be done toward a celebration of this kind, as long as local ordinances prohibit general street celebrations. Several of the merchants and business men have expresed themselves as being favorable to having Mayor Stewart appoint a committee of citizens to arrange for a program of events aside from athletic events which are already being cared for by the management of Parker Field.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL TEACHERS GIVE DANCE

FINE PRESENTATION OF OUTDOOR PLAY

Dr. Garfield to Address Hartridge School Students June 5.

The bi-ennial outdoor play of the Hartridge School was given Saturday afternoon in the large grove at Oakwood on Plainfield avenue, before seven hundred people. At 4:30 o'clock the overture of Mendelssohn's music started the procession of actors, attendants, fairies and hunters under the sun's glorious rays and shadows.

The costumes were designed by the art teacher, Miss Robinson. The dances were in charge of the physical culture director and the children were trained in their incidental songs by one of the vocal instructors. Mrs. Rockhaven, Mrs. Charles Lewis and an orchestra played the Mendelssohn score to which the dances were set.

The play was admirably given and perfect in every detail. The characters of Nick Bottom and Quince were especially well done and the difficult parts of the lovers, Demetrius, Helena, Hermia and Lysander showed excellent study and careful training. The commencement exercises of the school will be held in the Hartridge Auditorium, Friday, June 5, at which Dr. Harry Garfield, president of Williams College, will be the speaker. Miss Hartridge and the graduating class will give a dance the same evening.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

An entertainment, entitled "Way Down South," in which there was a rendition of old-time 'darky' songs, was given at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Association. The entertainment took the form of a minstrel show, with Walter Weber and Fred V. Mills acting as end men.

Among those who took part were the Misses Marjorie Robinson, Hazel Hyatt, Edna Mowen, Ora Bush, Elizabeth Mills, Martha Casner, Walter Weber, Fred V. Mills, Irving Pratt, Joel O'Mear, Howard Palmer, with George E. Hall as interlocutor. William N. Runyon was the pianist and Herman Kling the electrician. Refreshments were served.

NEED MORE SEATS

other school buildings, with all the inconvenience and unpleasantness which this means.

If a new twelve room school building is begun this summer and reaches completion in the fall of 1915, six classes from the Franklin School, and three classes from the Bryant School can at once be transferred to it. This will leave four vacant rooms in the new building to which can be transferred four of the grammar school classes in the High School thus permitting relief for that building which will then be crowded. But in the fall of 1916, a year after we get the new building, we shall still be just as crowded as ever, and in addition to the half time classes in the Lincoln School, there will undoubtedly be such classes in the Washington, the Irving, and the Jefferson; and although a new building is erected this summer, another will be needed within two years. There is no escape from the erection of a new building every year or two, unless the city ceases to grow.

In deciding where shall the new school be located, the Board has been influenced by the fact that since the Franklin School will have seven classes next fall, for which there there are no rooms, and the Bryant School will have three classes, the new building must be so located as best to relieve the crowding in these two schools. It should therefore be about equally distant from both schools, in order that the children from neither school should have to walk a long distance. It ought also to be located so as to shorten the distance for children that come from the edge of the city. These conditions indicate that the building should be south of the railroad and if about equally distant from the Bryant and Franklin Schools it would be located almost exactly where the Board have bought a lot, on Evergreen avenue.

PORTLAND, ORE., MAN LIKES NEW JERSEY

D. M. Taylor Here on a Visit—Also Well Pleased With Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Taylor, of Portland, Oregon, arrived in this city a few days ago to spend a short time with Mrs. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan C. Pennington, of Liberty street. Mrs. Taylor was formerly Miss Laura Pennington, and though she has been in Plainfield only at intervals during the past ten years, she still retains a large circle of acquaintance with which she is renewing old ties.

She was graduated from the Plainfield schools and later was a graduate nurse from the Long Branch Hospital.

Mr. Taylor, who is a native of Indiana, in conversation with a Daily Press reporter yesterday, said he had never been in the extreme East before, but it has been a revelation to him. New Jersey, he averred, is the finest State he has seen since leaving the Pacific Coast. He also declared Plainfield to be as an attractive a city of the size as any it has been his privilege to visit. He and his wife left Portland on April 9 and proceeded to southern California, thence to Mexico and by easy stages journeyed on to Plainfield via the southern route. New York was included in a special trip and the Oregonian, seeing it for the first time said: "New York is a great city and the largest in America. It might some day be the largest in the world if it was not for Portland, which is the fastest growing municipality in the country."

Mr. Taylor has read and heard considerable about Plainfield's coming high tax rate for 1914 and expressed surprise that it was causing so much adverse criticism.

"The rate in Portland," he said, "is $4 per $100 with an assessment ration much the same as here. It is rather high, that is true, but we believe in having things in our town and the people are willing to pay for them."

Mr. Taylor is engaged in the real estate business in Portland, and in this capacity keeps a close watch on civic affairs. He is very optimistic as to the future of the place, asserting that its phenomenal growth is bound to continue. The opportunity is there for the right sort of people, he said, and Portland is getting them.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will spend part of this week at Asbury Park and Atlantic City. They will commence the return trip early next month, proceeding over the northern route, and making stop-overs at Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park and other places of interest.

READY TO TAKE UP BIG ISSUE

Mediators Not to Choose Provisional President.

ACT AS THIRD PARTIES ONLY

Have Not Progressed Beyond the Preparatory Part of Their Work—Now Believed Huerta Will Be Eliminated Within Short Time.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

The real issue of the Mexican problem will be taken up by the mediators at Niagara Falls possibly late today.

Only the preparatory part of the work has been touched as yet. The commission form of government plan has not been discussed.

The mediators will not try to select a provisional president or a commissioner.

Admiral Badger reported that a big force of rebels landed to the north of Vera Cruz. Another force is marching from Tuxpam to join it.

The rebel plan is to prevent Huerta from reaching Vera Cruz. Zapata is to block him from Puerto Mexico.

General Villa hurriedly left Torreon for Saltillo, to the surprise of all Constitutionalist officials. He was expected to lead his army to attack Zacatecas, but suddenly changed his mind.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 26.—The mediators have not reached beyond the preparatory part of their work. Nothing definite regarding the settlement of the Mexican problem has yet been done, and it is not before tonight that the three South American diplomats will begin to take up the practical issues involved. No plan for a commission form of government for Mexico has been even discussed at the meetings.

This formal statement, which as a complete denial of press dispatches printed throughout the country, was made by one of those who are best placed to know just exactly what is happening behind the closed doors of the conference room in the hotel here where the fate of a nation is being settled.

It was stated on the very highest authority that the envoys of the three South American republics who have undertaken the difficult task of attempting to solve the most intricate international problem known for the past century have no intention at any time of going beyond their task of mediators. They will not attempt to select any president or commissioner to govern Mexico. They will at no time seek to become legislators on behalf of Mexico.

Their role will be confined throughout the conference to receiving the suggestions of the delegates of either side and to submitting these suggestions to the representatives of the other side, endeavoring at the same time to aid to the utmost extent of their ability both sides to reach common grounds.

The mediators continued their informal "conversations" with the delegates.

Requena and Ocon left Niagara Falls to return to Toronto, where they will confer with Felix Diaz and tell him of the reception given to them by the Mexican delegates. They will be back here tomorrow, when there is good reason to believe that they will formally apply to the mediators for a hearing on behalf of Felix Diaz.

Huerta Eliminated.

Washington, May 26.—General Huerta, it is believed, will be eliminated from the Mexican situation by Constitutionalist success in the field and will disappear as a factor in the proceedings at the Niagara Falls conference. Not only are the rebels pressing vigorously into what has been federal territory from the start of the revolt, but they have succeeded in practically cutting off every avenue of escape for him from Mexico City.

He is massing his troops between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, ostensibly against the rebels. That this is his sole purpose was declared to the state department through the Spanish ambassador, but the concentration of the troops there is causing Secretary Garrison much concern, and army officers declared privately that the movement appeared ominous to them.

General Aguilar and his command, which occupied Tuxpam after the fall of Tampico, is reported to be marching inland to Jalapa, on the Interoceanic railway, the capture of which would cut one of the two routes open to Huerta from Mexico City to Vera Cruz. The west coast ports are closely invested by the rebels, and to reach Puerto Mexico on the gulf of Campecehe, Huerta would have to follow a roundabout route infested by rebel bands. Zapata apparently is using Cuernavaca for a base and is operating close to the southwestern suburbs of the capital.

GENERAL BLANQUET.

He Stopped Huerta's Order to Execute 100 Prisoners.

With General Blanquet, minister of war, openly defying General Huerta and the dictator meekly submitting, while business houses in the capital are barricaded, foreigners in Mexico City sent word that they believed Huerta might not last through the week. Blanquet saved over 100 prisoners who Huerta wanted executed. Blanquet is said by refugees to be the man of the hour in Mexico City, and should a crisis come it is believed that he will take charge and attempt to send Huerta out of the country. Fifteen French cannon have been placed in Chapultepec castle, where it is said Huerta will make his last stand if he is unable to escape.

BECKER DEATH HOUSE WAIT TO BE SHORTER

Convicted Policeman to Be Sentenced Friday.

New York, May 26.—Notice of appeal in the case of Charles Becker will be given to Justice Seabury and District Attorney Whitman next Friday after Becker is sentenced. The notice has been prepared and will be submitted at once so that the appeal proceedings may be expedited.

On account of the revision of the law relating to appeal procedure Becker will not have to wait sixteen months in the death house at Sing Sing, as he waited after the first conviction, to learn the decision of the highest court. It is likely that the case will be ready for argument before the court of appeal judges within four months. If they take about two months, as they did before, before returning a decision the affirmation or reversal will have been obtained within six months.

The district attorney's staff are confident that the lawyers for Becker will be unable to present warrantable grounds for appeal. As regards the charge of Justice Seabury, they say that the record shows that the trial justice was fair and punctilious and that he safeguarded at all times the rights of the defendant. As regards another point raised by Martin T. Manton, Becker's lawyer, that the testimony of Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg should not have been admitted unless the testimony of Father Cashin and Warden Clancy of Sing Sing was admitted, they say that Justice Seabury excluded the most dangerous part of "Lefty Louie's" widow's story—that her husband told her Becker was to blame for his trouble. That testimony, it is contended would have overborne any testimony that "Dago Frank" exonerated Becker. The prosecution is satisfied that Justice Seabury's fidelity to authorities and precedents cannot be disregarded by the court of appeals.

BANDITS BURN MINE CAMP.

They Destroy Property of Maduro Company, a Chicago Concern.

Guadalajara, Mexico, May 26.—The Pinavete mining camp of the Maduro Mining company, in the Jora district of Tepic, has been burned by bandits. Nearly all of the buildings of the company were destroyed.

The camp has been practically deserted since the recent departure of A. H. Harrison, an English mining man, who was attacked by bandits at the camp and who later conducted a campaign against them in that section of the country. The supplies remaining at the camp were taken by the bandits.

WILSON CHECKS NEW HAVEN CASE

Believed McReynolds Plans Criminal Action.

ADMITS OUSTING MELLEN

Morgan Accepts the Full Responsibility and Defends His Father's Action In New Haven Affairs—Conference Is Held at Washington.

Washington, May 26.—It was apparent today that the brakes have been set on the interstate commerce commission inquiry into the financing of the New Haven road.

A conference was held at the White House between President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds, and immediately after it the interstate commerce commission held a special meeting.

Reports were in circulation that the investigation, as a result of pressure from the White House, will be curtailed by the commission to the extent of omitting several of the New Haven directors from the list of witnesses who have been summoned to testify.

There is likelihood that the commission may go further than this and decide that it already has obtained sufficient information to satisfy the resolution passed by the senate authorizing the inquiry.

It is learned that a meeting of the commission has been called to consider this question and that the chances are in favor of the commission sending a communication to the senate before any steps are taken toward calling other important witnesses.

Only one interpretation is possible of this sudden turn of events, and this is that Attorney General McReynolds has in mind the possibility of beginning criminal proceedings against some of the New Haven directors.

He was strongly opposed to the calling of Charles S. Mellen to the witness stand because it would give him immunity from the indictment now standing against him and from other threatened proceedings.

Morgan Admits Ousting Mellen.

New York, May 26.—J. P. Morgan, who returned to this city from a yachting trip on which he started before Charles S. Mellen began his testimony before the interstate commerce commission, said that he accepted full responsibility for having asked Mr. Mellen to resign as president of the New Haven railroad, that Mr. Mellen's statements that the late J. P. Morgan kept him in ignorance of matters he should have known and practically ran the New Haven himself were untrue, that the records of his firm and the personal records of his father were available and that all evidence bearing on the New Haven's affairs—not on one, but on all issues of the question—should be made public.

"I returned to New York yesterday," said Mr. Morgan at the Morgan library in Thirty-sixth street, "and have examined as carefully as the time would permit the stenographic report of Mr. Mellen's testimony, consisting of several hundred typewritten pages.

"I became a director of the New Haven railroad in April, 1913, and resigned Dec. 31 of the same year. The only reference to me personally which I have found in Mr. Mellen's testimony has to do with the fact that I as a director of the company called upon him and told him that a change in the presidency was desirable. For any blame that attaches to that act, whether it be accorded me as a member of the board of directors or as an individual, I accept full and complete responsibility."

GEN. C. T. M'DOUGALL DIES

Had Six Horses Shot Under Him In Civil War.

Auburn, N. Y., May 26.—General Clinton Dugald McDougall, who had been seriously ill in Paris, died. Information to this effect was received here, and it was added that the funeral will be held in Auburn late in June and that the burial will be in the Arlington National cemetery, near Washington.

General McDougall was one of the youngest generals of the civil war and was praised for his services at the battle of Gettysburg. He was wounded five times and had six horses shot under him. He was born in Scotland in 1839. He was president of the board of trustees of the New York Soldiers and Sailors' home at the time of his death.

FREAKISH STUNTS OF THE GOLF LINKS

Somerville Country Club Incident Heads the List of Novelties.

There is many a freakish incident which could be related about the golf links. In fact, they are happening all the time, and it is one of the fascinations of the game. During a thunder shower the other day a golfer was playing at Somerville, with one of the new steel handled clubs in his hand. The man was L. L. Miller, and he was about to address his ball when he felt a tingling sensation all over and suddenly realized that he was lying on his back gazing skyward with his club some distance away. The caddie, Joseph Clark, was badly stunned, as well as the companions of the golfer, and the bag full of clubs seemed to have been jerked violently from the shoulder of the caddie and the implements scattered in all directions. The players were none the worse for their experience.

During the final round of the New Jersey State championship last year at Baltsurol, when Jerome D. Travers and Oswald Kirby were fighting it out for the title, a heavy thunderstorm came up so suddenly that it drenched gallery and players alike. Lightning struck twice in the woods behind the clubhouse, and at once put out of business telegraph wires erected for newspaper purposes. But it did not stop the match.

Birds have been killed on the wing by a golf ball. A story comes from Arkansas about Dr. C. U. Mayfield playing at the Pine Bluff Country club, driving from the fourth tee, but a little off direction, and the ball scooted through a tree and killed a sparrow. Two years ago at Fox Hills George F. Armstrong drove a ball into a bush which was filled with long thorns. He spent considerable time in searching for the ball and finally found it impaled on a thorn.

DURAY THE FAVORITE.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Fifteen of the forty-five drivers entered in the annual 500-mile automobile race here next Saturday made part of the elimination trials yesterday. A total of seventeen trials were timed, and of that number the work of Duray in his little French car was said by the speedway officials to be one of the most remarkable exhibitions ever witnessed on the local track.

EBBETS BALKS FEDS.

Pittsburg, May 62.—There is no chance of the Federals getting Jake Daubert, star first baseman of the Brooklyn Superbas, at the end of this season. Charlie Ebbets, hearing that the Feds were hot on the trail of his star, prevailed on Jake to sign up for five years yesterday afternoon. Ebbets refused to name the figures, but it is understood that Daubert got a substantial increase.

PENN'S BIG SQUAD.

Philadelphia, May 26.—Thirty-five members of the Pennsylvania track team will be sent to Cambridge for the intercollegiate championships according to the list made public yesterday by Coach Orton. This is the greatest number of athletes ever entered by Pennsylvania for the annual championships.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Why doesn't an Indian have whiskers? C. B. D.
Answer—The indian is classed among the beardless races. This feature is characteristic of the original inhabitants of North and South America and parts of Asia. However, it is not easy to say that no hair grows on the face of the Indian. The growth, though, is sparse, and is generally pulled out as soon as the hair makes its appearance. This mark of vigor does not with these races make its appearance with the period of transition from youth to manhood, but at the latter epoch of transition from manhood to senescense.

P. H. S. LOST GAME AND STAR PLAYER

O'Leary Will Be Out of the Game the Rest of the Season as Result of Injury.

The Plainfield High School baseball nine was walloped yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, by the Westfield High School baseball team. The final score was 10 to 4. Westfield was held scoreless for the first three innings, Sminck mowing them down in great fashion, while his teammates scored twice in the second. In the third inning Westfield scored twice and three times in the fifth. In the eighth inning Westfield pounded Sminck for a two-bagger and a three-bagger and finally knocked him out of the box. Rosenson went in and finished the game.

In the second inning an unfortunate accident robbed Plainfield of the services of their star second-baseman, O'Leary. While stealing second he strained the ligaments of his thigh and will probably be out of the game for the rest of the season. O'Leary has been playing a star game at second and his hitting and baserunning have been above the average.

WORK OF CAPTAINS FEATURES SERIES

Waldorf and Nash in Individual Conflict on the Elks' Drives Last Night.

The Waldorf team, of the Elks' Bowling League, strengthened its claim to first place in the organization race last night, by copping three in a row from the Nash contingent, winning all of the trio by decisive margins. A double century score by Anchorman Waldorf put the first game on ice and incidentally established the high individual score record of the evening. Waldorf's pinning was little short of phenomenal last night, all of his scores being of the double century variety and he averaged 240 for the evening.

This mark is one that is seldom duplicated in tournaments of this nature and will probably stand as a record for the Elks' tourney. Although some of his players fell below their usual form in the series last night Captain Waldorf made up for any individual lapses by his clever pin smashing.

Captain Nash also figured prominently in the series setting up a couple of double centuries after a poor start in the first. The captains were the only players to pass the 200 mark.

MRS. STOCKTON QUALIFIED IN SIXTH PLACE IN "MET"

Just two creditable scores were made yesterday out of the seventy-nine cards returned in the qualifying round of the fifteenth annual championship tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at the Essex County Country Club's course in West Orange, where the event is being held the third time. In the championship set Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of this city, returned a card of 52, 44-96, playing Miss Lillian Hyde, of South Shore, who had a card of 40, 49-89.

Mrs. Stockton qualified in sixth place.

BORO'S OLD TIMERS GET BACK IN ACTION

Stars of the Diamond in Years Gone by Will Limber up Rusty Joints.

Complette arrangementts for the banner sporting event of the age in North Plainfield have been drawn up and real action is now awaited by those interested. In fact, everyone has become interested in one way or another with the widely advertised ball game between the east ends and the west ends and when the two regiments come together the sidelines will be backed with ardent admirers. All will not come expecting to see baseball of the big league type but there will be those present who will require some of the real article to satisfy their appetites. Captain Alexander Milne, of the West Ends, and Captain Warren Townley, of the East Ends, have signed up some good material and preliminary practises and secret conferences indicate that the meeting will be 'some scream.'

Captain Milne formerly piloted the Stevens Institute nine, performing around the first station for the collegians and gained a great reputation for his long reach and swatting ability. Necessity has forced Milne to shift the scene of his activities to behind the bat and as he is the only available candidate for the job on either side he will take charge of receiving for both teams, changing uniforms between each inning.

Members of both sides are saying little and doing mech in the way of arranging details and several surprises are promised in the nature of the side shows planned for those who attend the farce but it goes without saying that there will be something doing every minute of the nine innings.

Captain Townley is well known in borough baseball circles where he was a shining light a number of years ago, and as a twirler he had at one time no rival in "Canadian" therritory. Directly the reverse of Milne in size and general outline he will play the role of Jeff to perfection in the camera pose he will have to take with the rival captain before the hostilities are opened. No backstop will be necessary with Milne handling the plants of Townley and Rowley.

As a side issue Rowley will be kept busy checking up the balls and strikes that are put over the pan and accounting for the spheroids that are batted to the tall timbers.

The teams will lineup as follows:

| WEST ENDS | EAST ENDS |

| Milne, c | p, W. Townley |

CANOE TITLE MEET ATTRACTS LOCALS

Plainfield Paddle Wielders Planning to Enter—Details of the Event.

Racing canoeists in this city are beginning to get in condition for the New Jersey championships, which will be held by the Asbury Park Carnival Commission, Saturday afternoon, July 25, on Deal Lake, following the exclusive announcement made in the Daily Press several days ago. It is planned to form a permaent club for local paddle wielders and it is likely that the Plainfielders will enter the events under a Queen City club title. Several exceptionally formidable paddlers live in this city and have taken awards in other coast regattas in former years. The glittering array of prizes offered by the commission has stirred the paddlers throughout a wide area and interest has been arounsed even among the clubs of Pennsylvania and New York.

Oscar A. Morgan, director of the regatta, has decided to allow only bona fide residents of this State to take part in the championship events, but non-residents who may be spending their vacations at the shore resort or who may care to make special trips for the regatta will be eligible to compete in the other events on the program.

The titular races will be quarter mile singles, half mile doubles, half mile fours and hurry scurry, in which the swimmers will play a part. In this event the contestants will be obliged to swim 100 yards to their anchored canoes and paddle another 100 yards to the finish. The knack of boarding a canoe from the water, a ticklish stunt at best, may be a big factor in deciding the winner, especially if the swimming race is close. Miscellaneous events have been arranged to interest the lay paddlers. Among these is a quarter mile novice, an eight mile paddle for women, quarter mile mixed doubles and a tail end race.

Tail end racing has been popular with paddlers and spectators in this city and it has always occupied a place on the club regatta programs on the local lakes. The contestant sits on the stern seat, but instead of facing the bow he reverses his position. The canoe becomes awkwardly unbalanced, the bow, which has now become the stern, sticking out of the water, a plaything for the breezes which play havoc with the paddler's efforts to keep the craft from turning circles. On a calm day great skill is required to hold a canoe to its course, but anything like a breeze is apt to make it a merry swirl to the finish. The race is usually an eighth mile event.

All the races will be paddled in what is known in canoe parlance as Class E canoes. These are the canvas covered or cruising shells such as are seen on the park lakes and other streams and bodies of water throughout the country.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S CUP CHALLENGER LAUNCHED TODAY

Gosport, Eng., May 26—Amid scens of wild enthusiasm, the Countess of Shatesbury, at noon today, launched Sir Thomas Lipton's American Cup challenger, Shamrock IV. The ceremony was performed under ideal weather conditions and a large number of well known sportsmen were present when the event took place.

Experts declared the Shamrock is not beautiful but a craft of good lines. Her bow and stem spoils her appearance, although it is designed to save weight. The bow is a snub and her stem has been cut off. Her most conspicuous features are the tumble home sides, an extraordinary length of keel and sides quite round. The lead at the bottom devulges out on each side of the keel, being round on top and perfectly flat underneath. The lead is thirty feet long and weighs approximately sixty-five tons.

CASE IS DISMISSED, OFFICER COMMENDED

Seumus MacManus Acted Indiscreetly in Not Answering Patrolman Flatley.

Seumus MacManus, known from coast to coast as a writer and lecturer, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning to answer to charges made against him by Patrolman Thomas Flatley, of the local department, who found him acting in a suspicious manner in Crescent avenue last Tuesday night. According to the officer he saw MacManus standing in the shadow of a tree on that thoroughfare and when he approached the spot the defendant is said to have moved swiftly and softly to the snade of a second tree. This the patrolman thought suspicious and he asked him his name and address. Flatley says that MacManus told him it was none of his business.

Unable to determine his identity the officer placed MacManus under arrest as a disorderly person, causing his appearance in court today. Richard Boardman, representing MacManus as counsel, said that his client was not a drinking man but admitted that he had acted indiscreetly in not answering the officer's questions on the night he was apprehended.

In finding the defendant not guilty of disorderly conduct and dismissing the case against him, Judge DeMeza stated that MacManus had acted without discretion in allowing his temper to get the better of him and not answering the patrolman's questioning. The court scored MacManus for his refusal to comply with the officer's request and commended Flatley highly on making the arrest. Judge DeMeza declared that Flatley had not only protected his own rights but the rights of the citizens at large in apprehending a person who would not divulge his identity and intimated that more robberies would be prevented if all suspicious persons were taken into custody.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL SOCIAL.

The last of a series of socials under the auspices of the Hope chapel Sunday-School Association, will be held at the chapel Friday evening. Former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, had his right eyeball seriously injured yesterday when a small stone struck him in the optic. The sharp missle cut a deep gash in the eye-ball missing the pupil by a hair. He was attended by Dr. F. C. Ard.

ROOSEVELT PUTS IN STRENUOUS DAY

Thousands Who Wanted to Hear Him at Washington Are Disappointed.

Washington, May 26.—Hordes of persons, both in and out of official life, beseiged the big marble building of the National Geographic Society today in search of tickets for the lecture to be given tonight by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Similar crowds surrounded Convention Hall, where the lecture will be delivered. The throngs found only disappointment, for the coveted pasteboards to their limit of a little more than 3,000 had been exhausted days ago.

The former President will put in a typically strenuous day. During the nine hour and forty minutes he is here he will accomplish a score of things. From the moment he alighted from his train at 3:20 this afternoon until he boards his car after midnight he will resemble a whirlwind in velocity. Here is his program:

Conference with Progressive leaders.

Rapid dash in automobiles through city to Smithsonian Institution where he will view trophies of his South African hunt.

Call at White House to meet President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall.

Call at home of Senator Lodge to meet old friends of the diplomatic corps.

Conferences with more Progressive leaders.

Dinner as guest of National Geographical Society.

ROOSEVELT TO JUMP INTO FIGHT AT ONCE

Calls Upon Wilson For the First Time.

Washington, May 26.—Colonel Roosevelt has satisfied himself that the time has come to strike a blow at the policies inaugurated by the Wilson administration. Developments here all point to that conclusion, and unless something unforeseen occurs to make him change his mind the broadside will be fired before he leaves for Spain on Saturday next to attend the wedding of his son Kermit.

The attack will probably be in the form of a statement, because there is little time to arrange for an address. The colonel feels that the public has been waiting for some such word from him ever since he emerged from the wilds of South America.

Many things have happened to influence Colonel Roosevelt concerning the course he should take. Since his return here he has seen Progressive leaders from many parts of the country. A score of them have been named in the news dispatches.

Former President Roosevelt called at the White House to pay his respects to President Wilson. It was the first time he has met a president in the executive mansion since he turned over the presidency to William H. Taft in 1909. And, not to be outdone by President Wilson in these matters of breaking precedent, he declined an invitation extended him by President Wilson to take lunch.

Usually when the president of the United States extends a social invitation to a private individual etiquette demands that the individual invited should accept. Such invitations are, in short, regarded as commands. Not so by the colonel, who wrote in reply that he would not reach Washington in time for lunch, but would "drop in" in the course of the afternoon.

Edison Uses Central Station Power

Many manufacturers believe they can make their own power more cheaply than they can supply their needs with Central Station Electric Power.

This belief is seldom founded on FACTS.

The truth is that in making calculations and comparisons ALL of the factors of cost of the private steam or electric plant are not given due consideration.

Men who KNOW the TRUTH are turning to the Central Station as the logical source of efficient and economical power.

No better proof of this statement can be desired than the fact that Thomas A. Edison, Inc., is one of the largest power customers on the lines of Public Service Electric Company.

The Edison Company uses several THOUSAND horse power of Central Station electric current in its great West Orange works.

Why?

Let each owner of a private power plant ask himself this question.

Our representatives are ready to give answer, with facts and figures to make it clear. Drop a line or 'phone.

WILL NAME THREE NEW PATROLMEN

Councilmanic Police Board Decides to Purchase Motorcycles.

During a lengthy session of the Councilmanic Police Board last night, it was decided to put on three more regular patrolman and to purchase two new motorcycles by which the department hopes to be able to more easily capture evil-doers. Arrangements were also made for the annual inspection which will be held Friday afternoon at headquarters. The police will hold their last regular drill at Co. K. armory, today.

The Board also discussed the vacancy soon to occur in the police department, when Captain Christian Frederickson will retire after a long service. No decision was reached last night, but it is understood that the Board will hold another meeting before the June session of the Common Council on Monday night. It is understood that Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn is to be named as the new captain. This would necessitate a few other changes, probably resulting in making Sergeant Maurice Higgins detective-sergeant.

JOHN P. OWENS NAMED AS COUNTY TAX APPRAISER

John P. Owens, of this city, went to Trenton today, to confer with State Comptroller Edwards as to the duties of his position, that of inheritance tax appraiser for Union county, which was anounced yesterday. Mr. Owens plans to take up his new duties at once. The position pays $1,200 a year. Part of his work will be the supervision of wills and determining the value of estates and the amount of tax paid upon all inheritances.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

Hand embroidered lingerie is always attractive, and the woman who is handy with the needle may have any number of pretty things to wear. Long cloth, nainsook, batiste and crêpe de Chine are all suitable materials for making a nightgown such as this, and the embroidery pattern, No. 14418, contains 6 dainty sprays for 10 cents. These sprays, developed in solid work and eyelets, are also appropriate for trimming lingerie waists, underwear, children's dresses and infants' garments. Filo silk should be used when embroidering crêpe de Chine but for the other materials named, use fine white mercerized cotton.

The scalloped edge and beading is from pattern 14239. This border is 1⅛ inches wide and there are six yards given in the pattern for 10 cents. This beading and edging is suitable for use on underwear, children's dresses and bags.

To fit a straight border to a curve, slash the paper on either side close to the design. This allows the outer edge to spread and the inner to overlap.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfers will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Fashions for children are quaintly pretty this Spring and the new materials are especially suited to childhood. Dresses and coats are inclined to the long-waisted effects, drop shoulders and short skirts. The Middy blouse dress is a practical model for general wear and school. Number 7612 shows an unbelted Middy blouse with drop shoulders and regulation sailor collar, combined with a plaited skirt attached to a separate, sleeveless under-waist. If desired, this dress may be made with a skirt of dark blue serge and the blouse of white linen or duck. This is a practical suggestion for a little later in the Spring; if the dress is intended to be worn at the present moment without a coat, it would be advisable to make it entirely of the serge with perhaps, a piping of scarlet or green or a chemisette of white as a relief. For a child of ten, this design requires 4¾ yards of 36-inch material. Serge averages 36 to 40 inches in width and ranges in price from 75 cents to $1.50 a yard. This pattern is cut in five sizes, 6 to 14.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

Be sure to give the right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the breast, well up under the arms.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15c in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

STRAWBERRIES IN GELATIN.

DINNER MENU.
Julienne Soup.
Hamburger Steak.
Irish Potato Pudding.
Breaded and Baked Bananas.
Green Peas. Shrimp Salad.
Strawberry Pudding.
Cafe Noir.

STRAWBERRIES prepared with gelatin make handsome and delicious desserts.

Strawberry Pudding.—Take ten ripe strawberries, two whites of eggs, two cupfuls of whipped cream, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, two cupfuls of strawberry juice, two heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatin and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put the gelatin into a saucepan, add the strawberry juice, dissolve over a gentle heat, remove from the fire, add the sugar, the vanilla extract and ten large ripe strawberries which have been quartered. Stand on ice until the mixture begins to thicken; then fold in the whipped cream and the whites of the eggs stiffly beaten. Pour into a wet mold and place on ice till required. Turn out and decorate with ripe strawberries.

Flavored With Vanilla.

Strawberry Charlotte.—Take a level tablespoonful of granulated gelatin and soak it in a fourth of a cupful of cold water until soft; dissolve by standing in a bowl of hot water. Cut large, firm berries into halves, dip them into the liquid gelatin and use for lining a chilled bowl. The bowl must be cold that the gelatin may quickly harden and the berries adhere to their positions. Whip a pint of cream until stiff, add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, the remaining gelatin and vanilla to flavor. Turn this mixture into the bowl, taking care not to displace the berries, and chill thoroughly. Turn from the mold and surround with berries. Serve, sprinkling the berries with powdered sugar.

With Cream or Custard.

Strawberry Mold.—Take one and a half pints of milk, two ounces of loaf sugar, one pound of strawberries, one ounce of leaf gelatin, the rind of one lemon and a little cochineal. Put the milk and lemon rind in a saucepan on the fire and bring it to the boil; then strain out the rind and add the sugar. Rub the strawberries through a hair sieve; then add the pulp to the milk. Melt the gelatin in about two tablespoonfuls of boiling water; then strain it into the other ingredients. Mix all well. Add the cochineal to make the mixture a pretty pink. Rinse a fancy mold in cold water, pour in the mixture, stir it occasionally till it is just beginning to set. When it is quite cold dip the mold into tepid water and turn the contents on to a pretty dish. Cream or custard is a nice accompaniment to this dish.

IT had been raining for several days and Jack and Evelyn had to spend a great deal of time indoors.

"The rain still keeps up, doesn't it?" said daddy as they all listened to it coming down on the tin roof.

"We hope it won't rain tomorrow," said Jack, "as we want to take a good walk and find some flowers."

"Well, I hope for your sakes, too, that it won't," said daddy. "But you know the rain thinks it is lots of fun to pour down on the earth with all the force it can use. Once there was almost a quarrel up in the clouds. Some of the raindrops were being told to drop steadily for two days in the open country, where they would help the things to grow and improve the earth.

"For some reason or other those raindrops did not want to rain in the country. They said they wanted some excitement. So the king of the clouds asked them where they would like to fall, and they replied that they would like to fall down on the city pavements, for then, they said, they could see so many more people.

"You see, they knew that in the country when it rains the people are very much more apt to stay indoors, whereas in the city there is so much to be attended to and so much business to be done that the people must go out, and the cars have to run just the same whether it rains or not. So the raindrops thought they could have a nice taste of city life.

"But these raindrops were really made very happy when they were allowed to rain in the city. Their dispositions were better than if they had had to rain in the country. In fact, they felt so pleased about it that they only rained very gently.

"They fell down on the city pavements very lightly and watched all the people put up their umbrellas. Then they would barely step on the earth, and the people would close their umbrellas again. Of course they couldn't manage to fall too lightly, for if they did old Mr. Sun would have come straight out and driven them away. And they were bound they would stay in the city all that day.

"And such a fine day as they had. They rained just enough for people to call it a little drizzle, but not enough to keep any one in.

"Now, they said, that if they had had to rain in the country they would see so few people and would be so lonely that they would not be able to keep from sobbing their eyes out and pouring in torrents.

"So the raindrops for one day at least had what they called 'a very sociable time.'"

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

A great honor paid to this Company and its Agents by the people of the Empire State. Furthermore, The Prudential was the leader in new business in New York State for the three years, 1909, 1910 and 1913.

No business man can afford to waste money by paying more for a thing than is necessary.

If a two-ton motor truck will do your hauling or delivery work, all you need to pay for the most efficient truck in the market is $1650. That amount pays for the Reo two-ton truck chassis—a truck that is acknowledged by leading traffic experts to embody every feature that modern engineering practice has shown desirable in a motor truck of this capacity.

Other trucks of equal capacity cost more without giving you more in service, durability or economy of operation. To pay more than the cost of the Reo means only added overhead expense, interest and depreciation charges and, most likely, added maintenance cost as well.

This is the logic of plain, cold facts and will appeal to every business man who is investigating the motor truck situation. Give us a chance to prove to you that you can get in the Reo Motor Truck all the business efficiency and economy that you could possibly get for that extra $1100 or so that makes up the average price of other makes of two-ton trucks.

This is either an invitation or a challenge. Let us give you the facts.

LOCAL CAMPERS AT STATE SITE

Record Number of Plainfield Youths Enrolled for the Summer Season.

MANY INNOVATIONS

Women's Auxiliary of Local Association Has Assisted in Improvement Work—Fourteenth Year of Activity at Lake Wawayanda.

Thirty-seven Plainfield boys are scheduled to spend from two to six weeks at the New Jersey Y. M. C. A. boys' camp at Lake Wawayanda during the coming summer months. C. William Bingeman, boys' secretary of the local association, is in charge of the preliminary arrangements for the sixth consecutive season and he will spend the greater part of the summer as associate director of the camp activities. Charles H. Line, formerly assistant physical director of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., who will be graduated from the Springfield Y. M. C. A. Training School in June, and Henri Welle, the local association's swimming instructor, will assist Mr. Bingeman as leaders. One adult leader will be sent with every eight local campers. Last year there were forty-two Plainfield boys at the popular New Jersey rendezvous, but present indications are that this mark will be passed by a comfortable margin this year.

This is the fourteenth season the State camp has been in operation and the leaders come from all parts of the world to assist in the work. Two years ago one of the officials was a graduate of Oxford University, who spent three weeks at the camp making a study of the routine of work with a view to incorporating it in the activities of other such resorts.

Henri Ferger, now attending Teachers' College in New York, will have charge of the social program for the entire season. Mr. Ferger spent the summer at camp immediately after his graduation from Princeton and since then he has spent three years in India as a teacher in one of the mission schools. Both Mr. Ferger and Mr. Chapman, of Oxford, are known to many Plainfield boys who were in camp while these men were there.

William D. Murray, president of the local Y. M. C. A., is scheduled to spend the week-end of July at camp and take charge of the Sunday morning service. This will be Mr. Murray's third year to make a similar visit at the camp.

During the fourteen years the camp has been under the leadership and supervision of Charles R. Scott, the State secretary of boys' work. Mr. Bingeman has been Mr. Scott's associate for the past two years, but this year he will be there for only part of the time. He plans to be there for some time during every section but not continuously. Last year Plainfield had the largest group of leaders at the camp and from present indications there will be a group of clean, Christian gentlemen to accompany and live with the boys during their stay.

The camp site is located in the northern part of the State. The lake is in the midst of a great tract of about 6,000 acres of forest in Sussex county, about eleven miles from Warwick, N. Y. The lake is the highest body of water in the State of New Jersey. It is fed by springs and has a daily flowage of over two and one half million gallons a day. The campers take the Greenwood Lake branch f the Erie Railroad to Greenwood Lake Glens and cross Greenwood lake and then by wagons go up into the mountain to the lake.

The equipment has been increased and improved with every passing season and this year through the initiative of the Plainfield Woman's Auxiliary and the support of the other auxiliaries of the State the camp will receive an entire equipment of China for the dining-room. At the present time there is a lodge, dining hall, icehouse, engine room, schoolhouse, wireless station, tennis court, baseball field, the cabin or office, the boathouse, hospital tent and outdoor stage.

Following are the Plainfield boys who will be there between the 25th of June and August 20.: Kenneth Stover, Bonsal Stover, Witter Clawson, Harold Nielsen, William Marrell, Linsey Bohl, Lewis Zeek, Charles Gates, Robert Veysey, Duncan Taylor, Edward Crone, Elmer Blimm, John Hammann, Robert Moyer, Mac Fullerton, Harold Condict, Holmes Clawson, Russell Tomlinson, Harold Loizeaux, Walter Brown, Harold Zeek, Reginald Sykes, Walter Penny, Harold Tomlinson, Everett Case, Wesley Johnson, J. Hayward Erickson, Ray Hafner, William Urch, Randolph Stelle, Walter W. Debele, John Endress, Harry Day, Norman McGee, Warren Mumford, William Ross, Seymour Cone.

"SUFFRAGE WEEK" WAS SUCCESSFUL

Mrs. A. B. Jones Names Committees at May Meeting of League.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield held its May meeting yesterday afternoon, in the auditorium of the Public Library. Mrs. Arthur B. Jones, the new president, was in the chair and her recommendations met with the warm support of the league. She recommended raising a sufficient sum of money to proceed along more business-like lines than heretofore.

Mrs. Henry C. White gave an interesting summing up of the results of the work where suffrage headquarters were held at 308 West Front street. The increase in money and members was most satisfactory.

The president appointed three new chairman of committees: Press committee, Mrs. Charles A. Selden; enrollment committee, Mrs. Champlain L. Riley; literature committee, Mrs. Edmund Lee. Mrs. Lee takes the place of Mrs. Bruce Lachtan, whose removal from this city caused regret in the ranks of Suffragists. Announcement was made concerning the executive office of the New Jersey State Association, which has been removed from Newark to 307 Park avenue, this city, the building at the approach to the station, commonly known as the Manning building. Up one flight of stairs will be found an office always open and ready to supply literature and information concerning the suffrage movement.

FREEHOLDERS WILL REPORT ON JUNE 11

Some Decisive Action Expected Regarding Bridge and Traffic Tunnels.

Reports that will result in some decisive action on the plan for a bridge over and twin traffic tunnels under the Hudson River are expected to come at the conference to be held by the New Jersey Inter-State Bridge and Tunnel Commission and the committees from the Boards of Freeholders of Hudson, Essex, Bergen, Passaic and Union counties on June 11. The freeholders who attended the last conference will have conferred with their respective boards and they will be in a position to tell the commission just what their counties propose to do.

Even should one or even two of the five counties refuse to join in the plan for the appointment of the new commission to carry on the active work of securing plans and specifications for the bridge and tunnels it will be possible for the remaining four or three to take it up. This is provided for in an act of the Legislature of this year, now known as Chapter 245. Under this "three or more counties" may join in the project, but the expression of a desire to do so is not binding upon one county unless two or more counties join with it. It is provided that the assessment upon any one county shall not exceed the sum of $10,000.

The commission to take up the preliminary investigation is to be made up of three members from each county joining in it and one member from a disinterested county, the entire commission to be appointed by the Governor, and to serve without compensation.

ALEXANDER VAN OSS WEDS MISS MARY MARSH

Alexander Van Oss, for several years a resident of this city, was married to Miss Mary Marsh, of Pittsburgh, at the latter place yesterday. Mr. VanOss was tendered a reception at the Hermitage, New York, Monday evening, being in the nature of a bachelor's farewell. Among the local guests present were Edward Cohen, Jonas Lie, William B. Gilbert, Stephen Haff, C. L. Riley and Dr. Frank Hallock, the last named being a former resident of Plainfield.

STRONG CAST CHOSEN FOR P. H. S. PRODUCTION

"If I Were King" to Be Given at the Plainfield Theatre.

Samuel B. Howe, formerly of the Plainfield High School faculty, but now head of the history department in the South Side High School, Newark, and H. F. Biddle, his successor in the local institution, are putting on the finishing touches to the senior class cast which will present "If I Were King" in the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening. The production bids fair to overshadow all of the previous theatrical presentations given by graduating classes of the Plainfield High School and an exceptionally clever group of amateur thespians have been assigned to the parts.

H. F. Biddle
Coach for "If I Were King."

Those in charge are making special efforts to place this production ahead of all others and daily rehearsals are being conducted in the school library. Miss Katherine Sminck, a former High Schol student who has taken part in many similar shows, is assisting the teachers in putting the finishing touches on the players.

Cortland Fleming and William Thompson are taking the leading roles and both have established enviable reputations for themselves in this line of work prior to this time. Mr. Fleming plays the part of the hero and Mr. Thompson will portray the role of the King of France. Miss Elizabeth Doig and Miss Emily Garda are taking the leading female parts.

RINGLING BROTHERS SUFFER HEAVY LOSS

Forty Cars of Circus Train Are Destroyed by Fire at Cleveland, Ohio.

Forty cars belonging to the Ringling Brothers circus train were caught in a lumber yard fire near the Nickel Plate Railroad yards at Cleveland, O., yesterday morning, and were entirely destroyed. The equipment burned included flat cars, horse and elephant cars and workmen's sleepers, the total value being more than $100,000. The circus was unable to make its next jump, owing to the fact that only forty-five cars were left; most of them sleepers. The Ringlings are the owners of the Barnum and Bailey show, which appeared here on May 15.

The fire is believed to have been started by careless "camp" followers of the circus. The total damage will reach $1,500,000. The fire is the largest Cleveland has had in many years.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Mrs. Charles Place Leggett, of 822 Madison avenue, today issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret Virginia Leggett, and Albert Isaac Codington, son of former City Judge and Mrs. William R. Codington, of Sandford avenue. The ceremony will be performed on Tuesday evening, June 16, at the home of the bride-elect's mother on Madison avenue.

Washington, May 27.—No confirmation of the rumored flight of General Huerta has been received at the State Department and the report is doubted.

The long expected note as to mediation from General Carranza arrived today. It was carried to the State Department by Charles A. Douglas, representing the Constitutionalist cause in Washington, who was accompanied by John Lind. Secretary Bryan was not in the department and an engagement was made for the formal delivery of the note later in the day. It is understood that Carranza reiterates his refusal to take part formally in the mediation conference at Niagara Falls.

Vera Cruz, May 27.—It is generally believed here that General Huerta, is now in secret flight from Mexico City to Puerto Mexico. Niagara Falls, Ont., May 27.—Mediators, delegates and their families, thirty-eight in number left here this morning on the Grand Trunk Railroad for Toronto. They will leave there tonight at 7:30 arriving here at 10:30.

DISPLEASED WITH GOVERNMENT ACTION

Democratic Club Adopt Resolutions in Case of Patrick J. Reville.

United States Senator James E. Martine's tardiness in appointing a postmaster for Plainfield, the current topic among politicians of every calibre in this vicinity at the present time, came up for further consideration at the meeting of the Democratic Club held in the headquarters on North avenue last night. Much general discussion of the subject took place during the meeting, but no definite conclusions were arrived at as usual. A resolution setting forth the local organization's displeasure at the findings of the government's representative in the P. J. Reville investigation was adopted and copies forwarded to United States Senators Martine and Hughes.

The club decided not to endorse a Democratic candidate for the local political plum, but to await Mr. Martine's action in the matter. It was the consensus of opinion among those present that the situation has become too greatly involved to warrant any action on the part of a local organization.

CHURCH CLUBS AGAINST MEASURE

Disapprove Change in Liquor Ordinance by Narrow Margin.

PROVISIONS EXPLAINED

Councilman Calkins Sets Forth the Advantages of a Fixed Policy—Churchmen Propose to Make Issue of License Question.

Representatives of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs to the number of about thirty-five met in the parish house of the Congregational church last night, and listened to an interesting and instructive talk by Councilman Leighton Calkins in which he fully explained his proposed supplement to the liquor ordinance, which has already been passed on two readings by the Common Council and awaits final adoption.

Mr. Calkins, who was introduced by A. H. Neilson, president of the Men's Club of the Congregational church, gave a clear and concise explanation of the intents and purpose of the supplement to the ordinance, which proposes to grant both retail and wholesale licenses on a basis of the population, one retail place to 2,500 inhabitants and one wholesale place to each 6,000 inhabitants. Mr. Calkins explained that this policy would limit the number of licensed places in the city to the same ratio of the population as at present. It would not mean that there would have to be an increase unless the Council thought such action a necessity. Neither would it prevent the reduction of the number of licensed places at any time should this action be desired.

The speaker pointed out that the State law provides that there shall not be more than one licensed retail place to each 500 of the population, making his measure, in reality, a move in the direction of prohibition, rather than a move to "lower the bars" as some had interpreted the measure. The need of a definite policy was shown by Mr. Calkins, as at present it is indefinite and vague, leaving the councilmen oftentimes without a clear conception as to just what the Plainfield policy is or what the people want. This ordinance would in no wise retard the prohibition movement or the working of a local option law, said Mr. Calkins.

Following the talk by Mr. Calkins there was a general discussion, in which Councilmen Thomas F. Hylan and George S. Clay, the latter president of the city body, took part. There was a division of opinion as to the wisdm of adopting such a measure as proposed, and subsequently a resolution, disapproving of the supplement to the ordinance, was adopted by a very narrow margin. Among those who voted for the resolution were several who are known to be prohibitionists and they are opposed to a compromise of any sort with the liquor question.

This fact was brought out in the discussion that if the measure is adopted in all probability no additional licenses would be granted until after the 1915 census to be taken by the State, and furthermore that the adoption of the measure would not make its provisions binding on future councils, but would serve to give the city a fixed policy.

The discussion developed the fact that the change in the ordinance would not stop the yearly agitation, as some were led to believe. George H. Batchelor, president of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes, brought out this interesting fact that a movement is now underway whereby it is proposed to make the liquor question an issue, that all candidates for the Council would be requested to state their position as to whether they favor or are against licenses. The federation will make a city-wide canvass of voters, to assist in the compilation of facts bearing on this question.

The various churches in the city will be requested to name delegates to become members of a central body. It is further proposed to renew the campaign against the Clark saloon on West Third street and Watson's saloon on Grant avenue, for the purpose of keping all licensed places within the Tyler zone. The details of this campaign will be made known later in the season.

Mr. Calkins in commenting today on last night's meeting, said:

"The encouraging feature about the meeting of the Men's Club at the Congregational church last evening, was that the vote against the Plainfield license policy was not unanimous. I suppose there were twenty-five or thirty gentlemen present, and probably most of them were prohibitionists. Yet only seventeen expressed themselves as opposed to my ordinance. They were frank in giving their reasons. They are opposed to any policy of regulation or license,

Those who visited the Public School No. 1, yesterday afternoon and evening, complimented Principal S. Dana Townsend and the whole corps of teachers for the results obtained by the pupils in the last nine months. Although the manual training department is lacking in the local schools the standards sought and obtained in the other departments leaves no time for that branch of school work. This year marks the end of the second term with departmental teaching in the three higher grades, sixth, seventh and eighth, making it probable that the same course will be adopted in the other grades. At least one specimen of the work of each pupil in every subject was on exhibition and all of the teachers were present to explain things to those who attended.

DESTROYS SLEEP.

Many Plainfield People Testify to This.

You can't sleep at night
With aches and pains of a bad back

When you have to get up from urinary troubles.

If the kidneys are at fault
Set them working aright with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is Plainfield proof of their merit.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN CASE OF VICTIM AGAINST DRIVER

Counsel for Rev. William S. McCoy, formerly rector of Holy Cross church, has brought about a settlement in the clergyman's case against Jacob Fass and William Davis, owner and chauffeur, respectively, of the automobile that knocked down and seriously injured Mr. McCoy on West Front street, May 2 of last year. Davis was cranking up the machine in front of the Fass' store when it suddenly started off and ran diagonally across the thoroughfare. Mr. McCoy who was passing at the time, was pushed against the doorway of Moldezky's newspaper store near Exchange alley, and was laid up for several weeks due to injuries sustained.

He recently started a suit for damages, Reed and Hetfield, of this city, being his counsel. The case was scheduled to come up during the present term of the Union County courts and will now be dropped, owing to the satisfactory settlement arrived at. Mr. McCoy is at present residing in Rochester, N. Y.

QUARTETE OF OBSTRUCTORS PUZZLE LOCAL AUTOISTS

Several Plainfield people who own autos and were enjoying a ride in them, Monday, are mystified by the peculiar action of a quartet in the Passaic Valley road, near Stirling. The party comprised three men and a woman, and whenever a car hove in sight, they would stretch a heavy rope across the road compelling it to stop a second or two they would wave to go ahead. The only explanation they would give was "we're waiting for a fellow."

The touring car of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk was one of those brought to a stop and two other Plainfield parties underwent a similar experience. None of the obstructors showed badges of authority or appeared to be officers, consequently the cause of the rope-stretching is mystifying.

THIRTEEN "F. RANDOLPHS" IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Of the thirty-four constituent members of the First Baptist church in 1818, the number bearing the name of "Fitz Randolph" was eleven. During the first, second and third pastorates fifty-four Randolphs were recorded as members. Under Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes' administration forty-five of this name were added to the list. The last man of the name is Wilbur F. Randolph, who was recently chosen deacon. At present there are thirteen of the "F. Randolph" name on the membership roll.

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The seventh anniversary of the Ladies' Aid Society of Temple Baptist church is being arranged for Tuesday, June 9. An interesting program is being arranged for the occasion.

Watchung Council, No. 552, K. of C., conferred the first and second degrees upon a large class of candidates last evening. Arrangements have been made to entertain 500 members of the order at their rooms tonight, when a class will be initiated into the mysteries of the third degree.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will speak at his prayer service this evening on "The Weak Ones Whom God Uses."

CLEAN UP ALL THE TIME.

There has been a little grumbling among some people about the publicity given to the clean-up week campaign. They have said that by giving such prominence to the plans made by the Board of Health, and the Mayor's proclamation, the people of Plainfield are virtually admitting that the city is dirty and seriously in need of cleaning up, and that the town is given a bad name by the agitation. There is never a city that can be too clean. Plainfield, all will admit, is probably the cleanest and healthiest city in New Jersey, but still a clean-up and paint-up movement is a good thing, and too much prominence cannot be given to the fact that it is in progress.

The mere honor of having your city one of the cleanest, if not the cleanest in the State, should act as a spur to try to make it cleaner. In some states rewards have been offered to the cities and town which are shown to be the best kept and neatest. The Utah Development League, a state organization which is doing just what its name implies, has offered substantial awards to the winners in a State wide "clean city" contest, open to every community of over 500 inhabitants. The New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce might well follow this plan.

In Texas a magazine conducted a contest among cities between 5,000 and 12,500 population within that state, and Bonham, which won the prize, is being heralded over the country as "the cleanest city in Texas." The prize was secured as a result of organized work on the part of the Bonham Board of Trade. There a method was adopted to clean up similar to that being used in Plainfield this week. Aid was enlisted from business men who were asked to take charge of the work in different sections of the city, each inspecting the lots, homes, dooryards, alleys and streets within his certain district. The aid of the Boy Scouts, women's clubs, City Council and representatives from the negro settlements was also sought.

The actual work of clean-up week should really only be an incidental matter with Plainfielders. Having started the campaign by making things better now, the people of the city should see to it that no more rubbish heaps, or disgraceful sights should be allowed to accumulate in the city. The Mayor and Board of Health have supplied the inspiration for the work, so it is up to the rest of us to keep the movement going every week in the year. Make it a clean up year, and follow it with another year. We know of nothing that would advertise Plainfield better than to be known far and wide as the cleanest city in the state, which we probably are now. To make sure of the claim to the title, however, it is up to every resident to d ohis share to keep things bright continuously.

Twenty-four famous authors were asked a short time ago to name the best short story in the English language. When the list was made up it was found that there were eight stores which received the approval of one or more of these twenty-four authors. The Daily Press has secured the privilege of running these eight stories, and they will appear in this newspaper as short serials, none lasting more than three days, and most of them being completed in two installents. For light summer reading we commend them to the hundreds of subscribers of the Daily Press who have been reading the many excellent serials which we have presented from time to time. The first story will be "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale, it having been selected as the best short story by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Owen Johnson. The other stories chosen were written by Robert Louis Stevenson, O. Henry, Edgar Allen Poe, Rudyard Kipling, Mark Twain, Charles Dickens and Bret Harte. The first installment appears in today's issue.

The Democratic Club met last night to "thoroughly discuss" the question of the naming of the postmaster. If any topic could be more thoroughly discussed than this one has been by everybody in town for the last year we fail to see how. As for "allowing Senator Martine to make the appointment" it seems that such an offer is entirely gratuitous, for hasn't "our Jim" given us to understand distinctly that he intends to name the man when he gets good and ready, and not before?

If clean-up week is not a success it will not be because the merchants of Plainfield have not helped to advertise it. Several have used their regular contract space in the newspapers to call the attention of the people to the need of following the Mayor's suggestion. This action on the part of the business men of the city indicates a healthy civic pride which speaks well for Plainfield.

The public spirited action of Proctor and Sanderson in offering the use of their two theatres in this city, free of charge, for Fourth of July meetings, is but another evidence of the civic pride which Plainfield people manifest.

It looked as though the clean-up campaign had invaded the city police court on Monday. Judge William G. DeMeza on that day cleaned up practically $200 in fines.

Don't forget that all the local stores will be closed all day Saturday and open Friday evening.

RHODIER RETRACTS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY IN COURT

Albert Rhodier, sixteen years old, of this city, was arraigned before Judge James C. Connolly, in the Court of Quarter Sessions in Elizabeth this morning, to answer to a charge of attempting to break into the Grant Avenue station several weeks ago. The youth, through his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, who has been assigned to represent him by the county, retracted his plea of not guilty and entered one of guilty.

The boy has been a prominent figure in the local police court for the last two years and his parents are making every effort to have the county judge place him in some institution. Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza on a charge of incorrigibility several weeks ago he was forced by the court to make a confession wherein he admitted trying to break into the railroad depot for the purpose of robbery. The decision in the case will probably be returned late this afternoon.

WATCHMAN'S FOOTSTEPS SOUNDED LIKE BURGLARS

In response to a telephone call sent in from the home of Former Councilman William S. Tyler at 520 West Eighth street, at 2:55 this morning, Sargeant Higgins and Patrolman Kelley were dispatched to that section to look for burglars. Mr. Tyler had heard unusual sounds on his front porch during the early hours of the morning and communicated with the police department.

Arriving on the scene, Higgins started toward the house from Seventh street and Kelley began his march toward the residence from Eighth street. As the two coppers came face to face near the Tyler home, Joseph Cooney, a night watchman, walked calmly from the front porch to learn who was walking about the premises at that unearthly hour of the morning.

Cooney said he had been in the vicinity of Mr. Tyler's home for about half an hour and the supposition is that the owner heard the watchman's footsteps ase he walked across the porch.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In the edition of the Plainfield Daily Press of May 23, a list is given of anti-suffrage women, active in civic and social work. Among those mentioned as opposed to votes for women to aid them in the direct solution of their problems, is Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, National President of the Florence Critttendon Missions. Mrs. Barrett is an indefatiguable worker in the different activities which she undertakes and among any other interests she is an ardent advocate of woman suffrage. She was a delegate to the last convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association and sat with the Virginia delegation, her home being in Alexandria. She pledged her personal financial support to the association at that time and in February of this year presided at a memorial meeting held by Suffragists in Washington in honor of Susan B. Anthony. At present Mrs. Barrett, as president of the National (American) Council of Women, is attending the International Council of Women at Rome.

Mrs Barrett, a Suffragist, is certainly a woman of widely different associations and interests. She, like many others, who advocate votes for women as a basic principle, counts among her fellow-workers in civic and philanthropic matters, friends who stand with her and those who differ with her on the question of woman suffrage. She is a fine type of twentieth century woman, trained for the vote by her experience as a mother, by her study as a physician, by her broad spirit of tolerance and co-operation with all who work with her for a better America.

As the Woman's Journal of May 23 says, "One of the rules of the International Council of Women is that nothing shall be included among the aims of the international unless it can be endorsed unanimously. Woman suffrage is one of the few principles that have secured the unanimous endorsement of the representatives from these many societies of twenty-two different nations, and of the most varied objects. Among the other principles endorsed by the organized womanhood of the world are international peace and the elimination of commercialized vice." The unanimous endorsement by the international council is very significant—showing as it does that intelligent organized womanhood is calmly asking of a civilized world "Why not votes for women?" And the women of the United States are asking "Why not?" of our great Republic. Why not in the name of consistency and common sense enfranchise the other half of the people?

In the anti-suffrage supplement of Saturday's Press we read this appeal to the voters: "Do you care to see private property abolished? Do you think that the marriage ceremony is useless and ridiculous? Do you wish to have it done away with for a mutual understanding to be broken at the will of either party? If you want these things, then work for woman suffrage with the Socialists." The writer (G. M.) should recognize that a few of the most radical Socialists among the Suffragists are responsible for the above views. He should remember that when woman suffrage comes to pass the anti-suffragists will have the privilege of voting. In short all women will be possessors of the ballot, and the great mass of conservative women, together with the conservative men, will steady the Ship of State and guide it into safe harbor. The ideal of the Suffragist is simply this: That all men and all women, conservative and radical alike should have an opportunity to guide their destinies. This, we take it, is popular government.

AGAINST MEASURE

which they regard as compromising with evil. They do not believe in the Plainfield policy of highly restricted license, because they believe in fighting all kinds of license, tooth and nail.

"Some of them went so far as to say that they would like to see the Plainfield policy swept away, the sooner the better, by a local vote of the people, even though it meant a defeat for prohibition, and a victory for license, and perhaps a large increase in the number of saloons for a few years; because they believe that in the long run prohibition would win out. In short, they don't believe in the Plainfield policy; and they don't believe in any ordinance which aims solely to define it clearly and make it automatic, because they fear the people will be lullel into a condition of lazy contentment with a plan which is a compromise.

"They believe compromise on the liquor question to be wrong; they believe high license to be wrong, and they don't want the people of Plainfield to rest satisfied with our policy of restriction. They want to fight and to agitate all the time. I believe I am not overstating their position, and I never have any quarrel with the radical prohibitionist who from conscientious motives will not compromise. I simply do not agree with him. To my mind a question on which clean, honest men differ so much, must be a practical question to be handled in a practical way.

"A number of gentlemen, though not a majority, expressed confidence in the Plainfield policy and in my ordinance which aims to define it and safeguard it. These gentlemen were also prohibitionists, sa far as I know. But while they prefer prohibition to their support to any movement which aims at bettering conditions. I believe the Plainfield policy at present has the support of an overwhelming majority of our best citizens."

Otto Linke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, was among those who engaged in the discussion, taking exception to the inference that there is now a monopoly of the wholesale business in Plainfield. He said he did not see how there could be a monopoly, when the Eastern Bottling Company is engaged in business here and that concern is privileged to handle the same kind of liquors sold by his father.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is a New York autoist allowed to drive his car into New Jersey without first securing a car license for this State?—L. H. P.

Answer—A fifteen-day limit is allowed each autoist. This means that a New York car owner can bring his car into this State and keep it here for a total of fifteen days during the year without taking out a New Jersey car license.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly inform me what benefits are to be derived, or what lesson is to be learned from the reading of the Sir Roger de Coverly papers? Also, what class of readers generally resort to such literature?—H. S. O.

Answer—Sir Roger de Coverly papers are a fine example of English writings of the period in which they were printed. They are literature, and are as valuable as other pieces of literature, such as the writings of Scott, Shakespeare and other famous authors. The papers also have a historical value, as they tell of men and conditions of that time.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where is the fastest railroad and what time does it make?—V. N. F.

Answer—The fastest time ever made on a railroad was on an electrically operated road from Berlin to Zossen, Germany. The time was 134 miles an hour and the engineer was Charles A. Mudge, of Williamsport, Pa. This time had to be cut down a great deal because it was found no roadbed could be built that would stand the strain of trains running at that speed. The record long distance run was made on the Burlington route in the West. The time for fifteen miles was at 99 miles an hour. A regular train on the Northern Railroad in France runs 96 miles in 93 minutes.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is swimming allowed in the lake at upper Watchung?—N. S.

Answer—You will have to specify which one of the string of lakes you mean. Some are used for cutting ice and swimming is prohibited in these.

OFF TO FLYING START.

Versailles, May 27.—The American golfers got off to a flying start in the playing of the French amateur golf championship over the links of the La Boulie Golf Club yesterday. Five of them reached the third round, while four were eliminated and one scratched. Francis Ouimet, the American open champion, and Jerome D. Travers, the American amateur champion, reached the third round, as did Henry J. Topping of the Greenwich Country Club and Frederick Herreshoff, of New York. W. Bowers of La Boulie was the other American to advance to the third stage.

MRS. STOCKTON OUT OF "MET" TOURNEY

Eliminated in First Round of Match Play at Essex Co. Country Club.

Favorites came through the first round of match competition of the women's metropolitan golf championship tournament yesterday over the links of the Essex County Country Club. Miss Lillian B. Hyde, the medal winner, had little trouble in disposing of Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of Plainfield, and Miss Marion Hollins, of Westbrook, holder of the title, defeated Mrs. A. B. Holden, of the home club, 5 up and 2 to play. No match in any of the five divisions went beyond the eighteenth green.

Both Miss Hyde and Miss Hollins had difficulty with their putting. On the fifth hole Miss Hyde drove to the edge of the green, while Mrs. Stockton was twice bunkered, yet Mrs. Stockton won the hole in 5 to 6. Mrs. Stockton was 2 up there, but by the time the eighth was reached the Plainfield woman had developed a special fondness for traps and was 2 down. It was the beginning of the end.

BOXING BILL REPORTED.

Boston, May 27.—The bill to legalize boxing bouts under the supervision of a State Athletic Commission was adversely reported by the Ways and Means Committee of the House yesterday. The measure was reported favorably by the Legislative Committee on Social Welfare two weeks ago.

LEAGUERS CORRAL DUNELLEN'S STAR

Eddie Hannon, First Baseman, Left This Afternoon for Gloversville.

DEBUT IN FAST CIRCLES

Has Played With Minor Teams in and About Dunellen—Formerly of the St. Joseph's Team in Bound Brook.

Eddie Hannon's playing against Plainfield as first baseman for the Dunellen ball nine on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, brought the youngster to the attention of a league scout who attended the contest and yesterday Hannon signed articles to play for the Gloversville team. The youth was picked up by Manager Jimmy Montross, of the Dunellen aggregation, at the opening of the present season and although he has performed in but one contest for the Dunellenites his loss will be keenly felt as his work in the opener was of the sensational variety and he was counted on as a mainstay around the first corner by Montross.

Born and bred on the sand lots of Dunellen Hannon played the initial corner for a number of minor teams during his boyhood days and for several seasons past has been a star performer in the St. Joseph's lineup, of Bound Brook. He is well known to Dunellen and Bound Brook baseball enthusiasts and enters fast company with the best wishes of all for his future success. He is a natural hitter and clever fielder and although young in years his ability is expected to land him a permanent job in the Gloversville lineup.

He left this afternoon for the new club and will work in four games a week, the first being played tomorrow afternoon. Although Gloversville is on the circuit of a minor league in upper New York State the advantages offered a pitcher at that place are far greater than those in the East and Hannon will have a great deal better chance of rising in that place than in the Skeeter State.

MANY ENTRIES FOR ANNUAL FLEMINGTON HORSE RACES

Flemington, May 27—The Flemington Fair and Carnival Association will hold several important races at the fair grounds Decoration Day. In addition to the four racing events scheduled, a match race will be raced. The horses matched are Onward Patch, by Dan Patch, owned by T. J. Conners, of Newark, and E. B. Babcock's Prince B.

Onward Patch will be driven by W. R. Young, of Hillside Stock Farm, Lebanon, who has the horse in charge. Prince B. will be driven by Mr. Kline, of the same town. Much interest is being manifested in this race, and the opinion is very much divided as to which of the steeds will win.

The entries for the regular events have closed, and enough have been received to insure a good afternoon's sport. The classes are for the 2:20 trot and 2:16 pace, 2:25 trot, free-for-all trot and pace, and a 2:25 class for horses owned in Hunterdon and adoining counties. The Flemington Concert Band will furnish music during the races.

WOLGAST—RIVERS MATCHED.

Los Angeles, May 27.—Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers will meet at Vernon Arena on July 4, it was announced here yesterday. Wolgast wired his acceptance from Milwaukee. The terms of the match were not made public.

CHAMPION SHADED.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, earned a decision on points over Willie Ritchie, the title holder, in a ten-round bout here tonight. The Chicago lad had Willie in decidedly bad shape at the end, both eyes being nearly closed. Because of the heat the attendance was far below what had been expected, and Tom Andrews, the promoter, lost several hundred dollars.

AFTER AMERICAN CYCLE TITLE.

Newark, N. J., May 27.—Walter Rutt, the german cyclist, who holds the world's championship title, will go after the American championship in the sport, and to that end today signed a contract to remain in this country for the entire season. This means that Rutt will not defend his world's title at Copenhagen early in August. He wants to race Frank L. Kramer, American champion for thirteen years, for the honors.

RACING SEASON OPENS AT BELMONT.

Racing, revived a year ago, was re-established on a firm basis at Belmont park when 15,000 persons saw the four-year-old Buskin win the Metropolitan handicap at one mile from a high class field of eleven, coming over the finish line five lengths in front of the three-year-old Figinny. Then came the popular favorite Rock View, carrying the colors of August Belmont into third place.

JACK MARTIN HAS WON REGULAR JOB

Frank Bruggy, Another Plainfielder, is Leading Hitter of New England League.

Jack Martin has apparently landed a permanent berth on the Boston National League Club, and in view of this fact is putting on full steam to retain the third base job. Three hits went to his credit in Monday's game and yesterday he came through with another. His fielding of late has been of the top notch variety and those who know say that Charlie Deal will have the time of his life trying to snatch his former position from the Plainfield youth.

By increasing his batting average from .288 to .352 during the past week Frank Bruggy, former Plainfield and Bound Brook player, has created quite a stir in Lawrence, where he is performing with the New England League aggregation. He is at present leading the league in hitting and has made more hits than any other man on the Lawrence team, nineteen in all.

Flick Luyster, another former Plainfield player, has tied Bruggy for scoring honors, each having pulled twelve runs across the platter. In fielding Bruggy has an average of .926. He has stolen seven bases, chalked up five doubles and is credited with a homer and a triple.

The veteran Luyster continues to show his old time form both in the field and at the bat. His batting average is .246 and his fielding mark is .960. Flick has made sixteen hits which include four doubles, a tripe and a homer.

Carlstrom continues to be the sensation of the Buffalo team in the International League race. He is a top-notcher in the fielding department and one of the team's most reliable hitters.

Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood boy with the York team of the Tri-State League, was credited with a double and a single in yesterday's 10 to 7 defeat at the hands of the Trenton aggregation. He also handled one putout and two assists.

"Rube" Oldring, a product of Plainfield's sand lots, continues to be the star of Connie Mack's Athletics. In Monday's game against St. Louis he cracked a single, a triple and a homer out of three times at bat. An average of 1,000 per cent. is pretty good for a veteran like "Rube."

ROD AND REEL

Perch, catfish and eels can be caught in Wequahic Lake and Branch Brook Lake. They will be good places to fish the morning of Decoration Day.

Crabs are scarce, but there is still time for them to show in the waters of Middlesex and Monmouth counties. We had two good years, and seem to be due for another, although it might be late. The crabs got fooled early in the spring and came out of the mud during a warm spell and were taken unawares by the cold snap that froze them fast in the ice.

Fishermen must remember that bait is very scarce and that it must be obtained at home. This is especially true in fresh water fishing. Live minnows will be scarcer than pickerel during the week-end.

Saturday and Sunday will be the great fishing days for thousands of fishermen. Decoration Day is one day of the year when the fresh water fishermen go out into the country and work the streams for trout, perch, catfish and eels, and their salt water brethren go out to sea, where a dozen different kinds of fish are biting. Few there are who try the bays and their tributaries for flounders and eels, and some will try for weakfish, but there is very little chance of any being caught that day. The surf fishermen will enjoy themselves getting wet in the surf and catching kingfish, striped bass and fluke, as all these have been taken this week between Townsend's Inlet and Ocean City, and they will be along Belmar and Asbury Park by Saturday. Pier fishing will attract still others, who like to feel a solid board under their feet while pulling in big blackfish and whiting.

"Fish are very scarce," said a dealer the other day and, with the same breath, he admitted that he had made a mistake four years ago when he said that fish would never be scarce along the Jersey coast. Ten years ago the fish league was batting close to the four hundred mark, and our friend, the dealer, thought they would never have a slump. Last year they dropped below the two hundred mark, and this year the shad members failed to make a hit and went back to the bushes. Bluefish are now fighting with weakfish for last place, according to reports from the South, which is tough news for the scouts who have been patiently waiting for a showing. Five years ago, about this time of the year, we received reports stating that two hundred bushel of weaks and fifty bushel of blue were caught in a certain net, but yesterday we were informed that one hundred and fifty pounds had been taken. A drop in the average from bushels to pounds is enough to bench the weaks for life, but what of the blue? Few, indeed, have been caught in Jersey waters this spring, but if rooting will do any good, there will be a great many fishermen on the job.

MANY ATHLETES WILL TAKE PART IN GAMES

Parker Field Meet Promises to Set a Precedent for Central N. J. Activities.

While in New York Sunday afternoon competing in the annual athletic games of the New York postoffice clerks, Jack Fritts, of this city, made a canvas of the talent represented at the Celtic Park event and secured the promise of a number of country famous athletes to appear on Parker Field, Independence Day, in the meet being planned by George W. Wriston, the local playground supervisor.

Entries of four New York cracks have been turned in to date and a team from the Pastime A. C. will take a prominent part. Miles McCue, the noted runner; Oswald Gibbons, of the New York A. C.; Willie Weber, of Elizabeth; Platt Adams, America's most famous all around performer, and Wesley Ashmead, are among those entered. Many New Brunswick athletes are planning to appear in Plainfield and a majority of the Central New Jersey towns will be represented.

The promoter in charge of the event announced Monday that he has secured silver loving cups as first, second and third prizes in each of the events and there will also be a fine array of special awards for the competitors to strive for. The Board of Trade has purchased a monster trophy. The Ritz cup is on exhibition in the company's window on West Front street.

Gill and Cole also suffered a double slam at the hands of Dodwell and Apgar aggregation, which was later downed in similar fashion by Margentino and Voorhees.

MEN'S HANDICAP DOUBLES ON PARK CLUB'S COURT

A men's handicap tennis doubles tournament will be held at the Park Club, Decoration Day, competition starting promptly at 10 o'clock. Entries will close at 10 o'clock Friday morning with Charles Lyman, 76 Washington avenue, or the stewart of the club. Prizes have been offered in this event and will be awarded to the winners.

A special holiday men's handicap singles with prizes for the winner and runner-up has been arranged for July 4, and on September 7 the men's handicap doubles title will be decided with prizes for the winners. A number of inter-club matches are in progress of arrangement and a season of interesting competition is promised to members. The tournament players will be divided into two classes, scratch and handicap, the winners to play in the finals.

ARTHUR ARMSTRONG HOME.

Arthur Armstrong, the Rahway youngster, who reported to Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, at Philadelphia last Friday, has returned to his home with his head full of instructions. Mack has mapped out a regular course of training which the Rahway youngster will follow during the summer months and he will return to Philadelphia in the fall when he will be given a real try-out. The Athletic boss is said to be satisfied with the curves and pitching form displayed by Armstrong.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Moire and silk poplin as well as fine serge and gabardine are very much favored for one-piece dresses, whether for afternoon or for general wear. A little later, when we discard our heavy wraps, a frock of this description will be found very convenient for street wear, shopping, afternoon teas, etc. This design, number 8213, shows a blouse in drop shoulder style with the back extending over the front in raglan effect, a high wired collar, a full length sleeve which may be cut off at elbow length if preferred and a two-piece skirt slightly draped in front and showing just a suggestion of fullness at the waist line in back. To make this dress in size 36, 5¾ yards of 36-inch or 5 yards of 42-inch material will be required. These silks average from 40 to 42 inches in width and are priced from 75 cents a yard and up. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 34 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CAULIFLOWER COOKERY.

AT this time of the year cauliflower may be bought everywhere, and suggestions for cooking it are in order. Cauliflower chopped fine with a knife and beaten with the egg for an omelet makes a very good hot day dish, and any of the vegetable left over may be used for this purpose.

Dipped In Egg.

Fried Cauliflower.—Boiled cauliflower may be dipped in egg simply and then fried, or it may be dipped in a thin frying batter, or yet again in a real fritter batter.

Cauliflower In Milk.—Cleanse and blanch a compact cauliflower by boiling it in salted water for about five minutes and then boil it in milk (head downward). Remove as soon as it is tender and drain it thoroughly. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and stir into it a little flour; then moisten it with some of the milk in which the cauliflower was cooked. Stir the sauce until it is smooth and thick, season it with salt and pepper and add a little grated Parmesan cheese and a few drops of lemon juice and strain it over the cauliflower.

Cauliflower In Sauce.

Cauliflower and Tomato Sauce.—Boil a fresh cauliflower; then drain it carefully, sprinkle with white pepper and place on a hot dish. Pour over it a cupful of tomato sauce, sprinkle with breadcrumbs browned in butter and add a squeeze of lemon juice and a dash of pepper and a quarter of a cupful of grated cheese. Place in the oven until very hot.

Cauliflower In White Sauce.—Line a well buttered deep baking dish with a potato puree, the vessel being first dusted with browned breadcrumbs; then fill up with the following mixture: Make a good white sauce and put into it the flower of a well boiled cauliflower broken into pieces. Season to taste; then place a layer of sliced tomatoes, adding a little pepper and salt; then another layer of cauliflower and some hard boiled egg chopped and repeat until the tin is full. Cover with a top of potato puree and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Turn out and serve with or without gravy.

The Sparks Enjoy Building Castles.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story The Sparks Told.

IT had been quite chilly for a few days and not so much like spring. Daddy thought it would be suitable to tell Jack and Evelyn a story about something warm.

The children were both sitting in front of the fire in their room when he came in.

"I think I will have to tell you this evening the story the fireplace sparks told once to two little children like you who were sitting in front of the fire," daddy began.

"The sparks knew that the children often wondered if they hadn't some story to tell, as they danced and played about, having such a good time. And, sure enough, the fireplace sparks began to talk one evening.

"'You think we have such a good time,' they said, 'and we certainly do. But you needn't think that when we jump out on the rug and when your daddy quickly steps on us we enjoy that. It is always a big mistake when any of the sparks fly out, for we have such a good time within the fire.

"'You see, we can play all sorts of games. We play tag. I am sure you have often watched us play that, haven't you? We play blind man's buff. And the way you can tell we are playing that is by the colors. When one part of the fire looks as if it were going out and the other part is full of bright flames, then you may know that it is blind man's buff that we are playing, for the dull corner is the blind man, who is groping around, and we are the sparks that fly where he can't reach us.

"'Then we play hide and go seek. And the way you can know we are playing this game is by watching the sparks in the fireplace. We all cackle and make such a lot of noise when we find each other in this game that there really is no mistaking it, and, of course, as we go about the sparks fly in all directions. It is in this game that we often fly out on the floor by mistake. Then we are stamped on and are out of the game.

"'Perhaps what we enjoy above all things is to make castles and palaces and houses. We never want to keep them long, for we are so full of ideas that we no sooner get one perfectly beautiful palace built than we think of another kind we can build.

"'We think that maybe we have not put enough courtyard to our last palace and that the queen of the palace will not be satisfied. So we start all over again and build an entirely new one.

"'Then on a cool spring evening, of which there are many, we give great pleasure to all who sit around us. In the autumn we are delightful, you will admit, and so we think we are useful and beautiful. In short, we think very well of ourselves, but then you know you don't mind that, as you will admit you like us.'"

THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

By Edward Everett Hale

EDWARD EVERETT HALE

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Mary Roberts Rinehart and Owen Johnson was "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale. His works are published by Little, Brown & Co.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

PART I.

PHILIP NOLAN was as fine a young officer as there was in the "Legion of the West," as the western division of our army was then called. When Aaron Burr made his first dashing expedition down to New Orleans in 1805 at Fort Massac or somewhere above on the river he met, as the devil would have it, this gay, dashing, bright young fellow at some dinner party, I think. Burr marked him, talked to him, walked with him, took him a day or two's voyage in his flatboat and, in short, fascinated him. For the next year barrack life was very tame to poor Nolan. He occasionally availed of the permission the great man had given him to write to him. The other boys in the garrison sneered at him because he sacrificed in this unrequited affection for a politician the time which they devoted to monongahela, sledge and high-low-jack. Bourbon, euchre and poker were still unknown. But one day Nolan had his revenge. This time Burr came down the river not as an attorney seeking a place for his office, but as a disguised conqueror. It was rumored that he had an army behind him and an empire before him. It was a great day—his arrival—to poor Nolan. Burr had not been at the fort an hour before he sent for him. That evening he asked Nolan to take him out in his skiff to show him a canebrake or a cottonwood tree, as he said—really to seduce him—and by the time the sail was over Nolan was enlisted body and soul. From that time, though he did not yet know it, he lived as "a man without a country."

What Burr meant to do I know no more than you, dear reader. It is none of our business just now. Only when the grand catastrophe came some of the lesser fry in that distant Mississippi valley to while away the monotony of the summer at Fort Adams got up for spectacles a string of court martials on the officers there. One and another of the colonels and majors were tried, and, to fill out the list, little Nolan, against whom, heaven knows, there was evidence enough—that he was sick of the service, had been willing to be false to it and would have obeyed any order to march anywhither with any one who would follow him had the order only been signed. "By command of His Exc. A. Burr." The courts dragged on. The big flies escaped—rightly for all I know. Nolan was proved guilty enough as I say, yet you and I would never have heard of him, reader, but that, when the president of the court asked him at the close whether he wished to say anything to show that he had always been faithful to the United States he cried out in a fit of frenzy:

"D— the United States! I wish I may never hear of the United States again!"

I suppose he did not know how the words shocked old Colonel Morgan, who was holding the court. Nolan had grown up in the west of those days in the midst of "Spanish plot," "Orleans plot" and all the rest. He had been educated on a plantation where the finest company was a Spanish officer or a French merchant from Orleans. His education, such as it was, had been perfected in commercial expeditions to Vera Cruz and I think he told me his father once hired an Englishman to be a private tutor for a winter on the plantation. He had spent half his youth with an older brother hunting horses in Texas, and, in a word, to him "United States" was scarcely a reality. Yet he had been fed by "United States" for all the years since he had been in the army. He had sworn on his faith as a Christian to be true to "United States." It was "United States" which gave him the uniform he wore and the sword by his side. I do not excuse Nolan. I only explain to the reader why he damned his country and wished he might never hear her name again.

He never did hear her name but once again. From that moment, Sept. 23, 1807, till the day he died, May 11, 1863, he never heard her name again. For that half century and more he was a man without a country.

Old Morgan, as I said, was terribly shocked. He called the court into his private room and returned in fifteen minutes with a face like a sheet, to say:

"Prisoner, hear the sentence of the court. The court decides, subject to the approval of the president, that you never hear the name of the United States again."

Nolan laughed. But nobody else laughed. Old Morgan was too solemn, and the whole room was hushed dead as night for a minute. Even Nolan lost his swagger in a moment. Then Morgan added: "Mr. Marshal, take the prisoner to Orleans in an armed boat and deliver him to the naval commander there."

The marshal gave his orders, and the prisoner was taken out of court.

"Mr. Marshal," continued old Morgan, "see that no one mentions the United States to the prisoner. Mr. Marshal, make my respects to Lieutenant Mitchell at Orleans and request him to order that no one shall mention the United States to the prisoner while he is on board ship. You will receive your written orders from the officer on duty here this evening. The court is adjourned without day."

I have always supposed that Colonel Morgan himself took the proceedings of the court to Washington city and explained them to Mr. Jefferson. Certain it is that the president approved them—certain, that is, if I may believe the men who say they have seen his signature. Before the Nautilus got round from New Orleans to the northern Atlantic coast with the prisoner on board the sentence had been approved, and he was a man without a country.

When I was second officer of the Intrepid some thirty years after I saw the original paper of instructions:

Washington (with the date, which must have been late in 1807).

Sir—You will receive from Lt. Neale the person of Philip Nolan, late a lieutenant in the United States army.

This person on his trial by court martial expressed with an oath the wish that he might never hear of the United States again.

The court sentenced him to have his wish fulfilled.

For the present the execution of the order is intrusted by the president to this department.

You will take the prisoner on board your ship and keep him there with such precautions as shall prevent his escape.

You will provide him with such quarters, rations and clothing as would be proper for an officer of his late rank if he were a passenger on your vessel on the business of his government.

The gentlemen on board will make any arrangements agreeable to themselves regarding his society. He is to be exposed to no indignity of any kind, nor is he ever unnecessarily to be reminded that he is a prisoner.

But under no circumstances is he ever to hear of his country or to see any information regarding it, and you will especially caution all the officers under your command to take care that, in the various indulgences which may be granted, this rule, in which his punishment is involved, shall not be broken.

It is the intention of the government that he shall never again see the country which he has disowned. Before the end of your cruise you will receive orders which will give effect to this intention.

Resp'y yours, W. SOUTHARD,
For the Secretary of the Navy.

I suppose the commander of the Levant has it today as his authority for keeping this man in his mild custody.

The rule adopted on board the ships on which I have met "The Man Without a Country" was, I think, transmitted from the beginning. No mess liked to have him permanently, because his presence cut off all talk of home or of the prospect of return, of politics or letters, of peace or of war—cut off more than half the talk men like to have at sea. But it was always thought too hard that he should never meet the rest of us, except to touch hats, and we finally sank into one system. He was not permitted to talk with the men unless an officer was by. With officers he had unrestrained intercourse, as far as they and he chose. But he grew shy, though he had favorites. I was one. Then the captain always asked him to dinner on Monday. Every mess in succession took up the invitation in its turn. According to the size of the ship, you had him at your mess more or less often at dinner. His breakfast he ate in his own stateroom—he always had a stateroom—which was where a sentinel or somebody on the watch could see the door. And whatever else he ate or drank he ate or drank alone. Sometimes, when the marines or sailors had any special jollification, they were permitted to invite "Plain Buttons," as they called him. They called him "Plain Buttons" because, while he always chose to wear a regulation army uniform, he was not permitted to wear the army button, for the reason that it bore either the initials or the insignia of the country he had disowned.

I remember soon after I joined the navy. Some one told the system which was adopted from the first about his books and other reading. As he was almost never permitted to go on shore, even though the vessel lay in port for months, his time at the best hung heavy, and everybody was permitted to lend him books if they were not published in America and made no allusion to it. He had almost all the foreign papers that came into the ship sooner or later, only somebody must go over them first and cut out any advertisement or stray paragraph that alluded to America. Phillips told me a story of something which happened at the Cape of Good Hope on Nolan's first voyage, and it is the only thing I ever knew of that voyage. Phillips had borrowed a lot of English books from an officer, which in those days, as indeed in these, was quite a windfall. Among them, as the devil would order, was the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," which they had all of them heard of, but which most of them had never seen. I think it could not have been published long. Well, nobody thought there could be any risk of anything national in that, so Nolan was permitted to join the circle one afternoon when a lot of them sat on deck smoking and reading aloud. Nolan took the book and read to the others, and he read very well, as I know. Nobody in the circle knew a line of the poem, only it was all magic and border chivalry and was 10,000 years ago. Poor Nolan read steadily through the fifth canto, stopped a minute and drank something and then began, without a thought of what was coming:

"Breathes there the man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
"This is my own, my native land?"

Then they all saw something was to pay, but he expected to get through, I suppose, turned a little pale, but plunged on:

"Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand?
If such there breathe, go, mark him well."

By this time the men were all beside themselves, wishing there was any way to make him turn over two pages, but he had not quite presence of mind for that. He gagged a little, colored crimson and staggered on:

"For him no minstrel raptures swell.
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim,
Despite these titles, power and pelf,
The wretch, concentrated all in self"—

And here the poor fellow choked, could not go on, but started up, swung the book into the sea, vanished into his stateroom, "and, by Jove," said Phillips, "we did not see him for two months again. And I had to make up some beggarly story to that English surgeon why I did not return his Walter Scott to him."

That story shows about the time when Nolan's braggadocio must have broken down. At first they said he took a very high tone, considered his imprisonment a mere farce, affected to enjoy the voyage, and all that, but Phillips said that after he came out of his stateroom he never was the same man again. He never read aloud again unless it was the Bible or Shakespeare or something else he was sure of. He was always shy afterward when I knew him—very seldom spoke unless he was spoken to, except to a very few friends. He lighted up occasionally, but generally he had the nervous, tired look of a heart wounded man.

Nolan's transfer at sea to the Warren was the first of some twenty such transfers, which brought him sooner or later into half our best vessels, but which kept him all his life at least some hundred miles from the country he had hoped he might never hear of again.

It may have been on that second cruise—it was once when he was up the Mediterranean—that Mrs. Graff, the celebrated southern beauty of those days, danced with him. They had been a long time in the bay of Naples, and the officers were very intimate in the English fleet, and there had been great festivities, and our men thought they must give a great ball on board the ship. They wanted to use Nolan's stateroom for something, and they hated to do it without asking him to the ball, so the captain said they might ask him if they would be responsible that he did not talk with the wrong people, "who would give him intelligence." For ladies they had the family of the American consul, one or two travelers who had ventured so far and a nice bevy of English girls and matrons, perhaps Lady Hamilton herself.

As the dancing went on, Nolan and our fellows all got at ease, as I said—so much so that it seemed quite natural for him to bow to that splendid Mrs. Graff and say:

"I hope you have not forgotten me, Miss Rutledge. Shall I have the honor of dancing?"

He did it so quickly that Shubrick, who was by him, could not hinder him. She laughed and said:

"I am not Miss Rutledge any longer, Mr. Nolan, but I will dance all the same," just nodded to Shubrick as if to say he must leave Mr. Nolan to her and led him off to the place where the dance was forming.

Nolan thought he had got his chance. He had known her at Philadelphia, and at other places had met her and this was a godsend. He said boldly—a little pale, she said, as she told me the story years after:

"And what do you hear from home, Mrs. Graff?"

And that splendid creature looked through him. Jove! how she must have looked through him! "Home!! Mr. Nolan!!! I thought you were the man who never wanted to hear of home again!" And she walked directly up the deck to her husband and left poor Nolan alone, as he always was. He did not dance again.

A happier story than either of these I have told is of the war. In one of the great frigate duels with the English, in which the navy was really baptized, it happened that a round shot from the enemy entered one of our ports square and took right down the officer of the gun himself and almost every man of the gun's crew. As the surgeon's people were carrying off the bodies there appeared Nolan in his shirt sleeves, with the rammer in his hand, and, just as if he had been the officer, told them off with authority who should go to the cockpit with the wounded men, who should stay with him, perfectly cheery and with that way which makes men feel sure all is right and is going to be right. And he finished loading the gun with his own hands, aimed it and bade the men fire. And there he stayed, captain of that gun, keeping those fellows in spirits till the enemy struck. The captain walked forward by way of encouraging the men, and Nolan touched his hat and said:

"I am showing them how we do this in the artillery, sir."

And this is a part of the story where all the legends agree—that the commodore said:

"I see you do, and I thank you, sir, and I shall never forget this day, sir, and you never shall, sir."

And after the whole thing was over and he had the Englishman's sword in the midst of the state and ceremony of the quarterdeck he said:

"Where is Mr. Nolan? Ask Mr. Nolan to come here."

And when Nolan came the captain said:

"Mr. Nolan, we are all very grateful to you today. You are one of us today. You will be named in the dispatches."

And then the old man took off his own sword of ceremony and gave it to Nolan and made him put it on. The man told me this who saw it. Nolan cried like a baby, and well he might. He had not worn a sword since that infernal day at Fort Adams.

The captain did mention him in the dispatches. It was always said he asked that he might be pardoned. He wrote a special letter to the secretary of war. But nothing ever came of it. As I said, that was about the time when they began to ignore the whole transaction at Washington.

Miss Elizabeth St. Ives. The guests included close, personal friends of Mr. Coddington, those who have been associated with him in a business and social way for many years, and in the speech-making which followed the excellent dinner, there were many complimentary things said about the guest of the evening.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon was the toastmaster of the evening, and after he had made a few brief remarks explaining the purpose of the dinner, he introduced the several speakers. These included, former Mayor Benjamin Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., for many years a resident of North Plainfield, but now of New York; Corporation Counsel Charles Arthur Reed, for sixteen years a law partner of Mr. Coddington; A. After the different speeches, Mr. Coddington himself, was called upon and he made a happy response in which he thanked those present for all the nice things they had said about him. In all the remarks of the evening Mr. Coddington was the recipient of hearty congratulations and good wishes for a long, prosperous and happy life. The dinner was arranged by a committee of friends of which Hyman Adelberg was chairman, assisted by George J. Tobin, George Andrews and Newton B. Smalley.

Those present were William A. Coddington, Herbert Buxton, Councilman Theodore Martin, Julius Williams, Dr. Elmer Giddes, W. A. Latamore, M. F. Williams, William L. Smalley, A. E. Force, George Johnson, John P. Owens, J. M. Bower, Henry Pedefious, John Lauterette, William N. Runyon, William Newcorn, Charles A. Reed, Fred Ivamy, William R. Townsend, Newton B. Smalley, Robert L. Dundon, George Andrews, George J. Tobin, Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., Charles Fury, William R. Codington, Louis Stott.

Mr. Coddington and Miss St. Ives will be married in New York on Wednesday, June 3, and they will immediately leave on an extended trip, after which they will make their home in Plainfield. Miss St. Ives for the past two years has been the soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, where she has made many friends. Mr. Coddington has been engaged in the practice of law here for many years. He is at present a member of the Union County Board of Taxation.

"WATCHFUL WAITING" FOR THE P. O. PLUM

Senator Martine's Continued Silence Causes Sleepless Nights.

The period of "watchful waiting" is not confined to the army and navy now stationed in the vicinity of Mexico, for there are at least "57" people in Plainfield who are experiencing that self-same thing, and will continue to do so until United States Senator James E. Martine names a successor to Postmaster E. H. Bird. The latest rumor in connection with the political plum is that the Senator's brother, D. W. Martine, is to draw the lucky prize.

When interviewed on the subject, today, Mr. Martine admitted that he had heard the rumor, but at once stamped it only as a "rumor," and he would not even say that he would accept the job if offered to him.

It was plainly evident that Mr. Martine would be the most surprised man in the world if he should receive the appointment.

While the concensus of opinion seems to be that Alvin E. Hoagland will get the office, friends of Patrick J. Reville are still working in his behalf and have been very busy circulating a petition to which a large number of signatures have been secured. The Plainfield Democratic Club even went so far as to adopt resolutions condemning the action of the postal authorities in sustaining the charges against Mr. Reville.

What is perhaps, more puzzling than anything else to those interested in the appointment is the noncommittal attitude of Senator Martine. He has turned a deaf ear to every inquirer on the subject. Even his brother has not been able to gain the slightest hint as to what he is likely to do, or even thinks, and he has given up trying. Direct questions are evaded with no answer at all. Just why there should be so much secrecy maintained is more than anyone has as yet been able to understand. In the meantime the faithful ones are keeping up a "watchful waiting" hoping that something will happen sooner or later.

SNAKE VISITS CHURCH ONLY TO BE EJECTED

Charles Snowden's Appearance on the Scene Prevents a Miniature Riot.

Disturbed by the singing in the Wilson Memorial chapel in Watchung, Tuesday night, a small snake suddenly made its appearance in the center aisle and, but for the opportune appearance of a native who saw it the reptile would have created a miniature riot in the edifice. Wriggling along the carpeted aisle the snake marched proudly toward the pulpit apparently enchanted by the strains of the music being rendered in connection with the midweek services. Although frightened at first the reptile gradually became accustomed to the voices and organ accompaniment and made its way unhindered up the pathway.

Many there were who saw the reptile in the midst of its maneuvering, but the congregation was composed largely of the fair sex and for a time none ventured to put an end to the innocent creature's explorations. Some women held their breath and others murmured in a terror stricken manner to their companions and those in adjoining pews.

All breathed a sigh of relief, however, when Charles Snowden, a native of the hamlet, appeared on the scene and recognized the snake as the one that has been making its abode for some time in the church yard, apparently preparing itself for its triumphal march down the aisle. Snowden attracted the attention of the creeper and had little trouble in ejecting it as an undesirable. Following this procedure the services were continued and upon assurances that the offender had been placed in solitary confinement, women went to their homes as they had come.

MINSTREL SHOW.

The last of the amateur minstrel shows this season will be held at the Park Club, Tuesday night, June 12, under the auspices of the Warren Athletic Club. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used in defraying the expenses of the baseball team during the coming season. Rehearsals have been held for several weeks and a production of merit is expected from the young men.

HONOR GUARD FOR G. A. R. VETERANS

Boy Scouts Will Act as An Escort in Decoration Day Parade.

ORDERS ARE ISSUED

Complete Information Regarding Regulations Set Forth by Scout Commissioner—Demonstration to Be An Imposing Event.

General orders were issued today by Commissioner Allen E. Beals, through Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., to leaders of Boy Scout patrols in the Plainfield jurisdiction governing their movements on Decoration Day when they will serve as a guard of honor to the G. A. R. veterans.

Leaders of all patrols will assemble their scouts at the rear of the First Presbyterian church, West Front street, opposite Church street, at 8:30 Saturday morning. Leaders will see that scouts report in full equipment including ponchos, haversacks, canteens, red bandana handkerchiefs about their necks and with staffs for use in forming cordons at the cemeteries.

Leaders will report for inspection to Assistant Scoutmasters of their respective troops. Patrols will then be turned over by Scoutmasters to Commissioner as General Scout Commander who will assign officers of march. The Insignia officer detailed as mounted aid to the Commandant of the G. A. R. division will be Charles Eaton, Troop 5. Line officers will be Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., as First Assistant Scout Master Wendell C. Glover, Troop 5; Third Assistant Scoutmaster W. A. W. Thompson, of Troop 5; Scoutmaster A. E. Sprowl, Troop 11; Scoutmaster Charles R. Bostwick, Troops 9 and 10; Scoutmaster Joseph A. Garner, of Troop 7, and Assistant Scoutmaster Earl Victorson, Troop 12. Marching commands will be issued by the Deputy Commissioner for entire scout column through line officers.

Full fife, drum and bugle corps will report all to be concentrated in one body at head of scout column. American, Troop, patrol, Red Cross flags and honor pennants will be carried in line.

Scout column will move from Scout Headquarters at 9 o'clock, immediately after inspection and a brief address by the Commissioner regarding new rules to be followed by scouts entitled to enjoy the privileges of Camp King, the Plainfield scout training quarters, column will move to point where procession will start, Second street and Central avenue.

The formation of Troops in line will be on a numerical basis as follows: Flags, music, squads; Troop 5, Troop 7, Troop 8; Troops 9 and 10, Troop 11, Troop 12 and Red Cross Patrol, Thomas P. Fitch, leader.

Scouts will bring up the rear of the entire column. At the cemeteries, however, they will march in columns of twos, dividing at point designated by mounted Insignia officer Eaton, and forming a staff cordon around the veterans and soldiery to keep spectators from crowding the veterans during exercises. A flower detail, consisting of Lion, Dear and Tiger patrols of Troop 7 will hold themselves available for aiding the veterans in distributing flowers on graves of their comrades. Cordon scouts will hold their position until summoned to reform into line by bugle call "Assembly," again falling into rear of procession and after the ceremonies at the Plainfield avenue cemetery, scouts will march in a body, none being allowed to drop out of line, to point of disbandment, Central avenue and West 2nd street.

This will end the formal scout activities for the day. Many of the scout patrols plan to repair to their encampments at Camp King in the afternoon, there to officially stake out their claims and to complete the construction of their cabins, signal towers and to make surveys for bridges. The agricultural squads will clear their ground for planting and the engineering division will lay out the drainage and sanitary systems. Supper will be prepared by patrols and in the evening it is planned to have an inter-troop stalking contest. The last scout will leave the camp not later than 8:30.

COMPLETE PEACE PLAN THIS WEEK

That is Expectation at Washington and Niagara Falls as Outcome of Mediation.

PRESIDENT IS PLEASED

He and Secretary Bryan Wearing "Smile That Won't Come Off" Over Mysterious Messages Received Regarding A. B. C. Conference.

(From Central News.)

Washington, May 28.—Complete satisfaction with the progress of the Niagara Falls mediation conference was expressed at the White House today. Both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan declared themselves delighted with the trend of events, and both appeared to be in highly optimistic frame of mind. Neither at the White House nor the State Department could it be learned what news had so raised the spirits of the administration.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 28.—It is not probable that the reports from Washington are correct in which it is rumored that a protocal for the settlement of the Mexican difficulty has been prepared and sent to President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, and is now being considered by them. Only one full conference has been held, that of last Saturday, and no definite proposition was submitted at that time.

The protocol can come only after a full conference of the mediators, Mexicans and Americans. Such will be held this afternoon if nothing occurs to change the plan formed last night.

This morning an attache of the Mexicans said that he should not be surprised if the entire matter were settled today or at least arrangements made for a successful ending of the conferences within a week. On the other hand, it is known definitely that the Americans have no expectation of such a happy result. They expect every question to be carefully and fully considered, both here and at Washington before a settlement and that will consume much time. The Mexicans doubtless would like to reach an agreement with the United States as soon as possible, because then this country would be obliged to support Huerta and become active against Carranza.

The mediators and delegates were wearied this morning from the hard day yesterday. Suarez, subject to car sickness, has hardly recovered from an uncomfortable experience on the train.

Vera Cruz, May 28., (From A. J. Rorke, Central News Correspondent). —"La Opinion" states that Senor Lascurain and Don Luis Wendez are now most prominently mentioned for the Provisional Presidency of Mexico to succeed General Huerta. Both of these men are supporters of the Madero faction in Mexican politics.

Seven Americans, five nuns and a number of Spaniards, French and Germans were upon the refugee train which arrived today from Mexico City. Refugees reported that the Capitol is quiet and that hundreds of volunteers many of whom are government employees are being drilled daily.

Washington, May 28.—Awakening patriotism took a queer turn today when a local Armenian importer of rugs inserted in the morning newspapers the following advertisement:

"We wish to advise all officers stationed in Washington, Fort Myer, Annapolis and Fort Monroe, that in the event of their absence we will store all their Oriental, domestic, Indian and fur rugs absolutely free of charge until their return. We will also pack and forward your rugs to any part of the world when requested."

The importer, whose name is a weird jumble of vowels and consonants, is pessimistic as to the peace outlook, and already has set aside a big part of his warehouse to care for the army and navy household goods.

FUNERAL OF ROBERT HART.

The funeral services of the late Robert Hart, who died Tuesday evening at the Soldiers' Home, Kearney, will be held tomorrow morning from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Burnett, 113 Washington street, at 8:30, and from St. Mary's R. C. church at 9 o'clock, where a high mass of requiem will be offered. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

NO PAPER SATURDAY.

Following its invariable custom there will be no edition of the Daily Press on Saturday, May 30, Decortion Day. 5 26 4

MYSTERIOUS FIRE ENTAILS BIG LOSS

Blaze in Slonim Home Discovered Last Night After Occupants Had Left.

WATER DAMAGE GREAT

Flames Discovered in Butler's Pantry Assume Rapid Headway and Threaten Destruction of Dwelling —Loss Estimated at $6,500.

Smoke and flames issuing from the side of Leo Slonim's house at 11 Prospect place shortly after 9 o'clock last night attracted the attention of neighbors who sent in a telephone call to fire headquarters. When the firemen arrived on the scene the house was a mass of flames and a call was sent in from box 151 bringing out the borough's entire fire fighting corps. The blaze assumed rapid headway and one portion of the structure appeared doomed when the apparatus arrived.

Starting in the butler's pantry on the first floor, the flames ate their way through the walls to the second floor and burned with an intense heat that made the firemen's work difficult. The blaze sent out a dense smoke that completely filled the interior of the house and did much damage to contents that were left untouched by fire and water.

The Slonim family was attending a motion picture entertainment in a West Front street theatre at the time and their home was locked up. To gain entrance the firemen had to cut their way through a door and once inside they were several times beaten back by the clouds of smoke that enveloped the building. Notified of the conflagration Mr. Slonim hurried to the Prospect avenue residence, arriving as the firemen were pouring streams of water on the threatening flames that shot in all directions. Considerable difficulty was experienced by Chief McCullough and his men in holding the fire to the side of the building where it started and considering the start the blaze got before it was discovered the result of their efforts was highly commendable. Water and smoke caused heavy damage to the house and furniture and an estimate furnished by the fire department this morning placed the loss at $6,500.

Mr. Slonim and his wife left the house in charge of a servant at 8 o'clock, and when questioned by her employer she said that she had left the place to go to church at 8:15. The cause of the fire is a mystery, neither the fire authorities nor Mr. Slonim being able to assign a cause.

HARRY GOLDSTEIN TAKES UNTO HIMSELF A BRIDE

Patrons of the West Fourth street trolley line, have just learned the cause of the ever-present smile and buoyant manner that have monopolized the actions of Harry Goldstein, the popular conductor, for the past five months. Somebody passed the word around yesterday that he has been married all that time, but had kept the fact secret. When questioned by a Daily Press reporter, last night, he smiled broader than ever and admitted his guilt.

The present Mrs. Goldstein was formerly Miss Jennie Seidman, of Newark, and the ceremony was performed in this city on December 17 last. The couple are now residing at 80 Chatham street. Mr. Goldstein is one of the best known public service railway men in the city and his many friends are beginning to shower him with belated congratulations.

INTERRUPTED SALE WILL BE CONTINUED TOMORROW

The fair and sale at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney R. Titsworth, at 926 Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, was interrupted by the storm which swept over the city during the middle of the afternoon. In consequence it was decided to continue the sale tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock at the same place.

The proceeds will be given to The Day Nursery, one of the city's most worthy charities. The articles offered for sale have been made by the Misses Dorothy and Stella Butler, Florence Alpaugh, Helen and Marion Titsworth and Helen Patterson, who with Mrs. Titsworth are in charge of the arrangements.

WOMAN WAS VICTIM OF MAN'S FRAME-UP

Mrs. Rabenold Arrested on Warrant Sworn out by Husband.

Chief Kiely, of the local police department, was notified by the chief of the Allentown police yesterday, to apprehend Mrs. Mary Rabenold who had been traced to this city following the swearing out of a warrant by the Allentown authorities. Jesse Rabenold, her husband, had secured a warrant for her arrest on a complaint charging her with a marital infraction and steps had accordingly been taken by the Allentown police to locate the woman.

Investigation brought out the fact that she had been living in this city for some time and was employed here. Chief Kiely had her arrested in accordance with the request of the Pennsylvania chief and she was arraigned in the city court this morning when her husband came here to bring her back. The woman related a story of martial trouble and abuse suffered at the hands of her husband and said that she had left him because of his cruelty. The straightforwardness with which she recited her story appealed to the local chief and upon investigation he found that she had been employed here for some time as a clerk and could secure excellent recommendations from those with whom she has come in contact.

Querried concerning his reasons for swearing out the warrant the husband classed it as a mistake and requested the court to order her back to her former home in his custody. Judge DeMeza, in disposing of the case, scored Rabenold for his action and ordered him out of town at once. Threatened with arrest and apparently resigning himself to his guilt the man made all possible haste to get away from the court room while the case against Mrs. Rabenold was dismissed.

BOARD DISCUSSES NEED OF NEW SCHOOL

Matter Will Be Decided at a Meeting to Be Held June 9.

The immediate need of a new twelve-room school building for the city was informally discussed at a meeting of the Board of School Estimate held at the High School last night. Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Messrs. William S. Tyler, Floyd T. Woodhull and B. VanD. Hedges were present. No action was taken, but it is understood that the board will act definitely on the matter on Tuesday night, June 9.

In view of the fact that Councilmen Leighton Calkins and R. A. Claybrook could not attend last night's meeting, it was decided to adjourn it to June 9, when it is expected that there will be a full meeting. The Board of Education feel very strongly that a decision on the school question should be made by the Board of School Estimate at the earliest possible date. Otherwise it will be impossible to complete the proposed new building in time for its use at the beginning of the school year in the fall of 1915.

JURY'S VERDICT AGAINST BROKAW

BORE AN OLD GRUDGE

Employe of Dunellen Plant the Victim of His Wrath—Figured in Murder of John Rafferty Here Five Years Ago—Was Acquitted.

Clinton Brokaw, of Lincoln, was convicted of atrocious assault with intent to kill by a Middlesex county Petit Jury following a trial before Judge Daly in New Brunswick yesterday. Brokaw fired four shots at John J. Rafferty, an employe of the Levgar Steel Works at Dunellen, near Lincoln on the night of April 14. He will be sentenced in New Brunswick tomorrow.

Testifying yesterday in his own behalf Brokaw stated that he had been drinking on the evening before the alleged crime and had awoke at 5 o'clock the day of the shooting. He said he then finished up a pint of whiskey and after having his breakfast went to Plainfield, had several more drinks, and returned to Lincoln at noon-time, in such shape that he could remember nothing more. Under cross-examination he admitted he remembered putting a pistol in his pocket on the day of the shooting, and explained this by saying that "dogs were so bad that you couldn't put your feet outdoors without running into danger."

John J. Rafferty, the victim, testified that he left his home about 7 o'clock the night of April 14 to go to the grocery store. He saw Brokaw on the other side of the street going in the opposite direction and said that the latter was slightly intoxicated. He declared that he kept his eye on Brokaw, explaining that he was in fear of the man, and when he saw him reach into his trousers' pocket, he fell to the ground and saw three of four flashes from a revolver in Brokaw's hands and heard the reports. There had been no argument, no words spoken.

Mrs. Marion Butler, a witness for the prosecution, testified that she was at the window in her home when she saw the defendant take out a pistol and fire across the street four times. She couldn't say that he had fired at Rafferty, but said that the latter was the only one in the immediate vicinity. Counsel for the defense moved for a direction of the verdict for the defendant on the ground that no intent had been shown, but the court denied this request.

Brokaw was tried for killing Rafferty's father five years ago, being arraigned for murder in the first degree. He secured an acquittal at that time on the ground of self-defense. The State's case rested largely upon the assumption that the defendant had harbored an ill-will against the Rafferty family since the time the elder Rafferty was killed, but Assistant Prosecutor Strickler was able to get the facts of the other shooting before the jury only indirectly.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WILL HOLD RECEPTION IN CLUB

The large auditorium will be given over to dancing, the music for which will be furnished by VanEps' banjo orchestra of four pieces and will be under the personal direction of Mr. VanEps. A large reception committee will act in conjunction with the house committee and an enjoyable evening is guaranteed all those who attend. During the evening refreshments will be served.

Bad Blood Always Has Existed Between Mexico and United States

NEVER since Mexico became an independent republic in 1821 has there been anything except "bad blood" between that nation and the United States. The history of their international intercourse is a continuous round of strained diplomatic relations, border squabbles, wars and warlike demonstrations.

Mexicans today believe Uncle Sam covets an overlordship over their nation. Mexico when it won independence from Spain was twice its present area and equal in size to the United States of that day. Every foot of territory it has lost has gone to the United States. In recent years certain interests in the United States have clamored openly for further annexation—the states of Tamaulipas, Nuevo Leon, Coahuila, Chihuahua, Sonora and Lower California. Thus, Mexicans reason, Uncle Sam, having once halved their nation, seeks to do so again. In their eyes the "gringos" are land hungry, and history for 100 years seems to prove their statements.

After the purchase of Louisiana a picturesque adventure in the eyes of lively Americans was to buy Texas. Mexico refused. At length further colonization was forbidden. Americans, however, continually slipped across the border.

Mexico attempted to collect taxes in Texas by force. Texas, under Sam Houston and Colonel James Bowie, revolted. American youths flocked across the border to their aid.

The massacre of the Alamo aroused Texas. A republic was proclaimed, which the United States soon recognized, other nations following.

Santa Anna, the Mexican president, was captured and agreed to use his influence with the Mexican congress to grant Texas independence, the Texan boundary "not to extend farther than the Rio Grande." But Mexico never surrendered its claim to Texas.

RAW RECRUITS FOR HUERTA'S ARMY.

For nine years Texas remained a republic. Texans and Americans were the same in Mexican eyes. Border warfare continued without interruption. Texans invaded New Mexico in 1841. Raids and attacks by Americans were the rule from Matamoras to the Arkansas.

With affairs in this shape Texas was annexed to the United States. War became inevitable. Texas claimed its boundary was the Rio Grande. Mexico claimed the Rio Nueces. The intervening strip of land was reputedly very valuable.

Take a map of the United States and see for yourself how disastrous to Mexico was that war. Half its lands were taken from it. All of the present California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, nearly all of Arizona and parts of Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma were lost. In 1853 a further slice was taken, known as the Gadsden purchase, and added to Arizona. This was to provide a road to the California gold fields. The United States paid Mexico $10,000,000 for it and demanded as "boot" the cancellation of several million dollars in claims Mexico held against it.

During a revolution in 1859 Uncle Sam again obtained concessions from Mexico—this time a trade route and canal rights across Tehuantepec. President Buchanan asked congress for money to fortify this route. To Mexico's relief the money was refused. In 1867 the United States saved Mexico from becoming a French dependency by ordering Napoleon to remove his troops supporting Maximilian. Mexico was grateful, although now agitators say we did it only because we hoped ultimately to get Mexico ourselves.

This distrust of the United States, which, considering the past, is not altogether unfounded, has been nerving the hand of Huerta in his last stand. New recruits to his army are now very raw recruits, but Huerta is able to gather them in because of their hatred for the "gringos."

WANT NO REPETITION OF SLOCUM DISASTER

Washington, May 28.—Having in mind the General Slocum disaster, Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce, has ordered an immediate inspection of all vessels belonging to the New England Navigation Company, referred to as "tinder boxes" by Charles Mellen in his testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission?

Officials of the company declare that the vessels are in proper condition and that they have been regularly inspected and passed every year.

Captain Henry M. Seeley, supervising inspector at New York, has received the following insructions from Secretary Redfield:

"The secretary directs that you are not to consider whether the construction of the vessels with respect to fire danger complies with any existing laws or regulations, State or national, but that you are to consider solely whether a menace to safety exists. If it does it must be brought frankly to light, that due steps may be taken to safeguard the public.

MRS. PANKHURST FREED.

Six Days In Holloway Leave Militant Very Weak.

London, May 28.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, was again released from Holloway jail under the "cat and mouse" act.

As usual, Mrs. Pankhurst hunger struck immediately upon her rearrest at the gates of Buckingham palace last Friday, and she is said to be very weak. She was taken away by suffragettes to recuperate.

The militant was arrested when she drove toward the palace in a taxicab with the avowed purpose of leading a militant army to harangue the king for the ballot.

Mrs. Pankhurst is under a three year jail sentence for instigating the bomb attack on the country home of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George.

Balloon Drops at Sea.

Swinemuende, Germany, May 28.—Several aeronauts apparently aboard an unidentified balloon which descended to the sea several miles off this place. A boat has been sent to the rescue.

T. R. SHOWS FATIGUE.

Oyster Bay, May 28.—The exertions of the past few days have apparently been a bit too strenuous for Col. Roosevelt in his weakened condition as his face plainly shows traces of fatigue. He also displayed nervousness in his conversation with the newspaper men. It is evident that the Colonel will have to take matters a little more quietly until he fully recovers his strength.

TEACHING PATRIOTISM.

The meaning of July Fourth may be lost in the spontaneous burst of fireworks, the origin of Christmas may be forgotten in the shower of gifts, the purpose of Thanksgiving day may be overlooked in the midst of feasting, the worship of national heroes on the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington may vanish in the busy race of life, but the impression of Memorial Day with its drum beat, its martial music, its tramping veterans, ever kindles anew the smoldering coals of patriotism.

The observation of Decoration Day is a national patriotic privilege.

Decoration Day, dedicated to the veterans of all American wars, and so soon to be observed, is taps for the dead and reveille of the living. It is the call to patriotic thought and consideration. It is more than this, it is the day we teach American patriotism.

No less active than the old soldiers in the observation of Memorial Day, are the school children of Plainfield and every other American community. Exercises conducted in the schools, instill patriotism, and the veterans visit all the schools to aid in the work.

By their very eagerness to shoulder the burdens and their jealous protection of the sacredness of the day, the veterans are teaching patriotism every year with as much effect as when they shouldered guns and marched away to hardships. The children now beside them, bearing flowers or participating in the day's exercises, are learning their greatest lessons in patriotism. By giving them a part in the program, by having them co-operate with the old soldiers, the lesson takes hold upon the future men and women of the nation.

The lesson they are learning is being taught by them to their elders who are wont to forget their patriotism in the rush of material affairs. This is a lesson the present generation should learn; we ourselves must be tutored by the old and the young on Decoration Day, in the principles of patriotism.

HORSE DAY.

Under the auspices of the local Society for the Prevention to Cruelty to Animals, a Horse Tag Day will be held in Plainfield on Monday, to secure funds to carry on the excellent work the organization is doing for the horses hereabouts. As the summer days approach everyone can do a little to make the lives of the animals more comfortable, and the tag day on Monday will draw the attention of thousands of our citizens to the proper treatment of dumb beasts of all kinds.

The Washington Star in a recent issue called attention to a suggestion that a horseman and horse-lover had made, saying "Now that the hot days of summer are drawing near, won't you kindly lend your assistance in an effort to discourage as far as possible the almost universal use of the nose-bag as a means of feeding the work horses of this city? Most of these smothering abominations fit closely around the horse's head, admitting a very inadequate supply of air."

The work horse has more troubles than most men think of. His lunch time is one brief respite in his day of toil. The nosebag is a useful institution in a way but it is not the most comfortable for a horse on a hot day. It may fit too tight, his muzzle may be jammed too far into the oats and other things may happen. All approved nosebags have a little ventilator in them. That helps some, especially if it is turned to the front.

In the streets of Plainfield may often be seen nosebags reversed—put on hind part before, with the ventilator exactly where it should not be. It is also not an unusual thing to see a poor horse standing patiently and abjectly with a nosebag on after having finished his midday oats or shelled corn. This is also a season when horse owners should know whether their animals are overdriven and overloaded and whether they get enough water. Watering troughs are frequent enough so that there ought not to be a thirsty horse in the streets of Plainfield.

Because of the holiday on Saturday, when no edition of the Daily Press will be published, the usual contributed editorial and other Saturday features will appear in tomorrow's Press. The editorial has been written by George P. Mellick, president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, and he will have something to say regarding that splendid institution and its management, which will prove of interest to all readers of the Press.

S. B. HOWE DRAMATIZED P. H. S. CLASS PLAY

"If I were King" has been dramatized by Mr. Howe, formerly of the Plainfield High School, but now of the South Side High School in Newark, and the parts are taken by fourth year classmen exclusively. Nothing has been left undone to make the finished product expected by those affiliated with the class and the coaches and participants in the various roles have put in many sessions of extra work to perfect their parts.

CONAN DOYLE AND WIFE.

English Writer Visits America For First Time In Twenty Years.

Photos by American Press Association.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Lady Doyle were passengers on the Olympic. They are visiting the United States for the first time in twenty years. They will spend a week in New York at the Plaza and will then go to Canada, where they contemplate a camping trip in the wildest part of the Canadian Rockies. On this trip they will be accompanied by a friend of Sir Arthur's, a forester, who was at one time in the British army. William J. Burns, the detective, went down on the revenue cutter to meet the creator of the famous "Sherlock Holmes." He was asked if he was going to give the author some ideas for new stories, but he replied that he expected it would be quite the other way—that Sir Arthur would give him ideas.

BOARD OF HEALTH OFFERS LIMITED SUPPLY OF SEEDS

The "clean-up week" program which was announced by Mayor Percy Hamilton Stewart, last week, is making excellent progress in all sections of the city. Another inducement is being offered to those that are hesitating in caring for the looks of their rear yards.

The Board of Health has made arrangements with United States Senator James E. Martine to forward a supply of garden seeds. A limited supply of these seeds have already been received, and are now ready for distribution to those who may not be able to purchase seeds for themselves. The Board also desires to have it understood that any having seeds with which to supplement this limited supply, the Board would be more than pleased to act as a distributing agent for them.

MINOR LEAGUERS ON LOCAL BALL FIELD

Manager Dorflinger Has Scheduled Star Attraction for Decoration Day.

The attraction at Parker Field, Decoration Day, when the Plainfield team will play the Bronx Union Leaguers will be one of the best of the season. Among the Leaguers will be "Hank" Mathewson, brother of "Christy" Mathewson, who has been with several minor league clubs.

"Whitey" Wonder, who will do the catching, has been with the Utica team of the New York State League. Percy Flynn, who has been with the Petersburg team of the Virginia State League, will also play.

Every player has been with some minor lague team.

Rege, who played center field for Plainfield last Saturday, was formerly a teammate of "Rabbit" Maranville, the Boston National League shortstop, in Springfield, Mass. Rege is a second baseman and will probably play short for the Pets Saturday.

STINE AND TOWNLEY HOME, WILL PLAY IN BROOKLYN

Herbert Stein and George Townley of North Plainfield, students in the Y. M. C. A. Training College at Springfield, Mass., were in town this morning visiting their parents. The two North Plainfield High School graduates are members of the college baseball team which is at present enjoying an eastern trip.

The Springfield nine will lineup against the St. John's College team, of Brooklyn, this afternoon. Stine will do the catching for the Y. M. C. A. team and George Townley will be on the firing line. The boroughites have done some clever work for their alma mater during the season and expect to trim the Brooklynites this afternoon. Several of their friends in the borough will accompany them to the scene of the contest.

BASEBALL NOTES

Manager Connie Mack has released George Brickley to the Reading team of the Tri-State League.

Maisel, Packinpaugh and Sweeney, of the New York Yankees, are among the ten leading base stealers in the American League.

Manager Griffith, of the Washington team, has signed Douglas Neff, captain and shortstop of the University of Virginia nine.

The Giants and Red Sox are great performers against leading teams. McGraw's men smothered the Pirates and the Sox beat the Tigers to a whisper.

Harry Niles, the well-known para chute jumper, who used to perform in the big show, is doing some fine work for the St. Paul American Association team.

If the attendance figures given out at Buffalo and Baltimore are correct, the Feds are drawing much better than the Internationals in those two cities.

Ed McKernan, a well-known minor league manager, died recently in Cincinnati. He was manager of the Battle Creek Southern Michigan League team last season.

The veteran pastimer, Dan Brouthers, is still on the job as pilot of a New York semi-pro team. His son, Anson Brouthers, named after Pop Anson, holds down first base for the team.

Both the Browns and Cardinals have been giving good accounts of themselves of late and it begins to look as though some other teams will have to tote the American and National League targets this season.

Batting averages in the American Association shows twenty-five performers clouting for .300 or better. Bunched at the top of the list are John Titus, Davy Altizer, Jack Knight, Herman Bronkie and "Sea Lion" Hall.

Latest thriller: "The James Boys in Baseball, or Hot on the Trail of the Johnson Family." Staged by Willie James, of the Naps; Will James, of the Browns, and William James, of the Braves. All named "Bill" and crack shooters of the pill.

The way Charley Herzog's Cincinnati Birds have been slamming what are supposed to be regular ball teams is unfair to the other National Leaguers. Herzog knows well enough that the critics have placed the Reds down there somewhere and they should behave.

SENATOR SHAFROTH.

Says That the New Banking Law Averted a Panic.

Denial that passage of the new currency law was an "abject surrender to Wall street and the banking interests" was made in the senate by Senator Shafroth of Colorado. "The Wilson administration objected to the continuation of power in Wall street," he said. "It insisted that concentration of wealth should be divided. The effect of the banking and currency act was felt in financial circles from the very day of its passage," said Senator Shafroth. "It surely averted a panic which was imminent. When the act was passed confidence in the banks was restored, and money became easy. In a few weeks all appearance of panic disappeared."

HUERTA AT CAPITAL DESPITE ALL RUMORS

Dictator Attends Reception In Daughter's Honor.

Mexico City, May 28.—General Huerta has not deserted his post as the head of the provisional government.

He was at his private home in the suburbs of the city, with high government officials and prominent citizens, celebrating the saint's day of his young daughter, Maria de la Luz Huerta. He went to his home and later emerged from it to go publicly to the national palace, where he transacted routine business and then publicly returned for the festival.

Instead of showing the effects of the strain under which he has been laboring, General Huerta and his closest advisers appear to be in better spirits than they have been, as if the crisis were over. A spirit of confidence about internal and foreign affairs appears suddenly to have been engendered.

Reports of a battle won by General Zaragoza in the Tampico district have been received. General Gustavo Maas has been holding back the rebel advance against San Luis Potosi. Mazatlan is holding out, and dispatches from Niagara Falls are most favorable in the mind of the authorities.

While changes are taking place in the cabinet new men are easily found to take the places of those who go out. Senor Tamariz has retired to private life, abandoning the portfolio of agriculture.

KIELY WILL PROTEST ELKS' LEAGUE GAME

Captain of Team No. 7 Files His Reasons for Claiming the Contest.

Kiely's team dropped the first two and copped the third of a series rolled in the Elks' Club Tournament last night, the final match being decided in favor of the double losers by a margin of sixty-two pins. Captain Kiely, of the losing side, has filed a protest with Secretary Nash against the opening contest claiming that it should be either rolled over again or given to his team.

His protest is filed on the grounds that Bennett should have received his average of 125 in the first game instead of being allowed to take his average up to the seventh frame and then rolling the eighth, ninth and tenth frames; that McCullough should receive sixty-seven as his total in the first game instead of 127 as at the end of the sixth frame when he was called away on account of a fire in the borough when he had but sixty-seven points to his credit. Bennett was tardy in arriving and Kiely claims that the excuse he offered was not sufficient to smooth over the affair satisfactorily.

The scores:

LAWYERS DECIDE TO TRIM THE DOCTORS

Officially Accept the Challenge of the Pill Dispensers for a Ball Game.

An official acceptance of the doctors challenge to participate in an assault on the national game of baseball was made at a meeting of the lawyers held this morning in the District Court and a resolution was passed to make the contest a lawyers' victory at all hazards. It was the sentiment of those present that the barristers were rightfully entitled to a diamond verdict over the pill dispensers and Manager William G. DeMeza claims that he has an unbeatable herd of ball chasing colts to select a team from.

The disciples of Blackstone are doing a little side campaigning and promise much in the way of novelty for the event. Basballically speaking the event will be a genuine regulation nine inning combat between forces that once handled and will handle again the illusive sphereoid of horsehide. During the time intervening before June 20, when the scream will be staged on Parker Field, the lawyers have decided to put in many sessions of real practice work and considerable rust will be loosened from old joints.

Pharphernalia of every description is beginning to arrive for the lawyers to get into trim with and every precaution is being taken to have the combatants in readiness for the all-important affair. Enthusiasm was rife at the meeting this morning and the legal lights who do not participate in the game itself will cavort about the grounds with peanut baskets and canteens of pink lemonade. Special uniforms, appropriate to the occasion and seriousness of the program, will be purchased by the committee having this matter in charge.

The various committees named today are as follows:

Tickets—William Newcorn, Robert N. Crane, Arthur Murphy, Isaac P. Runyon, John H. VanWinkle, Jr., Charles L. Moffett.

Program—William N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., J. P. T. Taylor, Martin B. Stutsman, W. A. Codington.

HUERTA GETS WAR SUPPLIES

Arms Once Held Up Are Finally Landed.

SEE NO REASON TO PROTEST

Badger Has to Look on Inactive, as Washington Contends Tampico Is an Open Port—Munitions Landed From German Ship.

Vera Cruz, May 28.—The cargo of arms of the Hamburg-American steamship Ypiranga, to prevent the landing of which Rear Admiral Fletcher seized Vera Cruz more than a month ago, was landed at Puerto Mexico, 120 miles down the coast. From the same official source it is known that the Hamburg-American steamship Bavaria, with a smaller shipment of arms, effected a landing at the same port two or three days ago. Both shipments are billed to President Huerta at Mexico City and, so far as this government is aware, will encounter no further obstacles on their way to the federal capital.

From the Ypiranga, 20,000 high power modern rifles, 250 machine guns of French make and 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

From the Bavaria, 1,800,000 rounds of ammunition, a great number of cases of small arms and 3,300 rolls of barbed wire.

Full information of the cargo of the Bavaria is not obtainable. Her captain said his manifest and other papers were confiscated by the authorities at Puerto Mexico.

The cargo of the Bavaria has reached Cordoba, and the authorities in Vera Cruz have authentic information that the ammunition is being distributed to the Mexican federal soldiers along the railroad.

There seems to be no doubt these war supplies have been landed. The captain of the Bavaria admitted his part in the affair, and General Funston, with Admiral Badger, it is said here, received advance notice of both cases in time to cable to Washington for instructions. The answers received have not been revealed.

The administration is severely criticised here by Americans of all classes.

The Bavaria, from Hamburg and Antwerp, left Havana May 17 for Progreso, Yucatan, with a general cargo according to her manifest. She appeared at Puerto Mexico on Sunday and an American there learned she had a consignment of ammunition. He communicated with a warship, which in turn sent the news by wireless to Admiral Badger. The report was transmitted to Washington for instructions.

Men acquainted with international law said that the German ships were well within their rights in landing the arms, but they wonder what has become of the semiofficial agreement between the United States and Germany and the steamship line several weeks ago, in which, it was said, the ships would not embarrass the United States at this time by delivering their consignments.

No Cause For Protest.

Washington, May 28.—Huerta has finally succeeded in obtaining for his forces several million rounds of ammunition and a large consignment of machine guns and rifles.

Officials of both the state and navy departments declare that the United States would have taken no steps to prevent these additions to Huerta's war supplies being landed. Officials of the state department acknowledged that the Hamburg-American officials were clearly within their rights in landing the cargoes and that the only course this government could have taken to prevent the landing of the shipments would be the seizure of Puerto Mexico. This would have constituted a violation of the armistice with Huerta and would have threatened the success of the mediation proceedings. It would have been practically an act of war.

The United States was embarrassed also by the stand it has taken in regard to the importation of arms at Tampico. This government has declared that it intended to keep Tampico an open port and that no step would be taken to prevent the exportation of arms from American ports to that city. For this government to have taken action against the shipments to Huerta would have meant as a matter of consistency that an embargo would have to be laid on shipments from this country to the Constitutionalist port.

FIND BURGLAR DEAD IN BRISBANE HOME

Man Believed to Be Pal Is Being Held.

Point Pleasant, N. J., May 28.—Stretched at full length upon the floor of a blood spattered bedroom in the unoccupied Riverside home of Arthur Brisbane, editor of the New York Evening Journal, the body of a murdered man was found. The victim has not been identified, but a man who had been seen in his company and who sought to escape across the river in a rowboat is locked up in the local jail pending his removal to the county prison at Toms River. Prosecutor Harry E. Newman, after seven hours of terrific grilling, announced that he was confident the prisoner had committed the crime.

In a pocket of a vest found in the room with the body was a little note book in which the name of John R. Hafer was written upon a page inserted for identification. Beneath it was the address, "1749 Rose street, Reading, Pa.," and following were written the names, "Mrs. Rose Hafer, Raymond, Henry, Edna and Hilda Hafer." It is believed that Hafer is the man who was murdered, as the description upon the identification page tallies more nearly with his person than with that of the suspected man.

The Brisbane cottage stands along a dense grove of cedars, near the river shore. Michael Whelan, a boy who lives near by, while passing through the grounds Wednesday heard men quarreling on the second floor. He thought at first they were workmen sent there by Mr. Brisbane and later spoke to Edward Errickson, a boy chum, and the latter's mother of the affair. The three went to the cottage and called upstairs, but received no answer. The two young men then hid among the trees and watched the entrance to the building. About ten minutes later the man who is now a prisoner emerged cautiously and started off in the direction of the river bank. Whelan followed him to the river, where he engaged him in conversation.

This man, who is about six feet two inches in height, was rubbing something from the blade of a knife as Whelan drew near and trying to induce two little boys to row him across the river to Monmouth county. Whelan heard him tell the boys he wanted to get away because "they were after him."

COLORADO MINERS INDICTED.

Charged With Murder as Result of Battle at Chandler.

Denver, Colo., May 28.—One hundred strikers and organizers were indicted by the grand jury at Canon City on charges of murder and the destruction of property as a result of the battle at Chandler, where one nonunion miner was killed. Capiases were issued, and arrests were begun immediately.

Mrs. Alma Lafferty and John R. Lawson, Colorado head of the United Mine Workers, announced that they will testify before the court martial. It was decided not to resist the authority of the commission to demand their presence.

To Deepen Gowanus Bay.

Washington, May 28.—Senator O'Gorman introduced a bill looking to the improvement of Gowanus bay by removing the shoals and opening a channel depth equal to that in the Bay Ridge channel.

PEACE ENVOYS REACH AGREEMENT

Only Wording of Protocol Remains at Niagara.

FINAL POINTS ADJUSTED.

Bulletin From Conferees Shows That Their Work Is Very Near an End. Terms, However, Are Very Closely Guarded.

Washington, May 28.—A complete plan for the settlement of Mexico's troubles has been submitted to the Washington government by the American peace commissioners at Niagara Falls.

This plan has been agreed to by the Mexican and American representatives at the conference and awaits the approval of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

Details of the plan of settlement arranged by the parties to the negotiations in Canada are not obtainable.

The plan has also been telegraphed to Mexico City for the approval of General Huerta.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 28.—Substantial agreement on all the essential points of issue in the negotiations under the guidance of the peace envoys appeared to have been reached by the American and the Mexican delegates. From now on the envoys and the two sets of commissioners will devote themselves to the work of whipping into shape the details of the arrangements for a settlement. Several full conferences will be held for that purpose.

It is believed that the details of the complete agreement will be drafted in three or four days. After that the final agreement must be approved by the governments in Washington and Mexico City.

Internal Problems.

With the negotiations approaching the end all the officials concerned are taking extra care to guard what is taking place between them. It is evident that a firm intention exists to prevent disclosure of the terms of agreement until after the protocol has been signed by the American and Mexican delegates.

The points yet to be taken up, it is understood, relate chiefly to internal problems, and it is known to be the disposition of the envoys, if it is decided to seek an agreement upon them at all, to treat them only in the broadest manner and in the form of recommendations for the guidance of the new provisional government it is hoped to establish in Mexico.

Answering reports of differences of opinion between the Mexican and American delegates on the land problem, it was stated on the highest authority that this question is among the least of the troubles faced by the mediators.

It is accepted that land reforms must be enacted in Mexico; otherwise pacification of the country will be impossible. It is realized that the establishment of any new government in the republic without land reforms would only mean another revolution.

Must Be Pledged to Land Reforms.

Any provisional government that may be established would be pledged to land reforms, including a plan for the redistribution for which the revolutionists have been fighting. Just how the conference will handle the matter is apparently the only question involved, however. The Mexican delegates admit such reforms should be a part of the pacification plan.

The Mexicans feel that it is not the duty of the mediation conference to write laws for Mexico. The land problem has run through generations, and they do not believe it can be solved here with one stroke of the pen. The mediators may only take up such matters as the delegates propose, and it will rest with the American representatives to suggest some move toward removing this fundamental cause of all revolutionary movements.

STRATHCONA LEFT $27,928,000

Will of Scotchman Admitted to Probate In London.

London, May 28.—Lord Strathcona, former high commissioner for Canada, left an estate valued at $27,928,000. His will was admitted to probate.

The exact value of the real estate left by the testator was not made public, but it was announced that the duty paid amounted to $4,189,190. From this the total value of the estate was adduced. Lord Strathcona died in London Jan. 21.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

The Saturday half-holiday plan for August continues to meet with general approval. A large majority of the stores have agreed to adopt the plan under certain conditions, and it is the consensus of opinion that the movement is one that will make Plainfield clearly in line with modern movements for civic and social betterment.

Letters being received daily from firms which employ a smaller number of men than the big factories, showing that they are heartily in sympathy with the plan, and will follow the lead of the factories in making pay-day earlier in the week. The following are typical letters:

.....

Yours received. We will be glad to assist you by paying our men on Friday instead of Saturday during the month of August.

Yours very truly,
MARTIN AUTOMOBILE CO.

.....

Paying on some other day than Saturday has long been one of my ideas. I agree with every thing you say about it and will start paying my men off on Friday of this week. I heartily agree with every thing you have said and if there is any way in which I can help this movement along let me know.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH HARRIGAN.

.....

If the men that would be affected by not having their money on Friday find that it is a serious handicap to them, we will be glad to work out some plan to overcome the difficulty.

Yours truly,
WADLEY & GOODNOUGH.

.....

It has been our custom ever since we were in business to pay on Saturday, but it would really make no difference that I know of to change the routine at least for a month and pay on Friday. You can count on our doing what we can to assist in anything that is for the mutual good.

Very respectfully,
J. D LOIZEAUX LUMBER CO.

Favorable replies have also been received from Laing Auto Garage, Allen Pharmacal Co., Independent Ice Co., while many other concerns have agreed to co-operate in whatever way they can.

There is a growing conviction that half holidays during the summer which bring relief to almost all classes of employees should include those who work in the stores. Can't the citizens of Plainfield see to it that this benificent plan may be carried out without involving any loss to the merchants?

Thanking you for allowing me the privilege of bringing this subject again to the attention of your readers, I am,

Very truly,
KATHERINE F. BALL.

Mrs. William Emmons is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stevens, of Portland, Pa.

Miss Mildred Tier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Tier, of East Front street, has been detained at home for the last month with illness.

Nathan Boylan, of Regent street, who has been detained at his home for the past five weeks with scarlet fever, is doing well and expects to be out on Friday.

BOB FITZSIMMONS TAKES A CRACK AT THE PRESENT DAY WHITE-HOPE GALLERY

"Old Bob" Fitzsimmons comes along and utters some harsh, cruel words in the general direction of the present day punching persons. Not only does Bob verbally hammer the "white hopes," of whom Bob thinks darned little, but he also takes a poke at the entries in all other divisions.

"The boxers of the present day are a menace to the sport," asserts Fitz, with much gusto. "They are money mad. They ask too much for their services and the exhibitions some of them give are fierce.

"Think of Ritchie demanding—and getting—a $10,000 guarantee for 10 rounds—exactly 30 minutes work. Why, it's absurd. Those fellows ought to be made to fight on a percentage basis like we did in the old days, the winner receiving the major portion of the purse.

"The reason that the fights of the present day are jokes and farces in connection with those in the old days is because of that guarantee business. When a fighter knows that he'll get a certain amount, no matter how the battle ends, he doesn't extend himself. He just stalls along and defrauds the public, for he is taking their money under the pretense of fighting.

"But ten and twenty years ago, before the guarantee idea became in vogue, there were real fights. A fighter knew that winning made a difference of from 20 to 30 per cent. in his divvy, according to whether the purse was split 60-40 or 70-30, and you can bet on it that he humped himself some to grab off the big end.

"It's too bad that some of the old time fighters who gave the fans an honest run for their money, aren't in their prime today, so that they could grab down some of the big money. They were the boys who gave the crowd the very best exhibition possible. They fought every minute they were on their feet. Stalling and performing a marathon in the ring wasn't in their line. Yet they got pitifully little money for it.

"Some persons are of the opinion that I got a fortune for my fights with Corbett and Jeffries. The amount that I got for winning the championship was $5,000—a sum that the second raters in this day would sneeze at. For my fight with Jeffries I drew down only a little more than $4,000. And they were championship bouts, mind you. So you can guess what I used to get for fighting the second raters. It was hardly enough to buy chewing tobacco for the fighters of today."

While on the subject of Fitz, it might be mentioned that a great grief has come into his old age. He has a son, a namesake, who is regarded by all who have seen him as a wonderful fighting machine and a possible champion in the heavyweight division.

But the boy cares not for the resined arena, he cares not for fame as a pugilist, and he recently told his stunned papa that he won't adopt prize fighting as a profession. Young Fitz hates fighting as much as old Fitz loves it, and the grand old man of the prize ring, who carefully groomed his son to bring the championship back to the family, cannot understand the amazing attitude of the son.

Fitz's offspring is under twenty. He weighs around 200, is about 6 feet tall and has a superb physique. He is faster on his feet than any of the present day "white hopes," has a reach longer than his dad's, an assortment of terrible punches and a defense that is nearly perfect.

Ever since he was a little shaver, Father Fitz has been showing him all he knows of the ring game. For years in his odd moments the father has trained the son. And now, just at a time when he is ripe for the work of fighting his way to the kingly place his father once held, young Fitz has decided that he does not care to go about punching other persons.

It isn't cowardice that causes this change of mind on the part of Fitz junior. He's as game and as brave as his dad—which speaks volumes. It's simply because young Fitz doesn't care for the prize fighting game. He'd rather be a farmer or learn some trade than don the mitts.

This comes as a severe blow to Old Fitz. The ambition of his later years has been to see his son the champion. He has devoted more than ten years to training his boy and working him up to that point, and now to have the boy break thru the traces, to have him decide that he won't be a fighter, is a pretty hard blow to the father.

But Old Fitz isn't exactly in despair. He is humoring the boy now, hoping that in a few months he will alter his present determination and go into the ring after all.

Bob, Sr., it at present dividing his time between his farm in Dunellen, the stage in New York and Plainfield. He is fulfilling a theatrical engagement at the present time and commutes back and forth to the city of the Great White Way.

K. OF C. PLAYERS TO HAVE STRONG TEAM

Will Play Independent Baseball With Other Fraternity Nines in the State.

Joe Green, who has been appointed by the Columbus Club members, to look after their baseball interests in a managerial way, is planning a busy season of diamond work for the local Knights and has some good talent ready to take part in the schedule of games he is arranging with some of the most formidable club and fraternity nines in the Metropolitan district.

In an interview last night, Green stated positively that the local Knights would not enter the State Knights of Columbus League, but would play independent baseball on their home grounds on Elizabeth street. The Knights are arranging for the purchase of baseball regalia and other equipment and as soon as this arrives the first games will be scheduled.

Considerable sentiment has been expressed for and against the Plainfielders entrance into the proposed State league following an invitation which has been extended them, but it was decided not to join the circuit this year. Bayley Council, of Elizabeth, is another holdout in the plan and it is probable that an independent series will be arranged between Plainfield and the Union county seat aggregation.

NEARLY 3,000 HITS.

Honus Wagner is crowding close on the mark of 3,000 base hits as a big leaguer. Including last Monday's game the incomparable Dutchman had a grand harvest of 2,987 hits made since he entered the National league arena in Louisville in 1897. He had 2,951 hits at the close of last season, and unofficial records give him 36, including last Monday. Since then he has made three hits, making a total of 2,990, and needs only ten more to have 3,000. Also he has 704 stolen bases and 1,569 runs.

ST. ANTHONY'S NEXT IN LINE FOR LOCALS

Plainfield Sunday Baseball Team Will Lineup Against Strong Club.

The St. Anthonys of Perth Amboy will be the attraction at South Plainfield next Sunday when they will lineup against Tommy Mullin's Plainfield B. B. C. The Amboy team has quite a reputation as one of the fastest semi-pro teams in their section of the State and the Plainfield team will have to go some to hold them. Last Sunday the St. Anthonys defeated the Franklins at Perth Amboy by a score of 10 to 0 in the second game of a series to decide the city championship of Amboy. The prize for the team winning the series is $150 in gold and a cup. Next Sunday the new grandstand will be ready for the fans and the playing field will be in first-class condition. Manager McDonough of the Plainfield team has some of the fastest teams in this locality booked, among them being Jimmy Montross' Dunellen B. B. C., the Somerville Club and the Milfords from Easton, Pa. The Auto Transit Co. will have a new 75-passenger car running in a week or ten days and Manager Campbell claims that he can then transport from four to five hundred fans from this city to South Plainfield and return.

LOCAL BOY HELPS TIGERS DEFEAT YALE TENNIS TEAM

The Princeton tennis team, of which Ludlow VanDeventer, of Woodland avenue, is a member, made a clean sweep in the series against Yale on the Tiger's court yesterday afternoon, taking six matches after which the rain prevented further competition. VanDeventer was the central figure in one of the hardest fought matches of the series.

The former Plainfield High School champion defeated Lockwood, of Yale, 11-9, 6-4, asserting his superiority in straight sets. VanDeventer played last year with the Tiger team and is recognized as a mainstay in this line of sport. Since entering the New Jersey college he has developed wonderfully as a tennis player and his friends look forward to some good reports from his racquet work this season.

AMERICAN HORSE WINS.

London, May 28—H. B. Duryea's magnificent bay colt, Durbar II, ridden by the American jockey, McGee, won the classic Derby at Epsom Derby yesterday in a common canter. The official distance separating him from Hapsburg, who finished second, and who belongs to Sir Ernest Cassell, the banker, was given as three lengths, but this conveys no idea of the ease with which the race was won. Peter the Hermit, a 100 to 1 shot, owned by H. J. King, a South African millionaire, was third.

FORTUNES WON ON DERBY.

London, May 28—The winner of the first prize of $275,000 in the great Calcutta Sweepstakes, on yesterday's Derby, was a bank clerk named Comely, of Simla, India. The second prize of $125,000 was divided between two partners, Arthur Morris and W. B. Wilson, American cotton brokers of Manchester.

TITLE FOR AMERICA.

Versailles, May 28—Two Americans, Francis Quimet and Henry J. Topping, were left to fight out the final round for the French amateur golf championship to be played off here today. Topping beat Jerome Travers, American amateur champion, in the semi-finals.

TRENTON WHIPPED BETWEEN SHOWER

Plainfield High School Players Score Notable Verdict Over Rivals.

HARD HITTING RULES

Many Star Plays Pulled by Men on Both Sides—Game Called in the Seventh to Allow Visitors to Catch Train.

After being interrupted several times by heavy showers, the Plainfield High School baseball team finally banded out a beating to the Trenton High School baseball team, in a seven inning game played at Trenton yesterday afternoon. The game was one of the best played by the local team this year, being marked by heavy hitting and fast fielding. The final score was 5 to 2. Dunham and VanDeventer starred with the stick.

Dunham smashed out a three bagger and a two bagger out of three trips to bat, while VanDeventer knocked a two bagger and two singles out of four times up. The local team outhit its oponents by two to one.

The locals also played well in the field, making but one misplay. Brick pitched one of the best games of the year, holding his opponents well in hand at all times, keeping out of tight holes and scoring ten strikeouts to H. Walsh's seven. Van Deventer was robbed of a hair-raising putout on McCabe's line drive in the seventh inning. The ball was hit on a line to left field. VanDeventer ran forward, reached out and caught the ball about an inch from the ground. He then fell and rolled over several times, but held on to the pill. The umpire would not allow the catch, however, saying that the ball touched the ground before VanDeventer caught it.

The game was delayed ten minutes in the opening inning by a heavy shower. It was also stopped in the second because of rain.

The score:

DAY'S OUTING FOR HOPE AND ROOTERS SATURDAY

Special trolley cars have been chartered to take the Hope Chapel baseball team and a large crowd of rooters to Bound Brook, Saturday, where Manager Leighs has arranged two games with the Y. M. A. combination of that place. The Hope team will be idle in the Sunday-school League race Saturday and it is expected that a score or more of rooters will take advantage of the day's outing to that town.

One contest will be played in the morning and another in the afternoon. Between the games the team and its friends will inspect the town and visit the banks of the Raritan. Special arrangements have been made to make the outing as attractive as possible to the supporters of the local Sunday-schol team and a large number of rooters have already signified their intention of going.

NEW AUTO RECORD.

Indianapolis, May 28—After three days of the fastest automobile racing ever seen on the Indianapolis motor speedway, the thirty drivers who will start in the annual 500-mile race here next Saturday were selected last night. George Boillot, the French driver, who yesterday set a new United States record on the 2½ mile track, circling it in 1:30:13, led the list of successful drivers. Boillot drove his car around the course at a rate of a fraction less than 100 miles an hour.

MISS WILDEY ONE OF FOUR TO PLAY

Local Tennis Player Reaches the Semi-final Round for State Championship.

Miss Edna Wildey vanquished Miss Elsie Jewett in the women's invitation lawn tennis tournament at the Essex County Country Club yesterday afternoon, winning her single's match by scores of 6-2, 6-0. Only four of the original thirty-two starters are still in the running as the result of elimination work yesterday and this quartet moved out to the semi-final round.

In the top half of the draw, Mrs. S. F. Weaver, formerly of Central avenue, and former New Jersey State champion, and Mrs. Alfred G. Niles, came through, while in the lower half Mrs. Marshall McLean, Jersey State and Metropolitan title holder, and Miss Edna Wildey advanced. In the event of Miss Wildey defeating her renowned opponent she will be entitled to meet the winner of the top half for the championship. Mrs. Weaver progressed to the semi-finals yesterday by defeating Miss Jane Rowson, 6-0, 6-2.

In the first round of the women's invitation doubles Mrs. Weaver and Miss Clare Cassell won from Mrs. Gordon Grand and partner by default.

JAKE DAUBERT HAS HAD GREAT CAREER

Players Who Have Birthdays in May—Brooklyn Captain Has Been a Star.

Had the Superbas played at home May 15 instead of in Chicago, Colonel Ebbets could have had a Jake Daubert Day, for the Brooklyn captain then was celebrating his twenty-ninth birthday. If Jake keeps up his present gait at the bat and in the field, he stands an excellent chance of again being voted the player most valuable to his team in the National League and consequently in line to get another Chalmers car. In his first sixteen games, Robinson's first lieutenant amassed a batting average of .424, going without a safety only in one-fourth of these contests. Daubert has been bunching his wallops this year, having made one hit in each of three games, two hits in each of five games and three hits in each of four games. Jake reached the quarter century pole in base hits in Chicago on Wednesday. Of his 25 safeties three have been doubles, three triplets and two home runs.

Figures show that Daubert has been getting more than his proportion of Brooklyn's hits and runs. The Superbas have crossed the plate 75 times, Daubert having made 14 trips or almost twenty per cent. of the Robins' tallies. The figures as to base hits show that the Robins have to their credit 152, of which Daubert claims 25—or about sixteen per cent. If Daubert had been content to make just one-ninth of his team's runs and hits he would have been credited at the present time with a trifle more than eight tallies and a trifle more than sixteen swats.

Daubert is fielding this year at a .994 clip, making only one error in the first sixteen games he played. This bobble did not come up until after he had handled 126 chances without a break. Daubert has taken a hand in ten duplex killings, though he hasn't started any.

Daubert played his first game in the National League on April 14, 1910, in Philadelphia. Then batting against George Washington McQuillan, now with the pirates, Jake went hitless. The next day Daubert jarred Lew Maron, the millionaire kid, for a brace of singles. He failed to get a hit on the day he made his debut locally, which was April 20, 1910, McQuillan pitching for the enemy, and he also failed to do any damage to Lew Moran's delivery on April 21. Moving over to the Polo Grounds, Daubert hit like a fiend, paying particular attention to the manufacturing of triples, and soon the talk about his not being as good as Tim Jordan died.

Another able athlete who had a birthday May 15 was Tony Smith, former Superba shortstop, now with Sioux City. Tony then was thirty years old. Secretary Herman Nickerson, of the Boston Braves, is today celebrating his forty-fourth birthday and business manager Charley William, of the Chicago Feds, is celebrating his forty-third.

CHAMPION DEFEATED.

While developments yesterday make another titleholder certain in the fifteenth annual Women's Metropolitan Golf Championship tournament at the Essex County Country Club's links, it is not likely that the honor will perch upon untried shoulders. Semi-finals today now lie between Miss Lillian Hyde, of Brooklyn, vs. Mrs. W. J. Faith, of Wykagyl, and Miss Georgianna Bishop, of Bridgeport, and Mrs. M. H. Frayne, of Dunwoodie.

TWO EMBROIDERY DESIGNS SUITABLE FOR USE ON TOWELS

Towels are used so frequently that one can never have too many, either of the large or guest size. These designs, shown in the illustrations, are suitable for use on towels of huckaback or damask. Pattern No. 12243 is a border 2½ inches wide and 3 yards are contained in this pattern for 10 cents. The flowers should be developed in heavily padded solid work and the leaves in solid work or eyelets. The scalloped edge should be firmly padded with chain or running-stitches. When using the running-stitch for padding, take a large stitch on the top and a small one on the under side, so as to make the padding high on the right side and flat on the reverse.

The sprays in the lower illustration are from pattern No. 12780, which contains four sprays, each 11¼ by 6 inches, for 15 cents. They are suitable for use on towels, pillow-cases, sheets, bureau-scarfs and lingerie pillows, and should be developed in solid work and eyelets with white mercerized cotton. An initial or monogram may be placed in the space between the two sprays on this towel, and the hem may be finished with a hemstitched hem or a plain scalloped edge.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer patterns will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

Some Cookery Suggestions

DELICIOUS SHORTCAKES.

DINNER MENU.
Cream of Celery Soup.
Fresh Salmon Steaks.
Mashed Potatoes.
Peas. Cauliflower.
Rhubarb Shortcake.
Coffee.

THE early summer fruits make tempting shortcakes.

Raspberry Shortcake.—Take one quart flour, two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder, two tablespoonfuls butter, one egg, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two cups milk. Make a thick batter, spread in pan and bake. When baked, cut, making two cakes. Crush one box raspberries, spread between and on top of cake and sprinkle sugar on; then whip one-half pint of cream for top of cake and serve.

With Whipped Cream.

Rhubarb Shortcake.—Rub into one heaping cupful pastry flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder, a teaspoonful sugar, one-fourth saltspoonful salt, one teaspoonful lard and a teaspoonful butter. Moisten this to the consistency of biscuit dough with sweet milk and arrange in two flat cakes, spreading well with butter; place one on top of the other and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. When cake is done, break apart, again butter it, spread thickly with rhubarb sauce, and sweetened whipped cream between and on top, dusted with finely chopped nut meats.

With Fruit Sauce.

Cherry Shortcake.—Take two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and sift with one quart of flour and then mix with it two tablespoonfuls of butter and add cold water, handling as little as possible, to make a soft dough. Roll thin and bake in layers one upon the other with butter between. When done remove the first layer and spread with stewed cherries strained of juice. Sprinkle with sugar, put on another layer of crust, spread with fruit and so continue until all have been used. Serve hot with cherry sauce.

A Toothsome Pastry.

Apple Shortcake.—Cream two cupfuls of sugar with half a cupful of butter, add the yolks of three eggs and beat together five minutes; then add a teaspoonful of milk and three cupfuls of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Lastly add the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in three layers. For the filling pare and grate two apples; to the grated apples add the whites of two eggs beaten very stiffly, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract and powdered sugar to sweeten. Stir this all well together and spread it between the layers of cake. Serve immediately with whipped cream.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Dog's Master Won The Case.

"How dare you take my dog?" he said.

THE stories about dogs always delighted Evelyn, and daddy knew she would be pleased when he said:

"I have a story to tell you tonight about a dog."

"Hurrah!" said Evelyn, and Jack looked just as pleased too.

"There was once a man who had a little dog to which he was very devoted. Now, this dog was very cunning and had such a pretty face that every one noticed him. People passing by the master and his dog would say:

"'Did you ever see such a dear little dog?'

"But, alas, one day some one who thought he was a very good-looking little dog and that he would no doubt bring a good price stole him.

"The master was heartbroken. He looked everywhere for his little dog and put advertisements in the papers with a very clear description of just what his dog looked like.

"Two days had passed when he saw his dog on the street, being taken on a leash by a very disagreeable looking man to a dog shop.

"With a bound the dog wrenched himself from the leash and jumped up on his master with the delight that only a dog can show.

"The master petted him and took him up in his arms, and the dog nestled down so happily.

"'How dare you take my dog?' said the disagreeable looking man.

"'It seems to act as if it were my dog, doesn't it?' asked the dog's master.

"'Well, it's not. You probably showed the dog a piece of bone, for you will admit you would like to own such a fine looking dog. That was a very clever trick of yours, but it won't do. I shall go to the judge about this.'

"'Do,' said the master, who wasn't a bit frightened, now that he safely had his little dog in his arms.

"Together they went to the courthouse. There they waited until the judge could hear their case.

"The disagreeable man talked better than the master, but the judge was wise, and he knew how to decide the matter.

"'It will be proved,' said he, 'who owns the dog by the dog himself.'

"All this time the judge had been holding the dog on the end of his leash.

"He patted the dog and said, 'Now you tell us who is your master.' With that he let go of the dog.

"Just at that moment the disagreeable looking man pulled an old bone out of his pocket and held it toward the dog.

"But the dog never so much as sniffed at it, for with a bound he had jumped up on his real master, and the judge said:

"'The dog has decided the case for me. Now you may all go.'"

MODERN METHODS.
(Grace Stone Field.)

When grandpa was a tiny boy
Oh, awful long ago!
He was his parents' pride and joy,
For grandma told me so.
But when he was a naughty child
They "used a switch on him,"
"Subdued his spirits, rash and wild."
My little grandpa Jim.

When father was a little lad
He laughs about it now,
If he was very, very bad
They spanked him, this is how;
His mother laid him 'cross her knee,
And put her hand down flat.
Then smacked it with the other, Gee!
What do you think of that?

But as for me now, I am small,
I do 'bout as I please;
They dassent punish me at all
For reasons such as these:
My "free development's assailed,"
And "Nature's planning foiled,"
It's strange that Grandpa Jim was whaled,
And yet he wasn't spoiled!

The annual meeting of the Franklyn-Stillman-Whittier Parent-Teacher Association will be held this afternoon on the lawn of the president's home. Mrs. G. Stuart Simons will give a report of the Congress of Mothers held recently in Washington, Mrs. William Sandford will give an outline of the work in New Jersey and Miss Bullock, principal of the Franklin School and vice-president of the association, will give a humorous monologue entitled "Selina Morrows to-home."

The borough schools are receiving great commendation for the work sent to the county exhibit at Somerville. Among the articles exhibited are tables, large and small, desks, Indian clubs, hard-wood serving tray, bookshelves and baskets.

The Principals' Association, of Middlesex county have declared for vocational schools. At a meeting held this week in New Brunswick, County Superintendent Willis said that in the last two years over one thousand pupils had left school to go to work which would not have happened had the county provided vocational schools.

In the March number of the Parents' Review, L. A. Lowe writes the following in an article on "Discipline and Individuality."

"I believe that concentration is fostered by giving the child work which is really hard, even occasionally over hard work, which requires the putting forth of all his mental energy, rather than by giving him work which he can easily master. We always row our best against the stream. Then again, though it may seem rather a hard counsel I believe it is very frequently advisable that the child should work on in spite of physical discomfort—a slight headache or toothache provided always the hours of work are not prolonged, and the child is not really ill. One knows from one's own experience, that often a headache passes with extreme interest in one's work, and only increases with too ready sympathy and insufficient occupation.

"In order to gain concentration; perseverance and doggedness, it is, I believe, of importance to provide more or less ordered occupation at an early age, whether in the nursery or in the kindergarten, for a portion of the day, though a child should be left to amuse himself for the greater part, so that his efforts towards self-realization may not be unduly checked, but there can be little doubt that impatience and desultory mental habits are often inculcated very young from a child's not having regular occupation for his mind."

BODY OF NEGRO IN CANAL WITH HIS HEAD BATTERED

Bound Brook, May 28.—With his head badly battered, the body of Ernest Keys, colored, of Franklin street, South Bound Brook, was pulled from the Raritan Canal yesterday, at the foot of Washington street. He had been missing since Saturday.

While the injuries to the head gave rise to a report that it was a case of murder, some persons expressed the belief that Keys, while intoxicated, fell asleep on the canal bridge, rolled into the water and drowned, and that later a passing canal boat battered the man's head.

Coroner John Lahey has not announced his finding.

THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

By Edward Everett Hale

EDWARD EVERETT HALE

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Mary Roberts Rinehart and Owen Johnson was "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale. His works are published by Little, Brown & Co.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

PART II.

NOLAN must have been in every sea and yet almost never on land. He told me once, with a grave smile, that no man in the world lived so methodical a life as he. "You know the boys say I am the Iron Mask, and you know how busy he was." He said it did not do for any one to try to read all the time more than to do anything else all the time, but that he read just five hours a day. "Then," he said, "I keep up my notebooks, writing in them at such and such hours from what I have been reading, and I include in them my scrapbooks." These were very curious indeed. He had six or eight, of different subjects. There was one of history, one of natural science, one which he called "odds and ends." But they were not merely books of extracts from newspapers. They had bits of plants and ribbons, shells tied on and carved scraps of bone and wood, which he had taught the men to cut for him, and they were beautifully illustrated.

Till he grew very old, he always went aloft a great deal. He always kept up his exercise, and I never heard that he was ill. If any other man was ill he was the kindest nurse in the world, and he knew more than half the surgeons do. Then if anybody was sick or died, or if the captain wanted him to on any other occasion, he was always ready to read prayers. I have remarked that he read beautifully.

My own acquaintance with Philip Nolan began six or eight years after the war, on my first voyage after I was appointed a midshipman. It was in the first days after our slave trade treaty, while the reigning house, which was still the house of Virginia, had still a sort of sentimentalism about the suppression of the horrors of the Middle Passage, and something was sometimes done that way. I first came to understand anything about "the man without a country" one day when we overhauled a dirty little schooner which had slaves on board. An officer was sent to take charge of her, and after a few minutes he sent back his boat to ask that some one might be sent him who could speak Portuguese. We were all looking over the rail when the message came, and we all wished we could interpret when the captain asked who spoke Portuguese. But none of the officers did, and just as the captain was sending forward to ask if any of the people could, Nolan stepped out and said he should be glad to interpret if the captain wished, as he understood the language. The captain thanked him, fitted out another boat with him, and in this boat it was my luck to go.

When we got there it was such a scene as you seldom see and never want to. Nastiness beyond account, and chaos run loose in the midst of the nastiness. The negroes were, most of them, out of the hold and swarming all round the dirty deck, with a central throng surrounding Vaughan and addressing him in every dialect and patois of a dialect, from the Zulu click up to the Parisian of Beledeljereed.

As we came on deck Vaughan looked down from a hogshead on which he had mounted in desperation and said: "For God's love, is there anybody who can make these wretches understand something?"

Nolan said he could speak Portuguese and one or two fine looking Kroomen were dragged out, who, as it had been found already, had worked for the Portuguese at Fernando Po.

"Tell them they are free," said Vaughan, "and tell them that these rascals are to be hanged as soon as we can get rope enough."

Nolan explained it in such Portuguese as the Kroomen could understand and they in turn to such of the negroes as could understand them. Then there was such a yell of delight, clinching of fists, leaping and dancing, kissing of Nolan's feet and a general rush made to the hogshead by way of spontaneous worship of Vaughan as the deus ex machina of the occasion.

"Tell them," said Vaughan, well pleased, "that I will take them all to Cape Palmas."

This did not answer so well. Cape Palmas was practically as far from the homes of most of them as New Orleans or Rio Janeiro was—that is, they would be eternally separated from home there. And their interpreters, as we could understand, instantly said, "Ah, non Palmas," and began to propose infinite other expedients in most voluble language. Vaughan was rather disappointed at this result of his liberality and asked Nolan eagerly what they said. The drops stood on poor Nolan's white forehead as he hushed the men down, and said:

"He says 'Not Palmas.' He says, 'Take us home, take us to our own country, take us to our own house, take us to our own pickaninnies and our own women.' And this one says," choked out Nolan, "that he has not heard a word from his home in six months, while he has been locked up in an infernal barracoon."

Vaughan always said he grew gray himself while Nolan struggled through this interpretation. I, who did not understand anything of the passion involved in it, saw that the very elements were melting with fervent heat and that something was to pay somewhere. Even the negroes themselves stopped howling as they saw Nolan's agony and Vaughan's almost equal agony of sympathy. As quick as he could get words, he said:

"Tell them yes, yes. Tell them they shall go to the Mountains of the Moon if they will. If I sail the schooner through the Great White desert they shall go home!"

And after some fashion Nolan said so. And they all fell to kissing him and wanted to rub his nose with theirs.

But he could not stand it long, and, getting Vaughan to say he might go back, he beckoned me down into our boat. As we lay back in the stern sheets and the men gave way, he said to me: "Youngster, let that show you what it is to be without a family, without a home and without a country. And if you are ever tempted to say a word or to do a thing that shall put a bar between you and your family, your home and your country, pray God in his mercy to take you that instant home to his own heaven. Stick by your family, boy. Forget you have a self, while you do everything for them. Think of your home, boy. Write and send and talk about it. Let it be nearer and nearer to your thought the farther you have to travel from it, and rush back to it when you are free, as that poor black slave is doing now. And for your country, boy," and the words rattled in his throat, "and for that flag," and he pointed to the ship, "never dream a dream but of serving her as she bids you, though the service carry you through a thousand hells. No matter what happens to you, no matter who flatters you or who abuses you, never look at another flag, never let a night pass but you pray God to bless that flag. Remember, boy, that behind all these men you have to do with, behind officers and government and people even, there is the country herself, your country, and that you belong to her as you belong to your own mother. Stand by her, boy, as you would stand by your mother if those devils there had got hold of her today!"

I was frightened to death by his calm, hard passion, but I blundered out that I would, by all that was holy, and that I had never thought of doing anything else. He hardly seemed to hear me, but he did, almost in a whisper, say, "Oh, if anybody had said so to me when I was of you age!"

I think it was this half confidence of his, which I never abused, for I never told this story till now, which afterward made us great friends. He was very kind to me. When we parted from him in St. Thomas harbor at the end of our cruise I was more sorry than I can tell. I was very glad to meet him again in 1830, and later in life, when I thought I had some influence in Washington, I moved heaven and earth to have him discharged. But it was like getting a ghost out of prison. They pretended there was no such man and never was such a man. They will say so at the department now!

There is a story that Nolan met Burr once on one of our vessels, when a party of Americans came on board in the Mediterranean. But this I believe to be a lie; or, rather, it is a myth, well found, involving a tremendous blowing up with which he sunk Burr—asking him how he liked to be "without a country."

After that cruise I never saw Nolan again. I wrote to him at least twice a year, for in that voyage we became even confidentially intimate; but he never wrote to me. The other men tell me that in those fifteen years he aged very fast. And now it seems the dear old fellow is dead. He has found a home at last, and a country.

Since writing this I have received from Danforth, who is on board the Levant, a letter which gives an account of Nolan's last hours. It removes all my doubts about telling this story.

To understand the first words of the letter the nonprofessional reader should remember that after 1817 the position of every officer who had Nolan in charge was one of the greatest delicacy. The government had failed to renew the order of 1807 regarding him. What was a man to do? Should he let him go? What, then, if he were called to account by the department for violating the order of 1807? Should he keep him? What, then, if Nolan should be liberated some day and should bring an action for false imprisonment or kidnaping against every man who had had him in charge? The secretary always said, as they so often do at Washington, that there were no special orders to give and that we must act on our own judgment.

Here is the letter:

Levant, 2° 2" S. @ 131° W.

Dear Fred—I try to find heart and life to tell you that it is all over with dear old Nolan. The doctor had been watching him very carefully and yesterday morning came to me and told me that Nolan was not so well and had not left his stateroom, a thing I never remembered before. He had let the doctor come and see him as he lay there, the first time the doctor had been in the stateroom, and he said he should like to see me. Oh, dear, do you remember the mysteries we boys used to invent about his room in the old Intrepid days? Well, I went in, and there, to be sure, the poor fellow lay in his berth, smiling pleasantly as he gave me his hand, but looking very frail. I could not help a glance round, which showed me what a little shrine he had made of the box he was lying in. The stars and stripes were triced up above and around a picture of Washington, and he had painted a majestic eagle, with lightnings blazing from his beak and his foot just clasping the whole globe, which his wings overshadowed. The dear old boy saw my glance and said, with a sad smile, "Here, you see, I have a country." And he pointed to the foot of his bed, where I had not seen before a great map of the United States as he had drawn it from memory and which he had there to look upon as he lay. Quaint, queer old names were on it in large letters. "Oh, Danforth," he said, "I know I am dying. I cannot get home. Surely you will tell me something now—stop, stop! Do not speak till I say what I am sure you know—that there is not in this ship, that there is not in America—God bless her!—a more loyal man than I. There cannot be a man who loves the old flag as I do or prays for it as I do or hopes for it as I do. There are thirty-four stars in it now, Danforth. I thank God for that, though I do not know what their names are. There has never been one taken away. I thank God for that. I know by that that there has never been any successful Burr. Oh, Danforth, Danforth," he sighed out, "tell me—tell me something—tell me everything, Danforth, before I die!"

Ingham, I swear to you that I felt like a monster that I had not told him everything before. Danger or no danger, delicacy or no delicacy, who was I that I should have been acting the tyrant all this time over this dear, sainted old man who had years ago expiated in his whole manhood's life the madness of a boy's treason? "Mr. Nolan," said I, "I will tell you everything you ask about, only where shall I begin?"

Oh, the blessed smile that crept over his white face! And he pressed my hand and said: "God bless you! Tell me their names," he said, and he pointed to the stars on the flag.

Well, I told him the names in as good order as I could, and he bade me take down his beautiful map and draw them in as I best could with my pencil. He was wild with delight about Texas; told me how his brother died there. He had marked a gold cross where he supposed his brother's grave was, and he had guessed at Texas. Then he was delighted as he saw California and Oregon. That, he said, he had suspected partly because he had never been permitted to land on that shore, though the ships were there so much. "And the men," said he, laughing, "brought off a good deal besides furs." Then he went back—heavens, how far!—to ask about the Chesapeake and what was done to Barron for surrendering her to the Leopard, and whether Burr ever tried again, and he ground his teeth with the only passion he showed. But in a moment that was over, and he said, "God forgive me, for I am sure I forgive him." Then he asked about the old war and settled down more quietly and very happily to hear me tell in an hour the history of fifty years.

How I wished it had been somebody who knew something! I tell you, Ingham, it was a hard thing to condense the history of half a century into that talk with a sick man. And I do not now know what I told him of emigration and the means of it, of steamboats and railroads and telegraphs, of inventions and books and literature, of the colleges and West Point and the naval school, but with the queerest interruptions that ever you heard. You see, it was Robinson Crusoe asking all the accumulated questions of fifty-six years.

I remember he asked all of a sudden who was president now, and when I told him he asked if Old Abe was General Benjamin Lincoln's son. He said he met old General Lincoln when he was quite a boy himself at some Indian treaty. I said no; that Old Abe was a Kentuckian, like himself, but I could not tell him of what family. He had worked up from the ranks. "Good for him!" cried Nolan. "I am glad of that. As I have brooded and wondered I have thought our danger was in keeping up those regular successions in the first families." I told him everything I could think of that would show the grandeur of his country and its prosperity.

And he drank it in and enjoyed it as I cannot tell you. He grew more and more silent, yet I never thought he was tired or faint. I gave him a glass of water, but he just wet his lips and told me not to go away. Then he asked me to bring the Presbyterian Book of Public Prayer, which lay there, and said, with a smile, that it would open at the right place, and so it did. There was his double red mark down the page, and I knelt down and read, and he repeated with me, "For ourselves and our country, O gracious God, we thank thee, that, notwithstanding our manifold transgressions of thy holy laws, thou hast continued to us thy marvelous kindness," and so to the end of that thanksgiving. Then he turned to the end of the same book, and I read the words more familiar to me, "Most heartily we beseech thee with thy favor to behold and bless thy servant, the president of the United States, and all others in authority," and the rest of the Episcopal collect. "Danforth," said he, "I have repeated those prayers night and morning—it is now fifty-five years." And then he said he would go to sleep. He bent me down over him and kissed me, and he said, "Look in my Bible, Danforth, when I am gone." And I went away.

But I had no thought it was the end. I thought he was tired and would sleep. I knew he was happy, and I wanted him to be alone.

But in an hour when the doctor went in gently he found Nolan had breathed his life away with a smile. He had something pressed close to his lips. It was his father's badge of the Order of Cincinnati.

We looked in his Bible, and there was a slip of paper at the place where he had marked the text:

"They desire a country, even a heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city."

On this slip of paper he had written:

"Bury me in the sea. It has been my home, and I love it. But will not some one set up a stone for my memory at Fort Adams or at Orleans, that my disgrace may not be more than I ought to bear? Say on it:

"In memory of
PHILIP NOLAN,
Lieutenant
In the army of the United States.

"He loved his country as no other man has loved her, but no man deserved less at her hands."

SMITH FINISHES HIS TESTIMONY

Star Witness In Roseville Bank Case Contradicted.

DEFENSE NOW IS OPENED

Counsel For Armstrong Declares He Would Prove Charges Against Account of His Client Were Entered by Smith In Order to Cover Up Latter's Thefts.

Newark, N. J., May 28.—Raymond E. Smith, who was secretary and treasurer of the wrecked Roseville Trust company, finished his testimony as a witness for the state in the trial against William C. Armstrong, an East Orange contractor and former depositor in the bank, and William J. Thompson and A. Randolph Jennings, tellers in the bank, who are on trial on an indictment charging them with defrauding the bank out of $35,000 with Smith by conspiracy.

Prosecutor Hood called a number of witnesses who had received checks drawn by Armstrong on the Roseville bank and who had them cashed or accepted at the bank without question. The prosecutor attempted to show that while Armstrong's account was always overdrawn the latter's checks were honored at the bank.

In opening the case for the defense Henry H. Fryling, counsel for Armstrong, declared that his client never overdrew his account at the trust company except in a few instances, when it was overdrawn $100 or so. He declared that he would prove that the charges against the account of Armstrong were entered by Smith in order to cover up the latter's thefts.

Mr. Fryling said that it was true that the bank had many notes of Armstrong's, but that they were secured by mortgages. He said that Mr. Armstrong owned property in value far in excess of his indebtedness to the bank. He admitted Armstrong owed the bank a large sum, according to the statement of the bank investigators amounting to $68,193.39. He brought out that this claim was compromised to $40,000, after it was shown there was a mistake in the figures of the banking department. Counsel asserted that the $40,000 was represented by notes and not cash, by which Armstrong benefited. He accused Smith of having manipulated the books in such a way as to make charges appear against Armstrong's account to cover up his own defalcations.

PROBLEM BEFORE FIELDER.

May Find Considerable Difficulty In Filling Judge Cole's Place.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28.—Governor Fielder will find considerable difficulty in the choice of a successor to Judge Clarence L. Cole, whose resignation he has accepted. The office will be vacant on Oct. 1.

The usual list of possible candidates is being discussed. Among these are Clifton C. Shinn, president of the county board of taxation and one of the most active in the Fielder campaign during last fall. His present office, however, may debar him from the list of possibilities. Another is Judge Frank Smathers of the district court. Friends of the judge, however, assert that he will not be a candidate. Others who loom up are former Judge Joseph Thompson and S. Cameron Hinkle.

JERSEY BRIDGE PLAN TOTTERS

Passaic County Insists Its Benefits Will Not Warrant Expense.

Hackensack, N. J., May 28.—The plan to have five counties in the northern part of New Jersey assume the responsibility of building a bridge over the Hudson river, together with New York state, is likely to fail, for the reason that Passaic county, whose share of the cost was fixed at $2,800,000, insists that the benefits to be derived from the bridge will not warrant the expense.

Essex and Union counties are also lukewarm, and Bergen and Hudson can't build the bridge alone.

The next conference of the freeholders' committee with the joint New Jersey and New York Hudson river commission will take place in New York on June 11.

Allenhurst, N. J., May 28.—At a meeting of the Lincoln Protective Tariff league held here at the residence of the league's founder, Thomas Henry Cochran, Hon. John G. A. Leishman, former United States ambassador to Turkey, Italy and Germany, was elected chairman of the organization. Mr. Cochran, who is chairman of the committee on organization, was elected treasurer and general manager, while Henry Johnson was elected to the office of president. The Lincoln Protective Tariff league is a nonpartisan movement to take the tariff out of politics.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

IN GRACE CHURCH CHOIR 43 YEARS

William R. Cock Talks Entertainingly About His Experiences During That Time.

TO BE GIVEN RECEPTION

Members of Church Will Honor Well Known Singer on Monday—Came to Plainfield in 1871—Growth of Choir Described.

William R. Cock celebrates the forty-third anniversary of his connection with Grace church choir on Sunday. Mr. Cock is a son of Dr. Thomas Cock, who came to New York to practice medicine in 1799 and became one of the famous physicians of the city, being connected with New York Hospital for fifty years. He was also president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and senior vice-president of the American Bible Society, and a member of the Historical Society. Mr. Cock describes his experiences in the choir in an interview given this morning:

"My connection with the choir of Grace church, covering a period of forty-three years, may be divided into three epochs, the first of which, being the most interesting as it was during a time, at first most trying and discouraging, but finally developing into an unqualified success. We came to Plainfield in April, 1871. Grace church was then located on Front street above Richmond. For nine months previous to leaving New York city, I was fortunate enough to be admitted to the chorus choir of St. Thomas' church, under the direction of Dr. George William Warren, in which choir I secured my first knowledge of choir singing and, strange as it may appear, I was able, for the first time, to sing the tenor part as against other voices. The nine months in this choir were those of unalloyed pleasure, and from the experience I was enabled to assume the duties I was called upon to perform in Grace church, Plainfield.

"It was my intention to be one of the congregation the first time I went to the church, but Capt. James Parker met me at the gate and insisted that I enter the choir at once and sing. I had to do as requested, and in the choir I have been ever since. This was on Whitsunday, and an event that I shall never forget. The first six months of my connection with the choir I prefer to efface from my memory, but I will say that I shall never forget the kindness of the members of the congregation in the expression of their real pleasure in the work I did to aid in our beautiful service.

"In the fall of the year 1871, Grace church made an experiment by holding evening service in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, in which church one of the largest organs in the city was installed. At Grace church we

WILL ENLARGE SCHOOL COURSE

Board of Education Plans to Make Night Sessions More Attractive.

EXCEPTIONAL CHANCE

Opportunity Will Be Given Those Who Wish to Secure a Practical Education — Registration to Be Opened in October.

Now that the Board of Estimate has passed the budget, the Board of Education is planning to add to its evening school work next winter courses in domestic science; mechanical drawing, business book-keeping, stenography, etc., in addition to those heretofore taught.

About two years ago the Board through the local papers agitated the night school question; but found so little interest in it among the public that it decided to postpone opening such a school until there was a real demand for it. Since that time the public has become more used to the night school idea; and it is anticipated that when these additional classes are opened they will be patronized among the people of the city who are anxious to take advantage of the practical courses taught in them.

Heretofore the night school as a feature of Plainfield's educational life has been confined to elementary instruction mainly among the foreigners who wished to learn the English language and the elements of reading, writing and arithmetic. For the past two years a night school of this character has been one of the most successful branches of our public education. Especially among the foreign born population which the growth of Plainfield industrial life has attracted here in such large numbers has the night school been popular; and, as a "First aid to citizenship," it has done and is doing a splendid work.

It has been felt however that there were many of our citizens who would be glad if given the opportunity to supplement their education with some of the more practical courses which have been added to public education since they went to school. Many who cannot afford the time to attend school during the day have both the ability and the ambition to continue their education along practical lines if given the opportunity; and it is for these that the new night school will be opened.

There will be three general courses. The first is designed for those who wish to qualify themselves as practical draftsmen, foremen or mechanics; and will include mechanical drawing, both elementary and advanced; the reading and use of building plans ,projections and simple working drawings; intersections; isometric drawings advanced drawings; conic sections, conventions and machine drawing; with special work in the study of machine types and the manipulation of the simpler mechanical tools.

The second course will be in Domestic Science, which, in spite of its theoretical name, is a very practical subject designed to enable one to reduce the cost of living and at the same time to live better. It includes class work in cooking and baking; practical preserving for the home; the routine of housework and the theory of marketing. The course will be of special value to housekeepers who find the problem of making the most of their housekeeping income more and more difficult as the prices of foods go up from year to year.

Practical work in dressmaking and millinary will also be a feature of this course.

The third course is designed for those who wish to qualify for office positions of every kind, and includes a thorough training in stenography, typewriting, bookkeeping arithmetic, and business English including correspondence and spelling.

Whether or not these courses open in the Fall will depend entirely on whether the people of Plainfield want to patronize them. The board believes that there is a real demand for this extension of our educational system; but the "proof of the pudding is in the eating" and the real test of the need for these practical courses is whether enough people apply to take them to justify the expense of starting the classes.

During the second week in October the Board will open at the High School registration in these subjects and if there proves to be a demand for an extension of night school work the school authorities are ready and anxious to meet it halfway.

JOINT DISPOSAL OF SEWAGE VALID

Justice Bergen Denies Writ to Review Proceedings for Construction of Plant.

DISMISS CONTENTIONS

Court Holds That Grounds of Attack Are Not Sufficient to Hold up Improvement—Work Will Go Ahead at Once.

Trenton, May 29—Sustaining the action of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen in providing for a joint sewage disposal system, Justice Bergen has dismissed the application of H. C. Pierce for a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings for the construction of the plant.

Among other things Mr. Pierce attacked the constitutionality of the act of 1912 permitting adjacent municipalities to combine for the disposition of sewage. The constitutional question raised was that the title of th act failed to indicate that such a plant might be located outside the boundaries of any of the municipalities interested in the joint project. This contention the court held was without merit.

Other grounds of attack were that the plans for the disposal systems had not been approved by the State Board of Health in the manner required by the act; that the ordinances passed by the several municipalities permitted alterations and enlargements in the construction of the plant for which there was no statutory authority, and that the ordinances were defective. It was also contended that the proposed bond issues were irregular, upon the theory that no municipality can obligate itself to spend money until it has the funds in hand. It was further contended that proper notice of the ordinances had not been given.

All of these grounds were disposed of by Justice Bergen as not affording justification for the writ of certiorari. Plans for the joint sewerage system were submitted to each municipality and approved in August, 1912. Subsequently they were approved by the State Board of Health and the necessary action taken for carrying out the contemplated improvement.

Justice Bergen's decision sustaining Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen in carrying out its sewage plans, will help tremendously the work which has been in progress for some time. Although there has been no interruption recently in going forward with the plans, it is the opinion that nothing now stands in the way of making contracts for building the disposal works and constructing the pipe line from this city to the Darling farm in Piscataway township.

It is possible that there may be further action against the three municipalities, but the decision of Justice Bergen will doubtless have great weight in settling any further controversy that may arise because of the project. The decision given yesterday was a sweeping one and sustains the contentions of the three municipalities in every particular. The joint sewage commission will meet next Wednesday night when it is expected that a sanitary engineer will be engaged and the deal for the Darling farm will be closed.

GIVE MAY FETE AT THE SEMINARY

Picturesque Procession Followed by Crowning of Miss Eaton as Queen.

CHARMING DANCES

Students Present "The Woodland Princess" by Mrs. Maxwell Perkins—Fun and Frolic Add to the Merriment of the Occasion.

In a picturesque procession headed by the "May Queen," the pupils of Plainfield Seminary opened the program of the May fete given in the Seminary grounds yesterday afternoon. The procession wound in and out among the trees to the close where many friends of the school had assembled. After the crowning of the queen, Miss Aubrey Eaton, and a song in her honor, the herald announced a play, "The Woodland Princess." This play was written by Mrs. Maxwell Perkins, a former graduate of the Seminary; the music was written by Harvey Worthington Loomis.

From the beginning where Elsa, the Woodland Princess, tells the fairy that her heart's desire is to be made perfectly beautiful in order that she may become the bride of Prince Mimblepeg, to the final chorus which assures us that "they all lived happily ever after," the play is bubbling over with wit and incident. The flower fairies have much to do with the happy ending, and they themselves are quite irresistible.

The jolly, tumbling dandelions, the prim forget-me-nots, the swaying poppies, the busy gnomes, the graceful roses, add to the play a fascinating medley of color, motion and song. The rose dance which was particularly well received was drilled by Mrs. Morris J. Dumont. The costumes, many of which were designed by Miss Gabrielle McQuaide, were charming. The parts, without exception, were well taken. The cast was as follows:

Buttercup, Carol Benton; Elderberry, Winfred Eaton; Prince Mimblepeg, Gladys Herbert; Lord High Bethrothal Maker, Elizabeth Fullerton; Elsa, Theresa Sharretts; Fairy, Monica Sharretts; Poppy, Miss Marie Boies; Dindlebender, Augusta Clawson; Water-sprite, Dorothy Huntsman.

Wild roses—Elsbeth Benton, Kathryn Borden, Marion Howard, Florence Huntsman, Dorothy Langford, Kate Lee, Katharine Sill, Helen Shoemaker, Margaret Tyler, Dorothy White, Maude White, Irma Williams; Gnomes — Dindelbender, Augusta Clawson; Frances Corbusier, Marian Cowperthwait, Mary Rose Eaton, Helen McMenimen; Poppie—Miss Marie Boies, Elizabeth Cooke, May de Forest, Carolyn Hyde, Margery Kirkner, Phoebe Moore, Elsie Munro, Frances Shaw, Dorothy Troth; Forget-me-nots—Beatrice Rhoades, Helen Runkle, Alison VanBuren, Virginia Rowland, Marguerite Detwiller, Katherine Collens, Eleanor Boardman, Elizabeth Tyler, Virginia Cooke, Edith Tyler, Louise Waring, Emily deForest; Dandelions—Frances Abbe, James Case, Jr., Katharine Cochran, Mary Elizabeth Genung, Penelope Overton, Katherine Swan, Charles Everest.

In the interlude of fun and frolic which followed the play the children played games, many danced before the queen, and three really funny clowns made merry on the green.

The interlude was followed by a May-pole dance executed by sixteen dainty maids in Kate Greenaway costumes. Weaving in and out around the flower-crowned pole they made a pleasing picture.

An old English song sung by the school made a fitting conclusion for the afternoon's delightful program.

1100 LIVES LOST WITH "EMPRESS OF IRELAND"

Liner, With 1422 Aboard, Sinks After Collision With Collier.

ONLY 337 RESCUED—22 OF THEM DIED

Vessels Were Travelling in Dense Fog When Accident Happened at 2:30 This Morning—Empress of Ireland Sank Within Ten Minutes—Rescued Brought to Father Point, Quebec.

Father Point, Quebec, May 29.—Eleven hundred or more lives were lost early this morning when the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company's steamship Empress of Ireland collided in a heavy fog with the collier Storstad twenty miles off this point. The accident occurred at 2:30 o'clock, and of the 1422 souls on board the vessel only 337 were rescued, and of those twenty-two died after reaching shore. The vessel sailed from Quebec yesterday carrying 90 saloon, 250 second cabin and 650 steerage passengers, and a crew of 432 men. She had a large mail and general cargo. Included among the passengers were many members of the Salvation Army, who were on their way to the International Conference of the Army at London.

The latest and most authentic report is that 337 were saved when the boat sank, twenty-two of whom died after reaching land. Twelve women were among the rescued. The remainder of the 1422 on board are lost. The Storstad, although badly damaged, was able to proceed slowly toward Quebec. She took on a pilot here. Her bow is low down in the water, but she will be able to reach Quebec under her own steam.

The impact when the two boats met was tremendous, and the Empress of Ireland sank within ten minutes in 16 fathoms of water. Hardly had her wireless operator been able to send out the message "save our ship," when she went, with all but 337 of her human freight to the bottom. The wireless message was received by White, the operator here, and he instantly notified the commanders of the Canadian Government steamer "Eureka" and the mail boat "Lady Evelyn" which were nearby. Commander Belanger, of the Eureka put on all steam, and must have reached the scene of the accident within forty-five minutes after the disaster. When daylight broke the Storstad could be seen on the horizen with the aid of a telescope, and the Eureka and Lady Evelyn were observed in the midst of nine lifeboats. The Eureka returned to Rimouski wharf with 32 survivors and several bodies. Later the Lady Evelyn and Storstad arrived with more survivors and bodies, all of which were landed at the Rimouski wharf.

Captain Kendall is reported saved, having been found in the wreckage by lifeboats, after the Empress foundered.

Shortly before four o'clock daylight began to break, and the operator at the Father Point wireless station was able to see several lifeboats in the distance, as well as the Eureka, but no signs of the Empress of Ireland. The Eureka was in the center of the group of life boats, which were about twenty miles off shore.

The Storstad is a vessel of 3,561 tons, and has been engaged for some time carrying coal between Sydney, N. S., Quebec and Montreal. She had a crew of about 48 men.

Quebec, May 29.—Hope that the Empress of Ireland accident had been less serious than first reported was given here, when a newspaper correspondent of a local paper wired that no lives had been lost with the vessel. Reassuring bulletins were sent out to the world, and to thousands of anxious relatives in this city, and what gladness they occasioned was soon turned to mourning, when the true conditions of affairs was made known.

KING'S DAUGHTERS BEGIN SUMMER WORK

Urgent Appeal is Made for Funds to Care for Sick Babies.

The City Union of the King's Daughters has about completed arrangements for the resumption of its summer work for the babies, and in order to meet the growing needs it has been decided to employ an additional nurse to look after the diet kitchen and to visit mothers and instruct them in the way of preparing food for their children, and especially formulas.

In order to carry on this work successfully the King's Daughters are in need of funds and according to the annual custom the Daily Press will open its columns for the receipt of contributions and all that are sent to this office will be promptly acknowledged in this newspaper. There are many Plainfielders who have always been regular contributers to this most worthy charity and if they could make their annual donation to the work before going away for the summer it would be appreciated by the King's Daughters.

The playgrounds directly back of The Day Nursery, the gift of T. J. Mumford, are being put in shape and will soon be ready for the children. This will undoubtedly prove one of the best aids in the general work carried on by the King's Daughters. In view of the large and improved equipment at the Day Nursery the summer camp on the mountain has been given up, and the babies are now cared for at the nursery.

A musical service will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday evening at 7:45. Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer" and other selections will be rendered by the full choir of the church. The soprano aria "I Will Extoll Thee," from Costa's "Eli," will be sung by Miss St. Ives, by request. Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist, will assist in the service.

The comrades will meet at the postrooms, in the armory at 9:30 a. m., and proceed to the local cemetery to decorate the graves of deceased comrades. The post will be escorted by the Somerville band, Company M, and the Sons of Veterans. The comrades will be taken to the cemetery in automobiles, where the regular form of service will be observed, after which a short address will be made by Mayor William V. Steele. At the close of the address the benediction will be pronounced, and the comrades will return to the armory and be dismissed.

G. Read, D. D., of Plainfield, and the Rev. Roy E. Vale, pastor of the Second Reformed church, officiating. Interment will be at Corning, N. Y.

William Myers, aged about seventy-five years, was instantly killed shortly before six o'clock last night as he attempted to take a short cut from his home on South street through the railroad yards to the cemetery. With a basket of flowers on his arm he left his home to go to the cemetery to his dead wife's grave. He was quite deaf, and failed to notice the drill engine as it approached from the rear as he walked along the track. The engine was pushing a lot of freight cars, and the engineer failed to see Mr. Myers on the track. Several persons noting Mr. Myers' danger called to him, but on account of his deafness he failed to hear them, and he was badly cut up by the train. This was the third time within three months that a person had been killed near the Somerville depot, within a stone's throw of each other. Mr. Myers was employed for many years by the late John C. Shaw, at Finderne, but for the past few years had made his home with his son-in-law, Marshal Joseph Hanlon, of the Somerville police force. ## VINDICATED PASTOR BEARS NO ILL-WILL

Rev. P. H. Barker Wants Only to Work for Christ - Reformed Church.

Declaring that he cherished no feeling of resentment toward those who have attacked his standing as a churchman, Rev. Percival H. Barker, acting pastor of Christ Reformed church, of Newark, arrived yesterday at his home from Chicago, where he was reinstated in the Presbyterian ministry by the judicial committee of the general assembly.

Mr. Barker said that all he desired now was to forget the unpleasant part of the past year and a half. In his parlor at the parsonage, the minister said:

"The Neosho Presbytery tried to keep my case down to the question of my right to preach during my year of suspension. Through my counsel, William S. Bennett, of New York, I demanded that the judicial committee of the general assembly inquire into the charges on which my suspension had been based. This committee voted to do so, and after an entire afternoon given to the case, vindicated me and reinstated me in the Presbyterian ministry."

The Classis of Newark some time ago took action in the matter of Mr. Barker, and its last act was to pass a resolution dissolving the church's relationship with the Classis. This was taken up on appeal to the General Synod at New Brunswick, and although it did not sustain the action of dissolving the church, it did direct that the church at once sever its relations with Mr. Barker. Just what action the Classis of Newark will now take is not known at the present time.

The Plainfield scouts have received invitations to assist in the exhibition and Scout Master Allen Beals, of this city, will accept on behalf of the locals. Requests have been sent to a number of civic troops in this section and the acceptances that have come in indicate that there will be about 400 in line.

WILL OPEN CIRCUS GROUNDS FOR RESIDENTIAL TRACT

Big preparations are being made for the sale, which will be conducted by William Schorb as auctioneer. A map of the land appears in an advertisement elsewhere in today's paper, as well as a detailed description of the property and terms.

"Count" J. K. VanNess has been the owner of the property for twenty-five years, and has decided now to dispose of it. He will be the major domo in charge of the sale tomorrow and he promises enough attractions to make the sale worth visiting, whether people buy or not. The Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church will provide music, and at 1 o'clock a patriotic program will be rendered in honor of the day, possibly accompanied by a speech by the "Count." The sale will begin at 2 o'clock, and to accommodate people from the center of the city a special trolley cars will be run on the Main Line. There will also be stages and auto buses run from the corner of Park and North avenues, leaving that point at 1 o'clock.

NO LOOKING BACK IN PLAINFIELD.

New Evidence Constantly Being Published.

Since the long succession of Plainfield reports were first published in the local press there has been no looking back. Plainfield evidence continues to pour in, and—better still—those whose reports were first published many years ago, verify all they said in a most hearty and unmistakable way. Read the experience of Mrs. E. Dorflinger, of 500 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J. She says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dorflinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Lower class students in the Plainfield High School and pupils of the primary and grammar grades as well as a number of other interested in high school work, attended the first public performance of the 1914 senior class play given in the Plainfield theatre this afternoon. The production "If I Were King," was given in an admirable way by the amateurs who took part and each appeared to be especially adapted to the role he or she portrayed.

The effective coaching the student cast has received during the weeks of rehearsing has produced a smoothness which was the subject of considerable favorable comment by the critics who attended the first presentation this afternoon.

The production was dramatized by Samuel E. Rowe, formerly of the Plainfield High School faculty, who has served as one of the coaches. It will be repeated in the theatre tomorrow night.

MARRIAGE IS POPULAR WITH TELEPHONE OPERATORS

"The Telephone Girl," was the subject of an interesting talk given by John J. Carthy of the local commercial office of the New York Telephone Company, at the "ladies' night" affair of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, last night. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Carty reviewed the phenomenal growth of the telephone company's business, until today there are 60,000 operators employed by the Bell system, exclusive of private switchboard operators which would bring the total up to 100,000.

Mr. Carty explained somewhat in detail the system employed for the training of operators, and the methods adopted for giving the best possible telephone service. He said that the average length of service of the telephone girl is about three years. At the end of that time she forsake the mysteries of the switchboard to become acquainted with the mysteries of the cook stove. In France this trouble is overcome to some extent by reason of the fact that operators sign a contract not to get married unless permission is obtained from the postmaster-general. There the telephone is controlled by the government.

A social time followed the address, during which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Miles and Mrs. Weaver engaged in a spirited encounter, with Mrs. Weaver once within a point of the match in the third set. Mrs. McLean, former State champion, also had her trouble in defeating Miss Wildey, just pulling out the match after a hard second set.

In the second round of the mixed doubles Miss Wildey and Mrs. Natalie Farlely, both of this city, defeated Miss Barr and Miss Shearer, 6-1, 6-4.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 29, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. Because of the holiday tomorrow the editorial for this week is published today. The contributing editor for today is George P. Mellick, President of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

The people of Plainfield are called upon, year by year, to give financial support to philanthropic and charitable work, and for many years a large amount of beneficial aid has been given for the care of the sick and suffering at Muhlenberg Hospital. Those associated with this institution are desirous that every one should be familiar with facts regarding its management; it belongs to the people of Plainfield—it is their money which makes it possible to carry on this good work, therefore, I am prompted to submit to your readers a resume of the affairs of the Hospital.

The doors of Muhlenberg Hospital are always open for the care of the sick, without regard to race, creed or color. No one is refused admittance by reason of inability to pay.

SERVICE.

The general wards accommodate twenty male and twenty female patients, and to those who are able to pay, $1.00 a day is charged. Ward patients are under the care of the physicians and surgeons on general service, no charge being made for medical attendance or nursing.

The new fireproof private room building has accommodations for twenty-five beds in semi-private service at a charge of $2.50 a day for each bed.

There are also nineteen private rooms in this new building and patients occupying these private rooms are charged from $3.50 to $5.50 per day according to particular room occupied. These charges do not include the fee of physician or surgeon in charge of the case.

The campaign of two years ago made it possible to create in this new private room building comforts and conveniences equal to those in any hospital building of like character in the State.

OBSTETRICAL DEPARTMENT.

Emergency cases are received in the general ward of the Obstetrical Department without charge if the patient is absolutely unable to pay. The regular ward service charge is a flat rate of $20.00 for each obstetrical case, no extra charge being made for services of doctors and nurses, or for use of delivery room. Patients in general ward of this department will be in charge of the obstetrician on general service.

Semi-Private Service—Obstetrical Department—Inside room $2.50 per day for each bed; corner room, $3.00 per day for each bed; use of delivery room, $3.00.

Private Service—Room, $4.50 to $5.50 per day; use of delivery room, $5.00.

DISPENSARY SERVICE.

Treatment in the various clinics is given only to those in indigent circumstances, and applicants for treatment must comply with the Hospital rules.

Patients will not be received in any clinic out of regular hours, except in case of emergency or by special appointment.

The days and hours for the various clinics in the Dispensary is as follows.

(a) General Medical and Surgical. Daily except Sundays and Holidays from 10:00 to 10:30 A. M.

(b) Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Mondays and Thursdays, 3:00 P. M.

(c) Orthopoedic. Thursday, 10:30 A. M.

(d) Dermatological. Thursday, 3:00 P. M.

(e) Dental. Tuesday and Friday, 3:30 P. M.

(f) Genito-Urinary. Tuesdays and Saturdays, 9:30 A. M.

When a clinic falls on a holiday it is held on the next following business day.

AMBULANCE RULES.

The Hospital ambulance is quartered at the Plainfield Police headquarters and may be summoned by telephone for emergency cases, the cause of the emergency or accident being stated. The Hospital will be notified immediately by Police Headquarters as to where the ambulance has been sent. Except for emergency cases as above provided, all calls for the ambulance must be made direct to the general office of the Hospital. The ambulance will not be provided for any case of contagious disease. A charge of $3.00 will be made for ambulance service for a patient taken to or from the Hospital from any part of Plainfield or North Plainfield. The Superintendent will supply information as to charges for service outside of said localities.

It is appreciated by the Governors that the ambulance service is very inefficient. The Hospital should have an automobile ambulance, and it would welcome such a gift with a small endowment to meet the expenses incidental to its maintenance, or else the city should meet this emergency. The situation which faces the Governors in regard to the need of an automobile ambulance is similar to the problem of the Isolation Ward; thus far, the Hospital has done its best in being able to care for one infectious disease at a time. The Governors are perfectly willing to bear the burden of the management of additional isolation facilities, but the public, in one way or another must provide the money.

There has been no error made in the erection of the new fire-proof private room building; it is something which has been needed for years, and it is only a matter of a few years when it will prove inadequate for the demands upon it. At the present time plans are being prepared for the creation of a Children's Ward and alterations in the Administration Building as outlined at the time of the campaign, all of which will be paid for from campaign funds still remaining on hand for this purpose.

The Hospital today could make use (with the greatest benefit to the community) of about $7,000 for a new modern up-to-date kitchen building; and an addition to the Nurses' Home, which is also very much needed, costing about $6,000 or $7,000. We are hoping that some generous hearted citizen will provide these extra benefits some day.

The public must not grow weary of the demands on behalf of the Hospital—you cannot take care of the sick and suffering without spending money.

Muhlenberg Hospital is economically administered, yet it is ever in urgent need of money, because of the desire to have the service as efficient as possible, the superior work done by our doctors of Plainfield bringing a greater number of people to its doors than ever before. The number of operations performed at Muhlenberg Hospital is greater than at any other Hospital of like size in the State.

The management is untiring in its efforts to give satisfactory service in the care of the sick and injured, and it is recognized with regret that many of our citizens are ever ready to criticize, and sometimes most unjustly, because little effort is made by the public to prove rumors, often based on hear-say statements.

At the office of the Hospital, or through the medium of the Medical Director, Dr. F. C. Ard, or by direct inquiry to any governor, any criticism or complaint may be filed, and will be thoroughly investigated.

The amount of good work done by the Hospital, and the amount of absolute charity work done, should arouse in the hearts of citizens a spirit of enthusiasm for the institution. This would do much towards recompensing the Governors, who for years past have given their time and labor to the administration of the Hospital's affairs.

Some wonder why the Hospital cannot be made self-supporting; it must be remembered that there are many cared for at the Hospital who pay nothing—40 per cent. to 50 per cent. of all the work done being absolute charity. It costs to maintain each ward patient $2.25 a day, and when the Hospital receives but $1.00 a day in the general wards for each patient, the difference in cost of $1.25 must be recognized as charity service. We shall always have the poor and sick to care for, and the joy of aiding in this work can only be understood by those who are ready to give. There are many people of Plainfield who have never been annual contributors to the Hospital, whose names it is hoped will some day be on the list. Mr. Arthur M. Collins, Treasurer, Watchung Avenue, will welcome contributions.

Any citizen of Plainfield who desires to visit the Hospital and to look into the important work which it is accomplishing, will receive a cordial reception there.

Only those who are associated with its management know of the fatigue and burden incidental to administering to Hospital affairs. Those who are doing this work have nothing to gain themselves other than the thought of doing God's service. Let those who are sometimes inclined to criticize the Hospital bear this in mind, and endeavor to acquaint themselves with the amount of beneficial work which the institution is constantly rendering.

GEORGE P. MELLICK.

SCOTCH TEA GIVEN BY MISSION SOCIETY

Novel Affair Enjoyed by Women of First Presbyterian Church.

Under the auspices of the industrial committee of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church a novel affair in the form of a "Scotch Tea" was given in the chapel of the church, yesterday afternoon. Those who had charge of the affair were either born in Scotland or Scottish descent, and from a social standpoint it was a great success. There were about sixty guests.

Following the tea at which Scotch dishes were served in a real Scotch way, there was an informal program of music, Mrs. William Thorn and Mrs. E. W. Poinier singing popular Scotch songs.

Mrs. Poinier was at the piano. The social features were greatly enjoyed following the tea and musicale.

Mrs. Alexander Campbell was general chairman of the affair, and others who presided at the different tables were Mrs. John Walker, Mrs. Campbell McKillip, Mrs. J. H. ## EDGAR A. KNAPP IS GIVEN A VERDICT

Full Amount of $1,000 is Allowed in Suit Against W. J. Buttfield.

Elizabeth, May 29—Edward A. Knapp, of this city, was given a verdict for the full amount, $1,000 and costs in his suit against William J. Butterfield, of Plainfield, which was concluded here yesterday before Judge Speer and a jury. Mr. Knapp sought to recover for services in adjusting the fire insurance loss for Mr. Buttfield following the destruction of his dwelling in North Plainfield on the night of February 6, 1912.

Mr. Buttfield contended that he had never made any arrangements with Mr. Knapp for adjusting the loss in his behalf, but G. W. V. Moy through witnesses showed that Mr. Buttfield, following the fire informed his broker, W. H. Perrin, formerly of this city, and the latter turned over the business to Mr. Knapp, who in turn saw Mr. Buttfield and finally adjusted the loss. It was shown that Mr. Buttfield recovered $51,000 for his loss. His counsel in the action was Vail & McLean, of this city, who were assisted by a New York lawyer.

LOCAL TRUST COMPANIES PASSED COUNTERFEIT BILLS

A representative of the Secret Service Department visited police headquarters this afternoon to obtain evidence concerning the passage of counterfeit $5 bills in this city recently. Six of the bogus bills were recently taken in by the Plainfield Trust Company and the State Trust Company and were such perfect duplications that discovery was not made until they reached a bank in New York.

The metropolitan authorities turned the matter over to the secret service and an investigation in this city has been the result. Counterfeiters have been operating this scheme within a 150 mile radius of New York and have been particularly successful in Passaic. The bill has the Indian head and the design is an exact duplicate of the genuine article. The discovery was made by the fact that the counterfeits are a trifle longer than the original.

FIVE PERMITS ISSUED AGGREGATING $7,000

Building Conditions Are Improving According to Agent W. H. Lunger.

Five new building permits were issued during the past week by Inspector T. O. Doane, the approximate cost of which will aggregate $7,000. This month's activities in the building line amounts to $14,487 for new buildings, and $7,925 for alterations. This is a comparatively small amount for the month of May. A comparative statement will appear in our issue of next week.

William H. Lunger, business agent of the local Carpenters' Union, in discussing the building situation, recently with a representative of the Daily Press, indicated that while the conditions were not the best, they were improving as fast as financial conditions would permit. The winter had been an unusually hard season, people who had asked for bids were holding back, and much of the activity experienced at this stage of the previous years, was this year missing.

While many of the aspects of the local building conditions are somewhat discouraging, much work had been started late all, but discontinued during the winter months and is now engaging the attention of many of the trades mechanics. Among these structures, is the one in the course of construction at West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. This is a two story structure, with provisions for a store on the first floor with apartments above. This building is being erected by the Bloom Contracting Company.

First Ward.

The Vitaphone Company will erect a 32x15 foot re-enforced concrete building in which their forge and smithing work is to be done. This structure will be placed on the rear of their lot at 1112 North avenue, across the tracks from the Netherwood railroad station. The cost of this building will be in the vicinity of $350.

Second Ward.

P. Gustave Meissner has been granted a permit to put an extension to his dwelling at 145 East Fifth street. The alteration will be fifteen feet front, seven feet rear, twenty feet deep and two stories high. The foundation will be of concrete and crushed stone, while the superstructure will be of pressed brick and terra cotta block. The cost of this extension will be $1,000. Gustave Meissner, Jr., has the contract.

G. H. Earle is to place a fourteen by nine feet extension to the rear of his residence at 908 Watchung avenue. The foundation will be of cement with a frame superstructure The cost will be $700. M. D. O'Keeffe is the contractor.

Third Ward.

Hervinia B. Smith, of 977 Madison avenue, will erect a 16x6 feet addition to the dwelling at the above address. The structure will have a brick foundation, frame structure and will be two stories high. The cost of the improvements will aggregate $1,950. Leland Manning is the mason and James C. Manning the carpenter.

F. W. Houseman, of 921 West Fourth street, has been granted a permit to erect a one family, two and a half story dwelling at 1134-1136 West Sixth street at a cost of $3,000, to be occupied by the owner when completed. A modern hot water heating system is to be installed. Edward Daniel, of Dunellen, is the architect as well as carpenter contractor. F. Joyce, also of Dunellen, is the mason.

FREEHOLDERS ARE PLANNING COURT HOUSE IMPROVEMENTS

William Ackerman, of Ackerman & Ross, the architects of the Union county court house, met with the building and grounds committee of the Board of Freeholders yesterday for the purpose of obtaining instructions for preparing a set of plans for converting the large reception room on the fourth floor into quarters suitable for the grand jury chamber. While there he went through the building and greeted a number of the officials he had met while the structure was in course of erection.

PROPERTIES TRANSFERRED BY UNDER-SHERIFF KIRKLAND

Two sales conducted Wednesday at public vendue at the sheriff's office by Under-Sheriff Kirkland transferred property from the former owners, against whom the actions were brought, to the complainants bringing them. Both properties were in this city.

William G. Hagmann appeared as the buyer in one sale, which brought $2,500 for two tracts of property in Everett place. It was formerly owned by Ellery A. Whitman.

Samuel Koestler, of Elizabeth, was the buyer of the other property. He was acting as the receiver of the Hausbeck-Smith Lumber Company against Ellery A. Whitman, the same defendant as named in the other action. Mr. Koestler bid $100 for other property in Everett place.

BUILDING TRADES SHOW FALLING OFF FOR APRIL

Building trades throughout the country showed a great falling off during the month of April over the same month of 1913. The city of Newark returns for that month showed a falling off of fifty-seven per cent. while five other New Jersey cities from which the Construction News, of Chicago, gathered reports for April show advances as follows: Passaic, 170 per cent.; Paterson, 95 per cent.; Hoboken, 76 per cent.; Trenton, 31 per cent., and Elizabeth, 13 per cent.

Building in the larger cities in the South and East decreased materially during April of this year, while cities in the middle West, such as Cleveland, Cincinnati, Duluth, San Jose, Seattle and Dayton, O., showed increases. Of the seventy-seven cities reported by the Construction News, forty-four show a decrease.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES IN UNION COUNTY PROMISING

Building activities throughout the county have a brighter outlook, as many public and semi-public buildings are being planed, aside from the many dwellings and business blocks which are now in the course of construction in several parts of the county.

Among the more important buildings either now being erected or being planned are the High School at Westfield, with 12,500 square feet of floor space; a $25,000 addition to the Nurses' Home at Elizabeth; a three story brick structure at Roselle for Sherwin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and two school buildings at Linden. The aggregate cost of these buildings will amount to a hundred thousand dollars.

PROSPERITY IS ON THE WAY, IT IS REPORTED

Prosperity, according to statements recently made by two captains of industry, is on the way, and should reach here in the near future. J. A. Farrel, president of the United States Steel Corporation, who recently returned from a visit to Europe, said there were indications that business throughout the world was gradually emerging from an unsatisfactory condition to one in which commercial confidence, was being re-established.

President Herr, of the Westinghouse Electric Company, says to the newspapers: "I can tell you that the business depression which began last November is vanishing, and all the indications are for an improvement, not rapid but permanent and it is better than to have one that is spasmodic and then to have to suffer another slump."

PROSPECT OF TROLLEY BOOMS REAL ESTATE

Considerable Building and Land Development in Progress at So. Plainfield.

Real estate is taking on a brighter aspect in South Plainfield, as the prospects for the proposed trolley line loom up. Several dwellings are now in the course of construction in the village, besides several houses which are contemplated by holders of realty in the Middlesex town.

During the course of the past week, F. A. Dunham, of this city, has been surveying several tracts for the Twin State Realty Company which anticipates laying out a large number of building lots on both sides of the Lehigh tracks. Aside from this, it is understood that the realty company has under consideration, the erection of several houses in the immediate future which will keep a number of mechanics busy well into the summer.

There is no doubt many other dwellings would be started should the Public Utilities Commission decide in favor of having the trolley line extended to the village. It was announced at the last hearing on this project that the Spicer Manufacturing Company would move their local plant to South Plainfield should the trolley line be realized. This in itself would justify the construction of several houses and other buildings necessary to accommodate the influx of population which would naturally follow such a move.

A member of the Board of Trade recently made the statement that the trolley line would mean a boom in the real estate values, a great boom in the building trades and an increase in population should the traction extension be made, regardless as to whether the Lehigh kept pace with the times with its passenger train service. There is no doubt, however, that this service should be improved should there be any change in the conditions and size of the population along the course of the Lehigh.

JUST NOTES

The real estate season has been officially opened and the auction sales of home building sites are in order. Last week many lots were sold in the Hudson Terrace tract, the borough, by this method, and another sale is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. "Westfield Garden" lots are to be placed under the hammer next month and our neighboring town is anticipating another boom. Possibly no other town in the State has enjoyed such real estate progress as has Westfield during the past decade.

The Hudson river and Newark bay bridges are now advocated on many sides by real estate men, while others of a more conservative trend of mind are adverse to such action on the ground that these improvements would cost either the county or the State too much money. The progress of the State, the county and the community, however, demands the expenditure of money, whether it is real estate progress or advancement in any other direction of civic life. Both of these projects would tend to relieve over-congested communities and build up undeveloped sections of the country, thus benefitting both those who lose the surplus population, and those who gain the inhabitants.

The question of taxation is of importance to every real estate man and home owner. On this page next week, it is hoped to have an article on the single tax question, as it has been worked out in Houston, Texas. The same State is the home of the Commission Form of Government, which has now spread to all parts of the country. For this reason, if for no other, this article should prove interesting to local property owners.

New Brunswick is coming into her share of public improvements. The contracts for the new armory were recently let, and now bids are being asked for improvements to the courthouse. The Webb Wire Works, of that place, is also having a new addition erected to their building.

Permits for buildings in Elizabeth during last week called for the expenditure of $50,575. The county seat is moving along at a rapid pace.

Mayor Frederick Donnelly, of Trenton, in a letter to William C. Heppenheimer, of Jersey City, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, declares that he always has wished it possible that some one would urge upon the State of New Jersey to buy a strip of land a mile wide, in the center of which would be the ship canal and the remainder could be used as manufacturing sites. Mr. Donnelly, who was president of the canal commission, which was absorbed by the New Jersey Harbor Board, tells Mr. Heppenheimer that it is the self-imposed duty of the State Chamber of Commerce to force with vigor the completion of the canal.

Arrangements have been perfected by the commissioners of the county board of taxation for an inspection today of waterfront properties in Linden and Elizabeth. The inspection will be made jointly with assessors of the various districts in which the properties are situated, the entire frontage of the two municipalities on Staten Island sound being covered.

BECKER SENTENCED TO PAY DEATH PENALTY

Calmly Goes Through Ordeal For Second Time.

New York, May 29.—Charles Becker, former head of the "strong arm" squad, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was sentenced for the second time today to pay the death penalty in the electric chair at Sing Sing.

Becker still maintained the stoic demeanor that characterized him throughout the trial as he heard the death sentence pronounced by Justice Seabury. One of the characteristics of Becker is his superstition. He did not want his case to go to the jury on Friday, although things shaped themselves so that it did. Previously the ex-police lieutenant had asked his attorney, Martin Manton, to stretch out the proceeding in such a way that what he considers a baleful day might pass. This Manton was unable to do.

When the court convened Mr. Manton made the usual motion for a new trial and some further delay in sending the twice convicted man to the death house. Justice Seabury refused to grant them and signed the death warrant, which was turned over to Sheriff Grifenhagen.

The law allows eight weeks from the time of the passing of the sentence and the date fixed for the convicted man to die. It has been the general custom to allow six weeks, and it is believed that Justice Seabury will conform to this custom.

The investigation into perjury charges against some of the police witnesses who testified for Becker went on before the grand jury. Only one witness was before the jury during the morning session. His name was not made public.

43 YEARS IN CHURCH CHOIR

had about the smallest organ that could be built, and one of the worst of its size. I was somewhat at a loss to know what our organist could do on the large organ, and while standing in front of the church, a boy (I may say) came up to me, and asked if I wanted an organist. I asked him if he knew anything about the Episcopal service, and he said No! I then asked him if he had ever played a chant, and he said he had played The Lord's Prayer, which I told him was a good start. I took him into the choir, and had him play the last hymn, and closing Voluntary. That was enough. I took him into my arms at once, and for eight years this boy, Lewis H. Moore, then of Plainfield, was our organist, and no better could be found in our city, and he compared most favorably with organists in New York and elsewhere.

"I attribute my success with the music of Grace church, to the fact that I always had a good organist to back me up, and never attempted to sing any music that was beyond the capabilities of the tenor. Those of the congregation who were members during the first epoch will agree with me that the music of the church was exceptionally well rendered, and during that time, I cannot secure any adverse criticisms, but countless expressions of pleasure, at the rendering of the service, in all its detail. When the church was moved down town in 1876, my second epoch commenced.

"The choir continued as a quartet, with Mr. Moore as organist. At the expiration of eight years, Mr. Moore was engaged as organist in Christ church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. William A. Freemen, who was contralto of the choir, was appointed organist, and held the position for twenty-five years. It will appear from this that I was never without an organist of ability, and my success with the choir continued as heretofore.

"For a length of time the choir continued as a quartet, but the desire for a chorus in addition, was so earnest that Mrs. Freeman undertook this most important change, with great success, as the congregation so well know. Of course, I was not able to drill and develop a choir of this magnitude, so Mrs. Freeman became the sole manager of the music.

"This closes the periods in which I had the most interest, although I shall always feel that I am a member of the choir, until my voice gives out entirely, which will occur during the third epoch."

Monday evening a reception will be tendered Mr. Cock from 8 to 11 o'clock in the Grace church parish house, to which all old friends are cordially invited.

A large photograph of Mr. Cock by Miss Edith Tracy has been framed and presented to the church.

In Memoriam

All honor to the Boys of '61. Tomorrow is their day—may it be a glorious one—and may they see many more to come!

Tomorrow our nation pauses to do honor to them—

THE DEAD AND THE LIVING.

To strew flowers upon the graves of those who have gone—and to pay a tribute to the living of that once great army.

The ranks are fast thinning.

Fewer of the Old Boys march to the graves of their comrades tomorrow than on yester-year.

BRAVE MEN—they need no eulogizing. This great nation as it stands united from ocean to ocean, is a monument far greater and better than any which money can buy or hands erect!

OPPOSE EUGENIC LAW.

Physicians Think It Would Result In Increased Illegitimacy.

Baltimore, May 29.—Distinguished physicians at the meeting of the Medico-Psychological association at the Hotel Belvidere refused to indorse eugenic marriage. A resolution declaring that "a clean bill of health" and "the evidences of a normal mind" be required of persons desiring to be married was overwhelmingly defeated.

There was practically no discussion on the resolution. Dr. William T. White of the Government hospital at Washington said if the association adopted the resolution it would start much ill considered legislation.

It was the opinion of the physicians that laws compelling eugenic marriages would result in numerous illegitimate unions, with a general reduction in the number of marriages.

PLAINFIELD'S LINEUP FOR SUNDAY DIAMOND GAME

The Plainfield Sunday B. B. C. has its grandstand and playing field completed and is now preparing to handle one of the largest crowds of the season at the South Plainfield Park, Sunday. The St. Anthonys, of Perth Amboy, one of the fastest semi-pro teams in this vicinity, will be the attraction and it is certain that they will bring a large delegation of Amboy fans with them.

Although about 500 fans from this city and South Plainfield were on hand last Sunday when the Maurer A. C., of Staten Island, defeated Plainfield in the opening game of the season, Manager McDonough is confident of drawing double that number when the St. Anthonys play. The Auto Bus Company will run all their buses at 10 minute intervals from this city to and from the ball grounds and Manager Campbell claims he can transport all the fans who are anxious to see a good Sunday game by a representative Plainfield team.

The lineup next Sunday will be, J. Dixon or Frederickson p, Lou Dixon c, Garretson 1b, Martin 2b, Jaeger ss, Tommy Mullin 3b, Miller, Alberts and Wilson in the outfield.

Certified Pure Natural Ice

Dr. C. E. A. WINSLOW

Professor of Biology, College of City of New York, says in concluding his address on

"Factors of Sanitary Safety in a Natural Ice Supply"

"Add to the great forces of nature which make your ice, and purify it for you, the supervision of skilled and impartial experts and you may well be satisfied with the sanitary aspects of the great food product in which you deal. There is small danger to the public health from any ice supply. And Natural Ice, inspected and shown to be clean by chemical and bacteriological examination, is as near perfection as anything even the most exacting sanitarian can possibly demand."

The CERTIFICATION of our Ice puts it in the class mentioned by Dr. Winslow. Is it not a conclusive argument that you ought to use our Ice freely. Let us serve you.

N. Y. C. AND B. & O. NOW FACE PROBE

New Investigation Into Finances of Roads.

VITAL ISSUES PASSED ON

Norris Says Central Violates Trust Law—Interstate Board After Ohio Merger—Light Asked on C., H. and D. Indebtedness.

Washington, May 29.—A vigorous probe into two important railroad systems of the United States is now planned.

The interstate commerce commission announced that it will undertake an inquiry into the financial relationship existing between the Baltimore and Ohio and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railway. In the senate a resolution was introduced by Senator Norris of Nebraska calling upon the attorney general to advise the senate whether the New York Central and Hudson River railroad and its subsidiaries are in an unlawful combination in restraint of trade. The Norris resolution asks further if the attorney general answers in the affirmative why he had not proceeded against this system under the Sherman anti-trust law to enforce a dissolution.

The conditions which the Norris resolution are aimed at involve the New York Central's new scheme of financing its properties, which contemplates the amalgamation of the New York Central with the Lake Shore and some other subsidiaries. The interstate commerce commission recently investigated this plan in response to a senate resolution and found that it seemed to be necessary to accept the purposes that the Central officials had in mind. While giving the Central a clean bill of health in most respects, the interstate commerce commission declined to express any opinion as to whether or not the new plan would constitute a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. They held that this was a matter for another department to pass upon; hence the Norris resolution calling upon the attorney general for an opinion.

Baltimore and Ohio More Imoortant.

The interstate commerce commission's in regard to the Baltimore and Ohio is of more immediate importance. The commission announced that its inquiry is to be conducted in connection with the advanced rate case. Its obvious purpose, therefore, is to ascertain whether the relationship between the Baltimore and Ohio and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton has any bearing upon the financial needs of the former road as set forth in the advanced rate case.

The announcement of this hearing came as a surprise to persons who have been following the commission's proceedings on the application of the railroads for a 5 per cent freight increase. It had been expected that the next move by the commission would be the handing down of a decision; in fact, there have been reports for a week or more that the commission already had determined upon its findings.

The hearing in regard to the Baltimore and Ohio will be held by Chairman Harlan. It will be based on charges made to the commission by Representative Fowler of Illinois. Mr. Fowler charges that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, when it took over the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, became liable for obligations amounting to $100,000,000 and that this is one of the reasons why the Baltimore and Ohio now needs increased revenue to meet its expenses.

Mr. Fowler has insisted for some time that an investigation into the business relations between the Baltimore and Ohio, Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and the Pere Marquette railroad, through J. P. Morgan & Co., would yield information that the interstate commerce commission ought to have.

GIANINI NOT GUILTY.

Because of Criminal Imbecility, the Jury Decides.

Herkimer, N. Y., May 29.—The jury in the Jean Gianini case returned a verdict of not guilty because of criminal imbecility.

"Jean Gianini will be sentenced to Matteawan for life. I will prepare the papers at once," said Justice Davendorf, after the jury had brought in the verdict of not guilty.

Katherine Gianini of New York, the twenty-year-old sister of the prisoner, hugged John F. McIntyre and burst into hysterical weeping when the foreman announced the verdict.

Miss Lida Beecher, teacher in the high school of Poland village, Herkimer county, was killed by her wayward pupil, Jean Gianini, March 28 last. The teacher was twenty-one years old, the boy seventeen. The boy had just left a protectory.

THAW OFF TO SUMMER HOME

Concord, N. H., May 29.—Harry K. Thaw left here for Gorham, N. H., where he will spend the summer at the Mount Madison House.

He was accompanied by Sheriff Holman A. Drew and others, with nine trunks, ten traveling bags and a lot of fishing tackle.

You Help in Rendering Good Telephone Service

THERE are three important factors necessary in rendering good telephone service:
1. The Party who is calling.
2. The Telephone Operator.
3. You.

When a customer desires to reach you by telephone, and the operator finds that your telephone is busy, she is obliged to report: "Line's busy." It is her way of saying: "His telephone door is closed." She has done her part; the person calling has done his.

You can help in rendering good telephone service by providing telephone facilities adequate to prevent frequent "Busy" reports.

Upon request we shall be glad to furnish a record showing the number of times your line has been reported "Busy" and recommend the facilities necessary in order to KEEP YOUR TELEPHONE DOOR OPEN AT ALL TIMES.

REO TOURING CAR ALSO ROADSTER

Nobody doubts that Reo the Fifth is the best built car in its class. It embodies all Mr. Olds' extremes, based on 27 years of car building.

It takes six weeks to build each car, because of the utter exactness, the countless tests and inspections.

The steel is twice analyzed. The gears are tested for 75,000 pounds per tooth, the springs for 100,000 vibrations.

The car has 15 roller bearings, 190 drop forgings. It has a costly clutch which prohibits all gear clashing. It has the simplest gear-shift in the world.

All driving parts are built one-half stronger than necessary—built to meet the requirements of a 50-horsepower engine.

10,000-MILE TESTS

Test cars with this chassis have for years been kept running at high speed night and day on rough roads. After 10,000 miles of reckless driving the test car is taken apart, and every driving part is required to show up in almost perfect condition.

No other modest priced car has ever been built in this slow, careful, costly way. But the result is a car that stays new. It saves the average user hundreds of dollars in troubles, repairs and upkeep.

Men who know are buying cars like this. The spring demand is always twice the factory output. March sales have broken every record.

We urge men who may want this honest car to come and see it now.

NEEDLEWORK

14613

Along with the Spring house cleaning comes the time for renovating. Attractive covers for the cushions of a Morris chair may be made of velvet, rep, crafts canvas or plain upholstering material, and stenciled with the pattern 14613. This pattern contains 4 designs, suitable for use on pillows, runners, bureau-scarfs, curtains or couch-covers, which may be developed in two or more colors.

This work is very easy to do, if the directions are followed. There are two essential points to be remembered, however, always have a dry blotter beneath the material, and be sure the brush is rubbed almost dry before applying it to the material.

Full directions for stenciling and the materials to be used are given on the pattern envelope.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

8221

Children's fashions follow more or less the lines of the grown-up modes, omitting, however the freakish ideas. We have come to realize that common sense is the first requisite in the child's wardrobe. This little dress number 8221 has a drop shoulder, a long-waisted blouse and a skirt attached under a deep belt. It is suitable to serge, linen or one of the heavy cottons and may be trimmed with eyelet embroidery or a contrasting material. It is pleasing to finish collar and sleeves with a narrow frill of embroidery, batiste or net. These may be easily removed when soiled. # Some Cookery Suggestions

PIQUANT CANAPES.

THESE dainty appetizers may be prepared of various foods to give relish to summer foods. Fish canapes are especially nice.

Fish Appetizers.

Lobster Canape.—Take rounds of fried bread and spread with lobster butter. Place a piece of lobster that has been previously marinaded in oil, vinegar, salt and pepper in the center and surround it with a row of capers. It is now ready for serving.

Shrimp Canapes.—Cut slices of bread a quarter of an inch thick with a two inch cutter. Fry them in clarified butter till a light golden brown. When cold spread them with shrimp butter and decorate each with a circle of shrimps' tails. In the center place a little chopped parsley and serve. One or two capers may be used in place of the parsley.

Nut and Meat Dainties.

Tongue Canapes.—Chop cold cooked tongue very fine and mix to a paste with cream cheese. To each brick or roll of the cheese allow half a cupful of minced tongue, a heaping tablespoonful of capers minced and salt and pepper to suit the taste. Spread on triangles of entire wheat bread and garnish with minced sweet green pepper.

Fancy Canapes.—Mix half a cupful of finely chopped chicken and half a cupful of finely chopped lean ham with two ounces of creamed butter. Season to taste and spread on saltine crackers. Cut red beef tongue into small, thin diamonds and put five of them together in the center of the canape to form a star. Dip the edges of the canape into finely chopped pistachio nuts, to form a thin border.

Delicious Side Dish.

Nut and Olive Canapes.—Cut bread in crescents or rounds and fry a nice brown in deep fat. Mince together equal quantities of olives, sweet red pepper (pimentoes) and pecan nuts. Mix to a paste with mayonnaise, a little whipped cream and spread on the fried bread. Garnish with cream cheese mixed with cream to enable you to press it through a pastry tube. The pimento may be used also as a garnish.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— What the Little Flag Said to Fred.

He Would Drill the Soldiers.

DADDY knew the children felt tired. The day after a holiday they always did, and Evelyn looked very sleepy.

So he decided that he would not tell them a very long story, but one that would make them feel just like going to sleep the minute he finished. He had a story ready for them, so he began at once:

"There once was a little boy named Fred. He was very fond of soldiers and bands and all the things that little boys like. He had a great many little toy soldiers, and he would have the most wonderful drills with them.

"One thing he was very proud of. The last Memorial day his grandfather, who had since died, had given him a little, old, ragged flag. But it was the stars and stripes, and Fred cherished it. His grandfather had fought in the civil war and all through that war had carried the little flag. Now his grandfather was gone, and yesterday they had put a fresh flag on his grave. But Fred had the little flag that had been through the war.

"That night he was very tired, and he went to bed early. The cool white sheets and soft pillow were delightful to a very sleepy little boy, but soon he seemed to be sitting up on the pillow, and before him was the flag.

"'I have come out of the pocket where you always keep me,' said the little flag, 'because I thought you would like me to tell you of my life.

"'When your grandfather was a little boy he was given me as a prize for being good, and he was allowed to carry me when he marched in his school parade. Then when he grew up and became a man he went to the civil war, as you know.

"'He was so brave in the war, and, oh, I was so proud that I was with him all the time and that it was for my sake that he was fighting! It's the most wonderful thing in the world to be a flag. Just think how proud every little flag is when it sees a great big one being carried at the head of a march for freedom! And when we fly in the breeze it always means something. It is to celebrate a holiday perhaps or to show people that patriotic citizens put it there.

"'But to have been in that war with your grandfather is a thing I will never forget. Every flag hasn't had the opportunities that came my way.

"'And people do not have the opportunities to show their bravery, whereas if the need come they might be the bravest of heroes. But we mustn't sit and wait for these things to come to us. Other flags must have all the patriotism and all the spirit of the ones that lead to the battles. So must every little boy and girl live to honor those who fought for them. Thus they will never disgrace the land their grandfathers and great-grandfathers gave their lives for.'"

A LODGING FOR THE NIGHT

By Robert Louis Stevenson

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Booth Tarkington, Jack London, Alfred Henry Lewis and Richard Harding Davis was "A Lodging For the Night," by Robert Louis Stevenson.

BOOTH TARKINGTON

PART I.

IT was late in November, 1456. The snow fell over Paris with rigorous, relentless persistence. Sometimes the wind made a sally and scattered it in flying vortices; sometimes there was a lull, and flake after flake descended out of the black night air, silent, circuitous, interminable.

The cemetery of St. John had taken its own share of the snow. The clock was hard on 10 when the patrol went by with halberds and a lantern, beating their hands, and they saw nothing suspicious about the cemetery of St. John.

Yet there was a small house, backed up against the cemetery wall, which was still awake, and awake to evil purpose, in that snoring district. There was not much to betray it from without, only a stream of warm vapor from the chimney top, a patch where the snow melted on the roof and a few half obliterated footprints at the door. But within, behind the shuttered windows, Master Francis Villon, the poet, and some of the thievish crew with whom he consorted, were keeping the night alive and passing round the bottle.

A great pile of living embers diffused a strong and ruddy glow from the arched chimney. Before this straddled Dom Nicolas, the Picardy monk, with his skirts picked up and his fat legs bared to the comfortable warmth. His face had the beery, bruised appearance of the continual drinker's.

On the right Villon and Guy Tabary were huddled together over a scrap of parchment, Villon making a ballad which he was to call the "Ballad of Roast Fish," and Tabary spluttering admiration at his shoulder. The poet was a rag of a man, dark, little and lean, with hollow cheeks and thin, black locks. He carried his four and twenty years with feverish animation. Greed had made folds about his eyes. Evil smiles had puckered his mouth. The wolf and pig struggled together in his face. It was an eloquent, sharp, ugly, earthly countenance. His hands were small and prehensile, with fingers knotted like a cord, and they were continually flickering in front of him in violent and expressive pantomime. As for Tabary, a broad, complacent, admiring imbecility breathed from his squash nose and slobbering lips. He had become a thief just as he might have become the most decent of burgesses by the imperious chance that rules the lives of human geese and human donkeys.

At the monk's other hand Montigny and Thevenin Pensete played a game of chance. About the first there clung some flavor of good birth and training, as about a fallen angel. Something long, lithe and courtly in the person; something aquiline and darkling in the face. Thevenin, poor soul, was in great feather. He had done a good stroke of knavery that afternoon in the Faubourg St. Jacques, and all night he had been gaining from Montigny.

"Doubles or quits?" said Thevenin.

Montigny nodded grimly.

"Some may prefer to dine in state," wrote Villon, "on bread and cheese on silver plate. Or, or—help me out, Guido!"

Tabary giggled.

"Or parsley on a golden dish," scribbled the poet.

The wind was freshening without. It drove the snow before it. The cold was growing sharper.

"Can't you hear it rattle in the gibbet?" said Villon. "They are all dancing the devil's jig on nothing up there. You may dance, my gallants. You'll be none the warmer. Whew, what a gust! Down went somebody just now! A medlar the fewer on the three legged medlar tree! I say, Dom Nicolas, it'll be cold tonight on the St. Denis road?" he asked.

Tabary laughed immoderately over the medlars. He had never heard anything more lighthearted, and he held his sides and crowed. Villon fetched him a fillip on the nose, which turned his mirth into an attack of coughing.

"Oh, stop that row," said Villon, "and think of rimes to 'fish!' Look at Montigny!"

All three peered covertly at the gamester. He did not seem to be enjoying his luck. His mouth was a little to a side, one nostril nearly shut and the other much inflated. The black dog was on his back, as people say, in terrifying nursery metaphor, and he breathed hard under the grewsome burden.

There was a brief and fatal movement among the gamesters. The round was completed, and Thevenin was just opening his mouth to claim another victory when Montigny leaped up swift as an adder and stabbed him to the heart. The blow took effect before he had time to utter a cry, before he had time to move. A tremor or two convulsed his frame. His hands opened and shut, his heels rattled on the floor, then his head rolled backward over one shoulder, with eyes wide open, and Thevenin Pensete's spirit had returned to him who made it.

Every one sprang to his feet, but the business was over in two twos. "My God!" said Tabary, and he began to pray in Latin.

Villon broke out into hysterical laughter. He came a step forward and ducked a ridiculous bow at Thevenin and laughed still louder. Then he sat down suddenly all of a heap upon a stool and continued laughing bitterly as though he would shake himself to pieces.

Montigny recovered his composure first.

"Let's see what he has about him," he remarked, and he picked the dead man's pockets with a practiced hand and divided the money into four equal portions on the table. "There's for you," he said.

The monk received his share with a deep sigh, and a single stealthy glance at the dead Thevenin, who was beginning to sink into himself and topple sideways off the chair.

"We're all in for it," cried Villon, swallowing his mirth. "It's a hanging job for every man Jack of us that's here—not to speak of those who aren't." Then he pocketed his share of the spoil and executed a shuffle with his feet as if to restore the circulation.

Tabary was the last to help himself. He made a dash at the money and retired to the other end of the room.

Montigny stuck Thevenin upright in the chair and drew out the dagger, which was followed by a jet of blood.

"You fellows had better be moving," he said as he wiped the blade on his victim's doublet.

"I think we had," returned Villon, with a gulp. "D— his fat head!" he broke out. "It sticks in my throat like phlegm. What right has a man to have red hair when he is dead?" And he fell all of a heap again upon the stool and fairly covered his face with his hands.

Montigny and Dom Nicolas laughed aloud, even Tabary feebly chiming in.

"Cry baby!" said the monk.

"I always said he was a woman," added Montigny with a sneer. "Sit up, can't you?" he went on, giving another shake to the murdered body. "Tread out that fire, Nick!"

But Nick was better employed. He was quietly taking Villon's purse as the poet sat limp and trembling on the stool where he had been making a ballad not three minutes before. Montigny and Tabary dumbly demanded a share of the booty, which the monk silently promised as he passed the little bag into the bosom of his gown. In many ways an artistic nature unfits a man for practical existence.

No sooner had the theft been accomplished than Villon shook himself, jumped to his feet and began helping to scatter and extinguish the embers. Meanwhile Montigny opened the door and cautiously peered into the street. The coast was clear. There was no meddlesome patrol in sight. Still it was judged wiser to slip out severally, and Villon was the first by general consent to issue forth.

The wind had triumphed and swept all the clouds from heaven. Only a few vapors as thin as moonlight fleeted rapidly across the stars. It was bitter cold, and by a common optical effect, things seemed almost more definite than in the broadest daylight. Villon cursed his fortune. Would it were still snowing! Now, wherever he went he left an indelible trail.

Two things preoccupied him as he went, the aspect of the gallows at Montfaucon in this bright, windy phase of the night's existence, for one, and for another, the look of the dead man with his bald head and garland of red curls. Both struck cold upon his heart, and he kept quickening his pace as if he could escape from unpleasant thoughts by mere fleetness of foot.

Suddenly he saw a long way before him a black clump and a couple of lanterns. The clump was in motion, and the lanterns swung as though carried by men walking. It was a patrol. Just on his left hand there stood a great hotel, with some turrets and a large porch before the door. It was dark inside after the glimmer of the snowy streets, and he was groping forward with outspread hands when he stumbled over some substance which offered an indescribable mixture of resistances, hard and soft, firm and loose. His heart gave a leap, and he sprang two steps back and stared dreadfully at the obstacle. Then he gave a little laugh of relief. It was only a woman, and she dead. He knelt beside her to make sure upon this latter point. She was freezing cold and rigid like a stick. A little ragged finery fluttered in the wind about her hair, and her cheeks had been heavily rouged that same afternoon. Her pockets were quite empty, but in her stocking underneath the garter Villon found two of the small coins that went by the name of whites. It was little enough, but it was always something, and the poet was moved with a deep sense of pathos that she should have died before she had spent her money.

While these thoughts were passing through his mind he was feeling half mechanically for his purse. Suddenly his heart stopped beating. A feeling of cold scales passed up the back of his legs and a cold blow seemed to fall upon his scalp. He stood petrified for a moment; then he felt again with one feverish movement; then his loss burst upon him. He cursed. He threw the two whites into the street. He shook his fist at heaven. He stamped and was not horrified to find himself trampling the poor corpse. Then he began rapidly to retrace his steps toward the house beside the cemetery. He had forgotten all fear of the patrol, which was long gone by at any rate, and had no idea but that of his lost purse. It was in vain that he looked right and left upon the snow. Nothing was to be seen. He had not dropped it in the streets. Had it fallen in the house? He would have liked dearly to go in and see, but the idea of the grisly occupant unmanned him, and he saw besides as he drew near that their efforts to put out the fire had been unsuccessful. On the contrary, it had broken into a blaze, and a changeful light played in the chinks of door and window and revived his terror for the authorities and Paris gibbet.

He returned to the hotel with the porch and groped about upon the snow for the money he had thrown away in his childish passion. But he could only find one white; the other had probably struck sideways and sunk deeply in. With a single white in his pocket all his projects for a rousing night in some wild tavern vanished utterly away. And it was not only pleasure that fled laughing from his grasp; positive discomfort, positive pain, attacked him as he stood ruefully before the porch. His perspiration had dried upon him, and although the wind had now fallen a biting frost was setting in stronger with every hour, and he felt benumbed and sick at heart. What was to be done? Late as was the hour, improbable as was success, he would try the house of his adopted father, the chaplain of St. Benoit.

He ran there all the way and knocked timidly. There was no answer. He knocked again and again, taking heart with every stroke, and at last steps were heard approaching from within. A barred wicket fell open in the iron studded door and emitted a gush of yellow light.

"Hold up your face to the wicket," said the chaplain from within.

"It's only me," whimpered Villon.

"Oh, it's only you, is it?" returned the chaplain, and he cursed him with foul, unpriestly oaths for disturbing him at such an hour and bade him be off to hell where he came from.

"My hands are blue to the wrist," pleaded Villon; "my feet are dead and full of twings; my nose aches with the sharp air; the cold lies at my heart. I may be dead before morning. Only this once, father, and, before God, I will never ask again!"

"You should have come earlier," said the ecclesiastic coolly. "Young men require a lesson now and then." He shut the wicket and retired deliberately into the interior of the house.

Villon was beside himself. He beat upon the door with his hands and feet and shouted hoarsely after the chaplain.

A door shut in the interior, faintly audible to the poet down long passages. He passed his hand over his mouth with an oath. And then the humor of the situation struck him, and he laughed and looked lightly up to heaven, where the stars seemed to be winking over his discomfiture.

What was to be done? It looked very like a night in the frosty streets. The idea of the dead woman popped into his imagination and gave him a hearty fright; what had happened to her in the early night might very well happen to him before morning.

He passed all his chances under review, turning the white between his thumb and forefinger. Unfortunately he was on bad terms with some old friends who would once have taken pity on him in such a plight. He had lampooned them in verses; he had beaten and cheated them, and yet now, when he was in so close a pinch, he thought there was at least one who might perhaps relent. It was a chance. It was worth trying at least, and he would go and see.

He passed a corner where not so long before a woman and her child had been devoured by wolves. He remembered his mother telling him the story and pointing out the spot while he was yet a child. His mother! If he only knew where she lived he might make sure at least of shelter. He determined he would inquire upon the morrow—nay, he would go and see her, too, poor old girl! So thinking, he arrived at his destination—his last hope for the night.

The house was quite dark, like its neighbors, and yet after a few taps he heard a movement overhead, a door opening and a cautious voice asking who was there. The poet named himself in a loud whisper and waited, not without some trepidation, the result. Nor had he to wait long. A window was suddenly opened and a pailful of slops splashed down upon the doorstep. Villon had not been unprepared for something of the sort and had put himself as much in shelter as the nature of the porch admitted, but for all that he was deplorably drenched below the waist. His hose began to freeze almost at once. Death from cold and exposure stared him in the face. He remembered he was of phthisical tendency, and began coughing tentatively. But the gravity of the danger steadied his nerves. He stopped a few hundred yards from the door where he had been so rudely used and reflected with his finger to his nose. He could see only one way of getting a lodging and that was to take it. He had noticed a house not far away which looked as if it might be easily broken into, and thither he betook himself promptly, entertaining himself on the way with the idea of a room and bed, with a table still loaded with the remains of supper, where he might pass the rest of the black hours and whence he should issue on the morrow with an armful of valuable plate. He even considered on what viands and what wines he should prefer, and as he was calling the roll of his favorite dainties roast fish presented itself to his mind with an odd mixture of amusement and horror.

"I shall never finish that ballad," he thought to himself, and then, with another shudder at the recollection, "Oh, d— his fat head!" he repeated fervently and spat upon the snow.

Women of California will act as Hostesses to the World

Travelers' Aid Will Welcome Visitors In San Francisco During the Splendid Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

WORK OF THE EXPOSITION WOMEN'S BOARD IS DESCRIBED.

By MRS. ERNEST S. SIMPSON.

WOMEN are working side by side with men in the making of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Their status in this great undertaking is not even remotely suggested by that of women who have been associated in the past with similar world gatherings of people and interests.

There is no "Board of Lady Managers" connected with this Exposition. There is, however, a "Woman's Board." While an entity and incorporated, it is officially a "Subcommittee of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition." Nothing of importance is initiated by the Woman's Board without conference, a special committee of the Men's Board being the clearing house for all vital issues. In this way there is no confusion, no duplication of effort, no waste of money. This procedure is what makes for efficient co-operation.

The Woman's Board, although co-operating with every department of the Exposition, has taken upon itself two very definite obligations—one material, the other moral. The former involves the furnishing, maintaining and administration of the California Host Building; the latter, the organization of a permanent, nonpolitical, nonsectarian Travelers' Aid, which will insure guidance, comfort and protection to visitors to the west in 1915, particularly to young people.

Directly after the United States intrusted the making of the Exposition to San Francisco there was a call for the patriotic backing of all citizens. A large number of women answered, making the nucleus of the Woman's Board. At that time there was in reality nothing for them to do, but, having put themselves on record, permanent organization and incorporation were easily accomplished several months later.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, whose fame is worldwide, accepted the position of honorary president. Active participation is not often associated with such distinguished preferment, but in exposition work as well as in all other movements she indorses Mrs. Hearst's interest is always definite and enthusiastic. She lets nothing interfere with her obligation to uphold the constructive work of women in connection with the Exposition. In addition to this, almost every week end she entertains at her wondrous home in Pleasanton distinguished people who come to California in the interest of the participation of their respective states and countries, as well as the artists who are engaged in the Exposition making. Mrs. Hearst's relation to this great undertaking is in its every phase ideal.

Mrs. Frederick G. Sanborn, the active president, is a woman of rare ability and personality. Along no line does she lack executive ability, and she is as amiable as she is capable. Mrs. Sanborn is steadfast in every undertaking, most gentle and considerate at all times. In the past she has been a leader in large humanitarian movements, the experiences giving her a splendid background for her present important responsibility. At the time of the Spanish-American war Mrs. Sanborn was an executive in the California Red Cross society. When disaster came to San Francisco, she, with the present mayor, James Rolph, Jr., and Rev. Father Crowley, the widely known philanthropist, was in charge of one of the largest relief stations.

The women of the board give their time, their energy and their money to the cause for which they cheerfully stand committed. They husband their resources that they may meet their big obligations. In addition, there is but a minimum of paid service. This procedure is adequately helped—in fact, is possible—because of the fine cordiality maintained between the two boards. The women carry many of their responsibilities through the well appointed machinery of the Exposition Board. The spirit of co-operation is all that the most enthusiastic could ask. The women maintain their own headquarters, but in the Exposition building—another factor which facilitates the dispatch of business.

Translated into everyday working terms, the Woman's Board is a responsible body, doing everything and anything that spells help to the men who are carrying the burden. The fact that women are enfranchised in California has a deep significance and makes them a definite factor in every civic movement, but they have slipped so unobtrusively and naturally into their own that the rather new relationship is taken for granted and scarcely ever mentioned. When women came forward in the very first days to do their part they unconsciously brought with them civic enthusiasm and pride in their role as citizens whose opinions counted; but, most of all, they brought loyalty to the men who had been building a new city, men who, despite the burden they had been almost staggering under, were willing to pledge several of the busy and best years of their lives to the making of the Exposition that would celebrate the world's greatest engineering achievement. San Francisco's calamity taught the men and women of the stricken city something deep and vital not to be defined, but something that is standing them in good stead these constructive days. They have learned to work together.

There will be no "Woman's Building" at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. To have one would be against the fine spirit of equality that characterizes all its activities. While this judicial standard is in keeping with the status of women in California and the big outlook of the west, it is not the result of a demand or even a request on the part of the women who are concerning themselves with the making of the Exposition. Director General Skiff, bringing with him from many former expositions a wealth of experience, announced soon after taking office his determination to have exhibits where they belonged. He barred segregation of any sort, holding that women were entitled to exactly the same treatment as men. This significant attitude of Dr. Skiff promptly endeared him to the women of California.

So it is that exhibits of achievements by women will not be set apart, but will be shown in the great palaces with their own kind and where all will be judged by the same measuring stick.

The fact that there will be no "Woman's Building" will not mean that the women who come to California will be homeless, unwelcomed. It simply means that they will be received where men and women will foregather in the handsome California Host Building. A wonderful architectural combination of Mission motifs will be found where California will welcome the world. A carefully thought out plan places the Administration Building, the Counties Exhibits and the California Host Building together—each a definite unit, but so placed with reference to one another that they form a most attractive ensemble.

In arranging this compound a most convenient place has been set aside for the use of the Auxiliary to the Woman's Board, a place where members may rest and have tea. These rooms will be most attractively furnished. It is a simple matter to avail oneself of the comforts of these rooms and involves taking a membership in the Auxiliary, which is primarily Californian, but which is open to women in any part of the world. To become a part of the Auxiliary family means an expenditure of $3—$2 for membership proper and $1 for an official pin. For this amount a card will be issued which will entitle its owner to the comfy privileges of the Auxiliary Rooms. The pin is a reproduction of the seal of the Woman's Board, the design of Lucia K. Mathews. It is done in gold, red and blue and will be a beautiful souvenir after the Exposition. It is not possible to purchase the pin without becoming a member of the Auxiliary. Californians join through their county chairmen, but women outside the state may enjoy these privileges by sending the $3 check or money order to the Woman's Board, Room 704 Exposition Building, corner of Pine and Battery, San Francisco. The membership card and pin will be forwarded promptly. This will mean that members from afar will have a personal and exceedingly convenient connection with the Exposition. Their names will be enrolled before they come. The California Host Building will be en fete and open all the time. The Auxiliary Rooms, just at hand, will always be quiet and restful.

The formation of the Auxiliary is the outcome of the larger attitude taken by the Woman's Board. It stated that the Exposition did not belong to San Francisco; that it belongs to the country; that it was universal in its scope. When Secretary Bryan was the guest at a banquet given by the Exposition directorate he expressed the same sentiment. "Remember," he said, "it is the United States that invites the participation of the countries of the world to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal, but it has intrusted the making of the Exposition to San Francisco."

But as San Francisco is the hostess city and California the hostess state the Woman's Board planned to organize the women so as to bring them in closer touch with their responsibilities, to prepare them to receive the vast number of guests who come in 1915.

The plan of organization gives a chairman to every one of the fifty-eight counties and a subchairman in every city and town. The women were asked to have in mind a permanent organization that would enable them to assist in solving the immigration problems that will come to every county in California with the opening of the Panama canal. It was thought that a preparedness of this sort would enable each county to assimilate its immigrants by welcoming and assisting them, by making them feel contented in their new homes. To follow this plan of assimilation will certainly make good citizens in a short time.

Planning somewhat better than they knew, the women are going to make this request more specific by asking the county organizations to be ready during the Exposition year and always for co-operation in Travelers' Aid work, recognized as the most important and significant issue before the world today. Travelers' Aid organization is so comprehensive it quite includes all the Woman's Board had in mind in the original organization. It means that travelers, irrespective of age, sex, race, creed or class, may come to California for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and rest assured that they will be met when they arrive; that they will receive all information and, when necessary, full guidance and protection. This is guaranteed by the Travelers' Aid Society of California and by the assurance of the Exposition Exploitation Department. The California Travelers' Aid Society has been fashioned in every fundamental respect after that of New York, with which the western organization will officially co-operate.

In organizing the California Society the Woman's Board sent out a call to all churches, every prominent commercial body and every railroad and steamship company in San Francisco and cities about the bay. In all cases the response was immediate and the interest enthusiastic. Mr. Orin C. Baker, the general secretary of the New York Travelers' Aid Society, who came to California on the invitation of the Woman's Board, assisted in the formation of the western organization.

The Exploitation Department of the Exposition will list and indorse hotels and restaurants that may be relied upon not to increase rates and prices and the Travelers' Aid will do everything else that will make for the comfort and general welfare of the traveler. This combination of big forces will mean peace of mind for every one who makes the pilgrimage to the 1915 Exposition.

Travelers' Aid work, in conjunction with the Woman's Board, will mean that a traveler may come from any part of the world and go to any county of this vast state protected at all times by the agencies of the Travelers' Aid. It will mean that any mother who cannot accompany her daughter may trust her to travel alone to San Francisco or any part of California. It will mean that this girl will be met and protected upon her arrival; will be directed to a home, where she may be safe and comfortable.

While thoughts of protection first go to the girl traveling alone, the same protection and guidance will be given as freely and fully to young men. In fact, Travelers' Aid would be a failure if its help and protection were not accorded every traveler.

A particularly interesting channel for women proficient along special lines has been made by the appointments of assistants in the great departments of the Exposition.

The appointments already made along these lines include Mrs. Francis Carolan, an assistant to John E. D. Trask in the Department of Fine Arts; Mrs. Ernest S. Simpson, assistant to George Hough Perry in the Division of Exploitation; Mrs. William Grant of Vacaville, assistant to D. O. Lively in the Department of Live Stock; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, assistant to Charles E. Van Arneveld in the Department of Mines and Metallurgy; Miss Katherine Felton, Miss Alice Griffith and Mrs. William Kent, assistant to Alvin Pope, director of the Department of Social Science. A committee on architecture has been in consultation with George W. Kellum of the Architectural Commission in the planning of the California Host Building.

Quite logically, women will be appointed on juries of awards, where their knowledge and experience will make their service of distinct value. The Woman's Board is already listing women with technical knowledge, so that they may have the best possible material to present for this important work.

The Woman's Board through its fifty-eight auxiliaries is establishing an educational propaganda for the school children. "Lecturettes," now in course of preparation, are to be presented—one a week—in the schools, so that the children who come to the Exposition will have an intelligent and profitable outlook, and also so that those who will not have that opportunity may get something worth while from that great world university, the Exposition.

A great variety of activities are constantly being handled by the Woman's Board, the most important of which is the assistance given to the Pioneer Mother Monument Association, organized to erect a monument to motherhood and dedicated to the pioneer women of California. This important group is now in the hands of Charles Grafly, the Philadelphia sculptor. It will occupy the central position in the Palace of Fine Arts and at the conclusion of the Exposition will become the property of the city of San Francisco and will be placed in the Civic Center.

For the past two years and during the ten months of the Exposition from Feb. 21 to Dec. 4 the Woman's Board, assisted by its auxiliary members, will be most vitally concerned with the social life of the Exposition. Along this line during the preparatory months much delightful service of this kind has been rendered. In the beginning the Woman's Board entertained the women who came with commissions, but the spirit of co-operation soon dominated this situation. When Secretary Bryan came to California the banquet in his honor was attended by men as well as women. This innovation was so signally successful that the Exposition directorate will never go back to the old way. When Secretary and Mrs. Knox were in San Francisco the change had not been made. Usage sent men to banquets and the women entertained themselves as best they could. It was a handsome dinner the women gave in honor of Mrs. Knox, but it would have been infinitely better if the dinner tables had joined. The dinner in honor of Secretary and Mrs. Daniels was given under the new dispensation. So in all work and in all play connected with the Exposition there will be no separation of interests.

The Woman's Board realizes that the great responsibilities of the Exposition rest upon the men, but they stand ever ready to help and never to hinder.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

CHARGE DENIED BY ARMSTRONG

Didn't Sign Checks That Bore His Name.

HINTS AT DOUBLE DEALING

Declares Secretary of Roseville Company Planned Realty Concern With Dummy Stockholders—Says He Never Kept Account of Real Estate Transactions—Relied on Memory.

Newark, N. J., May 29.—Testifying in his own defense in the court of oyer and terminer, William C. Armstrong gave hints of alleged double dealing in connection with checks charged against his account in the wrecked Roseville Trust company.

Armstrong, who is a building contractor, was a depositor in the wrecked institution. He was indicted jointly with Raymond E. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the bank; William J Thompson and A. Randolph Jennings charged with defrauding the bank out of $35,000 by conspiracy.

Under cross examination by Prosecutor Hood, Armstrong said he became depositor in the trust company Dec. 28, 1910, when he opened an account with $90. He testified that he knew none of the officers and made no attempt to establish credit immediately. He said he borrowed $900 on March 17, 1911.

Armstrong contributed more evidence of alleged check and note juggling to some extent. Armstrong told about the formation of the Abington Realty company, which, he testified, died the day it was born. He told of getting some of his employees to sign notes at the suggestion of Smith. He said it was Smith's plan to have these workmen act as dummy stockholders, with Smith holding 5 per cent of the holdings and Armstrong the remainder.

According to Armstrong, the deal fell through and the notes disappeared. One of them for $5,000, he said, was credited to a depositor's account "apparently without reason."

The witness said that, while in his business there were many real estate transactions, he never kept accounts relying chiefly on canceled checks and his memory. He asserted he has been handicapped since early in the spring of last year by his inability to get back any of the checks he had drawn on the Roseville Trust company.

MADERO CHILD INJURED.

Nephew of Assassinated President Run Over in East Orange.

East Orange, N. J., May 29.—Robert Madero, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Madero of 37 Beach street and a nephew of the late president of Mexico, was run over by an ice wagon in Main street, receiving injuries which may result in death.

The child, with an older brother, was out with two Indian servants when he broke away from his nurse and ran toward the wagon. As he looked behind to see if the nurse was following he walked in front of the rear wheel. It passed over his abdomen.

Timothy Hicks, driver of the wagon, was taken to police headquarters. After witnesses testified that he was in no way responsible for the accident he was paroled.

The child's father, who is a well known mining engineer and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, saved the life of General Villa after he had been condemned to death three years ago by General Huerta.

Paterson Silk Worker Denies Poison Charge Against Her.

Paterson, N. J., May 29.—Jennie Vanderwende, a silk worker, of 106 York avenue, this city, was arrested on a charge of larceny and forgery. The police also investigated a charge that the girl attempted to poison Charles Greening and his wife of 275 Goodwin street. Greening is the complainant.

The girl formerly lived with the Greenings. April 8 the Greenings were taken ill after dinner and were treated by Dr. Joseph Bergin. The physician received a letter next day signed "A Friend," in which the writer said the Greenings had been poisoned.

SENATOR POMERENE

Asked Wilson to Abandon Idea of Pushing Trust Bills.

President Wilson turned down a plea for rest from "business legislation" laid before him by a delegation of middle western manufacturers representing more than 33,000 factories of the Ohio valley and lake front territory. The delegation, led by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, asked the president to abandon the idea of pushing forward any of the administration anti-trust bills except that providing for an interstate trade commission, until the next session, in order that the country might get acquainted with the legislation proposed.

THREE DROWN WHEN MOTORBOAT SINKS

Man and Two Women Caught In Swells.

New York, May 29.—Of four persons who were thrown into the East river when their motorboat was overturned by a scow the only one to be saved was the one who could not swim, a man. The others, two women and a man, were drowned. The dead are:

William R. Munro, forty-five years old, a heating contractor of East Elmhurst; body recovered. Mrs. Emma Munro, thirty-five, his wife; body recovered. Mrs. Walter Munro, thirty, of Boston, Mass., sister-in-law; body still missing.

The man saved is Eugene Schlickion of Rockaway Beach, owner of the twenty-three foot motorboat, which he had just purchased from William Munro.

The boat was running well until, just under the Brooklyn bridge, the motor stopped suddenly, throwing the craft into the swell of a passing steamer. Directly behind and not more than a hundred feet away was steaming the tug Helen Moran of the Moran Towing and Transportation company of 17 Battery place, with two scows in tow.

Those in the motorboat shouted to Captain Adolph Will of the tug, and he turned the Helen Moran inshore as sharply as possible. The tug and the first scow got by all right, but the last one hit the motorboat full on and toppled her over.

The motorboat was carried under, with her four passengers. The crew of the tugboat, at command of Captain Will, went to the rescue, but only Schlickion came to the surface. He was quickly taken to the Brooklyn shore and revived.
